In a summons under this section the time and place of the sale constituting the offence charged must be specified (Lindsay v. Low & Co. (1903), 4 F. (Just. Cas.) 45). The summons should specifically state what was the article demanded, as well as what was the article sold (Hamilton v. Morrison (1903), 40 Sc. L. R. 573. See 67 J. P. 362).

(g) See Telford v. Fyfe, [1908] S. C. (J.) 83.

(h) In addition to the protection afforded by this subsection, statutory defences are afforded by s. 4, infra, where the article is properly labelled, and s. 29, post, p. 2981, where a warranty has been obtained.

(j) Mustard mixed with flour and turmeric not sold as pure mustard was held not to be within the corresponding provisions of a former Act (Pope v. Tearle (1874), L. R. 9 C. P. 499); but quære, if mustard simply had been asked for. See Sandys v. Markham (1877), 41 J. P. 52. See also Horder v. Grainger (1880), 44 J. P. 488; Goldsmith v. Maddaford (1882), 46 J. P. 44. Where a drug is asked for which is included in the British Pharmacopœia, it must be supplied as therein described (White v. Bywater (1887), 19 Q. B. D. 582; 51 J. P. 821; Dickins v. Randerson, [1901] 1 Q. B. 437; 65 J. P. 262). But evidence may be tendered that there is a commercial standard of the article differing from that prescribed by the British Pharmacopœia (Boots Cash Chemists v. Cowling (1903), 67 J. P. 195; 88 L. T. 529). Where the British Pharmacopœia gave a formula, but without fixing a standard as to the amounts of ingredients, the sale of a drug containing less of a particular ingredient than if prepared according to the formula is no offence unless it be shown that the deficiency impaired the efficacy of the drug (Hudson v. Bridge (1903), 67 J. P. 186; 88 L. T. 550).

(k) See per Blackburn, J., in Roberts v. Egerton (1874), L. R. 9 Q. B. 494. It was held that this subsection protected a person who sold buttermilk mixed with water, as water was necessarily added in the process of manufacture (Warnock v. Johnstone (1881), 8 Ct. of Sess. Cas. (4th ser.) 55). The appellant sold butter in which was found 21½ per cent. of water, and the justices convicted him. The case did not state, however, that the water was fraudulently added within para. (a), or that the butter was unavoidably mixed with water under para. (c). The court remitted the case for further findings on these points, and intimated that if the water was unavoidably added, a conviction should not follow (Bosomworth v. Bridge (1892), 91 L. T. (n.s.) 180; 36 Sol. J. 594).

(l) Section 6 of the 1879 Act (here reproduced as amended by the Licensing Act, 1921), was passed in consequence of the decisions in Pashler v. Stevenitt (1877), 41 J. P. 136; 35 L. T. 862; Webb v. Knight (1876), 2 Q. B. D. 530; 41 J. P. 726.

Where the appellant sold to the respondent gin more than thirty-five degrees under proof, but at the time of sale brought to his knowledge a printed notice hanging up in the room to the effect that all spirits were sold "as diluted spirits, no alcoholic strength guaranteed," it was held that s. 6 of the 1879 Act did not deprive the appellant of his ground of defence under s. 6 of the 1875 Act (now s. 2 in the text), that the sale was not to the prejudice of the purchaser (Gage v. Elsey (1883), 10 Q. B. D. 518; 47 J. P. 391). See also Morris v. Johnson, Morris v. Askew, Dawes v. Wilkinson; Brander v. Kinnear, Rodbourn v. Hudson, Preston v. Grant, and Patterson v. Findlay in note (b) to s. 4, post, p. 2956.

Provision as to sale of compounds.

3. (a) If any person sells any compound article of food, or any compounded drug, which is not composed of ingredients in accordance with the demand of the purchaser, he shall be guilty of an offence (b).

(b) As to the penalties for offences, their recovery and application, see ss. 27 and 32, post, pp. 2977 and 2985.

Protection from liability where article properly labelled.

4. (a)—(1) No person shall be guilty of any such offence as aforesaid in respect of the sale of an article of food or a drug mixed with any ingredient or material not injurious to health, and not intended fraudulently to increase its bulk, weight, or measure, or to conceal its inferior quality, if at the time of delivering the article of food or drug he supplies to the person receiving it a notice, by a label distinctly and legibly written or printed on or with the article or drug, to the effect that it is mixed (b).

(2) For the purposes of this section, a label shall not be deemed to be distinctly and legibly written or printed if the notice of mixture given by the label is obscured by other matter on the label: but nothing in this subsection shall hinder or affect the use of any registered trade mark, or of any label which had been continuously in use for at least seven years before the first day of January nineteen hundred.

(3) The Comptroller-General of Patents, Designs and Trade Marks shall not register any trade mark purporting to describe a mixture unless it complies with the requirements of this section.

(a) This section reproduces s. 8 of the 1875 Act and s. 12 of the 1899 Act.

Note to Section 4.

(b) As to what is to be deemed not to be "distinctly and legibly written or printed," see sub-s. (2), infra. Where a label was used stating that an article purchased as coffee was a mixture of coffee and chicory, on analysis the coffee was only 60 per cent., and the justices found that the chicory was used fraudulently to increase the bulk, the court held that they were right (Liddiard v. Reece (1880), 44 J. P. 233). The magistrate must find whether the chicory is fraudulently intended to increase the bulk, and, if he so finds, he must convict (Horder v. Meddings (1880), 44 J. P. 234), and the existence of a label will not protect the seller (Star Tea Co. v. Neale (1909), 73 J. P. 511; 8 L. G. R. 5). But if he does not so find and convicts, the conviction will be quashed (Otter v. Edgley (1893) 57 J. P. 457). A sale of a mixture represented to be of coffee and chicory when there was only 30 per cent. of coffee, was held not to be an offence in Higgins v. Hall (1887), 51 J. P. 293. Where there is no evidence of fraud, the label is sufficient, although the type in which it is printed is so small as to require a magnifying glass for reading it (Attfield v. Tyler (1893), 57 J. P. 357). Notice may be given verbally at the time of sale as well as by label (Gage v. Elsey (1883), 10 Q. B. D. 518; 47 J. P. 391); and see Sandys v. Small, Palmer v. Tyler, Bundy v. Lewis, ante, p. 2951; Hayes v. Rule (1903), 66 J. P. 661; 87 L. T. 133. It is sufficient to give notice that an article is mixed without stating the ingredients or proportions. See Pope v. Tearle (1874), L. R. 9 C. P. 499; Goldsmith v. Maddaford (1882), 46 J. P. 44; Williams v. Friend, ante, p. 2951. It has been held that it is a necessary part of the defence allowed by the section to prove that the person selling brought to the mind of the purchaser the fact that there was on the article a label of the kind referred to in the section. See Batchelour v. Gee, [1914] 3 K. B. 242, dissenting from Jones v. Jones (1894), 58 J. P. 653; 10 T. L. R. 300. And it has further been held that a notice on an inside wrapper might not be sufficient, but if there be sufficient notice also displayed in the shop the vendor is protected though the purchaser's attention was not called to it (Pearks, Gunston and Tee, Ltd. v. Houghton, [1902] 1 K. B. 889; 66 J. P. 422). The decisions in Batchelour v. Gee, supra, and Jones v. Jones, supra, and certain dicta of Lord ALVERSTONE in Pearks, Gunston and Tee, Ltd. v. Houghton, supra, upon which the decision in Batchelour's case was based, were considered in Clifford v. Battley, [1915] 1 K. B. 531, and Jones v. Jones was approved of and followed and Batchelour's case was disapproved of and not followed. The shopman of K., in selling lard, wrapped it in the wrong wrapper, owing to the shop being crowded, the wrapper representing the lard to be margarine instead of lard compound:—Held, that K. was entitled to give evidence that the shopman acted under mistake, and contrary to his orders, in placing the lard in a margarine wrapper (Kearley v. Tyler (or Tonge) (1891), 60 L. J. M. C. 159; 56 J. P. 72). Notice that milk sold was not guaranteed 3 per cent., meaning that it did not contain 3 per cent. of milk fat according to the standard prescribed by the Sale of Milk Regulations, 1901, is not sufficient notice that it is not pure milk (Souter v. Lean (1905), 6 F. (J. C.) 20).

T. went into J.'s public-house, and without going into the bar or kitchen, went into a club-room and asked for whisky, and that supplied was 37 degrees under proof. A notice that "all spirits sold are diluted" was stuck up in the bar and kitchen, but not in the club-room, and nothing was said to T. on delivery:—Held, that the justices ought to have inquired before deciding the case whether T. knew that the practice at J.'s house was to sell only diluted spirits, in which case no conviction was proper (Morris v. Johnson (1890), 54 J. P. 612; 6 T. L. R. 171). A publican being asked for rum, said he had two qualities, one at 1*s.* and the other at 1*s.* 2*d.*, and the quality at 1*s.* was supplied and found to be 38 degrees under proof. A notice was stuck up in the house that "all spirits sold here are diluted in accordance with the new excise regulations":—Held, that this was not in itself a protection, but the justices ought to determine whether the purchaser was prejudiced (Morris v. Askew (1893), 57 J. P. 724). A notice exhibited by an innkeeper that "All spirits sold in this establishment, in order to comply with the Food and Drugs Act, will not be of any guaranteed strength," is not sufficient to bring to the mind of the purchaser the fact that the spirits sold are diluted to a strength below the standard provided by s. 6 of the 1879 Act (now s. 2 (2) (d), ante, p. 2950) (Dawes v. Wilkinson, [1907] 1 K. B. 278; 71 J. P. 23).

In Brander v. Kinnear, [1928] S. C. (J.) 42; 60 S. L. R. 390, a notice that "All spirits sold in this establishment are diluted. No strength guaranteed" was held not sufficient to protect a seller who when asked for whisky supplied whisky diluted to a strength below the statutory minimum. The court in that case laid it down that the notice must be clear and unambigous so as to acquaint purchasers with the character of the prejudice they were to accept. This view was, however, dissented from by AVORY, J., in Rodbourn v. Hudson, infra. In Preston v. Grant, [1925] 1 K. B. 177; 88 J. P. 198, it was held that proof of the exhibition of a notice was not sufficient, and that it was necessary to prove that the customer alleged to have been prejudiced had seen it.

All these cases were considered in Rodbourn v. Hudson, [1925] 1 K. B. 225, and it was held that a notice stating "All spirits sold at this establishment are of the same superior quality as heretofore, but to meet the requirements of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, they are now sold as diluted spirits. No alcoholic strength guaranteed" was misleading and that the justices were entitled to find that a sale of rum of a strength below the statutory minimum was to the prejudice of the purchaser.

Note to Section 4.

On a request for "ordinary whisky" the supply of whisky 40·9 degrees under proof from a barrel bearing a card stating "Sale of Food and Drugs Acts—Diluted Spirits—weaker than 35 u.p." to which the customers attention was not directed, was held an offence under s. 6 of the 1875 Act (now s. 2, ante) (Patterson v. Findlay, [1925] S. C. (J.) 53; [1925] S. L. T. 277).

Offences in relation to the abstraction from articles of food of parts thereof.

5. (a) If any person abstracts from any article of food any part of it so as to affect injuriously its nature, substance or quality, with the intent that it may be sold in its altered state without notice, or if any person sells any article so altered without making disclosure of the alteration (b) he shall be guilty of an offence (c).

(b) A person selling the altered article may be convicted, although at the time of the sale he did not know of the alteration (Pain v. Boughtwood, ante, p. 2952; Spiers and Pond v. Bennett, infra). The words "so altered" refer to a physical alteration of the article, irrespective of the intent with which the alteration is made. The respondent, a retail milk-seller, poured into a pail eight barn gallons of unskimmed milk, which she sold therefrom in small quantities to her customers, dipping it out of the pail from time to time with a measure. The sale of the contents of the pail extended over a space of between four and five hours, during the whole of which time, owing to the neglect of the respondent to keep the milk stirred, the cream was continually rising to the surface. When not more than two quarts remained in the pail, the appellant purchased from the respondent a pint of milk, which was served to him from the pail, and which, upon analysis, showed a deficiency of 33 per cent. of fatty matter. The respondent did not disclose the deficiency to the appellant. The deficiency was entirely due to the manner in which the earlier customers had been served:—Held, that the respondent, in so selling the milk to the appellant without disclosing its condition, was guilty of an offence against the above section (Dyke v. Gower, [1892] 1 Q. B. 220; 56 J. P. 168, followed in Bridges v. Griffin, [1925] 2 K. B. 233; 89 J. P.122). The appellant contracted to supply milk to a workhouse at a certain price. By the contract the milk was to contain a certain percentage of cream, it was to be tested on each delivery, and a reduction was to be made in the price in respect of any deficiency of cream. While the daily supply contained in five cans, was being delivered at the workhouse, the respondent, acting under s. 3 of the 1879 Act (now s. 16 (2), post), procured a sample from each of the five cans. There being a large deficiency of cream in two of the samples, the respondent subsequently laid two separate informations against the appellant, in respect of those two samples, under s. 9 of the 1875 Act (now the section in the text). The justices convicted the appellant in a separate penalty upon each information:—Held, that the procuring of each sample was a separate transaction; that the appellant had committed a separate offence as to each can in respect of which an information was laid; that the separate informations were therefore properly laid, and the convictions were right. It was also held that the provisions in the contract as to deficiency of cream were immaterial in the determination of the question whether the appellant had committed an offence under the Act (Fecitt v. Walsh, [1892] 2 Q. B. 304; 55 J. P. 726). The servant of C., a dairyman, being short in his supply of milk, bought two gallons from another dairyman, and mixed it with his own, and sold it to customers. Upon a charge against C. under the above section, it was held that though neither C. no his servant knew that the bought milk was adulterated, this was no defence (Morris v. Corbett (1892), 56 J. P. 649). On a sale of condensed milk in a tin where there was a label on the tin stating that it contained condensed milk, and, in smaller print, that it contained skimmed milk, this was held a sufficient disclosure of the alteration (Jones v. Davies (1893), 57 J. P. 808; 62 L. T. 497). See also Morgan v. Auger (1902), Times, March 14th; Platt v. Tyler (1894), 58 J. P. 71. As to labelling, see s. 4, ante. Apart from that section, the question whether there has been sufficient disclosure is a question of fact for the justices (Petchey v. Taylor (1898), 62 J. P. 260; 78 L. T. 501). But in Spiers and Pond v. Bennett, [1896] 2 Q. B. 65; 60 J. P. 437, the court reversed the decision of the justices as in Jones v. Davies, supra, apparently on the ground that there was no evidence on which they could find as they did.

(c) As to the penalties for offences, their recovery and application, see ss. 27 and 32, post, pp. 2977 and 2985.

PART II.

PROVISIONS WITH RESPECT TO SPECIAL ARTICLES.

Conditions to be observed in dealings in margarine.

6. (a)—(1) Margarine (b), margarine-cheese (b) and milk-blended butter (b), whenever sold or forwarded by any public conveyance shall be sold or consigned as margarine or margarine-cheese, or in the case of milk-blended butter

Section 6. under such name or names as may be approved by the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries.

margarine-cheese, and milk-blended butter.

(2) It shall not be lawful to manufacture, sell or expose for sale any margarine the fat of which contains more than ten per cent. of fat derived from milk (c).

(3) Every person dealing in margarine (d), whether wholesale or retail, and whether as manufacturer, importer (b), consignor, consignee, commission agent or otherwise, shall conform to such of the following regulations as may be applicable :—

(a) Every package containing margarine, whether open or closed, shall have the word " Margarine " branded or durably marked on the top, bottom, and sides thereof, in printed capital letters not less than three-quarters of an inch square, the brand or mark being on the package itself and not solely on a label ticket or other thing attached thereto (e) ;

(b) There shall be attached to every parcel (f) of margarine exposed for sale (g) by retail, in such manner as to be clearly visible to the purchaser, a label marked " Margarine " in printed capital letters not less than one and a half inches square ;

(c) Margarine when sold by retail, save in a package duly branded or durably marked as aforesaid, shall in every case be delivered to the purchaser in a paper wrapper, and the word " Margarine " shall be printed on the outside of such wrapper, (or, if more wrappers than one are used, on the outside of the outer wrapper) in capital block letters not less than half an inch long and distinctly legible, and no other printed matter (except a statement of the weight in pursuance of any statutory requirement (h)) shall appear on the outside of the wrapper, or, if there are more wrappers than one, of the outer wrapper (j) ;

(d) Margarine shall not be described in any wrapper enclosing it, or on any package containing it, or on any label attached to a parcel thereof, or in any advertisement of invoice thereof, by any name other than either " Margarine " or a name combining the word " Margarine " with a fancy or other descriptive name approved by the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, and printed in type not larger than, and in the same colour as, the word " Margarine " (k).

(4) The requirements of paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of subsection (3) of this section shall apply to margarine-cheese and to persons dealing therein with the substitution of " Margarine-cheese " for " Margarine " :

Provided that, where margarine-cheese is sold or dealt in otherwise than by retail, it shall be sufficient compliance with those requirements if it is itself conspicuously branded with the words " margarine-cheese."

(5) The requirements of paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of subsection (3) of this section shall apply to milk-blended butter and to persons dealing therein with the substitution of a name approved by the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries for the word " margarine," save that there shall, in addition to the approved name, be printed on the outside of the wrapper referred to in paragraph (c), in such manner as the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries may approve, such description of the article setting out the percentage of moisture or water contained therein (l) as may be approved by the Minister.

(6) Any substances purporting to be butter (m) or cheese (m) which are exposed for sale and not marked in the manner in which margarine, margarine-cheese or milk-blended butter is required to be marked under this Act shall be presumed to be exposed for sale as butter or cheese as the case may be.

(7) Any person who contravenes any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of an offence (n).

(a) This section contains provisions formerly in ss. 3, 6, 8 and 10 of the 1875 Act, ss. 5, 6 and 8 of the 1899 Act, and ss. 8 and 9 of the 1907 Act.

(c) Butter blended with milk so that it contains an excess of water does not become margarine. Therefore a vendor of such milk-blended butter cannot be convicted under this section for selling margarine containing more than 10 per cent. of butter-fat. The sale of butter blended with milk was lawful if sold as such (Bayley v. Pearks, Gunston and Tee, Ltd. (1901), 66 J. P. 790; 87 L. T. 67). See now this and the following sections as to the restrictions on the sale of milk-blended butter.

An information was preferred by the respondent against the appellant and another for unlawfully selling to the prejudice of the purchaser mixed butter and margarine which was not of the nature, substance and quality of the article demanded by the purchaser, there being a proportion of 80 per cent. of foreign fat, 15½ per cent. of water, curd and salt, and 4½ per cent. of butter, contrary to the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875. An agent of the respondent acting upon his instructions went to the appellant's shop and asked an assistant for two ounces of butter at 1*s*. 2*d*. per lb. The assistant informed the respondent's agent that the appellant did not sell butter at the shop at the price of 1*s*. 2*d*. per lb., but that he did sell a mixture of butter and margarine at 1*s*. 2*d*. which was very good. The respondent's agent stated to the assistant that she would have two ounces of the mixture, and the same was put up in a wrapper and supplied to her accordingly by the assistant upon payment of 1¾*d*. At the date of the sale the retail price of margarine was 6*d*., 8*d*., and 10*d*. per lb., and the retail price of butter was 1*s*. 2*d*. to 1*s*. 6*d*. per lb. The magistrate was of opinion that an offence has been committed on the ground that in view of the proportions of the several ingredients the mixture could be regarded only as a colourable one, and that in describing it as "very good" and selling it at the price named, it was intended to deceive the purchaser by leading him to believe that it contained a substantial proportion of butter, whereas the analysis disclosing only a small percentage of butter-fat showed that it contained no such substantial proportion. He accordingly convicted the appellant. On an appeal to the Divisional Court, it was held (1) that the word "quality" in s. 6 of the Act of 1875 (now s. 2, ante, p. 2949), means commercial quality of the article sold and not merely its description; (2) that regard must be had to s. 8 of the 1899 Act (corresponding to sub-s. (2) in the text), which the magistrate had not before him, and which makes it unlawful to sell any margarine "the fat of which contains more than 10 per cent. of butter-fat." Therefore, when considering the amount of butter the purchaser of a mixture of margarine and butter had a right to expect, the law which makes it an offence to sell margarine mixed with more than 10 per cent. of butter must be taken into account, and it was impossible to hold that there was evidence in the present case of a colourable sale. The conviction must, therefore, be quashed (Anness v. Grivell, [1915] 3 K. B. 685; 79 J. P. 558).

(d) See the definition in s. 34, post, p. 2986. Sub-paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of this subsection apply also to margarine-cheese and milk-blended butter, subject to the modifications contained respectively in sub-s. (4) and (5). As to the effect of failure to comply with any of these requirements, see sub-s. (6) and (7).

(e) A dealer in margarine had in his shop at the back of his counter and in full view of customers several tubs open at the top containing margarine:—Held, that these tubs were packages within the meaning of this section, and that they should have been branded or durably marked as required by this section (McNair v. Horan (1904), 68 J. P. 518; 91 L. T. 555).

(f) On the defendant's counter was a butt of margarine from which the lid had been removed, but which was branded on the lid bottom and side with the word "margarine." There was no label attached as required by the Act. Defendant's assistant on being asked for one pound of margarine by the prosecutor sliced away that quantity from the margarine in the butt and sold it to him:—Held, that the butt was a parcel and should have been duly labelled (Maguire v. Pater, [1905] 2 I. R. 147). Six separate pounds of margarine, each partially covered with paper, placed together in a shop window in the form of a pyramid, and touching each other, form one parcel within the meaning of this provision, and are sufficiently labelled by a single label placed at the base of the pyramid so as to extend across the whole bottom portion of the three lowest pieces (Parkinson v. McNair (1905), 69 J. P. 399; 93 L. T. 553).

(g) The respondent kept margarine for sale in his shop, in a parcel which was not labelled, behind a screen and not in sight of customers. There was no evidence that this was done for the purpose of evading the Act:—Held, that the margarine was not exposed for sale within the meaning of the above section (Crane v. Lawrence (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 152; 54 J. P. 471). The meaning of the words "exposed for sale" is not limited to such an exposure as will enable purchasers to see the margarine itself. Margarine when wrapped in paper so as to be invisible to the purchaser may be exposed for sale within the meaning of the above section (Wheat v. Brown, [1891] 1 Q. B. 418; 56 J. P. 153).

(h) See s. 4 (2) (b) of the Sale of Food (Weights and Measures) Act, 1926 (16 & 17 Geo. 5, c. 63).

(j) This section does not apply to the sale of margarine spread on bread, and sold in a refreshment-house as bread and butter (Moore v. Pearce's Dining and Refreshment Rooms, Ltd., [1895] 2 Q. B. 657; 59 J. P. 805). As to the sale of marked boxes in brown paper not marked, see Toler v. Bischop (1896), 60 J. P. 9; 65 L. J. M. C. 4).

The express prohibition of other printed matter first introduced by s. 6 of the 1899 Act, altered the effect of the decisions under the Act of 1887, in Fyfe v. M'Laughlin (1894), Adam, Just. Rep. 74; and World's Tea Co. v. Gardner, [1895] 59 J. P. 358.

Section 6 of the 1899 Act amended s. 6 of the 1887 Act (corresponding to the provision in the text) by providing that no other printed matter than the word "Margarine" should appear "on" the paper wrapper, and it was held that s. 6 of the Act of 1899 as so amended, was not repealed by s. 8 of the 1907 Act (now re-enacted in sub-paragraph (d), infra), which permited margarine to be described "in" a wrapper by a name combining the word "Margarine" with a fancy or descriptive word approved by the Board (now Minister) of Agriculture and Fisheries (Williams v. Baker, [1911] 1 K. B. 566; 75 J. P. 89). The package, label or wrapper must not describe the contents by any name other than margarine or by a name combining the word "Margarine" with an approved fancy name (see sub-paragraph (d), post). This enactment meets the cases of Tanner v. Dyball (1906), 70 J. P. 279; 94 L. T. 539; and Keeloma Dairy Co. v. Jones (1906), 70 J. P. 533; 22 T. L. R. 535. Thus, in Williams v. Baker, supra, it was held to be an offence, on a sale of a kind of margarine called by the approved name of "Karmo," to deliver it to the purchaser in a paper wrapper on which were the printed words "Karmo Margarine." In another case a retail dealer sold by retail a parcel of margarine in a cardboard case bearing on its outside an impression of a cabbage leaf, and the words "Green Leaf Margarine." The cardboard case was wrapped in thin transparent paper upon which was printed "Margarine." The words "Green Leaf Margarine" appeared through this wrapper. The wrapper was fastened at each end by a circular gummed label on which was printed "4*d.* per packet about ½ lb." It was held that the words "Green Leaf" appearing through the transparent wrapper might, and the words printed on the gummed label did constitute a breach of s. 6 of the 1887 Act as amended by s. 6 of the Act of 1899 (Millard v. Allwood, [1912] 1 K. B. 590; 76 J. P. 139).

(k) This enactment, which reproduces s. 8 of the 1907 Act, was passed to meet the cases of Tanner v. Dyball (1906), 70 J. P. 279; 4 L. G. R. 506, and Keeloma Dairy Co. v. Jones (1906), 70 J. P. 533; 22 T. L. R. 535.

As to the effect of this provision upon that contained in sub-paragraph (c), see the cases in note (j), supra.

Where an inner wrapper had the words "Mayco Margarine mixed with Maypole butter" printed upon it, it was held that there was a breach of the provision since, although the word "Mayco" had been approved, the words "mixed with Maypole butter" had not been so approved, and formed an integral part of the name (Patterson v. Maypole Dairy Co., Ltd., [1923] S. C. (J.) 85; 60 S. L. R. 591). This case was distinguished in Hawes v. Stephens, [1924] 2 K. B. 179; 88 J. P. 97, where the words in question were "Kernut margarine churned with fresh milk." The word "Kernut" had been approved, and the court held that the words "churned with fresh milk" were not part of the fancy or descriptive name of the article, and accordingly that there had been no breach of the provision. This case was followed in Chalmers v. Somerville and Barr, Ltd., [1925] S. C. (J.) 70; (1925), S. L. T. 530. The words in question in this case were "Charmo Margarine containing a small quantity of butter." The court held that the words "containing a small quantity of butter" were not part of the descriptive name and that no offence had been committed. Patterson v. Maypole Dairy Co., Ltd., supra, was commented upon in the judgments in the last-mentioned case and doubted.

Power to make regulations as to constituents of milk, butter, cheese, etc.

7.—(1) The Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries may, after such inquiry as he deems necessary, make regulations (a) for determining what deficiency in any of the normal constituents of genuine milk (b), cream, butter, or cheese, or what addition of extraneous matter or proportion of water, in any sample of milk (including condensed milk), cream, butter, or cheese, or what proportion of any milk-solid other than fat in any sample of butter or milk-blended butter, shall for the purposes of this Act raise a presumption, until the contrary is proved, that, the milk, cream, butter, cheese or milk-blended butter is not genuine or is injurious to health, and an analyst shall have regard to such regulations in certifying the result of an analysis under this Act (c).

(2) The Minister of Health may, after such inquiry as he deems necessary, make regulations for prohibiting the use as a preservative of any substance specified in such regulations in the manufacture or preparation for sale of butter, margarine, or milk-blended butter, or for limiting the extent to which, either generally or as regards any particular substance or substances, preservatives may be used in the manufacture or preparation for sale of butter, margarine, or milk-blended butter.

(3) Any regulations made under this section shall be notified in the London Gazette, and shall also be made known in such other manner as the Minister making the regulations may direct.

(4) Any person who manufactures, sells, or exposes or offers for sale, or has in his possession for the purpose of sale, any butter, margarine, or milk-blended butter which contains a preservative prohibited by a regulation under this section, or an amount of a preservative in excess of the limit allowed by any such regulation, shall be guilty of an offence (d).

(a) The following regulations made under s. 4 of the 1899 Act reproduced in the subsection in the text were published in the London Gazette, August 6th, 1901, and are saved by s. 37, post, p. 2987.

The Board of Agriculture, in exercise of the powers conferred on them by s. 4 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, do hereby make the following regulations :—

1. Where a sample of milk (not being milk sold as skimmed, or separated, or condensed milk) contains less than 3 per cent. of milk-fat, it shall be presumed for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, 1875 to 1899, until the contrary is proved, that the milk is not genuine, by reason of the abstraction therefrom of milk-fat, or the addition thereto of water.

2. Where a sample of milk (not being milk sold as skimmed, or separated, or condensed milk) contains less than 8·5 per cent. of milk-solids other than milk-fat, it shall be presumed for the purposes of the Sale of Foods and Drugs Acts, 1875 to 1899, until the contrary is proved, that the milk is not genuine, by reason of the abstraction therefrom of milk-solids other than milk-fat, or the addition thereto of water.

3. (Repealed as to England and Wales : see regulations of 1912, infra.)

4. These regulations shall extend to Great Britain.

5. These regulations shall come into operation on the 1st of September, 1901.

6. These regulations may be cited as the Sale of Milk Regulations, 1901.

The following further regulations made under s. 4 of the 1899 Act were published in the London Gazette, April 22nd, 1902 :

The Board of Agriculture in exercise of the powers conferred on them by s. 4 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, do hereby make the following regulations :—

1. Where the proportion of water in a sample of butter exceeds 16 per cent. it shall be presumed for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, 1875 to 1899, until the contrary is proved, that the butter is not genuine by reason of the excessive amount of water therein.

2. These regulations extend to Great Britain.

3. These regulations shall come into operation on the fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and two.

4. These regulations may be cited as the Sale of Butter Regulations, 1902.

The following regulations were made by the Board of Agriculture on June 29th, 1912 :

The Board of Agriculture and Fisheries, in exercise of the powers conferred on them by section 4 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, do hereby make the following Regulations :—

1. Where a sample of skimmed or separated milk (not being condensed milk) contains less than 8·7 per cent. of milk-solids other than milk-fat, it shall be presumed for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, 1875 to 1907, until the contrary is proved, that the milk is not genuine, by reason of either the addition thereto of water, or the abstraction therefrom of milk-solids other than milk-fat.

2. Regulation 3 of the Sale of Milk Regulations, 1901, is hereby revoked, but not so as to affect the validity of any certificate of analysis given before the commencement of these regulations or any legal proceedings in respect of any sample to which any such certificate relates.

3. These regulations shall come into operation on the first day of September, one thousand nine hundred and twelve.

Note to Section 7.

4. These regulations shall extend to England and Wales.

5. These regulations may be cited as the Sale of Milk Regulations, 1912.

The following cases have been decided in relation to these regulations: A farmer was charged with selling milk which on analysis proved to be below the standard of quality required by the regulations. The accused, his mother and servants gave evidence which was believed, but was uncorroborated by neutral testimony, to the effect that the milk had not been tampered with. The accused was convicted and it was held, on appeal, that the evidence adduced by him was sufficient without further corroboration to overcome the presumption that the milk had been tampered with, and that the conviction must be quashed (Lamont v. Rodger, [1911] S. C. (J.) 24). A farmer, charged with selling skimmed milk which was not genuine, inasmuch as it did not contain 9 per cent. of milk-solids as required by s. 3 of the Regulations (1901), objected to the relevancy of the complaint on the ground that the analyst's certificate produced was unintelligible, that it did not state the "milk"-solids and did not show that any offence had been committed. The certificate stated as follows:—"Solids not fat: 7·35; Fat: 1·31; Water: 91·34; Ash: ·59." It was held that the certificate was quite clear; that the omission of the word "milk" was of no moment; and that the additional information as to "ash" did not affect the analysis, which showed a deficiency of solids (Gordon v. Love, [1911] S. C. (J.) 75). A farmer was charged with selling milk which was not genuine, in that it did not contain the quantity of milk-fat and solids required by the Regulations (1901). It was proved to the satisfaction of the sheriff-substitute that the milk had not been tampered with after having been taken from the cow, but that the deficiency in quality was due to a method of feeding purposely adopted by the farmer in order to produce quantity of milk rather than quality. The accused was acquitted, and it was held that the decision of the sheriff-substitute was right (Scott v. Jack, [1912] S. C. (J.) 87). The respondent was charged with having consigned to a purchaser milk which was not of the nature, substance or quality contracted to be sold, the milk being deficient in fat to the extent of 26 per cent. of the minimum amount fixed by the Regulations (1901). At the hearing the facts stated in the information were proved or admitted, and evidence was also given and admitted that another consignment of the same morning's milk from the same cows showed on analysis 3·1 per cent. fat (being in excess of the said minimum) and that the morning's milk from the same cows seven days later showed on analysis a deficiency in fat below such minimum of 3 per cent. only. The justices held that although the sample was not of the nature, substance and quality contracted to be sold, yet the respondent had not tampered with the milk, which was as it came from the cows. The Divisional Court remitted the case to the justices to convict the respondent unless further evidence was given before them bearing upon the question whether or not the difference between the quantities of fat in the two consignments on the day in question was consistent with there having been ordinary milking (Marshall v. Skett (1913), 77 J. P. 173; 108 L. T. 1001). An analyst's certificate showed a less percentage of milk-solids other than milk-fat than that required by the above Regulations as to milk-solids. Held, that the presumption created by the Regulation can only be rebutted by evidence that the seller has neither added water to the milk nor abstracted anything from it; in other words, that he has sold it in the same condition as it was when it came from the cow (Kings v. Merris, [1920] 3 K. B. 566).

See also Edwards' Creameries, Ltd. v. Smith (1922), 86 J. P. 155, as to what amounts to an opportunity of furnishing an explanation before proceedings are instituted. Reference should also be made to Hunt v. Richardson and other cases cited in the notes to s. 2, ante, p. 2953.

For regulations made under the P. H. (Regulations as to Food) Act, 1907, as to the case of preservatives in milk and cream, see p. 2949, ante, and as to the effect of such regulations upon ss. 1 and 2, ante, see s. 1 (4), ante, p. 2949, and s. 2 (4), ante, p. 2950.

(b) "Milk" includes skimmed milk, and "genuine" means merely "unadulterated." Accordingly regulations as to skimmed milk made under this section are not ultra vires (Gordon v. Love, [1911] S. C. (J.) 75).

The Board of Agriculture issued a circular dated 17th August, 1903, on the analysis of sour milk in relation to the composition of milk when fresh, which will be found printed in 1 L. G. R., Part III., p. 393.

It is desirable that an analyst's certificate should state in terms the standard with reference to the amount of milk-fat in genuine milk, on which the analyst bases his conclusion, but failure to state it does not vitiate the certificate if a simple calculation from the figures given in the certificate makes it apparent that the analyst has proceeded upon the standard laid down by the Sale of Milk Regulations, 1901 (Bayley v. Cook (1905), 69 J. P. 139; 92 L. T. 170). See also as to the sufficiency of a certificate of analysis, Bakewell v. Davis, [1894] 1 Q. B. 296; Jenkins v. Naden (1919), 83 J. P. 154.

A certificate of the analysis of an article sold as butter is invalid if the analyst does not report whether any change has taken place in the constitution of the article; and it is no excuse for non-compliance with the direction to that effect in the prescribed form of certificate that the article proved on analysis to be margarine (Hunter v. Wintrup (1904), 7 F. (J. C.) 22).

(a) factories of margarine (a), margarine-cheese (a), or milk-blended butter (a);

(b) premises where the business of a wholesale dealer in margarine, margarine-cheese, or milk-blended butter is carried on;

(c) butter (a) factories, that is to say, premises on which by way of trade butter is blended, reworked, or subjected to any other treatment, but not so as to cease to be butter;

shall be registered by the owner or occupier thereof with the Food and Drugs Authority (b), in such manner as the Minister of Health (c) may direct; and any owner or occupier who carries on such manufacture, business or trade as aforesaid in premises not duly registered shall be guilty of an offence (d).

(2) Registration of premises under this section shall be forthwith notified by the Food and Drugs Authority (b) to the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries.

(3) Premises shall not be used as a butter factory if they form part of, or communicate otherwise than by a public street or road with, any other premises which are required to be registered under paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section; and if any premises are so used, the occupier thereof shall be guilty of an offence (d), and the Food and Drugs Authority shall remove from the register of butter factories kept by them any premises used as a butter factory contrary to the provisions of this subsection.

(b) As to who are "Food and Drugs Authorities," see s. 13, post, p. 2966.

(c) General orders as to the registration of factories of and of premises of wholesale dealers in margarine and margarine-cheese, dated February 26th, 1900 (in App. II., post, p. 3310), and as to the registration of butter factories and of factories of and premises of wholesale dealers in milk-blended butter, dated December 28th, 1907 (in App. II., post, p. 3311), were made by the L. G. B. under the corresponding provisions of the consolidated Acts, and are saved by s. 37, post, p. 2987.

Registration of consignments.

9. (a)—(1) Every occupier of a factory (b) of margarine (c), margarine-cheese (c), or milk-blended butter (c), and every wholesale dealer in any such substance, shall keep a register showing the quantity and destination of each consignment of margarine, margarine-cheese, or milk-blended butter, as the case may be, sent out from his factory or place of business, and the register shall be open to the inspection of any officer of the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries (d).

(2) If any such occupier or dealer—

(a) fails to keep such a register; or

(b) refuses to produce the register when required to do so by an officer of the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries; or

(c) fails to keep the register posted up to date; or

(d) wilfully makes any entry in the register which is false in any particular; or

(e) fraudulently omits to enter any particular which ought to be entered in the register; he shall be guilty of an offence and liable for the first offence to a fine not

(a) This section consolidates s. 7 of the 1899 Act as amended by s. 1 of the 1907 Act.
(b) As to the registration of such factories and premises, see s. 8, ante, p. 2963.

Prohibition of adulterants in butter factories.

10. (a) If any substance intended to be used for the adulteration of butter (b) is found in any butter factory, the occupier of the factory shall be guilty of an offence (c), and if any oil or fat capable of being so used is found it shall be deemed to be intended to be so used, unless the contrary is proved.

The observance of the formalities prescribed by s. 14 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875 (see now s. 18, post, p. 2972), is not a condition precedent to proceedings under this section (Monro v. Central Creamery Co., Ltd., [1912] 1 K. B. 578; 76 J. P. 131).

Limit of moisture in butter, &c.

11 (a).—(1) If any butter (b) which, when prepared for sale or consignment, contains more than sixteen per cent. of water (c) is in any butter factory, or if any margarine (b), which, when prepared for sale or consignment, contains more than sixteen per cent. of water is in any margarine factory, or if any such butter or margarine is consigned from a butter factory or margarine factory, the occupier of the factory or consignor, as the case may be, shall (whether the excess of moisture is due to adulteration or not) be guilty of an offence (d) unless he proves to the satisfaction of the court that the butter or margarine was not made, blended, reworked, or treated in the factory.

(2) Any person who manufactures, sells, or exposes or offers for sale, or has in his possession for the purpose of sale, any milk-blended butter (e) which contains more than twenty-four per cent. of water, shall be guilty of an offence (d).

12 (a).—(1) If there is imported into the United Kingdom any of the following articles, namely :—

(a) margarine (b), or margarine-cheese (b), except in packages conspicuously marked "Margarine" or "Margarine-cheese," as the case may require;

(b) adulterated or impoverished (c) milk or cream, except in packages or cans conspicuously marked with a name or description indicating that the milk or cream has been so treated;

(e) butter (c) containing more than sixteen per cent. of water (f);

(f) margarine containing more than sixteen per cent. of water, or more than ten per cent. of fat derived from milk (g);

(g) milk-blended butter (j) containing more than twenty-four per cent. of water (h);

(h) milk-blended butter, except in packages conspicuously marked with such name as may be approved by the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries for the purpose (j);

(j) butter, margarine, or milk-blended butter which contains a preservative prohibited by any regulation (k) made under this Act, or an amount of a preservative in excess of the limit allowed by any such regulation;

the importer (l) shall be guilty of an offence (m).

(2) Prosecutions for offences under this section shall be undertaken by the Commissioners of Customs and Excise, and, subject to the provisions of this Act, this section shall have effect as if it were part of the Customs (Consolidation) Act, 1876 (n). 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36.

(3) If in any case the Commissioners of Customs and Excise are of opinion that an offence against this section has been committed, they shall communicate to the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries for his information the name of the importer and such other facts as they possess or may obtain as to the destination of the consignment.

(4) For the purposes of this section, an article of food shall be deemed to be adulterated or impoverished if it has been mixed with any other substance, or if any part of it has been abstracted, so as in either case to affect injuriously its nature, substance, or quality:

Provided that an article of food shall not be deemed to be adulterated by reason only of the addition of any preservative or colouring matter of such a nature and in such quantity as not to render the article injurious to health (o).

In proceedings by the Commissioners of Customs under this section, for the recovery of a penalty in respect of the importation into the United Kingdom of an article of food specified therein, the certificate of the analysis given by the Government chemist under s. 20 need not be in the form prescribed by s. 17 and Sched. I. (Foot v. Findlay, [1909] 1 K. B. 1; 72 J. P. 494).

PART III.

ADMINISTRATION.

Food and Drugs Authorities.

13. The local authorities for the purposes of the execution of this Act (a) (in this Act referred to as the Food and Drugs Authorities) are—

(1) as respects the city of London, the common council;

(2) as respects any other part of the administrative county of London, the metropolitan borough council;

(3) as respects a county borough, or a borough having a separate police establishment, or a borough which had according to the census of 1881 a population of not less than ten thousand, and which had on the thirteenth day of August, eighteen hundred and eighty-eight, and for the time being has, a separate court of quarter sessions, the council of the borough;

(4) as respects any other area, the county council.

(a) A local authority which is not a Food and Drugs Authority may nevertheless by their sanitary inspector institute prosecutions under the Act (Worthington v. Kyme (1905), 69 J. P. 390; 93 L. T. 546).

Officers of the M. of H. and the Ministry of Agriculture may institute proceedings as private individuals under this Act. They are not limited in prosecutions at their instance to cases contemplated by ss. 14 and 19, post (Falconer v. Whyte, [1908] S. C. (J.) 40).

Duty of authorities to enforce Act.

14.—(1) It shall be the duty (a) of every Food and Drugs Authority (b) to put in force from time to time, as occasion may arise, the powers with which they are invested, so as to provide proper securities for the sale of food and drugs in a pure and genuine condition, and in particular to direct their officers to procure samples for analysis (c).

(2) If the Minister of Health or Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries after communication with the Food and Drugs Authority is of opinion that the authority have failed to execute or enforce any of the provisions of this Act in relation to any article of food, and that their failure affects the general interests of the consumer or the general interests of agriculture in the United Kingdom, as the case may be, the Minister concerned may, by order, empower an officer to execute and enforce those provisions or to procure the execution and enforcement thereof in relation to any article of food mentioned in the order.

(3) The expenses incurred by either such Minister or his officer under any such order shall be paid by the Food and Drugs Authority to such Minister on demand, and in default such Minister may recover (d) the amount of the expenses (e) with costs from the authority, and the amount so paid or recovered shall be treated as expenses incurred by the authority under this Act (f).

(4) For the purposes of this section, an order of the Minister concerned shall be conclusive in respect of any default, amount of expenses, or other matter therein stated or appearing.

(a) This duty will be enforceable by mandamus, notwithstanding the powers of the two government departments under the next sub-section (R. v. Leicester Guardians, [1899] 2 Q. B. 632; 63 J. P. 474).

Note to Section 14.

(b) See as to these authorities, s. 13, ante, p. 2966.
(c) As to taking samples, see s. 16, infra.
(d) By action in any court of competent jurisdiction.
(e) As to the amount of these expenses, see sub-s. (4).

Appointment of analysts.

15.—(1) It shall be the duty (a) of every Food and Drugs Authority (b) to appoint one or more persons as analysts (c) of articles of food and drugs within their area (in this Act referred to as public analysts), and the authority may remove any such person.

(2) Every such appointment and removal shall at all times be subject to the approval of the Minister of Health who may give his approval absolutely or with modifications as to the period of the appointment, removal, or otherwise.

(3) Every person so appointed shall be a person possessing competent knowledge, skill and experience, and shall furnish such proof of competency as may from time to time be required by regulation (d) framed by the Minister of Health ; and no person shall be appointed as public analyst for any place who is engaged directly or indirectly in any trade or business connected with the sale of food or drugs in that place.

(4) The Food and Drugs Authority shall pay to every public analyst appointed by them such remuneration as may be mutually agreed upon.

(5) The council of any borough, being a Food and Drugs Authority, may agree that the public analyst appointed by any neighbouring borough or for the county in which the borough is situated, shall act for their borough during such time as the council may think proper, and the council shall make due provision for the payment of his remuneration, and if such analyst consents, he shall during such time as aforesaid be the public analyst for the borough.

(a) This duty will be enforceable by mandamus although the provisions of s. 14 (2), ante, p. 2966, are also applicable (R. v. Leicester Guardians, [1899] 2 Q. B. 632 ; 63 J. P. 474).
(b) See as to this expression, s. 13, ante, p. 2966.
(c) As to the qualification of analysts, see sub-s. (3).
(d) Regulations were issued under the corresponding sub-section of the 1899 Act, by General Order dated March 7th, 1900, which will be found in App. II., post, p. 3610. These regulations are saved by s. 37, post, p. 2987.

Powers of sampling.

(2) A sampling officer may take at the place of delivery any sample of any food in course of delivery (c) to the purchaser or consignee in pursuance of any contract for the sale thereof to the purchaser or consignee :

Provided that no sample of food other than milk shall be taken under this subsection except upon the request or with the consent of the purchaser or consignee.

(3) A sampling officer may, without going through the form of purchase, take for the purposes of analysis, samples of any butter or cheese or substances purporting to be butter or cheese which are exposed for sale and are not marked in the manner in which margarine, margarine-cheese or milk-blended butter is required to be marked under this Act (d).

(4) Any officer of Customs and Excise and any sampling officer (except an inspector of a market and in London an inspector of weights and measures),

Section 16. if he has reason to believe that any package forwarded by any public conveyance contains margarine, margarine-cheese or milk-blended butter which is not consigned in accordance with the provisions of this Act may examine and take samples from that package, and ascertain, if necessary by submitting the same to be analysed, whether an offence under this Act has been committed (e).

(5) If any sampling officer applies to purchase any article of food or any drug exposed for sale or on sale by retail on any premises (including any street or open space of public resort), and tenders the price for the quantity which he requires for the purpose of analysis not being more than is reasonably requisite, and the person exposing the article or drug for sale, or having it for sale on the premises, refuses to sell to the officer such quantity thereof as aforesaid, or if the seller or consignor or any person entrusted by him for the time being with the charge of any article of food of which a sampling officer is empowered to take a sample in course of delivery refuses to allow the officer to take the quantity which he requires for the purpose of analysis, the person so refusing shall be guilty of an offence (f), and liable to a fine not exceeding ten pounds (g):

Provided that, where any article of food or drug is exposed for sale in an unopened tin or package duly labelled, no person shall be required to sell it except in the unopened tin or package in which it is contained (h).

(a) The section consolidates ss. 13 and 17 of the 1875 Act, ss. 3, 4 and 5 of the 1879 Act, ss. 8 and 10 of the 1887 Act, ss. 5, 14 and 18 of the 1899 Act, and ss. 9 and 12 of the 1907 Act.

(b) An authorised officer may act under this section by an agent (Farley v Higginbotham (1898), 104 L. T. Newsp. 410; 42 Sol. J. 309). As to obtaining samples of milk, see s. 21 and Sched. II., post, pp. 2975, 2988.

(c) As to the meaning of these words, see Telford v. Fyfe, [1908] S. C. (J.) 83.

As to the taking of samples of milk, see s. 21 and Sched. II., post, pp. 2975, 2988. As to forwarding to the consignor a portion of the sample of milk taken, see s. 18 (2), post, p. 2972. It is not necessary to state the intention and to divide the sample of milk thus taken, as required by s. 18 (1) (Rouch v. Hall (1880), 6 Q. B. D. 17; 45 J. P. 220; Chappell v. Emson (1884), 48 J. P. 200).

It is not necessary for an inspector to prove that he is a duly authorised officer; so held by CHANNELL and AVORY, JJ., in Ross v. Helm, [1913] 3 K. B. 462; 77 J. P. 13. Cf. Kates v. Jeffery, [1914] 3 K. B. 160.

An inspector having taken a sample of milk, under the corresponding section (s. 3) of the 1879 Act, divided it, retained one part, and submitted the other part to be analysed:—Held, following Rouch v. Hall, supra, that he was not bound to submit for analysis the whole of the sample taken by him (Rolfe v. Thompson, [1892] 2 Q. B. 196). And see Harris v. Williams, the facts of which are stated in note (d) to s. 18, post, p. 2973.

The appellant, who lived at C., contracted with a dairy company for the sale to them of the milk from his dairy, to be delivered at London, or at such other station as the purchasers should from time to time appoint; the carriage of the milk from C. to be paid by the purchasers. The purchasers appointed H. as a station for the delivery of milk under the contract. The appellant consigned milk from C. to the purchasers at H.; immediately on its arrival at the latter station, and before possession was taken of it by the purchasers, a sample was taken by the respondent, which, upon analysis, was found to be adulterated by the addition of water:—Held: that, notwithstanding the provision for payment of the carriage by the purchasers, H. was the place of delivery of the milk to the purchasers within the meaning of the section; and the appellant was, therefore, rightly convicted of an offence under the Act (Filshie v. Evington, [1892] 2 Q. B. 200; 56 J. P. 312). And see Lush v. Wilson (1890), 54 J. P. 73, a decision by the Recorder of Reading as to the place of delivery.

The servant of the defendant, a wholesale milk dealer, in pursuance of a contract between his master and a retail milk seller, took milk from his master's cart in cans belonging to his master into the retail milk seller's shop, and there poured it into empty cans belonging to the retail milk seller. An inspector and his assistant were present while this was being done, and immediately after the milk had been poured into the retail milk seller's cans the inspector took a sample of it, and it was held that the milk was still in course of delivery when the sample was taken (Semple v. Dunbar (1905), 6 F. (Just. Cas.) 65).

Note to Section 16.

In Dibblin v. Yarrow (1926), 48 M. C. C. 7, a dairy farmer in performance of a verbal contract to supply milk to a dairyman was taking supplies of milk to the dairyman's premises. On arrival at the premises he was stopped by an inspector who took samples under the corresponding provision in the 1879 Act. The milk on analysis was found to be adulterated with 10 per cent. of added water. The dairyman took and paid for the remainder of the consignment, but refused to pay for the portion taken as samples. In proceedings, the farmer contended that none of the milk was the subject-matter of any contract for the sale of the same to the dairyman, and that the sample taken was never sold to the dairyman. The Divisional Court held there was a contract within the section, that the sample was properly taken at the place of delivery, and that an offence had been committed.

See also Fecitt v. Walsh in note (b) to s. 5, ante, p. 2957.

The sample must be fairly taken and fairly represent the bulk of the milk in course of delivery. Where a dairy farmer supplied a dairyman with 22 gallons of milk in part fulfilment of a contract to supply 40 gallons of milk daily, and the 22 gallons were supplied in three cans, of which two contained 8 gallons each, and the other 6 gallons, and the whole of the two cans of 8 gallons each, together with 4 gallons from the can containing 6 gallons, were poured into one vessel, and the remaining 2 gallons into another, and an inspector took a sample from each of these vessels, which, when analysed, showed 3·05 per cent. milk fat in the sample from the vessel containing the 20 gallons, but only 2·8 per cent. in the other sample, it was held that this latter sample was not a fair sample of the 6 gallons contained in the original can (Crawford v. Harding, [1907] S. C. (J.) 11). A consignment of milk was delivered in sixteen cans which were cylindrical in shape and about two feet deep. Each can was taken into a store room by the consignor's servant, where it was opened by him. An inspector then agitated the milk in the can with a wooden spoon about a foot in length, and a sample was taken by dipping a measure into the milk just under the surface and removing about 14 ounces. Samples were thus taken from fourteen of the cans. The court were of opinion that the method of sampling was not unfair or improper, and that it afforded a fair test of the contents of each can (Telford v. Fyfe, [1908] S. C. (J.) 83). An inspector saw the respondent deliver milk to a woman by pouring it into a jug. As soon as she had paid for the milk she went into her house and shut the door. The inspector then knocked at the door, and it was opened by the woman, who still had the jug in her hand, the milk being in the same condition as when she received it. The respondent was under a contract to deliver to the woman pure milk from the cow. Upon analysis it was found that the milk contained 30 per cent. of added water. It was held by PICKFORD and LUSH, JJ. (Lord ALVERSTONE, C.J., dissentiente), that there was evidence upon which the justices could find that delivery was complete before the sample had been taken (Helliwell v. Haskins, [1911] W. N. 129; 75 J. P. 435). The appellant, who was a milk vendor, made a written contract with one C. for the supply of pure milk to C., the contract providing that "the milk shall be delivered to the purchaser at Briton Ferry railway station of the Great Western Railway Co., and arrival of the milk at the said railway station shall constitute delivery by the vendor to the purchaser." Under this contract the appellant consigned a churn of milk to C. at the above station. On its arrival the consignee was present at the station, but the police took possession of the churn as it was removed from the train, and prevented the consignee from touching it. About twenty minutes later the respondent, an inspector under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, arrived at the station and took a sample of the milk from the churn. On an information by the respondent against the appellant which alleged that the respondent had procured at the place of delivery a sample of milk then in course of delivery, and that it was not of the nature, substance, and quality of the article demanded by the purchaser, the justices found that the sample was procured at the place of delivery and in course of delivery, and they convicted the appellant. It was held that there was evidence to support the finding of the justices, that the sample was taken when the milk was in course of delivery, and the conviction must be affirmed (Cox v. Evans, [1917] 1 K. B. 275; 81 J. P. 53). A dairyman delivered a consignment of 42 gallons of milk in six barrels, which were sampled thus: Four barrels were poured out separately and a sample taken of each. The fifth and sixth were poured together and a sample taken. An average of the five samples was then taken as representing the quality of the entire consignment. It was held that the method adopted was fair and proper and caused no prejudice to the defendant (Lamont v. Rodger, [1911] S. C. (J.) 24).

In Wildridge v. Ashton, [1924] 1 K. B. 92; 87 J. P. 197, a consignment of milk was sent in pursuance of a contract in three churns. The inspector took a sample from each churn and these samples were each analysed separately. An information was laid in respect of the whole consignment, and at the hearing the certificates of the three analyses were put in, and the analyst gave evidence based on the certificates as to the quantitative or true average of the constituents of the whole consignment, the justices dismissed the appeal on the ground that the method of taking the samples was not proper and legal, but the Divisional Court held that the method was both proper and legal.

Note to Section 16.

The defendant may be convicted upon a summons alleging an offence under s. 6 of the 1875 Act (corresponding to s. 2, ante, p. 2949), although it is proved that there was a seizure under this section, unless he applies for an amendment or adjournment under s. 1 of the S. J. A., 1848 (Hiett v. Ward (1894), 58 J. P. 461; 70 L. T. 374).

The power given by this section cannot be exercised by an inspector of nuisances outside the district for which he was appointed (McNair v. Cave, [1903] 1 K. B. 24; 67 J. P. 50).

The sample may be procured by the assistance of an agent, and in such case the proceedings will be rightly instituted and carried on by and in the name of the inspector himself (Tyler v. Dairy Supply Co. (1908), 72 J. P. 132; 98 L. T. 867).

(d) I.e. under ss. 6 and 12, ante, pp. 2957 and 2964.

(e) Observe that the power conferred by this sub-section is not, like that given by sub-s. (1), supra, confined to the procuring of samples; the officer may examine and take samples from any package. As to forwarding a portion of any sample taken to the consignor, see s. 18 (2), post, p. 2972.

(f) A master is liable under this section for a refusal by his servant (Farley v. Higginbotham (1898), 104 L. T. Newsp. 410; 42 Sol. J. 309). After a purchase by an inspector and his announcement that the purchase was for analysis, the respondent snatched the tin out of the inspector's hands, showed him the label on it, and refused to give it back, though offering to return the money:—Held: that the respondent could not be convicted of larceny (Hewson v. Gamble (1892), 56 J. P. 101). An inspector is entitled under this section to demand and be supplied in the same manner as the public are being supplied, and consequently if a dairyman supplying milk to the public by retail from cans refuses to supply the inspector with milk on demand except from the top of one of the cans other than that from which the public are being supplied, he is guilty of a contravention of this section (Soutar v. Kerr, [1907] S. C. (J.) 49). But wilful obstruction is also punishable under s. 24, post, p. 2976. In Soutar v. Kerr, supra, it was held that the dairyman could not be convicted under the provision in the 1899 Act corresponding to that section.

Where a publican refused to sell to an inspector rum for analysis out of a glass bottle from which he had already sold him some for drinking, the inspector not being known to the publican nor in uniform, nor having with him any certified copy of the general resolution of quarter sessions under which he was acting, nor communicating his authority even verbally to the publican, it was held that the publican might, nevertheless, be convicted of an offence under this section (Payne v. Hack (1894), 58 J. P. 165). When an inspector asked for new milk out of a particular can which the appellant was taking with him on his rounds the appellant upset all the contents of the can into the road. This can contained skimmed milk which the appellant alleged he was about to deliver to persons to whom he regularly supplied skimmed milk. There was no label or mark to indicate the contents of the can. The appellant was convicted under this section, but the conviction was quashed, the court holding that the can did not require to be labelled "skimmed milk," as s. 11 of the 1899 Act, now re-enacted in s. 7 of the Milk and Dairies Consolidated Act, 1915, ante, p. 1221, does not apply to milk carried round for sale in an ordinary can, but only to condensed milk, and that there was no evidence that the appellant was exposing the milk for sale as new milk (French v. Card (1909), 73 J. P. 389; 101 L. T. 428).

The respondent carried on business as a confectioner and eating-house keeper. An inspector applied to the manager of the respondent's shop to purchase a glass of milk required by him for the purpose of analysis. There was at the time milk in a pan on the counter, but the respondent's manager had instructions from him not to sell milk alone, but only to add it to cups of tea or other liquids, and the milk in the pan on the counter was kept there to be sold in that manner only. The respondent's manager on this ground refused to sell to the inspector a glass of the milk:—Held, that although the milk was only intended to be sold in the manner above mentioned, it had nevertheless been exposed for sale and was on sale by retail within the meaning of the sub-section, and that the respondent was therefore liable to a penalty in respect of the refusal to sell (McNair v. Terroni, [1915] 1 K. B. 526).

The sub-section applies to articles of food, etc., exposed for sale by wholesale as well as by retail (M'Hugh v. M'Grath, [1894] 2 I. R. 78).

Any member of the public can institute a prosecution under this sub-section (Connor v. Butler, [1902] 2 I. R. 569).

(g) As to the recovery and application of fines, see ss. 27 and 32, post, pp. 2977 and 2985.

(h) The object of this proviso is to protect retailers against a plan said to have been sometimes adopted in order to trip them on a sale of a mixed article. The officer purchasing would ask for a portion only of the contents of the manufacturer's labelled tin or packet because he was aware that the label probably contained sufficient notice of admixture. On being served, if through inadvertence on the part of the tradesman, the officer's attention was not drawn to the label, and no verbal declaration was made, the officer was at once put into a position to prosecute, and instituted proceedings accordingly.

Section 17.

Right to have samples analysed.

17. (a)—(1) Where a sampling officer (b) procures a sample of food (c) or of a drug (c), he shall, if he suspects the sample or the article from which the sample is taken to have been sold contrary to any provision of this Act, or that the provisions of this Act have otherwise been infringed with respect to that article, submit it to be analysed by the public analyst of the place for which he acts (d).

(2) Any purchaser of an article of food or of a drug shall be entitled to submit it to be analysed by the public analyst of the place in which the purchase was made.

(3) The public analyst shall, upon payment to him of a sum not exceeding ten shillings and sixpence, as soon as practicable analyse any sample sent to him in pursuance of this Act, and shall give to the person by whom the sample is sent a certificate specifying the result of the analysis in the form set forth in the First Schedule to this Act, or a form to the like effect (e).

(4) Where there is no public analyst for the place for which the sampling officer acted or in which the purchase was made, the sample shall be submitted to and be analysed by the public analyst for some other place; but in such a case the sum payable shall be such sum as may be agreed.

(a) This section consolidates ss. 12, 13 and 18 of the 1875 Act, s. 3 of the 1879 Act and s. 8 of the 1887 Act.

(d) I.e. analysts appointed under s. 15, ante, p. 2967. As to the fee payable in advance to the analyst, see sub-s. (3), and see also sub-s. (4).

(e) The Middlesex Sessions held that this certificate was a condition precedent to the conviction, and that if it were not in the prescribed form the conviction must be quashed (Peart v. Barstow (1880), 44 J. P. 699). But see Austin v. Dunshanglin Guardians, post, p. 2974. The certificate need not set out the constituent parts of the sample analysed where the case is not one of adulteration; it need only state the result of the analysis. The "observations" which in the form given in the Schedule follow after the result of the analysis are only to be made where the case is one of adulteration; but the addition, in cases where adulteration is not charged, of "observations" amounting only to an expression of opinion on the part of the analyst and not to a finding of fact, although unauthorised and improper, will not necessarily vitiate the certificate (Bakewell v. Davis, [1894] 1 Q. B. 297; 58 J. P. 228). Where adulteration is charged the certificate must state the constituent parts of the sample, as, for instance, on a charge of selling adulterated rum the certificate found that the sample contained an excess of water over and above what is allowed by Act of Parliament estimated at 13 per cent. of the entire sample, and this certificate was held insufficient (Newby v. Sims, [1894] 1 Q. B. 478; 58 J. P. 263). So where a certificate as to milk simply stated that it contained 5 per cent. of added water, it was held insufficient (Fortune v. Hanson, [1896] 1 Q. B. 202; 60 J. P. 88). But where a similar certificate went on to add, "This opinion is based on the fact that the sample contained 7·97 per cent. solids other than fat, whereas genuine milk contains not less than 8·5 per cent. solids not fat," it was held sufficient (Bridge v. Howard, [1897] 1 Q. B. 80; 60 J. P. 790). As to milk, cream, butter, or cheese certificates, see s. 7 (1), ante, p. 2960, and note (c) thereto, ante, p. 2962. The provisions of the last-mentioned section do not lessen in any way the obligation of the analyst to prescribe in his certificate all the matters he is bound to set out by the Schedule (Bayley v. Cook (1905), 69 J. P. 139). In the last-mentioned case the certificate of the analyst stated: "I am of opinion that the said sample contained the parts as under, and the percentages of foreign ingredients as under: Milk fat, 1·4 per cent.; milk solids other than milk fat, 5·6; specific gravity at 60° F., 1020·6. Observations: This milk is deficient in milk solids other than milk fat to the extent of 2·9 per cent., which is equivalent to the addition of 34·2 per cent. of water. It is also deficient in milk fat to the extent of 53·4 per cent. of the milk fat." It was held that the certificate was sufficient, though it did not in terms refer to the standard laid down by the Sale of Milk Regulations, r. 1. See also as to sufficiency of certificate on a charge of statutory deficiency, Jenkins v. Naden (1919), 83 J. P. 154. Certificates stating that beer "contains arsenic," or "contains a serious quantity of arsenic," are insufficient (Goulder v. Rook, ante, p. 2954). But the insertion in the certificate of the weight of the sample analysed is obligatory only where the weight of the sample is material to the accuracy of the analysis, and its omission does not invalidate the certificate where the accuracy of the analysis does not in any way depend upon the weight of the sample (Sneath v. Taylor, [1901] 2 K. B. 376; 65 J. P. 548). See also Hunter v. Wintrup (1906), 7 F. (Just. Cas.) 22. A certificate of analysis of brandy stating that it has been reduced from 25 degrees under proof to 27·6 degrees under proof, was held sufficient in Findley v. Haas (1903), 67 J. P. 198; 88 L. T. 465. A certificate in the case of a drug liable to decomposition should contain a report as to whether any change has taken place in the constitution of the article which would interfere with the analysis (Hudson v. Bridge (1903), 67 J. P. 186; 88 L. T. 550). See also Hunter v. Wintrup, ante, p. 2971. The certificate need not state that the article is injurious to health (Hull v. Horsnell, ante, p. 2949).

In Johnston v. Smith, Times, June 9th, 1894, an action was brought against an analyst for negligence in giving a wrong certificate, but the jury found for the defendant.

In proceedings for an offence against the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 1, as extended by the Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 5 (now s. 12, ante, p. 2964), the certificate of analysis by the principal chemist of the Government laboratories need not follow the form of the certificate prescribed by this section (Foot v. Findlay, [1909] 1 K. B. 1; 72 J. P. 494).

Division of and dealings with samples.

18. (a)—(1) The person purchasing (b) a sample of any article with the intention of submitting it to analysis shall, after the purchase has been completed, forthwith (c) notify to the seller or his agent (d) who sold the sample his intention to have it analysed by the public analyst (e), and shall (f) then and there divide the sample into three parts, each part to be marked (g) and sealed or fastened up in such manner as its nature will permit (h), and shall—

(a) if required to do so deliver one part to the seller or his agent;

(b) retain one part for future comparison (j);

(c) if he thinks fit to have an analysis made submit one part to the analyst (k).

(2) In the case of a sample taken of milk in course of delivery (l), or of margarine, margarine-cheese or milk-blended butter forwarded by a public conveyance (m), the person taking the sample shall, if the name and address of the consignor appear on the can or package containing the article sampled, forward to him by registered parcel or otherwise a portion of the sample marked, and sealed, or fastened up (n).

(3) If the analyst does not reside within two miles of the residence of the person requiring the article to be analysed, the part submitted for analysis may be forwarded to the analyst by registered parcel (o), and the charge for the postage of such article shall be deemed one of the charges of this Act or of the prosecution, as the case may be.

(a) This section consolidates ss. 14 and 16 of the 1875 Act, s. 8 of the 1887 Act, ss. 10, 13 and 15 of the 1899 Act, and s. 9 of the 1907 Act.

(b) Or his agent (Horder v. Scott, ante, p. 2951; Macaulay v. McKirdy (1893), 20 Ct. of Sess. Cas. (4th ser.) (J. C.) 58). Where a sanitary inspector purchased by his agent, and then himself entered the shop and gave notice, etc. under this section, it was held that this was a sufficient compliance with the Act (Stace v. Smith (1881), 45 J. P. 141; Massey v. Kelso (1903), 4 F. (Just. Cas.) 73. See 67 J. P. 111). An inspector sent his servant into a public-house to purchase a bottle of gin. When the servant had been in the house a minute, and had paid for the gin, the inspector entered:—Held, the inspector was the purchaser (Garforth v. Esam (1892), 56 J. P. 521; 8 T. L. R. 243. And see Somerset v. Miller, infra). If a sample is submitted to the public analyst by an assistant inspector, it is nevertheless open to the inspector to institute proceedings himself and in his own name (Tyler v. Dairy Supply Co., Ltd. (1908), 72 J. P. 132; 98 L. T. 867). It was formerly held that the provisions of s. 14 of the 1875 Act applied to a purchase by a private person as well as to a purchase by a public officer (Parsons v. Birmingham Dairy Co. (1882), 9 Q. B. D. 172; 46 J. P. 727). This decision was dissented from in Enniskillen Guardians v. Hilliard (1884), 14 L. R. Ir. 214, where it was held that the provisions of the section do not apply to the purchase of an article unless for analysis, and therefore it is not a condition precedent to the right of a purchaser for consumption to take proceedings for a penalty under the Act, that he should have given to the seller the notification required by the section. And the Irish case was approved and followed in preference to the English one in the case of Buckler v. Wilson, [1896] 1 Q. B. 83; 60 J. P. 118. D. purchased from the appellant a pint of milk, and after the purchase was completed told the vendor that he intended to have the milk analysed, and offered to divide it with the vendor, which offer was refused:—Held, that the provisions of the sections had been sufficiently complied with (Chappell v. Emson (1884), 48 J. P. 200).

Note to Section 18.

(c) An inspector, standing outside, sent a constable into the inn of M. to buy gin, and after the constable came out both went inside two minutes later and told M. that the purchase was for analysis, and divided it :—Held, that there had been a notification forthwith to satisfy this section (Somerset v. Miller (1890), 54 J. P. 614).

H., a milk contractor, had contracted to deliver daily to W. a certain quantity of milk. One morning, J., a servant of H., drove up with the milk and delivered it from a van. P., acting on instructions from W., took a sample from one churn, which he placed in three bottles, and he gave one bottle to J., stating that the others were to be sent to the public analyst :—Held, that J. was not an agent of H. within the above section, and that the above section did not apply to such a case, the proper procedure being under s. 3 of the Act of 1879, see now s. 16 (2), ante, p. 2967, and sub-s. (2) (Harris v. Williams (1889), 6 T. L. R. 47).

It is not necessary to notify to the agent who sold the article (Davies v. Burrell, [1912] 2 K. B. 243 ; 76 J. P. 285).

(e) It is not enough to notify that the article is for analysis simply (Barnes v. Chipp (1878), 3 Ex. D. 176). Notice must be given that the analysis is to be by the public analyst ; but notice of analysis by the " county analyst " was held sufficient in Wheeker v. Webb (1887), 51 J. P. 661. This section need not be complied with in case of taking a sample of milk in course of delivery under s. 2 of the 1879 Act (now s. 16 (2), ante, p. 2967) (Rouch v. Hall (1880), 6 Q. B. D. 17 ; 45 J. P. 220 ; Rolfe v. Thompson, [1892] 2 Q. B. 196 ; 56 J. P. 425), nor is it necessary to observe the formalities of this section on the taking of a sample under s. 2 of the 1907 Act (now s. 22, post, p. 2975), nor is the observance of these formalities a condition precedent to proceedings under s. 3 of that Act (now s. 10, ante, p. 2964) (Monro v. Central Creamery Co., Ltd., [1912] 1 K. B. 579 ; 76 J. P. 131). And see Chappell v. Emson, ante, p. 2972. But in all other cases the notification under this section and the subsequent analysis are conditions precedent to a prosecution even if the seller at the time of purchase has admitted the commission of an offence against the Act (Smart v. Watts, [1895] 1 Q. B. 219).

(f) If three or more separate parcels of an article are purchased, as, for instance, several bottles of camphorated oil, each must be divided, and it is not enough, on request, to deliver one of such parcels back to the seller (Mason v. Cowdary, [1900] 2 Q. B. 419 ; 64 J. P. 662. But this case was distinguished in Smith v. Savage, [1905] 2 K. B. 88 ; 69 J. P. 245, where four penny packets of cream of tartar were purchased and mixed together by the purchaser in the presence of the vendor, and then divided into three parts). Each of the three parts must be sufficient to afford a reasonable quantity for the purposes of analysis (Lowery v. Hallard, [1906] 1 K. B. 398 ; 70 J. P. 57).

(g) A sample was found to bear the date of the day preceding the day of the alleged offence. It was held that the date was affixed to the sample for purposes of identification, and that this was a question of fact which could not be re-opened (Howe v. Knowles, [1909] S. C. (J.) 61).

(h) Thus, the wrapping up of the three parts of a certain quantity of butter in grease-proof paper was held sufficient, although the analyst certified that in consequence of the butter having been so fastened up it was probable that there has been considerable loss of water since the date of the purchase (Pearks, Gunston and Tee, Ltd. v. Ward, [1902] 2 K. B. 1 ; 66 J. P. 774). The provision as to sealing and fastening up means that the article is to be sealed or fastened up in such manner as its nature will permit, with the exercise of reasonable care and does not mean that the article is to be so sealed up that the air cannot enter and that the article will be imperishable and capable of analysis at the time when the vendor sends for analysis the sample which has been sent to him, or at the time when the vendor is served with the summons (Winterbottom v. Allwood, [1915] 2 K. B. 608). See also Chalmers v. McMeeking, [1921] S. C. (J.) 54.

(j) The part to be retained is intended for future comparison and to be produced at the hearing under s. 28 (4), post, p. 2979, but it need not necessarily be this part that is to be sent for analysis under s. 31, post, p. 2985. See Suckling v. Parker, [1906] 1 K. B. 527 ; 70 J. P. 209.

(k) The analyst's certificate must be obtained by every prosecutor, whether private or official. Thus, if a retail seller of milk is convicted of selling adulterated milk, it is not sufficient if he use only the certificate used in the prosecution against himself, when taking proceedings against the wholesale dealer from whom he purchased the milk in question (R. (Barry) v. Mahoney, [1909] 2 I. R. 490).

(m) I.e. under s. 16 (4), ante, p. 2967.

(n) This subsection meets the difficulty disclosed by Rouch v. Hall (1880), 6 Q. B. D. 17 ; 45 J. P. 220, and enables the consignor of the milk or margarine to protect himself by obtaining an analysis on his own account, which he can make use of under s. 28, post, for his defence.

(o) A. supplied butter to a workhouse, the master of which made up a sample of about half a pound of the butter, marked it " butter " and caused it to be sent to the public analyst by post, but not by registered post. On the following day the public analyst received a package purporting to come from the workhouse master and marked " butter " and containing about six fluid ounces. The analyst's certificate stated that he had received the sample from the workhouse master, and that it was composed almost entirely of fat foreign to butter. It did not state the percentage of butter fats and foreign fats found in the sample. It was held that there was evidence before the magistrates that the sample sent by the workhouse master and the sample analysed by the analyst were identical; that although the analyst's certificate did not follow the form of the Schedule to the Act, it was sufficient, as its meaning was that practically the material was not butter; and that s. 16 of the 1875 Act corresponding to this sub-section, was an enabling section and did not prevent evidence being given that the parcel had been sent to the analyst in a manner other than by registered post (Austin v. Dunshaughlin Guardians (1910), 45 Ir. L. T. 213.

Power of Ministers to have articles analysed.

19. (a)—(1) The Minister of Health may, in relation to any matter appearing to him to affect the general interests of the consumer, and the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries may, in relation to any matter appearing to him to affect the general interests of agriculture in the United Kingdom, direct an officer (b) to procure for analysis samples of any article of food, and thereupon the officer shall have all the powers of a sampling officer (c) under this Act, and this Act shall apply as if the officer were a sampling officer except that—

(a) the officer procuring the sample shall divide it into four parts, and shall deal with three of such parts in the manner directed by the last foregoing section, and shall send the fourth part to the Minister, and

(b) any fee for analysis shall be payable to the analyst by the Food and Drugs Authority of the place where the sample is procured (d).

(2) The Minister shall communicate the result of the analysis of any such sample to the Food and Drugs Authority, and thereupon there shall be the like duty and power on the part of the authority to cause proceedings to be taken as if the authority had caused the analysis to be made (e).

(b) The officers of the Ministers mentioned in the section are also entitled to take proceedings as private individuals; they are not limited in prosecutions at their instance to cases contemplated by this section (Falconer v. Whyte, [1908] S. C. (J.) 40).

(c) See s. 16, ante, p. 2967.

(d) The amount will be agreed between the officer procuring the sample and the analyst. See s. 17 (2), ante, p. 2971.

(e) As to the duty of the authority to enforce the Act, see s. 14 (1), ante, p. 2966, and as to proceedings, see Part IV., post, p. 2977.

See s. 27, post, p. 2977. Presumably on such proceedings the certificate will be evidence, and all other provisions of the Act, e.g., as to defences, costs, appeal, etc., will apply.

Proceedings may be taken by a duly appointed inspector without special authorisation of the local authority (Connor v. Butler, [1902] 2 I. R. 569). See 67 J. P. 26.

Powers of Commissioners of Customs and Excise to have imported articles sampled.

20. (a)—(1) The Commissioners of Customs and Excise shall, in accordance with directions given by the Treasury after consultation with the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, take such samples of consignments of imported articles of food as may be necessary for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act imposing restrictions on the importation of such articles (b).

(2) Where the Commissioners take a sample of any consignment in pursuance of such directions, they shall divide it into not less than three parts, and send one part to the importer and one part to the Government Chemist and retain one part.

(3) Where a sample taken under this section is certified by the Government Chemist to be margarine or milk-blended butter, the Commissioners of Customs and Excise shall upon receiving the certificate (c) forthwith notify the importer (d) thereof.

(b) I.e. under s. 12, ante, p. 2964.
(c) This certificate need not be in the form prescribed by Sched. I. (Foot v. Findlay, [1909] 1 K. B. 1; 72 J. P. 494).
(d) See the definition in s. 34, post, p. 2986.

Special provisions as to sampling of milk.

21. (a)—(1) The provisions of this Act relating to the taking of samples (b), and proceedings in connection therewith (c), shall, in relation to milk, have effect subject to the provisions of the Second Schedule (d) to this Act.

(2) So much of any contract as requires a purveyor of milk, on a sample of his milk being taken under this Act or any enactment repealed by this Act, to send to the person from whom he procured the milk any part of such sample, or to give that person notice that a sample has been so taken, shall be void.

(3) For the purpose of this section and the said Schedule the expression "purveyor of milk" includes a seller of milk whether wholesale or by retail.

(a) This section reproduces s. 9 of the Milk and Dairies (Consolidation) Act, 1915, which is repealed by this Act. See also s. 9 (3) of the Milk and Dairies (Amendment) Act, 1922, ante, p. 1333, which provides that a person shall not be convicted of any offence under any enactment relating to the sale of milk in respect of a sample of milk taken after the milk has left his custody and control if it is proved to the satisfaction of the court that the churn or other receptacle in which the milk was contained was effectively closed and sealed at the time when it left his custody, but was not so closed and sealed at the time when it reached the person by whom the sample was taken.

Inspection of factories.

22. (a)—(1) Any officer of the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries or of the Minister of Health shall have power to enter at all reasonable times any premises registered under this Act (b), and to inspect any process of manufacture, blending, reworking, or treatment used therein, and to take samples (c) for analysis of any butter (c), margarine (c), margarine-cheese (c), or milk-blended butter (c), or of any article capable of being used in the manufacture, treatment, or adulteration of any such article as aforesaid.

(2) Any sampling officer (d) of a Food and Drugs Authority shall, if specially authorised in that behalf by the authority, have the like powers of entry, inspection, and sampling as regards any premises registered with the authority as a butter factory (e).

(3) If the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries has reason to believe—

(a) that on any unregistered premises there is carried on any process of manufacture, blending, reworking, or treatment or any wholesale dealing which under this Act cannot be carried on except on registered premises (f); or

(b) that on any premises butter (g) is by way of trade either made or stored, and that for the purposes of this Act inspection is desirable; the Minister may specially authorise any of his officers to enter the premises, and in that case the officer shall have the like powers of entry, inspection, and sampling as if the premises were registered (h).

(4) Where under this section a special authority is required, an officer of a Minister or of a Food and Drugs Authority shall not be entitled to exercise any of his powers under this section unless, if so requested by or on behalf of the occupier of the premises to be entered, he produces his authority.

(b) I.e. under s. 8, ante, p. 2963.
(c) It is not necessary to observe the formalities prescribed by s. 18, ante, p. 2972, on the taking of a sample under this section (Monro v. Central Creamery Co., Ltd., [1912] 1 K. B. 578; 76 J. P. 131).
(d) See the definition in s. 34, post, p. 2986.
(e) As to sampling officers, see s. 16, ante, p. 2967.
(f) I.e. under s. 8, ante, p. 2963.
(g) See the definition in s. 34, ante, p. 2986.
(h) I.e. under sub-s. (1).

Approval of names for use in connection with margarine and milk-blended butter.

23. (a) The Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries may approve a name or names for use in connection with margarine, or under which milk-blended butter may be imported or dealt with, but the Minister shall not approve any name for any such purpose if it refers to or is suggestive of butter or anything connected with the dairy interest.

Obstruction of officers in discharge of duties.

24. (a) Any person who wilfully obstructs or impedes (b) any inspector or other officer in the course of his duties, or by any gratuity, bribe, promise, or other inducement prevents, or attempts to prevent, the due execution by the inspector or officer of his duty (c) under this Act, shall be guilty of an offence (d).

(b) This enactment meets the difficulty in Hewson v. Gamble (1892), 56 J. P. 101. See the facts of this case set out in note (f) to s. 16 (5), ante, p. 2970, and compare Soutar v. Kerr, cited in the same note. Obstruction may be wilful obstruction, although it involves no actual violence. See Borrow v. Howland (1896), 60 J. P. 391; 74 L. T. 787. But personal mens rea is a necessary ingredient of the offence. Thus, when a manager deliberately, but without the authority of the defendant, broke a bottle while pretending to uncork it, it was held that the defendant could not be convicted of wilful obstruction (Taylor v. Nixon, [1910] 2 I. R. 94). See further as to what amounts to obstruction, Swallow v. London County Council, [1916] 1 K. B. 224.

(c) If the officer corruptly solicit or receive or agree to receive the bribe he may himself be also punishable under the Public Bodies Corrupt Practices Act, 1889, ante, p. 841. See also the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1906, ante, p. 1092.

(d) As to the penalties for offences, their recovery and application, see ss. 27 and 32, post, pp. 2977 and 2985.

Quarterly reports by analysts.

25. (a) Every public analyst (b) shall report quarterly to the authority appointing him the number of articles analysed by him under this Act during the foregoing quarter, and shall specify the result of each analysis and the sum paid to him in respect thereof, and the report shall be presented at the next meeting of the authority appointing the analyst, and every such authority shall annually transmit to the Minister of Health at such time and in such form as the Minister may direct (c), a certified copy of the quarterly report.

(b) As to this expression, see s. 15, ante, p. 2967.

(c) A form for the Analyst's Quarterly Report suggested by Memo 36/Foods of January, 1929, is as follows:

FOOD AND DRUGS (ADULTERATION) ACT, ETC.

The Analyst is required to specify in his report the sum paid to him in respect of each analysis. It is not necessary, however, to specify any fee which is paid to the Analyst by the Food and Drugs Authority as a part of his agreed remuneration.

A copy of each quarterly report should be sent to the Ministry by the authority as soon as it is received.

Expenses of Food and Drugs Authorities.

26. (a) The expenses of the Food and Drugs Authority (b) under this Act shall be defrayed—

(a) in the case of the Common Council of the City of London and a metropolitan borough, out of the general rate;

(b) in the case of the council of a borough, out of the borough fund or borough rate (c);

(c) in the case of a county council, out of the county fund as expenses for general county purposes:

Provided that—

(i) if the county includes any borough having a separate court of quarter sessions the council whereof is a Food and Drugs Authority, the expenses shall be treated as expenses for special county purposes from contribution to which the borough shall be exempt;

(ii) if the county includes a borough having a separate police establishment but not having a separate court of quarter sessions, the council whereof is a Food and Drugs Authority, the council of the borough may retain any sums levied by the council as rating authority in pursuance of a precept issued by the council of the county (d) so far as the precept relates to the raising of money for the purposes of this Act.

(a) This section makes provision for the payment of expenses in the manner provided by s. 29 of the 1875 Act, and s. 9 of the 1879 Act as amended by later legislation.

(b) As to the meaning of this expression, see s. 13, ante, p. 2966.

(c) General rate fund and general rate must now be read for borough fund and borough rate (s. 10 (1) and 69 (2), R. and V. Act, 1925, ante, pp. 1660 and 1752).

(d) I.e. under s. 9, R. and V. Act, 1925, ante, p. 1653.

PART IV.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.

Prosecutions and penalties for offences.

27. (a)—(1) Save as otherwise expressly provided, all offences under this Act shall be prosecuted, and all fines recoverable in accordance with the Summary Jurisdiction Acts (b):

Provided that, where a sample has been purchased for test purposes, any prosecution under this Act in respect of the sale thereof shall not be instituted after the expiration of twenty-eight days from the time of the purchase (c).

(2) Where an analyst having analysed any article has given his certificate of the result from which it appears that an offence under this Act has been committed, the person causing the analysis to be made (d) may take proceedings under this Act before a petty sessional court having jurisdiction in the place where the article of food or drug sold was actually delivered to the purchaser or the sample was taken (e).

(3) A person found guilty of an offence for which no special penalty is imposed by this Act shall be liable on conviction—

(a) in the case of a first offence, to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds; and

(b) in the case of a second offence (f), to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds; and

(c) in the case of a subsequent offence (f), to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds; or if, in the opinion of the court, the offence was committed by the personal act, default, or culpable negligence of the person accused, and the court is of opinion that a fine will not meet the circumstances of the case, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months:

Section 27. Provided that, where the offence is the importation in contravention of the provisions of this Act of butter, margarine, margarine-cheese or milk-blended butter (g), the maximum fine shall be either that above mentioned or at the election of the Commissioners of Customs and Excise a sum equal to the value of the goods imported bearing the same mark or description, to be estimated and taken according to the rate and price for which goods of the like kind but of the best quality were sold at or about the time of the importation.

(4) In determining whether, for the purposes of this section, an offence is to be treated as a second or subsequent offence, the rules set out in the Third Schedule (h) to this Act shall be observed.

(5) In any prosecution under this Act the summons shall state (j) the particulars of the offence or offences alleged, and also the name of the prosecutor, and shall not be made returnable in less than fourteen (k) days from the day on which it is served.

(6) Where an employer is charged with an offence under Part II. of this Act, he shall be entitled, upon information duly laid by him, to have any other person whom he charges as the actual offender brought before the court at the time appointed for hearing the charge, and if, after the commission of the offence has been proved, the employer proves to the satisfaction of the court that he had used due diligence to enforce the execution of Part II. of this Act, and that the said other person had committed the offence in question without his knowledge, consent or connivance, the said other person shall be summarily convicted of the offence, and the employer shall be exempt from any penalty (l).

(a) This section consolidates ss. 20 and 24 of the 1875 Act, ss. 4 and 5 of the 1887 Act.

(b) As to the time within which proceedings must be taken and the delivery of particulars of the offence charged, see the proviso to this sub-section and sub-s. (6), post.

As to the application of s. 1 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1848, respecting amendment of process, see Hiett v. Ward, ante. p. 2970.

Where a constable prosecutes it is not necessary as a condition precedent to prove that he was directed to prosecute by the local authority who appointed him (Hale v. Cole (1891), 55 J. P. 376). A local authority which is not a Food and Drugs Authority under s. 13, ante, p. 2966, may nevertheless prosecute by their inspector of nuisances (Worthington v. Kyme, ante, p. 2966). But a local authority cannot prosecute in their own name (Colquhoun v. Magistrates of Dumbarton (1907), 9 F. (Just. Cas.) 57).

Where a limited company is defendant the summons must be served in accordance with the provisions of s. 370 (1) of the Companies Act, 1929 (Pearks, Gunston and Tee, Ltd. v. Richardson, [1902] 1 K. B. 91 ; 66 J. P. 119). See also s. 33 of the Criminal Justice Act, 1925 (15 & 16 Geo. 5, c. 86).

(c) This was the limit introduced by the Sale of Food and Drugs Act Amendment Act, 1879, s. 10, with regard to a purchase of a perishable article for test purposes ; now it applies whether the article be perishable or not. The limit, it will be observed, applies only where the purchase was for test purposes, not for consumption or for re-sale. Under the repealed enactment of the Act of 1879, s. 10, it was held that a summons under s. 27 of the Act of 1875 (now s. 30 (2), post, p. 2984) against the original vendor of a perishable article of food for giving a false warranty in writing in respect of it to the purchaser, who purchased it for retailing, need not be served within twenty-eight days from the purchase of the food for test purposes from that purchaser (Cook v. White, [1896] 1 Q. B. 284 ; 60 J. P. 330).

In cases where it applies, this provision as to time cannot be disregarded, and is of the essence of the jurisdiction to try the offence, so that the appearance of the defendant to the summons does not waive the objection, even though he does not take the point (Dixon v. Wells (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 249 ; 54 J. P. 725).

When samples have been taken by inspectors under s. 2 of the 1907 Act (now s. 22, ante, p. 2975) the time limit fixed by this section does not apply (Monro v. Central Creamery Co., Ltd., [1912] 1 K. B. 578 ; 76 J. P. 131).

The prosecution is instituted when the information is laid, not when the summons is served (Beardsley v. Giddings, [1904] 1 K. B. 847 ; 68 J. P. 222 ; Brooks v. Bagshaw, [1904] 2 K. B. 798 ; 68 J. P. 514).

A prosecution for aiding a person in committing an offence against s. 6 of the 1875 Act (corresponding to s. 2 (1), ante, p. 2949), is a " prosecution under the Sale of Food and

Note to Section 27.

Drugs Acts," and the defendant in such a prosecution is entitled, equally with the principal offender, to the protection given by the provision in the 1899 Act corresponding to the proviso in the text (Gould & Co., Ltd. v. Houghton (1920), 85 J. P. 93).

(d) This includes officers of the M. of H. and the Ministry of Agriculture acting as private persons under this section instead of officially under s. 19, ante, p. 2974 (Falconer v. Whyte, [1908] S. C. (J.) 40).

(e) Where the article has been delivered to a purchaser at a place situated in one petty sessional division of a county, the proceedings may be taken in another petty sessional division of the county before justices who usually sit and act in and for that other division (R. v. Beacontree Division of Essex (Justices of), [1915] 3 K. B. 388). As to the limit of time within which proceedings must be taken, see Thomas v. Houghton, [1911] 2 K. B. 959; 75 J. P. 523.

(f) As to what constitutes a second or subsequent offence, see sub-s. (4) and Sched. III.

(g) I.e. under s. 12, ante, p. 2964. The Commissioners must be the prosecutors (s. 12 (2)).

(j) The common form of summons under the S. J. A. usually states the name of the prosecutor laying the information upon which it is issued. (See S. J. Rules, 1886, Schedule of Consolidated Forms, Form No. 2.) It also states shortly the matter of the information, that is, the description of the offence charged, but no objection may, in general, be taken to any summons for any alleged defect therein in substance or in form, see the S. J. A., 1848, s. 1. The express provisions of the present section are not intended to overrule that general enactment. It is founded on the repealed s. 10 of the 1879 Act, which was passed at a time when the common form of summons under the S. J. A., 1848, Sched. A., did not state the name of the prosecutor. It is for the justices to decide whether the summons sufficiently states the particulars of the offence and they cannot be required to state a case on it (R. v. Wakefield (1890), 54 J. P. 148). The omission of the necessary particulars does not deprive the justices of jurisdiction (Grimble & Co. v. Preston, [1914] 1 K. B. 270), but merely entitles the defendant to an adjournment of the hearing in the event of the justices being satisfied that he is prejudiced by the omission (Neal v. Devenish [1894] 1 Q. B. 544; 58 J. P. 246, disapproving Barnes v. Rider (1893), 62 L. J. M. C. 25; 57 J. P. 473) Such an omission is an informality which may be waived by the party charged (Grimble & Co. v. Preston, supra, applied in Haynes v. Davis, [1915] 1 K. B. 332).

(k) Substituted for seven days under the repealed Sale of Food and Drugs Act Amendment Act, 1879, s. 10. Fourteen clear days must elapse between the date of the summons and the date of the return, excluding both those dates from the computation (McQueen v. Jackson, [1903] 2 K. B. 163; 67 J. P. 353).

(l) This subsection is intended to protect a master who had, as in Brown v. Foot, ante, p. 2950, given direct instructions which are disobeyed. Note, however, that it only applies to offences under Part II. of the Act, i.e., ss. 6–12, ante, pp. 2957—2966.

Compare the Bread Act, 1836, s. 13; the Locomotives Act, 1898, s. 13, ante, p. 1067, and the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901, s. 141, ante, p. 2643. It is doubtful whether the other person, if convicted, can, in the absence of express enactment, as in the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901, s. 141, be ordered to pay costs.

Service and evidence of certificates of analysis.

28. (a)—(1) Where a certificate of analysis has been obtained on behalf of a prosecutor, a copy thereof shall be served with the summons (b).

(2) Where a copy of a certificate of a public analyst is intended to be produced by a defendant, a copy thereof shall be sent to the prosecutor at least three clear days before the return day, and if it is not so sent, the court may, if it thinks fit, adjourn the hearing on such terms as may seem proper.

(3) In any proceedings for an offence under the foregoing provisions of this Act, the production by one of the parties of a certificate of a public analyst in the form prescribed by this Act shall be sufficient evidence of the facts stated therein (c) unless the other party requires that the analyst shall be called as a witness (d).

(4) In any proceedings under this Act the part of the sample retained by the person who procured it shall be produced at the hearing (e).

(5) In any proceedings for an offence under the provisions of this Act restricting the importation of articles of food (f), the certificate of the Government Chemist of the result of the analysis shall be sufficient evidence of the facts therein stated unless the defendant requires that the person who made the analysis shall be called as a witness (g).

(6) In any proceedings for any such offence (f), the certificate of the Government Chemist, or if the person who made the analysis is called as a

Section 28. witness, the evidence of that person, that an imported substance is margarine or milk-blended butter shall raise a presumption until the contrary is proved that the substance is margarine or milk-blended butter, and the defendant shall not be entitled to require the person who made the analysis to be called as a witness unless three clear days before the return day he gives notice to the prosecutor that he requires his attendance and deposits with the prosecutor a sum sufficient to cover the reasonable costs and expenses of his attendance, which costs and expenses shall be paid by the defendant in the event of his conviction (h).

(a) This section consolidates s. 21 of the 1875 Act, ss. 1, 19 and 22 of the 1899 Act, and s. 5 of the 1907 Act.

(b) This was a new requirement in the 1899 Act (Batt v. Mattinson (1900), 64 J. P. 615; 82 L. T. 800). It does not go to the jurisdiction of the justices, and it can be waived by the defendant's advocate cross-examining the witnesses for the prosecution. It is then too late for him to take the objection when he is called upon to open his own case (Grimble & Co., Ltd. v. Preston, [1914] 1 K, B. 270; 78 J. P. 72). When the copy of the certificate is not served with the summons, and, on objection being taken on this ground at the hearing, the justices adjourn the hearing, they have jurisdiction to issue a fresh summons on the same information resworn, and when the first summons has been served together with the analyst's certificate to take the second summons first at the adjourned hearing and to hear and determine the same (Williams v. Letheren (1919), 83 J. P. 159). As to the certificate, see s. 17, ante, p. 2971. The analyst's certificate must be obtained by every prosecutor whether private or official. It is not sufficient to make use of a certificate obtained in other proceedings even though they arose out of the same transaction (R. (Barry) v. Mahoney, [1909] 2 I. R. 490; Tyler v. Kingham & Son, Ltd., infra).

A copy of any certificate obtained by the defendant must be served on the prosecutor three days before the return day under sub-s. (2).

Two conflicting certificates in due form will not neutralise each other—the court may choose between them. And if the defendant produces no certificate, yet he may offer evidence to contradict the prosecutor's certificate (Hewitt v. Taylor, [1896] 1 Q. B. 287; 60 J. P. 311). But if the defendant produce no certificate and offer no evidence to contradict the prosecutor's certificate, the justices may act on that and convict—see note (d), infra.

(c) See Austin v. Dunshauglin Guardians, the facts of which are set out, in note (o) to s. 18, ante, p. 2973.

(d) Therefore, if no evidence is tendered by the defendant the magistrate must act on the certificate, and convict (Harrison v. Richards (1881), 45 J. P. 552; Elder v. Dryden (1908), 72 J. P. 355; 99 L. T. 20; Robinson v. Newman (1917), 81 J. P. 187; Kings v. Merris, [1920] 3 K. B. 566; 85 J. P. 68; Chalmers v. M'Meeking, [1921] S. C. (J.) 54). But see Macleod v. O'Neill, ante, p. 2952. And in R. v. Field (1895), 64 L. J. M. C. 158; 11 T. L. R. 240; and Shortt v. Robinson (1899), 68 L. J. Q. B. 352; 63 J. P. 295, it was held that justices might act on their own knowledge in opposition to the certificate, and see Banks v. Wooler, ante, p. 2954, and Preston v. Redfern (1912), 76 J. P. 359; 107 L. T. 410. If the defendant tender himself as a witness he may give evidence to contradict the certificate, although he does not require the analyst to be called as a witness, nor require an analysis by the Government Chemist under s. 31, post. And on such evidence the justices may decide either way as a question of fact whether there has been adulteration or not (Hewitt v. Taylor, [1896] 1 Q. B. 287; 60 J. P. 311). It is not necessary for an inspector to prove that he is a duly authorised officer; so held by CHANNELL and AVORY, JJ., in Ross v. Helm (1913), 77 J. P. 13; 107 L. T. 829.

Under s. 21 of the 1875 Act, it was held that a certificate obtained in respect of margarine sold by a retailer who successfully relied on a defence of warranty to proceedings under s. 6 of the 1875 Act, corresponding to s. 6 (1), ante, was not evidence against the warrant or in proceedings against him under s. 6 of the 1899 Act corresponding to s. 6 (3) (a), ante (Tyler v. Kingham and Son, Ltd., [1900] 2 Q. B. 413; 64 J. P. 598).

(e) In Scotland, it has been held that production of the part retained is a condition precedent to a conviction (Hutchinson v. Stevenson (1903), 4 F. (Just. Cas.) 69. See 67 J. P. 111); but in England it has been held that it is not a condition precedent that such part, if produced, is in a state fit for analysis (Suckling v. Parker, [1906] 1 K. B. 527; 70 J. P. 209). See also Winterbottom v. Allwood and Chalmers v. McMeeking, ante, p. 2973.

(g) See sub-s. (3). In proceedings for an offence under the repealed provision corresponding to s. 12, ante, p. 2964, the certificate of analysis by the principal chemist of the Government laboratories need not follow the form prescribed by s. 17 (3) and Sched. I. (Foot v. Findlay, [1909] 1 K. B. 1; 72 J. P. 494).

Where the analysis shows that the imported substance is margarine or milk-blended butter, special considerations apply, see sub-s. (6).

(h) As to notifying the certificate to the importer in such cases, see s. 20 (3), ante, p. 2974.

Conditions under which warranty may be pleaded as defence.

29. (a)—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, a defendant (b) shall be discharged from the prosecution if he proves to the satisfaction of the court (c)—

(a) in the case of a prosecution under Part II. of this Act for dealing with, selling, exposing or offering for sale or having in his possession for sale margarine, margarine-cheese, or milk-blended butter, that he had purchased the article in question as butter or cheese, as the case may be, and with a written warranty (d) or invoice (e) to that effect, and that he had no reason to believe at the time of the commission of the alleged offence that the article was other than butter or cheese and that, at that time the article was in the same state as when he purchased it; and

(b) in the case of any other prosecution under this Act in respect of the sale of an article, that he had purchased the article in question as the same in nature, substance and quality as that demanded of him by the person to whom he sold the article, and with a written warranty (d) to that effect, and that he had no reason to believe at the time he sold it that it was otherwise; and that he sold the article in the same state as when he purchased it (f).

(2) A warranty or invoice shall only be a defence to proceedings under this Act if—

(a) the defendant has within seven days (g) of the service of the summons sent (h) to the prosecutor a copy of the warranty or invoice with a written notice stating that he intends to rely on it (j) and specifying the name and address of the person from whom he received it and has also sent a like notice of his intention to that person; and

(b) in the case of a warranty or invoice given by a person resident outside the United Kingdom the defendant proves that he had taken reasonable steps to ascertain, and did in fact believe in, the accuracy of the statement contained therein; and

(c) in the case of a prosecution in England or Wales in respect of a sample of milk, the defendant has within sixty hours after the sample was procured served such a notice as is prescribed in paragraph (2) of the Second Schedule to this Act.

(3) The person by whom the warranty or invoice is alleged to have been given shall be entitled to appear at the hearing and to give evidence, and the court may, if it thinks fit, adjourn the hearing to enable him to do so.

(4) Where the defendant is a servant of the person who purchased the article under a warranty or invoice, he shall be entitled to rely on the provisions of this section in the same way as his employer would have been entitled to do if he had been the defendant, provided that the servant further proves that he had no reason to believe that the article was otherwise than that demanded by the prosecutor (k).

(b) Including a joint stock company (Chuter v. Freeth and Pocock, Ltd., [1911] 2 K. B. 832; 75 J. P. 430). And see as to indictment, R. v. Ascanio Puck & Co., Ltd. (1912), 76 J. P. 487; 28 T. L. R. 197, and the Criminal Justice Act, 1925 (15 & 16 Geo. 5, c. 86), s. 33.

(c) The effect of the whole section is to throw on the defendant the burden of disproving intent and knowledge, not to make him liable irrespective of his state of mind (Fitzgerald v. Leonard (1891), 32 L. R. Ir. 675). As to the procedure precedent to pleading warranty

as a defence, see sub-s. (2). As to its application to servants of the party purchasing with the warranty, see sub-s. (4).

(d) An invoice describing an article as lard was held to be a description and not a warranty (Rook v. Hopley (1878), 3 Ex. D. 209; 42 J. P. 551). Invoices are expressly mentioned in sub-paragraph (a) of this sub-section. And it was decided in Hawkins v. Williams (1895), 11 T. L. R. 425; 59 J. P. 533, that an invoice may be evidence of a warranty given at the time of sale; and see Irving v. Callow Park Dairy Co., Ltd. (1902), 66 J. P. 804; 87 L. T. 70. A written contract to supply new and pure milk for six months will not protect the vendor under this section in respect of subsequent deliveries during the six months in the absence of any evidence in writing that the delivery was a delivery under the contract (Harris v. May (1883), 12 Q. B. D. 97; 48 J. P. 261). This decision was dissented from in Elliot v. Pilcher, [1901] 2 K. B. 817; 65 J. P. 743, but was followed in Watts v. Stevens, [1906] 2 K. B. 323; 70 J. P. 418, where it was held that in the absence of any evidence in writing connecting the particular milk sold with the warranty, the warranty afforded no defence.

Lard was bought in skins from the manufacturers stamped with the words "warranted pure," and was sold in the same state, but this was held no sufficient warranty (Elder v. Smithson (1893), 57 J. P. 809; 10 T. L. R. 61). But where a firm of lard manufacturers contracted in writing for the sale of lard to the defendant in these terms: "We have this day sold you three tons Kilvert's pure lard for delivery to end of January," and a parcel of lard was accordingly consigned to the defendant under an invoice describing it, in the words of the contract, as "Kilvert's pure bladdered lard," and part of that parcel was sold by him in the same state as it was in when he bought it, as and for lard; but it was found on analysis to be adulterated, it was held that the written contract and invoice contained a sufficient warranty (Laidlaw v. Wilson, [1894] 1 Q. B. 74; 58 J. P. 58). This case was followed in Elliot v. Pilcher, and Watts v. Stevens, supra. So, also, where the defendant bought from G. & Co. a cask of vinegar bearing a printed label "Vinegar, warranted unadulterated—G. & Co., Limited, Cumberland Market, London," it was held a sufficient warranty (Lindsay v. Rook (1894), 63 L. J. M. C. 231; 58 J. P. 735).

But where the appellant sold ginger out of a tin canister bearing the manufacturer's label, "Warranted pure ground ginger," and proved that he bought it from a wholesale dealer (not the manufacturer) in the same state as when he sold it, the invoice also stating it to be ground ginger, it was held that there was no sufficient warranty within this section, and that in order to constitute a warranty there must be some express individual representation in writing by the vendor as part of the bargain (Jiorns v. Van Tromp (1895), 64 L. J. M. C. 171; 59 J. P. 246). See, however, Hawkins v. Williams (1895), 59 J. P. 533; 11 T. L. R. 425. If the defendant relies on a warranty given to him by the person from whom he bought the article he must prove that he sold it in the same state as when he received it, and it is not enough for him to say that he had no reason to believe it had been adulterated whilst in his possession (Jones v. Bertram (1894), 58 J. P. 478; 10 T. L. R. 285).

Milk was consigned to the F. Dairies Company by railway in cans bearing labels which stated that the contents were "warranted genuine new milk with all its cream on. From R. T."; and there was a written agreement between the F. Dairies Company and R. T. whereby he contracted to supply them for six months with milk warranted pure and with all its cream on. H., a servant of the Company, did not test the milk on receiving it, though he had an instrument for the purpose, and frequently tested milk when so received by him:—Held: that this section was not applicable, and that even if it would have entitled H. to be discharged from the proceedings he had not established that, at the time when he sold the milk, he had no reason to believe that its quality was otherwise than as demanded of him by the respondent (Hotchin v. Hindmarsh, [1891] 2 Q. B. 181; 55 J. P. 775).

The addition to a warranty of the words "but without accepting any responsibility after delivery," does not affect the warranty so as to make it unavailable as a defence under this section (Wilson v. Playle (1903), 67 J. P. 263; 88 L. T. 554, followed in Plowright v. Burrell, [1913] 2 K. B. 362; 77 J. P. 245).

S., an inspector, charged F. with unlawfully selling milk not of the substance, etc. demanded. The milk was found to have 20 per cent. of fat extracted. The defence of F. was that he had a contract for supplying pure milk, and the milk had been sold in the same state in which it was received. The contract was to supply F. with 100 gallons daily of the best milk, and the vendor warranted the quality of such milk. Each churn when delivered had a label describing it as genuine new milk:—Held: that the magistrate was wrong in treating the contract and label to be a description only, as it was a warranty within the meaning of the Act, and a valid defence (Farmers' Dairies Co. v. Stevenson (1891), 60 L. J. M. C. 70; 55 J. P. 407). But in a very similar case, except that there were no labels to identify the milk as delivered under the contract containing the clause for the supply of new and pure milk, it was held that there was no proof that the milk was purchased with the warranty, assuming the clause in the contract to amount to a warranty in respect of the future deliveries (Robertson v. Harris, [1900] 2 Q. B. 117; 64 J. P. 565). Farmers'

Note to Section 29.

Dairies Co. v. Stevenson, supra, was followed in Watts v. Stevens, ante, p. 2982. The latter case was discussed in Evans v. Weatheritt, [1907] 2 K. B. 80; 71 J. P. 228, the facts of which were as follows: A dairyman contracted with a dairy company to purchase from them the whole of the milk required for his dairy for twelve months, all the milk being warranted pure with all its cream as received from the cow. Nine months afterwards a consignment of milk was delivered by the company under the contract with a delivery note giving the date and the name of the company as consignors. A portion of milk was sold by the dairyman to the respondent, and on analysis was found to be deficient in milk fat by 28 per cent. On a prosecution of the dairyman under s. 9 of the 1875 Act, corresponding to s. 5, ante, p. 2957, for selling milk in its altered state, he relied on the contract with the company as a warranty under this section. It was held that as by the terms of the contract he was bound to take all his milk from the company, there was a sufficient connection in writing between the particular consignment and the warranty to constitute the warranty a defence.

The cases of Watts v. Stevens and Evans v. Weatheritt were followed in Draper v. Newnham (1910), 74 J. P. 124; 102 L. T. 280. The respondent was summoned under s. 6 of the 1875 Act, corresponding to s. 2 (1), ante, p. 2949, and he proved that the milk in question had been supplied to him by a farmer who had for several years supplied him under a verbal contract with all the milk required by him. In September, 1908, the farmer had given him the following written warranty: "I hereby guarantee and warrant that all milk supplied by me to you is of the nature, quality and substance demanded by law, and I give this warranty for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899." The justices found that this document was intended by both parties to cover the delivery of the milk in question and that it did cover such delivery. The Divisional Court held that in these circumstances there was a sufficient warranty within this section.

In another case the respondent had purchased the milk from a dairy company under an agreement which contained a clause stating that the company "purchase all milk sold by them under a warranty of its purity from the farmers and agree to put the same on rail, thoroughly well cooled over a refrigerator, and guarantee it as such up to the time of delivery." It was held that the above clause constituted a warranty within the section (Jackling v. Carter (1912), 76 J. P. 292; 107 L. T. 24).

In answer to a summons under s. 6 of the 1875 Act, corresponding to s. 2 (1), ante, p. 2949, the defendant set up a warranty contained in a contract by which his vendor, E., agreed to supply to the defendant milk supplied to E., by one B., in the same condition as received and as warranted by him, namely, pure, new, unskimmed milk. In a label which was attached to the milk in question and was addressed to E., were the words "Warranted pure new and unskimmed milk." The defendant, as agent for E., received at a railway station the particular milk in question which was consigned from B. to E. It was held that whether the label was or was not a warranty within s. 25 of the Act, corresponding to this subsection, such a warranty was contained in the contract between E. and the defendant, and the label constituted a sufficient connection between the particular consignment and the warranty, and therefore the defendant could not be convicted (Rees v. Davis (1908), 72 J. P. 375; 24 T. L. R. 735). And where there has been a written contract for a fixed period between a seller and a purchaser of milk, that the seller will supply milk daily to the purchaser, and the seller in the contract warrants the milk as pure, and the contract having come to an end, the seller continues to supply the purchaser with milk, to each churn of which is attached a written warranty of purity with the names of the two parties to the sale thereon, the purchaser, having resold the milk as pure milk, can rely on the defence under this section that he has purchased the milk as the same in nature, substance and quality as that demanded of him by the prosecutor, and with a written warranty to that effect (Lewis v. Weatheritt (1909), 73 J. P. 164; 100 L. T. 367).

In Sanders v. Sadler (1907), 71 J. P. 3; 95 L. T. 872, the defendant had entered into a written contract for the purchase of "16 gallons of pure new milk with all its cream delivered daily carriage paid to Wanstead Park Station," and whilst this contract was in force the churns arrived at that station consigned to the defendant from a station in Derbyshire, and labelled "Warranted pure new milk with all its cream, pursuant to contract." The churns remained at Wanstead Park Station for nearly an hour, and were then taken away by defendant to her dairy, and proved by her to have been sold in the same state as when she received it at Wanstead Park Station:—Held, that she was thereby discharged under s. 25 of the 1875 Act corresponding to this sub-section. Cf. Pugh v. Williams (1917), 81 J. P. 159.

A dairyman entered into an agreement to purchase "new milk" from a dairy company. The churns in which the milk was delivered bore a label with the words "Guaranteed pure unskimmed milk with all its cream." It was held that as the agreement contained no warranty, and as there was no term in the agreement that a written warranty should accompany the goods and nothing to connect the label with the stipulations in the agreement, there was no warranty within this section (Dewey v. Faulkner, [1923] 1 K. B. 315; 87 J. P. 45).

Note to Section 29.

Although a written warranty has been in fact given, the defence of warranty is not available unless such warranty has been given at the time of the purchase or has been given at a later date in pursuance of a stipulation forming part of the contract of purchase, that such warranty should be given (Jeynes v. Hindle, [1921] 2 K. B. 581; 85 J. P. 121).

The warranty must be a warranty in writing from the vendor and not from a third person verbally adopted by the vendor (Hargreaves v. Spackman (1908), 72 J. P. 52; 98 L. T. 41).

As to the right of action on an implied warranty under s. 14 of the Sale of Goods Act, 1893, see Wallis v. Russell, [1902] 2 I. R. 585; Wren v. Holt, [1903] 1 K. B. 610; 67 J. P. 191; Preist v. Last, [1903] 2 K. B. 148; Frost v. Aylesbury Dairy Co., [1905] 1 K. B. 608.

(e) Note that an invoice may be relied on under this sub-paragraph, under the next sub-paragraph an invoice is evidence only of a warranty, see Hawkins v. Williams, in note (d), ante, p. 2982.

(f) The addition of boric acid to milk before sale will prevent the vendor from relying on the warranty defence because it is not sold in the same state was when it was purchased (Hennen v. Long (1904), 68 J. P. 237; 90 L. T. 387). See s. 7 (2), ante, p. 2961, as to the use of preservatives in butter, etc., and the P. H. (Preservatives, etc. in Food) Regulations referred to in note (h) to s. 1, ante, p. 2949. For a case where on the facts it was held that there was no evidence that the appellants were aware that the article sold was not of the nature, substance, and quality demanded (Blaydon Co-operative Society v. Young (1916), 80 J. P. 451).

(g) The words " within seven days " apply solely to the sending of the written notice to the purchaser, and not to the sending of the notice to the warrantor (Marcus v. Crook, [1914] 3 K. B. 173).

(h) It is sufficient if it is posted within the required time even if it does not reach the purchaser until after the seven days have elapsed (Retail Dairy Co., Ltd. v. Clarke, [1912] 2 K. B. 388; 76 J. P. 282).

(j) The section means that if the defendant intends to rely on a warranty he must send a copy of the warranty, but if he intends to rely on an invoice, he must send a copy of the invoice. In either case there must be a copy of that which entitled the defendant to believe the article was the same in nature, substance, and quality as the article demanded by the purchaser (Farthing v. Parkinson (1905), 68 J. P. 353; 90 L. T. 783).

(k) This sub-section overrules the decision in Hotchin v. Hindmarsh, [1891] 2 Q. B. 181; 55 J. P. 775, so far as it decided that a servant could not avail himself of the warranty defence. The word " otherwise " in this sub-section means " other in nature or substance or quality."

False warranties and certificates.

30. (a)—(1) Every person (b) who wilfully applies to an article of food, or drug, in any proceedings under this Act, a certificate or warranty given in relation to any other article of food or drug, or who wilfully gives a label with any article of food or drug sold by him which falsely describes the article sold, shall be guilty of an offence (c).

(2) Every person (b) who, in respect of an article of food or drug sold by him as principal or agent, gives to the purchaser a false warranty in writing, shall be guilty of an offence (c), unless he proves to the satisfaction of the court that when he gave the warranty he had reason to believe that the statements or descriptions contained therein were true (d).

(3) Where the defendant in a prosecution under this Act has been discharged under the provisions of this Act relating to warranties, any proceedings under this section for giving the warranty relied on by the defendant in the prosecution, may be taken as well before a court having jurisdiction in the place where the article of food or drug to which the warranty relates was purchased for analysis as before a court having jurisdiction in the place where the warranty was given (e).

(b) This includes a joint stock company (Chuter v. Freeth and Pocock, Ltd., [1911] 2 K. B. 832; 75 J. P. 430). And see a similar case decided under the P. H. (London) A., 1891, s. 47; R. v. Ascanio Puck & Co. and Paice (1912), 76 J. P. 487; 29 T. L. R. 11. As to indictments of corporations, see the Criminal Justice Act, 1925 (15 & 16 Geo. 5, c. 86), s. 33.

(c) As to the penalties for offences, their recovery and application, see s. 27, ante, p. 2977, and s. 32, post, p. 2985.

(d) It will be seen that the onus is on the defendant to prove that when he gave the warranty he had reason to believe that the statements or descriptions contained therein were true. If he proves that, he is entitled to be acquitted (Oatley v. Lemon (1905), 69

J. P. 163 ; 92 L. T. 200). Formerly he was entitled to be acquitted if he did not at that time know and had no reason to believe they were false (Derbyshire v. Houliston, [1897] 1 Q. B. 772 ; 61 J. P. 374). The issue which the justices have to determine is not whether the defendants "took steps to see that the milk was all right, but whether they had reason to believe that it was all right," per Lord Alverstone, C.J., in Dairy Supply Co., Ltd. v. Houghton (1912), 76 J. P., at p. 45 ; 106 L. T. 220.

Note to Section 30.

Proceedings for false warranty must be commenced within six months from the date when the warranty was given, not from the date when it was first discovered to be false (Whitaker v. Pomfret, [1902] 1 K. B. 661 ; 66 J. P. 408). But when a warranty is given in regard to a contract to supply milk for an indefinite future period, and some time thereafter milk is supplied which is not in accordance with the warranty, the time runs from the date of the particular consignment and not from that on which the warranty was given (Thomas, Ltd. v. Houghton, [1911] 2 K. B. 959 ; 75 J. P. 523).

Where an article of food is sent to a purchaser with a written warranty, proceedings for the falsity of the warranty may be taken under this sub-section, before justices having jurisdiction in the place where the warranty was received by the purchaser, although it may have been written and attached to the goods in a place otuside their jurisdiction (Grimble & Co., Ltd. v. Preston, ante, p. 2979). See sub-s. (3).

Appellants manufactured an article called "Rum and Butter Toffee," and supplied it to a confectioner with a warranty, and on analysis it was found to contain rum, butter and coconut fat. On a summons against appellants for giving a false warranty, the justices convicted. On a case stated Avory and Branson, JJ. (Talbot, J. dissente), held that the description "butter toffee" implied that no fat except butter was used in the manufacture, and therefore the conviction must be affirmed (Riley Bros. (Halifax), Ltd. v. Hallimond (1928), 44 T. L. R. 238).

(e) It had been held that where neither the sale, nor the delivery was made, nor the warranty was given, nor any sample taken in course of delivery, within the jurisdiction of the court before which an information for false warranty was preferred, that court had no jurisdiction (R. v. Smith, [1896] 1 Q. B. 596 ; 60 J. P. 372). The present sub-section settles the question of jurisdiction. In cases where the sale and delivery take place and the warranty is given outside the jurisdiction of the court proceedings for false warranty cannot be taken unless the person to whom the warranty was given is the person from whom the article in question was purchased for analysis (Manners v. Tyler, [1902] 1 K. B. 901 ; 66 J. P. 866).

Power of court to require analysis by Government Chemist.

31 (a). The court before which any proceedings are taken, or an appeal heard, under this Act may, if it thinks fit and shall upon the request of either party, cause any article of food or drug to be sent to the Government Chemist who shall make an analysis, and give a certificate of the result of the analysis ; and the expense of such analysis shall be paid by the prosecutor or the defendant as the court may by order direct (b).

(a) This section reproduces s. 22 of the 1875 Act as amended by s. 21 of the 1899 Act, and s. 23 of the Finance Act, 1921.

(b) The Government Chemist's address is the Government Laboratory, 13, Clements Inn Passage, Strand, W.C.2.

It was held by the Court of Session in Scotland that the reference in this section to the chemical officers of Somerset House (the predecessors of the Government Chemist) is for the purpose of obtaining the result of their analysis merely, and that, therefore, their opinion as to what is the minimum percentage of fat to be found in new milk cannot be received as evidence (Dargie v. Dunbar (1884), 11 Ct. of Sess. Cas. (4th ser.) (J. C.) 37). See also per Channell, J., in Shortt v. Robinson (1899), 68 L. J. Q. B. 352 ; 63 J. P. 295. The certificate of the Government Chemist is not conclusive if there is substantial evidence to the contrary of the opinion contained in the certificate. See Fyfe v. Hamilton (1894), 1 Adam, 484 ; Todd v. Cochrane (1901), 3 Adam, 357.

Application of fines.

32 (a). Any fine recovered under this Act—

(a) in the case of a prosecution by a sampling officer of the Food and Drugs Authority (b), shall be paid to that officer, to be accounted for by him to the authority and applied towards the expenses of the authority under this Act ;

(b) in the case of any other prosecution, shall be paid and applied in accordance with the law regulating the application of fines for offences punishable summarily (c) :

Provided that any part of a fine recovered in respect of an offence under Part II. of this Act may, if the court so directs, be paid to the prosecutor to reimburse him for the costs of obtaining the analysis and any other reasonable expenses to which the court considers him entitled (d).

(a) This section consolidates s. 26 of the 1875 Act, s. 11 of the 1887 Act, and s. 11 (2) of the 1907 Act.

(b) See as to who are such officers, s. 16 (1), ante, p. 2967.

(c) As to this allocation, see s. 5 of the Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 58).

(d) This proviso applies only to private prosecutors. As to public prosecutors, see the sub-paragraph (a). See also R. v. Titterton, ex parte Quelch, [1895] 2 Q. B. 61 ; 59 J. P. 327.

Saving for contracts.

33 (a). Nothing in this Act, save as otherwise expressly provided, shall affect any contract or any rights or remedies belonging to the parties thereto (b) :

Provided that in any action brought by any person for a breach of contract on the sale of any article of food or of any drug, he may recover either alone or in addition to any damages recoverable by him the amount of any fine to which he may have been sentenced in respect of the transaction, together with any costs incurred by him in or about his defence, if he proves that the article of food or drug the subject of the transaction was sold to him as and for an article of food or drug of the same nature, substance, and quality as that demanded from him, and that he purchased it not knowing it to be otherwise and afterwards sold it in the same state in which he purchased it, so, however, that the defendant in the action shall be at liberty to prove that the conviction was wrongful or that the amount of costs incurred was unreasonable.

(b) As to the meaning of "pure" butter in a trade contract, it was held in Roose v. Perry & Co. (1900), 44 Sol. J. 503, that butter to which a small quantity of boracic acid had been added as a preservative might be "pure" butter. See, however, s. 7 (2), ante, p. 2961, as to the use of preservatives in butter, etc.

PART V.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Definitions.

34 (a). In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires—

The expression "food" includes every article used for food or drink by man, other than drugs or water, and any article which ordinarily enters into or is used in the composition or preparation of human food, and also includes flavouring matters and condiments (b) :

The expression "drug" includes medicine for internal or external use (c) :

The expression "butter" means the substance usually known as butter, made exclusively from milk or cream, or both, with or without salt or other preservative, and with or without the addition of colouring matter :

The expression "cheese" means the substance usually known as cheese, containing no fat derived otherwise than from milk :

The expression "margarine" means any article of food, whether mixed with butter or not, which resembles butter and is not milk-blended butter (d) :

The expression "margarine-cheese" means any substance, whether compound or otherwise, which is prepared in imitation of cheese, and which contains fat not derived from milk :

The expression "milk-blended butter" means any mixture produced by mixing or blending butter with milk or cream other than condensed milk or cream :

The expression "importer" includes any person who, whether as owner, consignor or consignee, agent or broker, is in possession of, or in anywise entitled to the custody or control of, the article.

(a) This section consolidates s. 2 of the 1875 Act, s. 3 of the 1887 Act, ss. 1, 25 and 26 of the 1899 Act, and ss. 1 and 13 (1) of the 1907 Act.

(b) By the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, s. 2, the term "food" was defined merely to include every article used for food or drink by man other than drugs or water, and it was held that baking powder was not food (Warren v. Phillips (1881), 44 J. P. 61 ; James v. Jones, [1894] 1 Q. B. 304 ; 58 J. P. 230). The present definition appears to overrule those decisions. It was also held that chewing gum is not food (Shortt v. Smith (1895), 59 J. P. 213 ; 11 T. L. R. 326 ; Bennett v. Tyler (1900), 64 J. P. 119 ; 81 L. T. 787), and it seems that these decisions still hold good. The principle seems to be that food must in every case be a substance, eaten or drunk so as to be received into the stomach and capable thereby of affording nourishment to some extent.

(d) The Act of 1887 defined "margarine" as meaning all substances, whether compounds or otherwise, prepared in imitation of butter, and whether mixed with butter or not, and no such substance shall be lawfully sold, except under the name of margarine, and under the conditions set forth in this Act. It was held that this definition of margarine did not authorise the adulteration of margarine with water so as to preclude any conviction under s. 6 of the 1875 Act (now s. 2, ante, p. 2949), for selling to the prejudice of the purchaser margarine not of the nature, substance, and quality demanded (Burton v. Mattinson (1902), 66 J. P. 628 ; 86 L. T. 770). It was held also that butter blended with milk so that it contains an excess of water did not become margarine within the meaning of this definition. Therefore a vendor of such milk-blended butter could not be convicted under s. 8 of the 1899 Act (now s. 6 (2), ante, p. 2958), for selling margarine containing more than 10 per cent. of butter fat, because the sale of butter blended with milk was lawful if sold as such (Bayley v. Pearks, Gunston and Tee, Ltd. (1902), 66 J. P. 790 ; 87 L. T. (N.S.) 67).

The definition of "margarine" in the text includes any substance prepared in imitation of butter although it contains no animal fat and was unknown when the Act of 1887 was passed (Wilkinson v. Alton (1908), 72 J. P. 252 ; 99 L. T. 119).

Sections 21 and 29.

SECOND SCHEDULE (a).

SPECIAL PROVISIONS AS TO MILK.

(1) Where a sample of milk is procured from a purveyor of milk, he shall, on being required to do so by the person by whom or on whose behalf the sample was taken state the name and address of the seller or consignor from whom he received the milk.

(2) The local authority in whose district the sample was taken, may take or cause to be taken one or more samples of milk in course of transit or delivery from such seller or consignor.

Within sixty hours after the sample of milk was procured from the purveyor he may serve on the local authority a notice stating the name and address of the seller from whom he received the milk and the time and place of delivery to the purveyor by the seller or consignor of milk from a corresponding milking, and requesting them to take immediate steps to procure, as soon as practicable, a sample of milk in the course of transit or delivery from the seller or consignor to the purveyor, unless a sample has been so taken since the sample was procured from the purveyor, or within twenty-four hours prior to the sample being procured from the purveyor:

Provided that the purveyor shall not have any such right to require that such a sample shall be taken in cases where the milk from which the sample procured from the purveyor was taken was a mixture of milk obtained by the purveyor from more than one seller or consignor.

If a purveyor has served on the local authority such a notice as aforesaid, and the local authority have not procured a sample of milk from the seller or consignor in accordance with the foregoing provisions, no proceedings under this Act shall be taken against the purveyor in respect of the sample of milk procured from him.

(3) Any sample of milk so taken in the course of transit or delivery shall be submitted for analysis to the analyst to whom the sample procured from the purveyor is or was submitted.

(4) If proceedings are taken against the purveyor of milk, a copy of the certificate of the result of the analysis of every sample so taken in the course of transit or delivery shall be furnished to the purveyor, and every such certificate shall, subject to the provisions of section twenty-eight of this Act, be sufficient evidence of the facts stated therein, and shall be admissible as evidence on any question whether the milk sold by the purveyor was sold in the same state as he purchased it.

(5) The local authority of the district in which the first-mentioned sample was taken may, instead of, or in addition to, taking proceedings against the purveyor of milk, take proceedings against the seller or consignor.

(6) If a sample of milk of cows in any dairy is taken in course of transit or delivery from that dairy, the owner of the cows may, within sixty hours after the sample of milk was procured, serve on the local authority a notice requesting them to take immediate steps to procure as soon as practicable a sample of milk from a corresponding milking of the cows, and the foregoing provisions shall apply accordingly:

Provided that the person taking the sample shall be empowered to take any such steps at the dairy as may be necessary to satisfy him that the sample is a fair sample of the milk of the cows when properly and fully milked.

(7) For the purposes of this Schedule expressions have the same meaning as in the Milk and Dairies (Consolidation) Act, 1915.

(a) This Schedule reproduces Sched. III. to the Milk and Dairies (Consolidation) Act, 1915. That Act is set out at p. 1217, ante.

THIRD SCHEDULE (a).

Section 27.

Rules for determining whether Offences are Second or Subsequent Offences.

1. Any offence under section six or section eight of this Act (except an offence under paragraph (d) of subsection (3) of section six, or an offence under section six so far as it relates to milk-blended butter or an offence under subsection (3) of section eight) shall, in relation to any other offence under either of those sections except as aforesaid be deemed to be a second or subsequent offence.

2. Any offence under paragraph (d) of subsection (3) of section six. or under section six so far as it relates to milk-blended butter, or under subsection (4) of section seven, subsection (3) of section eight, section ten or section eleven of this Act, shall, in relation to any other offence under any of the said provisions, be deemed to be a second or subsequent offence.

3. Save as aforesaid, an offence under this Act shall not be deemed to be a second or subsequent offence unless the former offence or offences were an offence or offences under the same provision of this Act.

PETROLEUM (CONSOLIDATION) ACT, 1928.

(18 & 19 GEO. 5, c. 32.)

An Act to consolidate the enactments relating to petroleum and to petroleum-spirit (a). [3rd August, 1928.]

Licences for Keeping Petroleum-Spirit.

Petroleum-spirit not to be kept without a licence.

1.—(1) (b) Subject to the provisions of this Act, petroleum-spirit (c) shall not be kept (d) unless a petroleum-spirit licence (e) is in force under this Act authorising the keeping thereof and the petroleum-spirit is kept in accordance with such conditions, if any, as may be attached to the licence:

Provided that the foregoing provision shall not apply to any petroleum-spirit kept either for private use or for sale so long as—

(a) it is kept in separate glass, earthenware, or metal vessels, securely stopped and containing not more than one pint each; and

(b) the aggregate amount kept would not, if the whole contents of the vessels were in bulk, exceed three gallons.

(2) (f) The occupier of any premises in which petroleum-spirit is kept in contravention of this section shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which the contravention occurs or continues, and the court before whom any person is convicted under this subsection may order that the petroleum-spirit, in respect of which the contravention occurs, and any vessel in which it is contained be forfeited or otherwise dealt with in such manner as the court thinks fit (g).

(3) (h) If any person to whom a petroleum-spirit licence (j) is granted contravenes any condition of the licence, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which the contravention occurs or continues.

(c) See the definition in s. 23, post, p. 3005.

(d) This was held to apply to keeping petroleum in a cart for the purpose of being hawked (Coleman v. Goldsmith (1879), 43 J. P. 718). But see now s. 6, post, p. 2993, and the Petroleum Spirit (Conveyance) Regulations, 1926, in App. II. at p. 3628, post, made under the corresponding repealed provision of the Petroleum Act, 1926. By s. 5 of the Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896, the keeping and use of petroleum or of any other inflammable liquid or fuel for the purpose of light locomotives, shall be subject to regulations made by a Secretary of State, and regulations so made shall have effect notwithstanding anything in the Petroleum Acts, 1871–1881. Section 5 of the 1896 Act was repealed by the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928, and is now re-enacted in s. 10, post, p. 2996. The Petroleum Spirit (Motor Vehicles, etc.) Regulations, 1929, made thereunder are set out in App. II., at p. 3636, post. Petroleum kept for fuel for light locomotives if kept in accordance with these regulations need not also be kept in accordance with the provisions of this Act (Godfrey v. Napier (1902), 18 T. L. R. 31).

(f) This sub-section reproduces s. 6 (2) and (3) of the Petroleum Act, 1926.

(g) Until the passing of the 1926 Act, petroleum spirit in respect of which an offence was committed was automatically forfeited; forfeiture is now left to the discretion of the court.

(h) This sub-section reproduces s. 7 (1) of the Petroleum Act, 1926.

(j) Licences are granted under s. 2, post, p. 2991. As to the imposition of conditions on the grant of a licence, see sub-s. (3), ibid. Prior to the passing of the 1926 Act a licensee who violated any of the conditions of his licence was to be deemed an unlicensed person. The provision in the text makes the contravention of a condition an offence, but does not affect the validity of the licence.

Section 2.

Provisions as to licences.

2.—(1) (a) The local authority empowered under this Act to grant petroleum-spirit licences shall be—

(a) in the County of London, except the City of London, the county council:

(b) in the City of London, the common council of the City of London:

(c) elsewhere, the district council:

Provided that in any harbour (b) within the jurisdiction of a harbour authority (b), whether situate or not within the jurisdiction of any local authority hereinbefore mentioned, the harbour authority shall be the local authority for granting petroleum-spirit licences to the exclusion of any other local authority.

(2) (c) A petroleum-spirit licence may (d) be granted by a local authority so as to be in force for such time, and subject to such provisions as to renewal, as the local authority think necessary.

(3) (c) A local authority may attach to any petroleum-spirit licence such conditions (e) as they think expedient, as to the mode of storage, the nature and situation of the premises in which, and the nature of the goods with which, petroleum-spirit is to be stored, the facilities for the testing of petroleum-spirit from time to time, and generally as to the safe-keeping of petroleum-spirit.

(4) (f) Where conditions to be observed by persons employed are attached to any petroleum-spirit licence, the occupier of the premises to which the licence relates shall cause to be kept posted on the premises, in such form and in such position as to be easily read by the persons employed on the premises, a notice setting out those conditions, and

(a) if the occupier of any premises fails to comply with the foregoing requirements of this subsection, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds for every day on which the failure occurs or continues; and

(b) if any person pulls down, injures, or defaces any notice posted in accordance with the requirements of this subsection, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds; and

(c) If any person employed contravenes any condition of which notice has been given in accordance with the requirements of this subsection he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds (g).

(a) This sub-section reproduces s. 8 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, as amended by the various Acts reconstituting local authorities.

(b) As to the meaning of "harbour" and "harbour authority," see s. 23, post, p. 3005.

(c) Sub-sections (2) and (3) are reproduced from s. 9 of the Petroleum Act, 1871.

(d) Local authorities have a discretion in granting a licence, but an appeal lies to the Home Secretary under s. 3, post, p. 2992, from their refusal to grant a licence. As to the fees payable in respect of licences, see s. 4 and Sched. I., post, pp. 2992, 3007.

(e) Any conditions imposed must relate to the subjects specified in this clause. An appeal lies to the Home Secretary under s. 3, post, p. 2992, against any condition. As to the penalty for breach of a condition, see s. 1 (3), ante, p. 2990. See also the next sub-section as to the publication of conditions.

(f) This sub-section reproduces s. 7 (2) of the Petroleum Act, 1926.

(g) In order to ensure that any conditions attached to a licence which require to be observed by persons employed on the licensed premises are brought to the knowledge of such person and observed by them, the provision in the text imposes an obligation upon the occupier of licensed premises to post up a notice setting out the conditions, and renders employed persons liable to penalties for any breach of such conditions; no penalty can, however, be imposed on an employed person for a breach of the condition unless such notice has been given.

Appeals from refusals by local authorities to grant licences.

3 (a).—(1) If on any application for a petroleum-spirit licence a local authority refuse to grant the licence, or grant the licence on conditions with which the applicant is dissatisfied, the local authority shall, if required by the applicant so to do, deliver to him a certificate in writing signed by the clerk or secretary of the local authority stating the grounds on which the authority has refused the licence or attached the conditions, as the case may be, and the applicant may appeal to the Secretary of State within ten days after the receipt of the certificate or within such further time as the Secretary of State may allow.

(2) Every appeal to the Secretary of State under this section shall be made in writing asking that the licence may be granted notwithstanding the refusal of the local authority, or that the conditions may not be attached or may be modified in such manner and to such extent as may be set forth in the appeal, and shall be accompanied by the certificate of the local authority given under the last foregoing subsection, and on consideration of any such appeal the Secretary of State may, if he thinks fit, grant the licence either without conditions or subject to such conditions as he thinks proper or may modify the conditions attached by the local authority, and any licence so granted or modified shall be in force for such time and be subject to such provisions as to renewal as may be specified in the licence, and shall, when certified under the hand of the Secretary of State, have effect as if granted by a local authority (b).

(3) Before exercising his powers under the last foregoing subsection with respect to any appeal, the Secretary of State may, if he thinks it necessary or desirable, cause an inquiry and report upon the matter to be made to him by such person as he may appoint for the purpose.

Fees payable for licences.

4 (a). In respect of every petroleum-spirit licence granted by a local authority (b) or by the Secretary of State (c) under this Act, fees shall be payable to the local authority or to the Secretary of State, as the case may be, by the person to whom the licence is granted, at the rates shown in the scale set out in the First Schedule to this Act or such lower scale as the Secretary of State may, with the consent of the Treasury, prescribe by regulations.

Labelling of Vessels containing Petroleum-Spirit.

Provisions as to the labelling of vessels containing petroleum-spirit.

5.—(1) (a) Subject as hereinafter provided, where any petroleum-spirit (b)—

(a) is kept (c) at any place; or (b) is sent or conveyed (d) between any two places in Great Britain; or (c) is sold or exposed or offered for sale;

there shall be attached to, or, where that is impracticable, displayed near (e) the vessel containing the petroleum-spirit, a label showing, in conspicuous characters, the words "Petroleum-Spirit" and the words "Highly Inflammable," and—

(i) in the case of petroleum-spirit kept, the name and address of the consignee or owner:
(ii) in the case of petroleum-spirit sent or conveyed, the name and address of the sender;

(iii) in the case of petroleum-spirit sold or exposed or offered for sale, the name and address of the vendor :

Provided that, for the purposes of the foregoing provisions—

(a) petroleum-spirit shall not be deemed to be kept during the seven days next after it has been imported ; and

(b) petroleum-spirit carried on any motor vehicle, ship, or aircraft, but intended to be used only for the purposes thereof shall not be deemed to be conveyed (f).

(2) (g) Any person who keeps, sends, conveys, sells, or exposes or offers for sale any petroleum-spirit in contravention of this section shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five pounds, and the court before whom any person is convicted in respect of any such contravention may order that the petroleum-spirit, in respect of which the contravention occurs, and any vessel in which it is contained be forfeited or otherwise dealt with in such manner as the court thinks fit (h).

(c) See proviso (i) to this sub-section, restricting the meaning of "kept."

(d) In the repealed provision the words "by land or water" were inserted after conveyed, and although these words were repealed by the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928, they would still appear to be applicable. See the restriction on the meaning of the word "conveyed" in proviso (ii) to this sub-section. Regulations may be made under s. 6, infra, regulating the conveyance of petroleum spirit by road (see the Petroleum-Spirit (Conveyance) Regulations, 1926, in App. II., post, p. 3628, made under the corresponding repealed provision). As to the carriage of petroleum spirit in ships, see ss. 7 and 8, post, and on canals, s. 9, post.

(e) The provision requiring the display of a label near to the vessel where an attached label is impracticable was new in the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928.

(f) This provision was new in the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928.

(g) This sub-section is reproduced from s. 6 (1) of the Petroleum Act, 1926.

(h) Prior to the 1926 Act, petroleum-spirit in respect of which an offence was committed was automatically forfeited ; forfeiture is now left to the discretion of the Court.

Transport of Petroleum-Spirit.

Regulations as to the conveyance of petroleum-spirit by road.

6 (a).—(1) The Secretary of State may make regulations (b) as to the conveyance of petroleum-spirit by road and for protecting persons or property from danger in connection with such conveyance, and in particular—

(a) for regulating the description and construction of vehicles to be used in the conveyance of petroleum-spirit by road :

(b) for prohibiting or subjecting to conditions and restrictions the conveyance by road of petroleum-spirit with any explosive, or with any articles or substances, or in passenger vehicles :

(c) for prescribing the quantity of petroleum-spirit which may be conveyed at one time or in one vehicle :

(d) for prescribing the precautions to be observed in the conveyance of petroleum-spirit by road, and in loading and unloading vehicles used in such conveyance, and the time during which the petroleum-spirit may be kept during such conveyance, loading, and unloading as aforesaid :

(e) for the publication and supply of copies of the regulations :

(f) adapting, on good cause being shown, the regulations in force under this section to the circumstances of any particular locality :

(g) the enforcement of the regulations in any district by the local authority empowered under this Act to grant petroleum-spirit licences in that district.

(2) If any person contravenes or attempts to contravene any regulation

Section 6. made under this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which the offence occurs or continues, and the court before whom any person is convicted under this subsection may order that the petroleum-spirit in respect of which the offence was committed and any vessel in which it is contained be forfeited or otherwise dealt with in such manner as the court thinks fit.

(a) This section reproduces with modifications s. 37 of the Explosives Act, 1875, as incorporated by s. 9 and Sched. III. of the Petroleum Act, 1926.

(b) Regulations made under this section must be laid before Parliament (s. 21, post, p. 3005). See the Petroleum-Spirit (Conveyance) Regulations, 1926, in App. II., p. 3628, made under the corresponding repealed provisions and saved by s. 26 (3), post, p. 3006.

Byelaws as to ships loading and carrying petroleum-spirit in harbour.

7 (a).—(1) It shall be the duty of every harbour authority to make for the harbour under their jurisdiction byelaws as to the loading of ships with petroleum-spirit and generally as to the precautions to be observed with respect to ships carrying petroleum-spirit whilst in the harbour, and such byelaws shall in particular provide—

(a) for regulating the places at which ships are to load or land petroleum-spirit and the time and mode of, and the precautions to be taken on, such loading and landing; and

(b) for regulating the places at which ships carrying petroleum-spirit are to be moored; and

(c) for the due enforcement of the byelaws.

(2) No byelaws made by a harbour authority under the last foregoing subsection shall come into force until confirmed by the Minister of Transport and before submitting any such byelaws to the Minister the harbour authority shall, in such manner as may be directed by the Minister, publish a draft thereof together with notice of their intention to apply for the confirmation of the byelaws.

(3) If it appears to the Minister of Transport that at any harbour there are for the time being no byelaws or insufficient byelaws in force under this section, the Minister may by notice require the harbour authority having jurisdiction in that harbour to make and submit to him byelaws for the purposes of this section, and if the harbour authority make default in complying with any such requirement within the time limited by the notice, the Minister may make byelaws which shall have effect as if they had been made by the harbour authority and confirmed by him.

(4) If it appears to the Admiralty that byelaws under this section ought to be made with respect to any place within the limits of a dockyard port as defined by the Dockyard Port Regulation Act, 1865, but that there is no harbour authority competent to make byelaws with respect to that place, the Admiralty may make byelaws with respect thereto, and any byelaws so made by the Admiralty shall come into force without confirmation, shall be published in such manner as the Admiralty think proper, and shall have effect as if they had been made by a harbour authority and confirmed by the Minister of Transport.

28 & 29 Vict. c. 125.

(5) If it appears to a harbour master or to any person acting under the orders of a harbour authority that any ship or any petroleum-spirit is in a place in which it ought not in accordance with any such byelaws as aforesaid to be, he may cause it to be removed so as to be in conformity with the byelaws, and any expenses incurred by the harbour authority in connection with any such removal may be recovered summarily as a civil debt from the owner of the ship or of the petroleum-spirit, as the case may be.

(6) In the event of any contravention of the requirements of any byelaw in force under this section, the owner and master of any ship in or in relation to which the contravention occurs, and, except in the case of a contravention in respect of the mooring of a ship, the owner of any petroleum-spirit in respect of which the contravention occurs, shall each be guilty of an offence and shall be liable on summary conviction thereof to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds for every day on which the offence occurs or continues:

Provided that it shall be a good defence to proceedings for any such offence to prove—

(a) if the proceedings are against the owner or master of a ship for an offence in respect of the loading or landing of petroleum-spirit, that all reasonable means were taken by the master to prevent the commission of the offence, and that the offence was not caused or facilitated by any act or neglect on the part of the owner or of any person engaged or employed by the owner or master; and

(b) if the proceedings are against the owner of petroleum-spirit for an offence in respect of the loading or landing thereof, or in respect of any failure to observe precautions required to be observed with respect to ships carrying petroleum-spirit whilst in harbour, that the offence was not caused or facilitated by any act or neglect on his part or on the part of any person engaged or employed by him.

(a) This section reproduces s. 4 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, as amended by s. 5 of the Petroleum Act, 1926, and the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928. As to the meaning of "harbour," and "harbour authority," see s. 23, post, p. 3005. As to the confirmation and publication of byelaws, see s. 22, post, p. 3005.

Notice of ships carrying petroleum-spirit to be given on entering harbour.

8 (a). The owner or master of every ship carrying a cargo, any part of which consists of petroleum-spirit, shall, on entering any harbour within Great Britain, give notice of the nature of the cargo to the harbour authority having jurisdiction over the harbour, and if such notice is not given, the owner and master of the ship shall each be guilty of an offence and shall be liable on summary conviction thereof to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, or on conviction thereof on indictment to a fine not exceeding five hundred pounds:

Provided that it shall be a good defence to proceedings for any such offence to prove that neither the owner nor the master knew the nature of the goods in respect of which the proceedings are taken, and that neither of them could, with reasonable diligence, have obtained such knowledge.

(a) This section reproduces s. 5 of the Petroleum Act, 1871. As to the meaning of "petroleum-spirit," "harbour," and "harbour authority," see s. 23, post, p. 3005.

Byelaws as to loading, conveyance and landing of petroleum-spirit in and upon canals.

9 (a).—(1) Every canal company shall have power to make byelaws regulating the loading, conveyance and landing of petroleum-spirit in and upon the canal under their jurisdiction, and as to the precautions to be observed with respect thereto, and as to the due enforcement of the byelaws.

(2) No byelaws made under this section shall come into force until confirmed by the Minister of Transport, and before submitting any such byelaws to the Minister, the canal company shall, in such manner as may be directed by the Minister, publish a draft thereof together with notice of their intention to apply for the confirmation of the byelaws.

(3) If any person contravenes or attempts to contravene any byelaw made under this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which the offence occurs or continues.

51 & 52 Vict. c. 25.

(4) Section forty of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1888 (which makes provision as to the byelaws of canal companies) shall not apply to byelaws made under this section.

(a) This section reproduces s. 6 of the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928. As to the meaning of "petroleum-spirit," see s. 23, post, p. 3005. "Canal," and "Canal company" have the same meaning as in the Regulation of Railways Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 48), s. 3. As to the confirmation and publication of byelaws, see s. 22, post, p. 3005.

Special Provisions as to Keeping, Use and Supply of Petroleum-Spirit for Motor Vehicles.

Regulations as to the keeping and use of petroleum-spirit for purpose of motor vehicles, motor boats, aircraft and engines.

10 (a).—(1) The Secretary of State may make regulations (b) as to the keeping and use of petroleum-spirit by persons intending to use it for the purpose of any class of motor vehicles (c), motor boats, aircraft, or engines specified in the regulations, and any such regulations may exempt from the operation of any of the foregoing provisions of this Act the keeping and use of petroleum-spirit by persons intending to use it for the purpose of any such class as aforesaid to which the regulations apply.

(2) If any person contravenes or attempts to contravene any regulation made under this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which the offence occurs or continues, and the court before whom any person is convicted under this subsection may order that the petroleum-spirit in respect of which the offence was committed, and any vessel in which it is contained, be forfeited or otherwise dealt with in such manner as the court thinks fit.

(b) These regulations must be laid before Parliament (s. 22, post, p. 3005). Regulations made under the 1896 Act were saved by s. 10 (4) of the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928, and were further saved by s. 26 (4) of this Act. All those regulations have now been revoked, and the Petroleum Spirit (Motor Vehicles, etc.) Regulations, 1929, have been made under the provision in the text. (See the Regulations in App. II., post, p. 3636.)

(c) See the definition in s. 23, post, p. 3005.

Byelaws as to petroleum filling stations.

11 (a).—(1) For the purpose of preserving for the enjoyment of the public the amenities (b) of any rural scenery or of any place of beauty or historic interest or of any public park or pleasure promenade or of any street or place which is of interest by reason of its picturesque character (c), the council of any county or borough (d) may make byelaws (e)—

(a) regulating the appearance of petroleum filling stations (f); or

(b) prohibiting the establishment of petroleum filling stations, in any part of their area to which the byelaws apply; and, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provisions, any such byelaws regulating the appearance of petroleum filling stations may, in particular, require compliance with such provisions as may be contained in the byelaws as to the position, design, size, colour and screening of such stations or of any parts thereof:

Provided that—

(i) as respects the City of London, the powers and duties conferred and imposed by this section shall be exercised and performed by the Common Council of the City of London instead of the London County Council; and

(ii) no byelaws made under this section by the council of any county shall have effect in any borough within the county; and

(iii) nothing in any byelaws regulating the appearance of petroleum filling stations shall prevent the use in any place to which the byelaws apply, of any pump or other apparatus approved for use in such places by the Secretary of State; and in making any such byelaws a council shall make provision for exempting any station established at the time of the making of the byelaws from any restrictions requiring structural alterations for such period, not being less than two years from that time, as they may think fit (g); and

(iv) in making any byelaws prohibiting the establishment of petroleum filling stations a council shall have regard to the need for reasonable facilities for the supply of petroleum in or near the part of their area to which the byelaws apply.

(2) Any part of the area of a council to which byelaws or a draft of any byelaws made under this section apply shall be distinctly marked and shown on plans to be signed by and deposited with the clerk of the council making the byelaws, and the said plans shall be at all reasonable times thereafter open for the insepction of the public without charge.

(3) No byelaws made under this section shall come into force until confirmed by the Secretary of State, and before submitting any such byelaws to the Secretary of State the council by whom the byelaws were made shall, in such manner as may be directed by the Secretary of State, publish a draft thereof, together with notice of the place where the plans marked in accordance with the provisions of this section may be inspected and of the intention of the council to apply for the confirmation of the byelaws.

Provided that any person upon whom such a notice is served shall be entitled to recover from the council by whom it was served any expenses reasonably incurred by him in carrying out the directions contained in the notice, and shall, if he makes a claim within twelve months after the service of the notice, be entitled to recover from the council compensation for any loss sustained by him in direct consequence of the requirements of the notice, and any question in dispute as to whether compensation is payable under this subsection or as to the amount of any compensation so payable shall be determined by a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the parties or, in default of such agreement, appointed by the Secretary of State.

(5) The occupier of any premises used or intended to be used as a petroleum filling station shall have power, notwithstanding anything in any conveyance or in any lease or other agreement, to do all such things as may be necessary for complying with the requirements of any byelaw made or notice served under this section; and where a notice has been served upon any person under this section the council by whom the notice was served may, with his consent, do on his behalf anything necessary for complying with the requirements of the notice.

(6) If any person contravenes any byelaw made or notice served under this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which the contravention occurs or continues, and if, after any person has been so convicted in respect of a contravention of any byelaw made under this section prohibiting the establishment of petroleum filling stations or in respect of a contravention of any notice served under this section requiring the removal of any such station, the petroleum filling station is not removed within such time as the court may allow, the council by whom the byelaw was made or the notice served shall have power to do all such acts as may be necessary for the removal thereof, and any expenses incurred by a council in removing any petroleum filling station established in contravention of any such byelaw as aforesaid shall be recoverable from the person convicted summarily as a civil debt (j).

(7) Any expenses incurred by a county council under this section shall be defrayed as part of their expenses for general county purposes.

(8) The council of any urban district shall have power to enforce within their district any byelaws in force under this section, and any expenses incurred by a district council under this subsection shall be defrayed as part of their general expenses.

(b) "Amenities in relation to any place, includes the view of or from that place" (s. 23, post, p. 3005).

(c) Note the provisions of sub-s. (2) requiring the parts affected by the byelaws to be marked on a plan.

(d) Note that byelaws under this section can only be made by county and borough councils, but any urban district council is to have power to enforce these byelaws in their district (sub-s. (8)).

(e) These byelaws must be confirmed by the Home Secretary (sub-s. (3)). As to the enforcement of these byelaws, see sub-s. (6).

(f) See the definition in s. 23, post, p. 3005.

(g) This provision appears to contemplate that the byelaws may have a retrospective effect as regards head (a) of the purposes for which byelaws may be made. As to the removal of existing stations from a place or area where stations are prohibited by the byelaws, see sub-s. (4).

(h) This sub-section would not appear to be subject to the two years' limitation referred to in proviso (iii) to sub-s. (1).

(j) Proceedings for the recovery of a sum summarily as a civil debt are begun by complaint (s. 35, S. J. A., 1879). As the statute has provided this summary remedy for the recovery of the expenses, no action for such sum can be maintained (St. Pancras Vestry v. Batterbury (1857), 2 C. B. (N. S.) 477; 21 J. P. 424, and other cases cited in the notes to s. 251, P. H. A., 1875, ante, p. 556).

Regulations as to special Classes of Petroleum-Spirit.

Regulations as to classes of petroleum-spirit likely to be dangerous or injurious to health.

12 (a).—(1) If the Secretary of State is satisfied that any class of petroleum-spirit (b) is by reason of the nature thereof or of any substance mixed therewith likely to be dangerous or injurious to health either generally or in the case of any class of persons, he may make such regulations (c) as appear to him to be reasonably practicable and to meet the necessity of the case, and in particular—

(a) for requiring the observance of such precautions as may be prescribed for the protection of persons employed or engaged in handling or using petroleum-spirit of that class in connection with any trade or business; and

(b) for requiring persons selling to the public petroleum-spirit of that class to give, in such manner as may be prescribed, warning to purchasers of petroleum-spirit of that class as to the dangers thereof and the precautions to be observed with respect thereto; and

(c) for prohibiting the sale or use of petroleum-spirit which he may by order declare to be so dangerous or injurious to health that precautions for the protection of persons employed or engaged in handling or using such petroleum-spirit are impracticable; and

(d) for the publication and supply of copies of the regulations; and

(e) for the enforcement of the regulations in any district by the local authority empowered under this Act to grant petroleum-spirit licences in that district:

Provided that any such regulations extending to England shall be made after consultation with the Minister of Health.

Section 12.

(2) If any person contravenes or attempts to contravene any regulation made under this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for every day on which the offence occurs or continues, and the court before whom any person is convicted under this subsection may order that the petroleum-spirit in respect of which the offence was committed, and any vessel in which it is contained, be forfeited or otherwise dealt with in such manner as the court thinks fit.

(b) See the definition in s. 23, post, p. 3005.
(c) These regulations must be laid before Parliament (s. 22, post, p. 3005), and must be made in consultation with the Minister of Health.

Accidents in connection with Petroleum-Spirit.

Notice to be given of accidents connected with petroleum-spirit.

13 (a).—(1) Whenever any accident which occasions loss of life or personal injury occurs by explosion or by fire in or about or in connection with any licensed premises (b), the occupier of the premises shall, if the explosion or fire involved petroleum-spirit (c), forthwith send or cause to be sent to the Secretary of State notice of the accident and of the loss of life or personal injury. A notice of any accident of which notice is sent in pursuance of this section need not be sent to any inspector of factories.

(2) Where, in, about, or in connection with any ship or vehicle on which petroleum-spirit (c), is being conveyed or loaded or from which petroleum-spirit is being unloaded, any accident which occasions loss of life or personal injury occurs by explosion or by fire, the owner or master of the ship or vehicle shall, if the explosion or fire involved petroleum-spirit, forthwith send or cause to be sent to the Secretary of State notice of the accident and of the loss of life or personal injury, but this provision shall not apply where the petroleum-spirit carried or loaded on, or unloaded from, the ship or vehicle is or was for use only on that ship or vehicle or in any case in which such notice as aforesaid is otherwise by law required to be sent to some government department.

(3) Every such occupier, owner, or master as aforesaid who fails to comply with any of the provisions of this section shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

(b) "Licensed premises" mean any premises in respect of which a petroleum-spirit licence is in force under this Act (s. 23, post, p. 3005).
(c) See the definition in s. 23, post, p. 3005.

Inquiry into accidents connected with petroleum-spirit.

14 (a). The Secretary of State may direct an inquiry to be made by a government inspector (b) into the cause of any accident of which notice is required by this Act to be given to the Secretary of State (c), and where it appears to the Secretary of State either before or after the commencement of any such inquiry, that a more formal investigation of the accident, and of the causes and circumstances thereof, is expedient, he may by order direct a formal investigation to be held, and with respect to inquiries and investigations made or held under this Act the following provisions shall have effect:—

(a) the Secretary of State may, by the same or any subsequent order, appoint any person or persons possessing legal or special knowledge to assist the government inspector in holding a formal investigation, or may direct such county court judge, stipendiary magistrate, metropolitan police magistrate, or other person or persons as may be named in the order, to hold such an investigation with the assistance of a government inspector or any other assessor or assessors named in the order:

(b) the persons holding any formal investigation (in this section referred to as the court) shall hold it in open court in such manner and under such conditions as they think most effectual for ascertaining the causes and circumstances of the accident, and for enabling them to make the report in this section mentioned:

(c) the court shall have for the purpose of the investigation all the powers of a court of summary jurisdiction when acting as a court in hearing informations for offences against this Act, and shall have all the powers of a government inspector under this Act (d), and in addition the following powers, namely—

(i) they may enter and inspect any place or building the entry or inspection whereof appears to them requisite for the said purpose;

(ii) they may by summons under their hands require the attendance of all such persons as they think fit to call before them and examine for the said purpose, and may for the said purpose require to be furnished to them answers or returns to such inquiries as they think fit to make;

(iii) they may require the production of all books, papers, and documents which they consider important for the said purpose;

(iv) they may administer an oath, and require any person examined to make and sign a declaration of the truth of the statements made by him in his examination:

(d) persons attending as witnesses before the court shall be allowed such expenses as would be allowed to witnesses attending before a court of record; and in case of dispute as to the amount to be allowed, the dispute shall be referred by the court to a master of the Supreme Court, who, on request under the hands of the members of the court, shall ascertain and certify the proper amount of the expenses:

(e) if any person without reasonable excuse (proof whereof shall lie on him) fails, after having had the expenses (if any) to which he is entitled tendered to him, to comply with any summons or requisition of a court holding an investigation under this Act, or prevents or impedes the court in the execution of their duty, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding ten pounds, or, in the case of a failure to comply with a requisition for furnishing any return or producing any document, not exceeding ten pounds for every day on which the failure occurs or continues:

(f) the government inspector making an inquiry into any accident and the court holding an investigation of any accident under this section shall make a report to the Secretary of State, stating the causes of the accident and all the circumstances attending it, and containing any observations thereon or on the evidence or on any matters arising out of the inquiry or investigation which he or they think right to include in the report, and the Secretary of State shall cause every report so made to him to be made public in such manner as he thinks expedient.

Coroners' inquests on deaths from accidents connected with petroleum-spirit.

15 (a).—(1) Where a coroner holds an inquest upon the body of any person whose death may have been caused by any accident of which notice is required by this Act to be given to the Secretary of State (b), the coroner shall adjourn the inquest unless a government inspector (c), or some person on behalf of the Secretary of State, is present to watch the proceedings:

Provided that, if the accident has not occasioned the death of more than one person, and the coroner has sent to the Secretary of State notice of the time and place of holding the inquest not less than forty-eight hours before the time of the holding thereof, it shall not be imperative on him to adjourn the inquest in pursuance of this section if the majority of the jury think it unnecessary that he should do so.

(2) The coroner before the adjournment, may take evidence to identify the body, and may order the interment thereof.

(3) The coroner, at least four days before holding the adjourned inquest, shall send to the Secretary of State notice in writing of the time and place of holding the adjourned inquest.

(4) A government inspector or person employed on behalf of the Secretary of State shall be at liberty at any such inquest as aforesaid to examine any witness, subject nevertheless to the order of the coroner on points of law.

(5) Where at any inquest there is given evidence of any neglect having caused or contributed to an accident, or evidence of there having been, in or about or in connection with any licensed premises (d) or any ship or vehicle carrying petroleum-spirit (e), any defect that appears to the coroner or jury to require a remedy, the coroner shall, if no government inspector or person employed on behalf of the Secretary of State is present at the inquest, send to the Secretary of State notice in writing of the neglect or defect.

Powers of Inspection, &c.

Powers of government inspectors.

16 (a).—(1) A government inspector (b) shall have power to make such examination and inquiry as may be necessary to ascertain whether the provisions of this Act or of any regulations made thereunder are complied with, and for that purpose he—

(a) may enter, inspect, and examine at all reasonable times by day any licensed premises (c), and every part thereof, and any premises in which any petroleum-spirit (d) is kept, or is suspected by him to be kept, in contravention of the provisions of this Act or of any regulations made thereunder; and

(b) may require the occupier of any premises which he is so entitled to enter, or a person employed therein by the occupier, to give him samples of any petroleum (d) on the premises.

(2) The occupier of any such premises as aforesaid, his agents and servants, shall furnish the means required by a government inspector as being necessary for every such entry, inspection and examination which he is entitled under this section to make.

(3) If any person fails to permit a government inspector to enter, inspect or examine as aforesaid, or to comply with any such requisition of a government inspector as aforesaid, or in any manner obstructs a government inspector in the execution of his duties, that person shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, or on conviction on indictment to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds.

(c) I.e. premises in respect of which a petroleum-spirit licence is in force under this Act (s. 23, post, p. 3005).

(d) See the definition in s. 23, post, p. 3005.

Powers of officers of local authorities as to testing petroleum-spirit.

17 (a).—(1) Any officer authorised by a local authority (b) empowered under this Act to grant petroleum-spirit licences—

(a) may purchase samples of any petroleum (c) from any dealer therein or from any person who keeps petroleum for the purposes of any trade or industry, or may on producing a copy of his appointment (d) purporting to be signed by the clerk or secretary of the local authority require the dealer or other person to show him every place and any vessels in which petroleum in his possession is kept and to give him samples of such petroleum on payment of the value thereof; and

(b) may test or cause to be tested (e) at any convenient place and at such reasonable time as he may appoint any samples so obtained by him.

(2) Any such officer shall, before testing or causing to be tested any samples under the last foregoing subsection, give to the dealer or other person from whom they were obtained notice in writing of the place and time at which they are to be tested, and the dealer or other person or any person appointed by him may be present at the testing.

(3) If it appears to the person testing any samples of petroleum obtained under this section that the petroleum is petroleum-spirit, he may give a certificate in writing to that effect, and a certificate so given shall be received in evidence in any proceedings under this Act against the person from whom the samples were obtained, so, however, that if, after hearing any evidence given by or on behalf of that person, the court before which the proceedings are taken is not satisfied as to the correctness of the certificate, the court may appoint some person skilled in testing petroleum to test the samples to which the certificate relates and to report whether the certificate is correct or not (f).

(4) Any expenses incurred in testing any samples of petroleum under this section shall, if the person from whom the samples were obtained is convicted of keeping, sending, conveying, selling, or exposing or offering for sale petroleum-spirit in contravention of this Act, be paid by that person, and shall be recoverable as part of the costs of the proceedings against him, but in every other case shall be paid by the local authority.

(5) If any dealer in petroleum or person who keeps petroleum for the purposes of any trade or industry, by himself or by anyone in his employ or acting by his direction or with his consent, refuses to show to an officer authorised by the local authority any place or vessel in which petroleum in his possession is kept, or to give to such an officer such assistance as he may require for examining any such place or vessel, or to give him samples of such petroleum on payment of the value thereof, or wilfully obstructs the local authority or any officer thereof acting in the execution of this Act, that dealer or other person shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

(a) This section reproduces ss. 11 and 12 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, as amended by the Act of 1926, and the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928.

(b) As to the local authorities empowered to grant licences, see s. 2, ante, p. 2991. The officer authorised must be supplied with a copy of his appointment signed by the clerk.

(c) Note that this section relates to the taking of samples of petroleum from dealers, etc. therein, and not only to premises in respect of which a licence under the Act is in force. As to the meaning of petroleum, see s. 23, post, p. 3005.

(d) Production of the copy appointment is necessary only for purposes of search, and not for purchase only.

(e) Before testing samples purchased the provisions of sub-s. (2) must be complied with.

(f) It is a question of fact for the court to decide whether the statutory directions as to testing (Sched. II., Part II., post, p. 3012) have been complied with (Beck v. Stringer (1871), L. R. 6 Q. B. 497; 35 J. P. 710).

Warrants to search for and seize petroleum-spirit.

18 (a).—(1) If a court of summary jurisdiction is satisfied by information on oath that there is reasonable ground for suspecting that any petroleum-spirit (b) is being kept, sent, conveyed, or exposed or offered for sale within the jurisdiction of the court in contravention of this Act, the court shall grant a search warrant authorising any person named therein to enter and examine any place, ship or vehicle named in the warrant and to search for and take samples of petroleum therein and to seize and remove any petroleum-spirit that he may find therein kept, sent, conveyed, or exposed or offered for sale in contravention of this Act, and the vessel containing any such petroleum-spirit, and to detain such petroleum-spirit and vessel until a court of summary jurisdiction has determined whether or not they are to be forfeited.

(2) Where any petroleum-spirit or vessel is seized by virtue of a warrant granted under this section—

(a) proceedings shall be commenced forthwith for determining whether or not it is to be forfeited; and

(b) the person seizing it shall not be liable to any proceedings for detaining it or for any loss or damage incurred in respect thereof except where the loss or damage is due to any wilful act or neglect while the petroleum-spirit or vessel is so detained; and

(c) in the case of any petroleum-spirit or vessel seized in any ship or vehicle, the person seizing it may for the purposes of the removal thereof use, during twenty-four hours, after the seizure, the ship or vehicle in which it was seized, with the tackle, beasts and accoutrements belonging thereto, but if he do so shall pay to the owner of the ship or vehicle reasonable compensation for the use thereof: the amount of such compensation shall, in default of agreement, be assessed by the court of summary jurisdiction before which proceedings are taken for determining whether or not the petroleum-spirit or vessel is to be forfeited, and may be recovered in like manner as fines under this Act may be recovered.

(3) If any person by himself or by anyone in his employ or acting by his direction or with his consent refuses or fails to admit into any place, ship or vehicle occupied by him or under his control any person authorised by a warrant granted under this section to enter that place, ship or vehicle, or obstructs or prevents any person from making any search, examination or seizure or taking any samples which he is authorised by such a warrant to make or take, that person shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds and may be ordered by the court to forfeit any petroleum-spirit that is found in his possession or under his control with or without any vessel in which it is contained.

(b) See the definition in s. 23, post, p. 3005. Observe that a search warrant can only be granted in respect of petroleum spirit, cf. s. 17, ante, p. 3002.

Power to apply Act to other Substances.

Power to make Orders in Council applying Act to other substances.

19 (a).—(1) His Majesty may by Order in Council apply to any substance (b) any of the provisions of this Act specified in the Order, with such modifications, if any, as may seem to His Majesty to be desirable having regard to the nature of the substance to which the Order relates.

(2) While any Order in Council relating to any substance is in force under this section, the provisions of this Act thereby applied shall have effect as if the substance were included in the definition of petroleum-spirit, but subject to such modifications, if any, as may be provided by the Order.

(3) Any Order in Council made under this section may be varied or revoked by any subsequent Order.

(a) This section reproduces s. 14 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, as amended by the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928.

(b) Orders have been made in respect of disulphide of carbon (July 27th, 1928), of mixtures of petroleum with other substances (November 5th, 1929), and carbide of calcium (November 5th, 1929). These orders will be found set out in App. II., post, pp. 3633, 3641, 3640.

Supplementary.

Provisions as to apparatus for and method of testing petroleum.

42 & 43 Vict. c. 47.

20 (a).—(1) Models of the apparatus for testing petroleum, of which specifications are contained respectively in Part I of the Second Schedule (b) to this Act and in the First Schedule to the Petroleum Act, 1879 (c), shall remain deposited with the Board of Trade, and the Board shall, on payment of such fee, not exceeding twenty shillings, as the Board may from time to time prescribe, cause every apparatus constructed in accordance with either such specification which is submitted to them for the purpose to be compared with the appropriate model so deposited and to be verified, and shall stamp with a mark approved by the Board and notified in the London Gazette every such apparatus that is found to be correct, so, however, that no apparatus constructed in accordance with the specification contained in the First Schedule to the Petroleum Act, 1879, shall after the commencement of this Act be so verified and stamped unless it has been previously verified and stamped on or before the third day of August, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight (d).

(2) No apparatus for testing petroleum stamped by the Board of Trade in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be deemed to have been verified by the Board unless—

(a) it has been stamped within ten years; and

(b) no part of the apparatus has been materially altered, repaired, or replaced since the apparatus was last stamped but save as aforesaid all such apparatus purporting to be so stamped shall be deemed to have been verified by the Board until the contrary is proved (e).

(3) All fees payable under this section shall be paid into the Exchequer.

(a) This section reproduces s. 3 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, as amended by ss. 2 and 3 of the Petroleum Act, 1926.

(b) See this Schedule, post, p. 3007.

(c) The First Schedule to the Petroleum Act, 1879, is repealed by this Act, but apparatus constructed in accordance with the specification contained in that Schedule may still be used if verified and stamped in accordance with this section. Such apparatus will, however, only be verified and stamped (see sub-s. (2)) if it had already been verified and stamped before August 3rd, 1928. The mode of conducting the test whichever form of apparatus is used must be that prescribed by Part II. of the Second Schedule, post, p. 3012.

(d) This date is fixed in consequence of the provision in s. 3 of the Petroleum Act, 1926, which enabled apparatus constructed in accordance with the specification contained in the Schedule to the 1879 Act to be originally stamped if submitted to the Board for verification within two years from the passing of the Act.

(e) Prior to the passing of the 1926 Act, apparatus once verified and stamped by the Board of Trade could continue to be used for testing for any length of time without further verification or stamping despite any alterations, etc. Now such apparatus must be re-verified and stamped after ten years from the date of the last stamping, or in the event of any part of the apparatus being materially altered, repaired or replaced.

Note to Section 20.

21 (a). All regulations made by the Secretary of State (b) and all byelaws made by the Admiralty under this Act (c) shall be laid before each House of Parliament as soon as may be after they are made, and, if an Address is presented to His Majesty by either House of Parliament within the next subsequent forty days on which that House has sat next after any such regulation or byelaw is laid before it, praying that the regulation or byelaw may be annulled, it shall thenceforth be void, but without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done thereunder or to the making of any new regulation or byelaw.

(a) This section reproduces s. 10 of the Petroleum Act, 1926, and ss. 3 (2) and 4 (2) of the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928.

(a) This section reproduces part of s. 4 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, and ss. 5 (4) and 6 (3) of the Petroleum (Amendment) Act, 1928.

(b) Byelaws requiring confirmation by the Secretary of State may be made by county and borough councils in respect of petrol filling stations under s. 11, ante, p. 2996. Byelaws requiring confirmation by the Minister of Transport are those made by harbour authorities under s. 7, ante, p. 2994, and canal companies under s. 9, ante, p. 2995.

SECOND SCHEDULE.

Section 20.

Test Apparatus to be used and Manner of testing Petroleum therewith so as to ascertain the Temperature at which it will give off Inflammable Vapour.

Part I.

Specification of the Test Apparatus.

General.

The apparatus to be employed shall be the Abel Petroleum Testing apparatus or the Abel apparatus modified by having an oil cup provided with a stirrer. It shall Sched. II. be constructed to the dimensions herein specified within the limits of accuracy prescribed by the tolerances set forth below.

The Oil Cup.

The oil cup consists of a cylindrical vessel open at the top and fitted on the outside with a flat circular flange projecting at right angles.

Within the cup, fixed through the wall and silver soldered or brazed in place, there is a gauge consisting of a piece of wire bent upwards and terminating in a point.

Material :—brass or gunmetal.

———	Dimension.	Tolerance.
Cup, wall and bottom thickness	17 I.W.G.	—
,, internal diameter	2″	±0·05″
,, internal depth	2·2″	±0·05″
Flange, thickness	17 I.W.G.	—
,, width	0·5″	±0·05″
,, distance of upper side from top edge of cup	0·375″	±0·05″
Gauge, thickness, not less than	10 I.W.G.	—
,, distance of point from level of upper edge of cup	0·7″	±0·005″

The Cover.

The cup is provided with a close-fitting cover with a downward projecting rim barely reaching the flange on the cup. The downward projecting rim is made solid with the top or silver soldered or brazed in place. Upon the cover are mounted a thermometer socket, trunnions to support an oil-test lamp, a pair of guides in which a slide moves, and a white bead. The top of the cover is pierced by three rectangular holes symmetrically placed on a diameter, one in the centre and the other two as close as practicable to the inner sides of the cover-rim and opposite each other. These three holes are covered or uncovered by means of a slide moving in suitably disposed guides. The slide has two perforations, one corresponding in all particulars to the centre hole in the cover and the other to one of the holes at the side. The movement of the slide is restricted by suitable stops, and its length and the disposition of the holes are such, that at the outer extremity of the movement of the slide, the holes in the cover are simultaneously just completely opened and at the inner extremity of the movement of the slide they are completely closed.

The trunnions supporting the test lamp are fixed on the top of the guides and the lamp is mounted in the trunnions so that it is free to oscillate. The lamp is provided with a jet to contain a wick and is so arranged that when the slide is moved so as to uncover the holes, the oscillating lamp is caught by a pin fixed in the slide and tilted over the central hole in such a way that the lower edge of the cover bisects the circle formed by the bore of the jet when in the lowest position. The flame then occupies a central position within the hole in both directions.

A suitably mounted gas-jet may be substituted for the lamp.

The thermometer socket is in the form of a split tube, mounted on a diameter at right angles to the diameter through the centres of the holes, and fitted at such an angle as to bring the bulb of the thermometer, when in place, vertically below the centre of the cover and at the correct distance from it.

A white bead, the dimensions of which represent the size of test flame to be used, is mounted in a visible position on the cover.

Materials :—all parts excepting bead :—brass or gun-metal.
bead :—ivory or other suitable material.

,, central hole, length (in direction of slide)	0·5″	±0·005″

These dimensions are subject to the correct placing of the thermometer when in position.
Vertical depth of lowest part of thermometer below centre of underside of cover	1·5″	±0·1″

Cover fitted with stirrer.

Provision may be made in the cover for the reception of a stirrer which projects into the oil cup, for use with viscous materials only.

A bush is mounted on the cover in a position diametrically opposite the thermometer mounting and its length is such and it is set at such an angle that the stirrer rod clears the oil-level gauge and the blades operate below the level of and without fouling the thermometer bulb. The bush is placed as near as practicable to the outer edge of the cover.

The stirrer consists of a round stem having four blades or vanes silver soldered in place at one end. A collar is fixed on the stem so that when the stem is inserted into the bush from below, it is arrested at a position such that the correct length protrudes into the oil cup. The top end of the stem is reduced and screwed.

———	Dimension.	Tolerance.
Stem, length overall	4″	±0·1″
,, ,, Lower end to point of attachment of blades	Approx. 0·1″	—
,, ,, Lower end to upper surface of collar	1·9″	±0·1″

Sleeve. Length, to suit stem, giving free rotation with no appreciable vertical play when screwed home.	—	—
Diameter of bore	Sliding fit on stem,	—
Diameter of collar	Approx. 0·25″	—

Sched. II.

A long sleeve having an internally screwed knurled knob soldered to its upper end, is passed over the upper end of the stem and screwed home. The length of the sleeve is such that a flat-faced collar at its lower end just comes into contact with the upper end of the bush, leaving the stirrer free to rotate without appreciable vertical play.

A flat-headed cylindrical plug is provided for insertion in the bush when the stirrer is not in use.

Material:—brass or gun-metal.

Heating Vessel.

The heating vessel or bath consists of two flat-bottomed cylindrical copper vessels placed coaxially one inside the other and soldered at their tops to a flat copper ring, greater in outside diameter than the larger vessel and of smaller inside diameter than the smaller vessel. The space between the two vessels is thus totally enclosed and is used as a water jacket.

An ebonite or fibre ring of right-angle section is fitted into the hole in the centre of the flat ring forming the top of the bath and, when the apparatus is in use, the oil cup fits into, and its flange rests upon, this ebonite or fibre ring so that the oil cup is centrally disposed within the heating vessel. The ebonite or fibre ring is secured in place by means of six small screws having their heads sunk below the surface of the ring, to avoid metallic contact between the bath and the oil cup.

A split socket, similar to that on the cover of the oil cup, but set vertically, allows a thermometer to be inserted into the water-space. A funnel and overflow pipe also communicate with the water-space through the top plate and two loop handles are provided thereon.

Sched. II.

Section 23.

PART II.

Manner of Testing Petroleum.

1. For the purposes of this Act petroleum shall be tested either by means of apparatus constructed in accordance with the specification contained in Part I. of this Schedule, or by means of apparatus constructed in accordance with the specification contained in the First Schedule to the Petroleum Act, 1879, and verified and stamped by the Board of Trade.

2. The test apparatus shall be placed for use in a position where it is not exposed to currents of air or draughts.

3. The heating vessel or water-bath shall be filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the spout of the vessel. The temperature of the water at the beginning of the test shall be 130 degrees Fahrenheit and no heat shall be applied to the water-bath during the test. When a test has been completed and it is desired to make another test the water-bath shall be again raised to 130 degrees Fahrenheit which may conveniently be done while the petroleum cup is being emptied, cooled and refilled with a fresh sample to be tested. The next test is then proceeded with.

4. If an oil test-lamp is being used it shall be prepared by fitting it with a piece of flat plaited candle-wick, and filling it with colza or rape-oil up to the lower edge of the opening of the spout or wick tube. The lamp shall be trimmed so that when lighted it gives a flame of about 0·15 of an inch diameter, and this size of flame, which is represented by the projecting white bead on the cover of the oil-cup, is readily maintained by simple manipulation from time to time with a small wire trimmer. A gas test-lamp may be employed, and if so, the size of the jet of flame shall be adjusted to the size laid down above.

5. The bath having been raised to the proper temperature, the cup shall be placed on a level surface in a good light and the oil to be tested shall be poured into it, until the level of the liquid just reaches the point of the gauge which is fixed in the cup. Before a test is begun the temperature of the oil shall be determined and shall be brought to approximately 60 degrees Fahrenheit. The cover, with the slide closed, shall then be put on to the cup and pressed down so that its edge rests on the rim of the cup, and the cup shall be placed into the bath or heating vessel, every care being taken to avoid wetting the sides of the cup with the oil. The thermometer in the lid of the cup has been adjusted so as to have the correct immersion when the brass collar of the thermometer is properly seated, and its position shall not in any circumstances be altered. When the cup has been placed in the proper position the scale of the thermometer faces the operator.

6. The test-lamp shall then be placed in position upon the lid of the cup. When the temperature has reached 66 degrees Fahrenheit the operation of testing shall be begun, the test flame being applied once for every rise of one degree, in the following manner :—

> The slide shall be slowly drawn open while a metronome, set so as to beat at the rate of 75 to 80 beats in the minute, beats three times and shall be closed during the fourth beat. A pendulum of 24 inches effective length may be used in place of the metronome, counting one beat from one extremity of the swing to the other.

Section 1.

SHOPS (HOURS OF CLOSING) ACT, 1928.

(18 & 19 GEO. 5, c. 33.)

An Act to amend the law relating to the closing of shops; and for purposes connected therewith (a). [3rd August, 1928.]

Closing hours.

1.—(1) Every shop shall, save as otherwise provided by this Act, be closed for the serving of customers not later than nine o'clock in the evening on one day in the week (in this Act referred to as "the late day"), and not later than eight o'clock in the evening on any other day in the week, and those hours are in this Act referred to as the "general closing hours (b)."

(2) The late day shall be Saturday unless the local authority (c) by order fix some other day as the late day, and any such order may fix the same day for all shops, or may fix—

(a) different days for different classes of shops; or

(b) different days for different parts of the district; or

(c) different days for different periods of the year:

Provided that, where the local authority have under the Shops Act, 1912 (d) (hereinafter referred to as "the principal Act"), fixed any day as the weekly half-holiday for any class of shop, or for any part of their district, or for any period of the year, they shall, as respects that class, part, or period, fix some other day as the late day.

2 & 3 Geo. 5, c. 3.

(3) Nothing in this Act or in any closing order made under the principal Act shall prevent—

(a) the serving of a customer where it is proved that the customer was in the shop before the closing hour, or that reasonable grounds existed for believing that the article supplied after the closing hour to a customer was required in the case of illness (e); or

(b) any transaction mentioned in the First Schedule to this Act (f).

(a) This Act amends the Shops Act, 1912, ante, p. 2715, and is to be construed as one therewith (s. 10 (2)).

(b) As to closing orders under the 1912 Act, see s. 5, ibid., ante, p. 2721, and their effect upon this provision, s. 4, post, p. 3014. As to penalties for breach of the provisions of this Act or orders made thereunder, see s. 8, post, p. 3016. As to the suspension of this provision, see s. 7, post, p. 3016.

Special provisions as to confectionery.

2. Subject as hereinafter provided (a), as respects the trade or business of selling table waters, sweets, chocolates, or other sugar confectionery or ice cream, the general closing hours shall be ten o'clock in the evening on the late day and half-past nine o'clock in the evening on any other day (b):

Provided that a local authority may, in their area or in any part thereof, by order substitute for either of the general closing hours hereinbefore in this section mentioned an earlier hour, not being earlier than eight o'clock in the evening, if they are satisfied (c) that such an order is desired by the occupiers of a majority of the shops to be affected by the order.

(a) I.e. s. 5 as to exhibitions, s. 6 as to holiday resorts, s. 7 as to Christmas and special occasions, and Sched. I. (a), (d) and (e) as to meals, licensed premises and places of entertainment.

(b) As to penalties for breach of the provisions of this Act or orders made thereunder, see s. 8, post, p. 3016.

As to the suspension of this provision, see s. 7, post, p. 3016.

Note to Section 2.

(c) Note that before making such an order, the local authority (see s. 13 (2) of the 1912 Act, ante, p. 2725) must be satisfied the order is desired by the majority of the occupiers of the shops affected. No procedure is prescribed to enable the local authority to ascertain the wishes of the majority as in s. 6 (1) of the 1912 Act, ante, p. 2721, though it would probably be desirable for the local authority to follow the procedure there laid down, subject to a bare majority being sufficient. As to proof of an order, see s. 18 (1) of the 1912 Act, ante, p. 2727. An order under this section may only make the closing hour earlier. An order made under this section may be revoked (s. 18 (2) of the 1912 Act, ante, p. 2727). As to the suspension of such an order, see s. 7, post, p. 3016.

Special provisions as to tobacco and smokers' requisites.

3. As respects the trade or business of selling tobacco and smokers' requisites, a local authority may, in their area or in any part thereof, by order substitute for the general closing hours fixed by this Act later hours, not being later than ten o'clock in the evening on the late day or half-past nine o'clock in the evening on any other day, if they are satisfied that such an order is desired by the occupiers of at least two-thirds in number of the shops to be affected by the order (a).

(a) An order under this section can only be made if two-thirds of the occupiers of the shops affected are in favour of the order, cf. s. 6 (1) of the 1912 Act, ante, p. 2721. An order under this section may only make the closing hour later. As to penalties for breach of the provisions of this Act or orders made thereunder, see s. 8, post, p. 3016. As to proof of an order under this section, see s. 18 (1) of the 1912 Act, ante, p. 2727. An order made under this section may be revoked, see s. 18 (2), ibid., ante, p. 2727.

See also s. 5 as to exhibitions, s. 6 as to holiday resorts, s. 7 as to Christmas and special occasions, and Sched. I. (a) (ii), (d) and (e) as to meals, licensed premises and places of entertainment.

Saving as to closing orders.

(a) any closing order in force at the commencement of this Act fixing closing hours earlier than the general closing hours fixed by or under the provisions of this Act (a); or

(b) the power of a local authority by a closing order made and confirmed in manner provided by the principal Act (b) to fix, subject to the limits imposed by that Act, closing hours earlier than the general closing hours fixed by or under the provisions of this Act:

Provided that any closing order, whether made before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be of no effect in so far as it authorises sales after the general closing hours fixed by or under the provisions of this Act or contains provisions inconsistent with the provisions of this Act.

(a) Closing orders could be made under ss. 5 and 6 of the 1912 Act, ante, p. 2721.

Any closing order inconsistent with the provisions of this Act shall be of no effect, see proviso to this section. Any closing order prescribing closing hours earlier than those fixed by s. 1 of this Act will not, therefore, apply to the trades referred to in ss. 2 and 3, ante, pp. 3013, 3014.

(b) I.e. by s. 6 of the 1912 Act, ante, p. 2721. See, however, the proviso to this section and note (a), supra.

Power to grant exemption in respect of exhibitions.

5.—(1) As respects any retail trade or business (a) carried on at an exhibition or show (b) within the area of a local authority (c), the local authority may by order substitute for the general closing hours fixed by or under this Act, or for any closing hour fixed by a closing order made under the principal Act, later hours, not being later than ten o'clock in the evening, if they are satisfied that the retail trade or business so carried on is subsidiary or ancillary only to the main purpose of the exhibition or show.

(2) Any order under this section shall be made subject to such conditions as the local authority may consider necessary for securing that shop assistants (a) affected by the order shall not be employed in or about the retail trade or business to which the order relates for more than such number of hours as may be specified by the order.

RAG FLOCK ACT (1911) AMENDMENT ACT, 1928.

An Act to amend the Rag Flock Act, 1911 (a). [3rd August, 1928.]

1. For the removal of doubts it is hereby declared that the expression "flock manufactured from rags" means flock which has been produced wholly or partly by tearing up woven or knitted or felted materials, whether old or new, but does not include flock obtained wholly in the processes of the scouring and finishing of newly woven or newly knitted or newly felted fabrics.

Interpretation of 1 & 2 Geo. 5, c. 52, s. 1.

2. This Act may be cited as the Rag Flock Act (1911) Amendment Act, 1928, and this Act and the Rag Flock Act, 1911, may be cited together as the Rag Flock Acts, 1911 and 1928.

Short title and construction.

ELECTRICITY (SUPPLY) ACT, 1928.

(19 GEO. 5, c. 4.)

An Act to amend section sixteen of the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1919 (a). [19th December, 1928.]

1. Section sixteen of the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1919, shall have effect as if the words "before the said eighth day of May" wherever they occur in that section were omitted.

Amendment of 9 & 10 Geo. 5, c. 100, s. 16.

(a) See this section at p. 2791, ante.

2. This Act may be cited as the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1928, and shall be construed as one with the Electricity (Supply) Acts, 1882 to 1926 (a), and those Acts and this Act may be cited as the Electricity (Supply) Acts, 1882 to 1928.

Short title and construction.

FACTORY AND WORKSHOP (COTTON CLOTH FACTORIES) ACT, 1929.

(19 GEO. 5, c. 15.)

An Act to empower the Secretary of State to make regulations with respect to cotton cloth factories and for purposes connected with the enforcement of the enactments relating to such factories. [27th March, 1929.]

Power to make regulations as to cotton cloth factories.

1.—(1) The Secretary of State may make regulations (a) for the purpose of giving effect to the recommendations contained in the Report, dated the twenty-third day of January, nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, of the Committee appointed by the Secretary of State on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred and twenty-four, to consider and report whether, and, if so, what modifications of the existing statutory regulations governing the use of artificial humidity in cotton cloth factories (b) are desirable and practicable.

(2) Section ninety-five of the principal Act (c) (which relates to penalties for non-compliance with the provisions of that Act with regard to cotton cloth factories) shall apply to any contravention of or failure to comply with any regulations in force under this Act, and both in its application to those regulations and in its application to the provisions of the principal Act, shall have effect as if there were therein substituted for the words " twelve months " the words " twenty-four months."

(3) Before any regulations are made under this Act, a draft thereof shall be laid before each House of Parliament for a period of not less than thirty days during the session of Parliament, and if either House before the expiration of that period resolves that the regulations shall not come into force, no further proceedings shall be taken thereon, but without prejudice to the making of any new draft regulations.

(c) I.e. the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901. See the section set out at p. 2630, ante.

Certificates required before approval of building plans relating to cotton cloth factories.

2. No plans or sections relating to the erection or conversion of a building proposed to be used as a cotton cloth factory (a) shall be approved by any local authority to whom they have been submitted in pursuance of any Act or of any byelaw made under any Act unless they are accompanied by a certificate in writing issued by the superintending inspector of factories for the division in which the building is proposed to be erected or converted, certifying that the building to which the plans and sections relate would not, if erected or converted in accordance therewith, contravene or fail to comply with the regulations in force under this Act (b).

(b) This section imposes a statutory prohibition on the approval of plans to which the section refers by a local authority unless the certificate of the superintending inspector of factories accompanies the submitted plans. If this certificate accompanies the plans, the authority may consider if the plans comply with the byelaws and if satisfied that they do so, must approve them. See notes to s. 158, P. H. A., 1875, ante, p. 370.

Short title, citation, construction, repeal and extent.

3.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Factory and Workshop (Cotton Cloth Factories) Act, 1929, and this Act and the Factory and Workshop Acts, 1901 to 1920, may be cited together as the Factory and Workshop Acts, 1901 to 1929.

(2) In this Act—

"Cotton cloth factory" means any room, shed or workshop, or part thereof, in which the weaving of cotton cloth is carried on:

"Principal Act" means the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901. 1 Edw. 7, c. 22.

(3) This Act shall be construed as one with (a) the principal Act, so, however, that the provisions of the principal Act relating to regulations made under that Act shall not apply to regulations made under this Act.

(4) The provisions of sections ninety, ninety-one, ninety-two and ninety-four of the principal Act and of the Fourth Schedule to that Act, so far as those provisions relate to cotton cloth factories, and the Factory and Workshop (Cotton Cloth Factories) Act, 1911, are hereby repealed: 1 & 2 Geo. 5, c. 21.

Provided that any regulation or requirement made or certificate or notice given under the Factory and Workshop (Cotton Cloth Factories) Act, 1911, or any regulation made thereunder, which is in force at the commencement of this Act, shall continue in force and have effect as though it had been made or given under this Act or under the regulations made thereunder as the case may be.

(5) This Act shall not extend to Northern Ireland.

(a) As to the meaning of this expression, see note to s. 1 of the Private Street Works Act, 1892, ante, p. 918.

THE COMPANIES ACT, 1929.

(19 & 20 GEO. 5, C. 23.)

An Act to consolidate the Companies Act, 1908 to 1928, and certain other enactments connected with the said Acts. [10th May, 1929.]

* * * * * *

Payments of certain debts out of assets subject to floating charge in priority to claims under the charge.

78 (a).—(1) Where, in the case of a company registered in England, either a receiver is appointed on behalf of the holders of any debentures (b) of the company secured by a floating charge, or possession is taken by or on behalf of those debenture holders of any property comprised in or subject to the charge, then, if the company is not at the time in course of being wound up (c), the debts which in every winding-up are under the provisions (d) of Part V. of this Act relating to preferential payments to be paid in priority to all other debts, shall be paid out of any (e) assets coming to the hands of the receiver, or other person taking possession as aforesaid in priority to any claim for principal or interest in respect of the debentures (f).

(2) The periods of time mentioned in the said provisions of Part V. of this Act shall be reckoned from the date of the appointment of the receiver or of possession being taken as aforesaid, as the case may be.

(3) Any payments made under this section shall be recouped (g) as far as may be out of the assets of the company available for payment of general creditors.

(a) It was held in Richards v. Kidderminster Overseers, [1896] 2 Ch. 212, that the Preferential Payments in Bankruptcy Act, 1888, now repealed and re-enacted by 4 & 5 Geo. 5, c. 59, ante, p. 2734, which then applied also to companies being wound up, did not give a preferential charge in respect of rates where a receiver for debenture holders had taken possession of the goods of a liquidating company. In consequence of this decision, the Preferential Payments in Bankruptcy Amendment Act, 1897, was passed. That Act (which was held not to be retrospective in In re Waverley Typewriter, Ltd., [1898] 1 Ch. 699) was repealed by the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, and re-enacted in practically identical language in ss. 107 and 209, ibid. (see per TOMLIN, J., in In re Glyncorrwg Colliery Co., [1926] Ch., at p. 959). That Act is now repealed and the sections referred to are re-enacted in the section in the text and s. 264.

Note to Section 78.

(b) Debentures include debenture stock, bonds and any other securities of a company whether constituting a charge on the assets of the company or not (s. 380 (1)).

(c) If the company is being wound up, s. 264 (1) (b), infra, makes the rates a preferential charge.

(e) " Any assets " in this section is limited to any assets subject to the floating charge (In re Lewis Merthyr Consolidated Collieries, Ltd., [1929] 1 Ch. 498).

(f) A judgment in a debenture holders' action formerly directed an inquiry as to creditors entitled to preferential payment under the Acts of 1888 and 1897 (In re Meaby & Co. (1899), W. N. 58; In re Birmingham Breweries, Ltd., [1899] W. N. 92). The later practice was for every order appointing a receiver in such an action to direct him to pay forthwith the debts of the company having by virtue of the Acts priority over the debentures (Practice Note, [1900] W. N. 58; Seton, 6th ed., vol. 3, p. 2040).

It was held that the repealed enactment applied where a receiver appointed by the debenture holders under a power contained in the debentures had taken possession, though no receiver had been appointed by the court (In re Barnby's, Ltd., [1899] W. N. 103). By a bank mortgage the defendants conveyed and assigned to the plaintiff's (inter alia) their electric theatre business, specific business premises, and all chattels then or thereafter placed therein. The mortgage was to secure the defendants' banking account, and it was intended that they might use the chattels in carrying on their business. The chattels came to be in the possession of a receiver appointed in a foreclosure action at a time when certain rates were due from the defendants. It was held that so far as both present and future chattels were concerned the mortgage was only a floating security, so that the charge on the chattels ranked after claims for rates which were preferential over such a floating charge under the sections of the 1908 Act corresponding to this section and s. 264, post (National Provincial Bank of England, Ltd. v. United Electric Theatres, Ltd., [1916] 1 Ch. 133; 80 J. P. 153).

Preferential payments.

264 (a).—(1) In a winding up there shall be paid in priority to all other debts—

(a) All parochial or other local rates (b) due from the company at the relevant date, and having become due and payable within twelve months next before that date, and all assessed taxes, land tax, property or income tax assessed on the company up to the fifth day of April next before that date, and not exceeding in the whole one year's assessment;

(b) All wages or salary (whether or not earned wholly or in part by way of commission) of any clerk or servant in respect of services rendered to the company during four months next before the relevant date (c), not exceeding fifty pounds; and

(c) All wages of any workman or labourer not exceeding twenty-five pounds, whether payable for time or for piece work, in respect of services rendered to the company during two months next before the relevant date: Provided that where any labourer in husbandry has entered into a contract for the payment of a portion of his wages in a lump sum at the end of the year of hiring, he shall have priority in respect of the whole of such sum, or a part thereof, as the court may decide to be due under the contract, proportionate to the time of service up to the relevant date; and

(d) Unless the company is being wound up voluntarily merely for the purposes of reconstruction or of amalgamation with another company, or unless the company has at the commencement of the winding up under such a contract with insurers as is mentioned in section seven of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1925, rights capable of being transferred to and vested in the workman, all amounts due in respect of any compensation or liability for compensation under the said Act accrued before the relevant date.

Section 264.

(e) Unless the company is being wound up voluntarily merely for the purposes of reconstruction or of amalgamation with another company, all amounts due in respect of contributions payable during the twelve months next before the relevant date by the company as the employer of any persons under either

(i) the National Health Insurance Acts, 1924 to 1928 ; or

(ii) the Widows', Orphans' and Old Age Contributory Pensions Act, 1925 ; or

(iii) the Unemployment Insurance Acts, 1920 to 1929.

(2) Where any compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1925, is a weekly payment the amount due in respect thereof shall, for the purposes of paragraph (d) of subsection (1) of this section, be taken to be the amount of the lump sum for which the weekly payment could, if redeemable, be redeemed if the employer made an application for that purpose under the said Act.

(3) Where any payment on account of wages or salary has been made to any clerk, servant, workman or labourer in the employment of a company out of money advanced by some person for that purpose, that person shall in a winding up have a right of priority in respect of the money so advanced and paid up to the amount by which the sum in respect of which that clerk, servant, workman or labourer would have been entitled to priority in the winding up has been diminished by reason of the payment having been made.

(4) The foregoing debts shall—

(a) Rank equally among themselves and be paid in full, unless the assets are insufficient to meet them, in which case they shall abate in equal proportions ; and

(b) In the case of a company registered in England, so far as the assets of the company available for payment of general creditors are insufficient to meet them, have priority over the claims of holders of debentures (d) under any floating charge created by the company and be paid accordingly out of any property comprised in or subject to that charge (e).

(5) Subject to the retention of such sums as may be necessary for the costs and expenses of the winding up, the foregoing debts shall be discharged forthwith so far as the assets are sufficient to meet them, and in the case of the debts to which priority is given by paragraph (e) of subsection (1) of this section formal proof thereof shall not be required except in so far as is otherwise provided by general rules.

(6) In the event of a landlord or other person distraining or having distrained on any goods or effects of the company within three months next before the date of a winding-up order, the debts to which priority is given by this section shall be a first charge on the goods or effects so distrained on, or the proceeds of the sale thereof :

Provided that in respect of any money paid under any such charge, the landlord or other person shall have the same rights of priority as the person to whom the payment is made.

(7) In this section the expression "the relevant date" means—

(a) In the case of a company ordered to be wound up compulsorily which had not previously commenced to be wound up voluntarily, the date of the winding-up order ; and

(b) in any other case (f), the date of the commencement of the winding up.

(a) The 1908 Act repealed the Preferential Payments in Bankruptcy Act, 1888, so far as it related to companies, and the amending Act of 1897 (see note (a) to s. 78, ante,

Note to Section 264. p. 3021, which only applied to companies. It re-enacted their provisions without substantial alteration. The sections in the text now contain similar provisions.

Until the Act of 1888 came into force, rates due and payable before the commencement of a winding up had no similar priority (notwithstanding s. 10 of the Judicature Act, 1875, and s. 40 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883) (Re Art Engraving Co., Ltd. (1889), 60 L. T. 381).

As to rates made during the winding up, see In re Blazer Fire Lighter Co., [1895] 1 Ch. 402, following In re National Arms and Ammunition Co. (1885), 28 Ch. D. 474 ; see also In re International Marine Hydropathic Co. (1884), 28 Ch. D. 470. For the earlier rule upon the point, see In re West Hartlepool Iron Co. [1876), 34 L. T. 568 ; In re Watson, Kipling & Co. (1883), 23 Ch. D. 500. As to obtaining leave to distrain for rates during a winding up by or under the supervision of the court, see ss. 172, 174, 177 and 258 of the present Act, and In re Watson, Kipling & Co., supra ; In re International Marine Hydropathic Co., supra ; In re National Arms and Ammunition Co., supra ; Re Dry Docks Corporation (1888), 39 Ch. D. 306.

As to distraint upon a liquidator personally if he is the rated occupier, see conflicting decisions in R. v. Curzon (1882), 46 L. T. 159, and Dent v. Commondale Overseers (1892), 56 J. P. 519 ; and cf. In re Wearmouth Crown Glass Co. (1882), 19 Ch. D. 640.

In Kershaw Leese & Co. v. Stockport Overseers, [1923] 2 K. B. 129, it was held that where the valuation list and consequently the rate were altered as a result of an objection to the valuation list, the rates did not become due and payable until it had been so altered.

The director of a company who under a guarantee pays rates on behalf of the company can stand in the place of the principal creditor and claim preferential payment under this section (In re Lamplugh Iron Ore Co., Ltd., [1927] 1 Ch. 308).

As to the application of this section to the winding up of an unregistered company, see s. 338. As to companies within the Stannaries, see ss. 298, 299.

(b) As to the meaning of parochial or other local rates, clerk or servant, see note (c), ante, p. 2735.

(c) Where a voluntary winding up of a company is succeeded by a compulsory order, the four months for which a clerk or servant can claim preferential payment of wages are the four months next before the resolution for the voluntary winding up (Re Havana Exploration Co., Ltd., Nathan's Claim, [1916] 1 Ch. 8).

(d) Debentures include debenture stock, bonds and any other securities of a company whether constituting a charge on the assets of the company or not (s. 330 (1)).

(e) The effect of sub-s. (1) (a), sub-s. 4 (b), and sub-s. (5) is to make the costs and expenses of the winding up payable out of the assets not comprised in the debenture security before the payment of the preferential debts, but if the general assets after the discharge of the costs and expenses of the winding up are insufficient for the payment of these preferential debts, then to the extent to which they are insufficient, the amount must be made up by the debenture holder whose security creates a floating charge upon the company's property, out of the property comprised in or subject to that charge ; or in other words, whether a creditor is an unsecured creditor or a debenture holder whose only security is that of a floating charge, he is equally to be postponed in respect of any claim of his against the assets of the company, until their preferential debts have been paid, but the free general assets must be exhausted before recourse is had to the assets charged. Where in a winding up the general assets are insufficient for the payment of the preferential creditors of the company the proper plaintiff in an action under this section to recover contribution from a debenture holder with a floating charge towards payment of the preferential debt is the liquidator acting in the name of the company (Westminster Corporation v. Chapman, [1916] 1 Ch. 161 ; 80 J. P. 74).

An injunction was granted to restrain a lessor from levying distress under his lease so as to enable the preferential claims to be paid in full (In re South Rhondda Colliery Co. (1898), Ltd., [1928] W. N. 126).

(f) By s. 227 a voluntary winding up is deemed to commence at the time of the passing of the resolution authorising the winding up ; i.e. of the extraordinary or confirmatory resolution, as the case may be.

GAS UNDERTAKINGS ACT, 1929.

(19 & 20 GEO. 5, c. 24).

An Act to amend the law with respect to gas undertakings, and for purposes connected therewith (a). [10th May, 1929.]

Power of Board of Trade to make orders increasing authorised amount of share capital or of loans (b).

1.—(1) Notwithstanding anything in any enactment (including this Act) imposing a limit on the amount of share capital which may be raised or of money which may be borrowed by undertakers, not being a local authority (c), for the purposes of their undertaking, the Board of Trade may, on the application of any such undertakers and subject to the provisions of this section, by order authorise the undertakers on such conditions as may be specified in the order for the purposes of their undertaking—

(a) to raise, at any time during the period of three years after the date on which the order comes into operation, any such amount of share capital as may be specified in the order; and

(b) to borrow on mortgage of their undertaking or by the creation and issue of debenture stock any amount not exceeding the aggregate amount of the paid up share capital of the undertaking for the time being and of any premiums paid in respect thereof.

(2) An order shall not be made under this section except with the consent of the local authority (c):

Provided that if, in the opinion of the Board of Trade, the consent of the local authority is unreasonably withheld, the Board may, in the case of applicants who have within the period of fifteen years preceding the date of the application obtained in relation to their undertaking either a special Act or a provisional order confirmed by an Act, make the order notwithstanding that such consent has not been given (d).

(3) An order under this section may contain such modifications of any enactment applying to the undertakers in respect of whom the order is made as, in the opinion of the Board, are necessary in order to give full effect to the order.

(b) See the Gas (Capital & Borrowing Powers) Rules, 1929 (S. R. & O., 1929, No. 454). Observe that this section does not apply to local authority undertakers but that the consent of the local authority must be obtained to the making of an order (sub-s. (2)).

(c) For the definition of local authority, see s. 18 of the Gas Regulation Act, 1920, ante, p. 2817 (s. 10 (2), post, p. 3029).

(d) Observe that it is only in the case of applicants to whom this proviso applies, that the consent of the local authority can be dispensed with, however unreasonably it may have been withheld.

Authorised amount of loans (a).

2. Notwithstanding anything in any enactment, undertakers, not being a local authority, may borrow for the purposes of their undertaking on mortgage of their undertaking or by the creation and issue of debenture stock, any amount not exceeding one half of the aggregate amount of the paid up share capital for the time being of the undertaking and of any premiums paid in respect thereof.

(a) This section does not apply to local authorities.

Increase of authorised amount of reserved fund or of special purposes fund (b).

3.—(1) Section thirty-one of the Gasworks Clauses Act, 1847 (a) (which provides for the formation of a reserved fund of a limited amount) and section thirty-three of that Act (which provides for the case where that fund amounts to the prescribed sum) shall, in the case of undertakers not being a local authority, have effect as if for the references therein to a sum equal to one-tenth of the nominal capital of the undertakers there were substituted references to a sum equal to one-tenth of the aggregate amount of the paid up share capital of the undertakers, of any premiums paid in respect thereof and of any outstanding loans raised by the undertakers on mortgage or by the creation and issue of debenture stock.

(2) Where any enactment applying to any such undertakers as aforesaid authorises the formation of a special purposes fund and limits the amount of that fund by reference to the paid up capital of the undertaking, the said enactment shall have effect as if for the reference to the paid up capital of the undertaking there were substituted a reference to the aggregate amount of the paid up share capital of the undertaking, of any premiums paid in respect thereof and of any outstanding loans raised by the undertakers on mortgage or by the creation and issue of debenture stock.

(3) Where at any time, by reason of any reduction in the amount of outstanding loans, the amount of a reserved fund formed by undertakers in pursuance of the said section thirty-one is in excess of the amount authorised by that section as amended by this section, the amount of the excess shall forthwith be carried by the undertakers to the credit of their net revenue account.

(4) Any special purposes fund formed by undertakers in pursuance of any enactment may be maintained at any amount to which it has lawfully been raised in pursuance of that enactment as amended by this section, notwithstanding any subsequent reduction in the amount of outstanding loans.

(b) This section does not apply to local authorities.

Extension of powers of purchase of residual products (a).

4.—(1) Any undertakers may, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any Act or Order relating to them, purchase in such quantities as they think fit from any company, body or person carrying on a gas undertaking (whether with or without statutory authority) or operating coke ovens or carrying on any process of carbonisation or gasification of coal or coke any residuals arising from the manufacture of gas, or the carrying on of any such operation or process and products arising from a primary treatment of those residuals by such company, body or person, and may exercise in relation to residuals or products so purchased the powers which would have been exerciseable by them if such residuals or products had arisen in carrying on their gas undertaking in accordance with their statutory powers.

(2) The powers conferred by this section shall be in addition to and not in derogation of any powers conferred or to be conferred upon the undertakers by any special Act.

(a) This section applies to local authority undertakers.

Supply of gas by undertakers to premises outside limits of supply (a).

5.—(1) The Board of Trade, if they are satisfied that the owner or occupier of any premises, not being within a distance of twenty-five yards from any main of the undertakers within whose limits of supply the premises are situate, desires to obtain a supply of gas from other undertakers, may, subject to the provisions of this section, by order authorise the last mentioned undertakers to supply gas to those premises on such conditions as may be specified in the order.

(2) An order under this section may contain such modifications of any enactment applying to the undertakers in respect of whom the order is made as, in the opinion of the Board, are necessary in order to give full effect to the order.

(3) An order shall not (unless, in the opinion of the Board, consent is unreasonably withheld) be made except with the consent of the undertakers within whose limits of supply the premises are situate and of the local authority (b) within whose area the premises are situate.

(4) Notwithstanding anything in this section, every order thereunder in respect of any undertakers shall be framed so as to secure that the provisions of the Gasworks Clauses Act, 1847, with respect to the breaking up of streets for the purpose of laying pipes (c) shall apply in relation to pipes for the supply of gas by the undertakers under the order as they apply in relation to pipes for the supply of gas by the undertakers under the enactments applying to them before the making of the order.

(a) This section applies to local authority undertakers. As to applications for orders under this section, see the Gas (Bordering Premises) Rules 1929, in App. II., post, p. 3346. Apart from this provision gas cannot be supplied to premises outside the area of the supply of the undertakers (see note (b) to the Gasworks Clauses Act, 1847, s. 1, ante, p. 2165), premises which may be supplied under an order made under this section must be within 25 yards from a main of the supplying undertakers although outside their area of supply. As to the calculation of this distance, see the cases cited in note (e) to s. 23 of the P. H. A., 1875, ante, p. 90.

(b) Observe that the consent of both the undertakers and of the local authority in whose area the premises to be supplied are situate must be obtained but can be dispensed with in any case if unreasonably withheld.

(c) I.e. ss. 6–12, ante, pp. 2167–2170.

Undertakers supplying more than a certain quantity of gas to charge on basis of British thermal units (a).

6.—(1) Where any undertakers who are not authorised by any enactment or by any order under section one of the principal Act to charge for gas according to the number of British thermal units supplied, have, in any year subsequent to the year nineteen hundred and twenty-seven, supplied more than twenty million cubic feet of gas, they shall, in respect of gas supplied by them on or after the appointed day (b), charge therefor according to the number of British thermal units supplied, and the maximum or standard price, in respect of gas supplied by any such undertakers on or after the appointed day, shall be a price per therm of such an amount as is produced by dividing by five the maximum or standard price per thousand cubic feet authorised immediately before the appointed day by any enactment applying to the undertakers.

(2) For the purpose of giving effect to this section, the Board of Trade shall, in respect of each of the undertakers to whom this section applies, make an order which may contain such provisions as are authorised or required by subsection (4) (c) of section one of the principal Act to be contained in an order under that section.

(3) Sections two, five, six, seven and nine (d) of the principal Act shall apply to all undertakers to whom this section applies as if those undertakers were undertakers with respect to whom an order under that Act had been made and as if the provisions contained in this section or in any order made thereunder were contained in that Act.

(4) So much of any special Act or provisional order applying to any such undertakers as makes provision with respect to the quality, pressure, or purity of gas supplied by them shall, as from the appointed day, cease to have effect.

(5) For the purposes of this section, the appointed day shall—

(a) as respects any undertakers who, in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-eight, have supplied more than twenty million cubic feet of gas, be such day not later than the first day of April, nineteen hundred and thirty, as the Board of Trade may prescribe by the order made under this section in respect of these undertakers; and

(b) as respects any other undertakers to whom this section applies, be the first day of January in the second year after the year in which they first supplied more than twenty million cubic feet of gas.

(a) This section applies to local authority undertakers. The Board of Trade had power under s. 1 (5) of the Gas Regulation Act, 1920, to make orders applying a thermal basis of charge to any undertakers who had not applied for such an order before August 4th, 1922. The section in the text requires an order of a similar nature to be made in the case of undertakers who have supplied more than 20,000,000 cub. ft. of gas in any year since 1927. An order made under this section will have a similar effect to one made under the 1920 Act.

Extension of Board of Trade's power to make special orders under principal Act (a).

7. The power of the Board of Trade to make special orders under section ten (b) of the principal Act shall include powers to make a special order—

(a) authorising the applicants therefor to construct gasworks or manufacture or supply gas in any area within the limits of supply of any existing undertakers who have failed to lay down or provide mains for the supply of gas in the area, and prohibiting the existing undertakers from exercising in the area any of the powers conferred on them in respect of their undertaking (c);

(b) providing, where the applicants for the order are a company authorised by any enactment to supply water or electricity as well as gas, that any loan lawfully raised by the company for the purposes of so much of their undertaking as relates to gas may be secured by a charge upon the whole of their undertaking (d);

(c) making provision for modifying any enactment regulating the gas undertaking to which the order relates by inserting therein provisions corresponding to provisions contained in any special Acts or provisional orders regulating other gas undertakings (e):

Provided that no order shall be made under paragraph (a) of this section in relation to any area within the limits of supply of existing undertakers unless five years have elapsed since the date on which those undertakers first obtained their powers to lay down or provide mains for the supply of gas in that area.

(c) Such an order will enable a progressive undertaking to extend its limits of supply to the detriment of an undertaking which is not serving its whole area of supply. See the proviso to this provision at the end of the section.

(d) An order of this nature may be of use to a local authority with a successful electricity undertaking in expanding a small gas undertaking.

(e) This provision will enable special orders to be kept up to date and will avoid the necessity for applications to Parliament for private bills to secure powers which have been obtained by one undertaker from Parliament.

Minor amendments of principal Act.

8. The amendments specified in the second column of the Schedule to this Act, being minor amendments of the principal Act, shall be made in the provisions of that Act specified in the first column of that Schedule (a).

(a) These amendments have been incorporated in the text of the Act of 1920, where it is set out at pp. 2807 et seq., ante.

(5) If any person uses any unregistered premises for the manufacture or sale of artificial cream in contravention of this section, or obstructs any such officer as aforesaid in the execution of his powers under this section, or fails to give any such officer all reasonable assistance in his power, or to furnish him with any information he may reasonably require, he shall be guilty of an offence against this Act (e).

Provisions of Food and Drugs (Adulteration) Act, 1928, applied.

1 (a). Where an employer is charged with an offence against this Act, he shall be entitled, upon information duly laid by him, to have any other person whom he charges as the actual offender brought before the court at the time appointed for hearing the charge, and if, after the commission of the offence has been proved, the employer proves to the satisfaction of the court that he had used due diligence to enforce the execution of this Act, and that the said other person had committed

Schedule. the offence in question without his knowledge, consent or connivance, the said other person shall be summarily convicted of the offence, and the employer shall be exempt from any penalty.

2 (b). Subject to the provisions of this schedule a defendant shall be discharged from any prosecution under this Act for selling, or offering or exposing for sale artificial cream, if he proves to the satisfaction of the court that he had purchased the article in question as cream, and with a written warranty or invoice to that effect, and that he had no reason to believe at the time of the commission of the alleged offence that the article was not cream and that at that time the article was in the same state as when he purchased it.

3 (b). A warranty or invoice shall only be a defence to proceedings under this Act if—

(a) the defendant has within seven days of the service of the summons sent to the prosecutor a copy of the warranty or invoice with a written notice stating that he intends to rely on it and specifying the name and address of the person from whom he received it and has also sent a like notice of his intention to that person; and

5 (b). Where the defendant is a servant of the person who purchased the article under a warranty or invoice he shall be entitled to rely on the provisions of this schedule in the same way as his employer would have been entitled to do if he had been the defendant, provided that the servant further proves that he had no reason to believe that the article was not cream.

7 (c). Every person who, in respect of artificial cream sold by him as principal or agent, gives to the purchaser a false warranty in writing, shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, unless he proves to the satisfaction of the court that when he gave the warranty he had reason to believe that the statements or descriptions contained therein were true.

8 (c). Where the defendant in a prosecution under this Act has been discharged under the provisions of this schedule relating to warranties, any proceedings under this schedule for giving the warranty relied on by the defendant in the prosecution, may be taken as well before a court having jurisdiction in the place where the contravention of this Act took place as before a court having jurisdiction in the place where the warranty was given.

COMPRISING ORDERS, ETC., AND OTHER DOCUMENTS ARRANGED IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER OF SUBJECTS.

ACCOUNTS AND AUDIT.

See also Rating and Valuation.

Although by section 58 of the L. G. A., 1894 (ante, p. 1023), it is (amongst other things) enacted that the accounts of district councils shall be made up in such form as the L. G. B. prescribe, neither the Board nor their Successors, the Ministry of Health, have since prescribed any such form. The L. G. B. stated in a circular of December 24th, 1894, that, pending the issue of an Order for Accounts, rural district councils should keep their accounts in the form adopted by their predecessors the rural sanitary authorities. As regards the accounts of urban district councils, in previous editions there has been included the General Order of March 22nd, 1880, this order is still applicable to urban authorities, but is, for all practical purposes, now obsolete and it has accordingly been omitted.

PURCHASE OF PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS—MEMORANDUM.

Memorandum as to the Legality of Expenses incurred by Local Authorities in purchasing Periodical Publications.

The Local Government Board have recently had under consideration the question of the legality of the purchase by local authorities, at the cost of the funds under their control, of periodical publications which contain reports of decisions of the courts of law, or other information connected with matters subject to their jurisdiction.

Hitherto the Board have generally considered that the local rates could not legally be expended in the purchase of the publications referred to.

Recently, however, they have seen reason to doubt whether this view could be supported, and they have therefore consulted the law officers of the Crown upon the point. The effect of the opinion given by the law officers is, that if the publications referred to contain information so immediately connected with the discharge of their duties by the local authorities as to be likely to enable them to discharge those duties more efficiently than they could without such publications, the local authorities may legally make the purchase at the cost of the rates.

The Minister of Health in pursuance of his powers under sections 3 and 8 of the District Auditors Act, 1879, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following Order :—

5. The Financial Statements Order, 1918, and the Order of the Local Government Board, dated the 30th day of June, 1902, prescribing the form of the financial statement to be prepared by the Council of a metropolitan borough, are hereby rescinded:

Provided that, notwithstanding such rescission, the said Orders shall continue to apply in respect of the audit of the accounts of a local authority or of the Council of a metropolitan borough (as the case may be) for a financial year or period ended on any day prior to the 30th day of September, 1921.

6. This Order shall come into operation on the 24th day of December, 1921.

CIRCULAR OF MINISTRY OF HEALTH TO LOCAL AUTHORITIES, DATED DECEMBER 20TH, 1921.

I.—AUDIT STAMP DUTY.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to forward the enclosed copy of an Order made by the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury in pursuance of section 61 (1) of the Finance Act, 1921, fixing a new scale of stamp duty to be charged on local authorities in respect of the audit of their accounts by District Auditors. The Associations representing the principal classes of local authorities have been consulted on the subject.

The Order, which is termed the Audit Stamp Duty (Local Authorities) Order, 1921, comes into force on the 24th instant, and, with the exception specified in Article 3 (b), will apply to the accounts of local authorities for any financial period ending on or after the 30th September last. The old scale will apply to all accounts for periods ended before that date.

It will be observed that under the new scale deduction may be made from the expenditure comprised in the financial statement, as audited and allowed by the district auditor, of the following items in calculating the net expenditure on which stamp duty is payable:—

(1) Sums paid in pursuance of a precept;
(2) Grants paid to other local authorities in conformity with a statutory requirement or direction of a Government Department;
(3) Repayment of loan made out of money reborrowed or out of funds which will be replaced by money reborrowed;
(4) One half of any expenditure (exclusive of any repayment of loan as in (3)) met by loan during the period to which the financial statement relates; and
(5) Payment to the Motor Tax Account of sums payable into the Exchequer by virtue of the Roads Act, 1920.

No deductions other than the above are allowable.

II.—STATUTORY FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

In connection with the new scale of audit stamp duty it has been found necessary to revise the form of statement in which the expenditure of the principal classes of local authorities should be presented to the district auditor for certification. After consultation with representatives of the Institute of Municipal Treasurers and Accountants, a new Order, entitled the Financial Statements Order, 1921, has been made by the Minister, a copy of which is enclosed. This Order, which comes into operation on the same date as the Audit Stamp Duties (Local Authorities) Order, 1921, prescribes the form of financial statement to be used by local authorities in respect of such of their accounts as are audited by the District Auditor, and, with the exception mentioned in Article 3 (4), will apply to any statement for a financial period ending on or after 30th September last.

The only instructions appended to the form of statement in the new Order are as follows:—

(1) For the purpose of ascertaining the figures to be entered in the financial statement, the officer responsible for the statement shall make up from the ledger a schedule setting out the total amount credited and debited to each account, but so that no one item is included more than once in such Schedule, and shall include all the expenditure under each heading without deduction of any income connected therewith.

(2) The schedule shall be submitted to the District Auditor at the audit, and preserved for future reference.

The direction in these instructions that the same item is not to be included more than once is of importance in connection with deduction items, which appear as credits in expenditure accounts, such as—

(a) correcting or adjusting transfers,
(b) recoveries of overpayments, or
(c) discounts obtained.

On the other hand, the direction that expenditure is to be entered in full without deduction of income connected therewith, will preclude the deduction of credit entries appearing in expenditure accounts when the items represent actual income arising out of the expenditure, and not transfers of expenditure to other accounts or corrections of overpayments. Thus, items of the following classes which sometimes appear as contra credits are to be treated as income—

(a) charges for work executed,
(b) contributions in aid of expenditure, or
(c) proceeds of sale of any kind.

There does not appear to be any difficulty in applying these principles in distinguishing between the cases which demand net entry and those which demand gross entry. The same principles should be applied on the income side. Thus, abatements of charge should always be treated as deductions from income, but costs connected with income and its collection should be treated as expenditure.

Under the Financial Statements Order, 1918, now rescinded, contributions to sinking funds and other similar funds, as well as payments out of such funds, were treated as expenditure. The new Order contemplates that transfers from one fund to another fund of the same authority should not be regarded as expenditure of the authority, and therefore provides that only the final payments out of the fund shall be treated as expenditure. The change will secure uniformity in the treatment of contributions to reserve funds, sinking funds, pension funds, trading revenue accounts, housing (assisted scheme) revenue accounts, &c., where there is now great diversity of treatment. The effect of the change will be that in all cases stamp duty will be charged only on the final expenditure of the funds, and not, as hitherto, sometimes on the contributions to the fund, sometimes on the fund expenditure, and sometimes on both.

Payments in respect of rate or rent charges, services rendered, or supplies made by one fund to another, should not be treated as contributions but should rank as expenditure of the authority.

The new form of financial statement has been so arranged as to provide for the exclusion of any duplication, while at the same time allowing the charges falling upon the several funds or revenues to be shown at their correct amounts.

Moneys invested and remaining as part of the unexpended balances of the authority, including loans advanced by them, should not be treated as expenditure. Conversely, the proceeds of sale of investments and the repayment of loans advanced by the authority should not be treated as income. Profits and losses on such transactions, however, should be treated as income or expenditure, as the case may be, and costs connected with the transactions should also be treated as expenditure.

Where the new form of epitome of accounts is in use for the purposes of the Local Taxation Returns it will take the place of the schedule referred to in the instructions. It will be found that the totals required for the financial statement can be readily extracted from the epitome.

In connection with the stamping of the statement the Commissioners of Inland Revenue require that in every case, where the duty chargeable exceeds £5, it shall be denoted by an impressed stamp. In no such case should an adhesive stamp be used for the purpose.

(b) Any overseer by whom money is paid into the account of the overseers at a bank shall be subject to the same obligations as an officer of a local authority.

THE CLERK OF THE PEACE (TAXATION ALLOWANCE) ORDER, 1922, DATED SEPTEMBER 1ST, 1922, MADE BY THE MINISTER OF HEALTH.

Whereas by an Order dated the 21st day of November, 1844, issued in pursuance of section 39 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1844 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1844"), the Poor Law Commissioners declared that the Clerk of the Peace of every county or place in England and Wales should be allowed for the taxation of every bill due to any solicitor in respect of business performed on behalf of any parish or union after the rate of fourpence per sheet or folio of seventy-two words;

And whereas by an Order dated the 20th day of April, 1877, issued in pursuance of section 249 of the Public Health Act, 1875 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1875"), the Local Government Board made similar provision in regard to the taxation of every bill due to any solicitor in respect of legal business performed on behalf of any local authority whose accounts are required by the Act of 1875 to be audited;

And whereas the Master of the Crown Office has fixed the rate of allowance to Clerks of the Peace in respect of taxations under section 39 of the Act of 1844 and under section 249 of the Act of 1875 as herein declared in lieu of the rate hereinbefore recited:

Now therefore the Minister of Health in pursuance of his powers under the Act of 1844, the Act of 1875 and any other statutes in that behalf, hereby orders and declares as follows:—

1. This Order may be cited as "The Clerk of the Peace (Taxation Allowance) Order, 1922," and shall come into operation forthwith.

2. A Clerk of the Peace shall be entitled to remuneration after the rate of sixpence per folio of seventy-two words for the taxation of bills under section 39 of the Act of 1844 and section 249 of the Act of 1875.

3. The said Orders of the 21st day of November, 1844, and the 20th day of April, 1877, are hereby rescinded.

DECISIONS OF A DISTRICT AUDITOR.

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO THE MODES OF APPEALING AND OF APPLYING FOR A DECLARATION.

A.—Appeals or Applications to the High Court or the Minister of Health.

1.—(a) Any person aggrieved by a district auditor's decision may appeal, where the decision relates to an amount exceeding five hundred pounds, to the High Court and, in any other case, to the High Court or to the Minister of Health. The Court or Minister, as the case may be, upon the receipt of the appeal is empowered to confirm, vary or quash the auditor's decision.

(b) Any person surcharged by a district auditor, whether or not he appeals as above, may apply to the High Court or to the Minister of Health, as the case may be, for a declaration that in relation to the subject matter of the surcharge he acted reasonably or in the belief that his action was authorised by law, and the Court or Minister, if satisfied that there is proper ground for doing so, may make a declaration to that effect and may, if satisfied that the person surcharged ought fairly to be excused, relieve him either wholly or partly from personal liability in respect of the surcharge.

(c) In any case in which an appeal is made to the Minister of Health, he may, and shall, if so directed by the High Court, state in the form of a special case for the opinion of the Court any question of law arising in the course of the appeal, but otherwise the decision of the Minister shall not be subject to appeal to any Court. An appellant may apply to the Court to direct the Minister of Health to state a special case.

2. The procedure in respect of appeals and applications to the High Court, including applications to that Court for an Order directing the Minister of Health to state a special case in accordance with paragraph 1 (c) above is laid down by Rules of Court which have been made under section 2 (3) of the Act.

[These Rules are set out at p. 3042, post.]

B.—Appeals or Applications to the Minister of Health.

3. Any person appealing or applying to the Minister of Health under paragraphs 1 (a) or 1 (b) above should do so within six weeks from the date of the auditor's decision. He may also apply for a personal hearing by a person appointed for the purpose by the Minister.

4. Any person desiring to appeal, should, unless the auditor has already entered his reasons in the book of account in which his certificate is entered, apply to him to enter his reasons in that book; and for this purpose the book should be submitted to the auditor.

5. When the auditor has entered his reasons, an exact copy of them and also a copy of his certificate, including his signature and the date of the entry, should be forwarded to the Ministry with the appeal.

An application for a declaration under paragraph 1 (b) above, in any case in which an appeal is not made, should also be accompanied by these documents.

6. The appeal and/or application should be by letter on foolscap paper, addressed to the Secretary, Ministry of Health, Whitehall, London, S.W.1, and must be signed by the appellant in his own handwriting. Where two or more persons are mentioned in the auditor's certificate, the appeal and/or application should be signed by each of those desirous of appealing or making an application.

7. The appeal and/or application should contain a full statement of the facts which the appellant or applicant may desire to lay before the Minister; and the grounds upon which the appeal or application is made should be explicitly set out. If there are any documents bearing upon the matter, they should be forwarded to the Ministry; and where there are resolutions of the local authority with reference to the subject-matter of the expenditure, copies of the resolutions should also be sent.

Unless an appeal and/or application be made against the auditor's decision, the sum certified by him to be due should be paid over as follows:—

(i) Money certified to be due in the accounts (including accounts of committees and officers) of a—

(1) County council, or
(2) Visiting committee of a lunatic asylum, or
(3) Metropolitan borough council, or
(4) Town council, or
(5) District council, or
(6) Port sanitary authority, or
(7) Parish council or parish meeting, or
(8) Any other authority to whom section 247 (9) of the Public Health Act, 1875, applies should be paid within fourteen days from the date of the auditor's certificate, to the treasurer of the authority; or in the case of a parish council or parish meeting having no treasurer, to the person or persons who receive money on their behalf.

(ii) Money certified to be due in the accounts (including the accounts of officers) of a—

(1) Board of guardians, or
(2) Board of management for a Poor Law School or Asylum District, should be paid over within seven days to the treasurer of the authority.

The reference to officers in paragraph (i) above applies to the managers of any school to whom any receipts or payments of money under the Education Act, 1921, are entrusted by the local education authority—see section 130 of the Act.

60. The evidence upon the hearing of an appeal or application shall be by affidavit except in so far as the Court at the hearing may direct oral evidence to be given.

61. The notice of motion shall be served, before the expiration of six weeks after the date of the decision to which it relates, upon the district auditor for the time being in charge of the audit district in which the matter has arisen, and also on the local authority in relation to whose accounts or to the accounts of whose officer the decision was given, if that authority is not the appellant.

62. The notice of motion shall state the grounds of appeal or the grounds for the application, as the case may be, and the date mentioned in the notice for the hearing of the appeal or application shall be not less than twenty-eight days after the service of the notice.

63.—(1) The appellant or applicant, as the case may be, shall within seven days after service upon the district auditor of the notice of motion file at the Crown Office a copy of the notice and an affidavit or affidavits setting out the reasons stated by the auditor for his decision and the facts upon which the appellant or applicant intends to rely at the hearing and thereupon the motion shall be set down for hearing in the Crown paper.

(2) If the notice of motion is not set down in accordance with this Rule, either the local authority or the district auditor may apply to the Court, upon notice to the appellant or applicant, as the case may be, for an order discharging the notice of motion and for the costs of the application.

64. In the case of an application under subsection (2) of section 2 of the Act—

(a) The applicant shall cause notice of his intended application to be published once at least in each of two successive weeks in some newspaper circulating in the area of the authority to whose accounts or to the accounts of whose officer the surcharge relates, and one at least of such publications shall be made before the date on which a copy of the notice of motion is filed at the Crown Office;

(b) The notice shall set out the nature of the intended application and shall state that any ratepayer or owner of property in the area may, upon payment at the usual rate, obtain at an address to be specified in the notice copies of the notice of motion and of any affidavit intended to be used in support thereof, and may appear at the hearing of the application and may, whether he so appears or not, file an affidavit in opposition to the application;

(c) Upon the hearing of any application any ratepayer or owner of property in the area may appear and be heard in opposition thereto;

(d) Any such ratepayer or owner, in lieu of appearing in opposition to the application, may, not less than four days before the hearing, transmit by post to the Crown Office, together with a fee of 5*s*., an unstamped affidavit setting forth the grounds of his opposition and any facts which he may consider to have a material bearing upon the application, and the Court shall take into consideration the contents of such affidavit;

(e) No order shall be made for the payment of costs by or to a ratepayer or owner of property who files an affidavit, or appears in opposition to the application;

(f) An affidavit proving compliance with paragraphs (a) and (b) of this Rule shall be filed at the hearing of the application.

65. The appellant or applicant, as the case may be, shall deliver forthwith to the authority and to the district auditor a copy of any affidavit filed under Rule 63 in support of the motion, and any person (including a ratepayer or owner of property) intending to oppose the motion shall, four days at least before the hearing, deliver to the appellant or applicant, as the case may be, a copy of any affidavit intended to be filed by him in opposition to the motion. Except by leave of the Court an affidavit shall not be used at the hearing unless a copy or copies thereof have been delivered in accordance with this Rule.

66. Notice of appeal against a surcharge and notice of an application in respect of the same surcharge may be combined in one notice of motion, and facts relevant either to the appeal or to the application may be set out in one affidavit.

67. Where under Rule 61 a notice of motion is served upon a district auditor other than the auditor who gave the decision, that auditor may appear in opposition thereto in all respects as if he were the auditor by whom the decision was given, and these Rules and any statutory provisions as to costs or otherwise shall apply accordingly.

68.—(1) An application for an Order directing the Minister of Health to state a special case under subsection (1) of section 2 of the Act shall be made to a Divisional Court of the King's Bench Division by way of an ex parte motion for a rule nisi supported by affidavit.

(2) No such motion shall be entertained by the Court unless—

(a) application was made to the Minister to state a special case before his decision upon the appeal was communicated to the appellant; and

(b) the motion is made on one of the first three days on which the Court sits for hearing ex parte motions next after the date on which the Minister's refusal to state a special case is communicated to the appellant.

69.—(1) A special case stated by the Minister of Health under subsection (1) of section 2 shall be signed by him or by such person as he may authorise in that behalf.

(2) The Minister shall deliver copies of the special case to each party to the appeal and shall file it at the Crown Office and it shall thereupon be set down for argument in the Crown paper as if it were a case stated by justices.

LOCAL AUTHORITIES, ENGLAND.

AUDIT OF ACCOUNTS.

THE LOCAL AUTHORITIES (AUDIT) ORDER, 1928, DATED MARCH 19, 1928, MADE BY THE MINISTER OF HEALTH.

Whereas by the Orders of which particulars are given in the first schedule to this Order, the Local Government Board made rules under subsection (3) of section 58 of the Local Government Act, 1894, section 14 of the Local Government (Emergency Provisions) Act, 1916, and other enactments, modifying in relation to the accounts of certain local authorities the provisions of subsections (3) and (10) of section 247 of the Public Health Act, 1875, in their application to the notice of audit, the abstract of accounts and the report of the auditor;

And whereas the provisions of section 14 of the Local Government (Emergency Provisions) Act, 1916, were by section 1 of the Expiring Laws Act, 1925, made permanent;

And whereas it is expedient that the said Orders should be consolidated and amended and further provision made as hereinafter mentioned:

Now, therefore, the Minister of Health, in pursuance of his powers under section 58 of the Local Government Act, 1894, section 14 of the Local Government (Emergency Provisions) Act, 1916, and any other powers in that behalf, hereby orders as follows:—

ANIMALS: DISEASES OF.

THE DISEASES OF ANIMALS ACTS, 1894 TO 1927 (a).

(a) The Diseases of Animals Acts are not printed in this work, as they are outside the scope of the work and the local authorities for the purposes of the Acts are the county and borough councils. In view, however, of the interrelation between the diseases of animals and the public health of the inhabitants it has been considered desirable to print this summary of the Acts prepared and published by the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries.

The suppression of contagious and infectious diseases in animals is of primary importance to the agricultural industry of every country, and practically every country in the world has adopted measures of some kind for that purpose.

Appendix II.

Records exist of serious loss suffered for several centuries past from animal epidemics, but no organised attempt at control was made in Great Britain until 1848, when the prevalence of sheep-pox, introduced from the Continent, led to the passing of two Acts of Parliament under which that disease and the cattle-plague outbreaks of 1865 were dealt with. These Acts proved insufficient to prevent the spread of cattle plague throughout the country until the Cattle Diseases Prevention Act, 1866, was passed; this required the compulsory slaughter, with compensation, of all affected animals, and empowered the slaughter of animals in contact therewith. This measure succeeded in eradicating the disease by September, 1867, and the experience of these two diseases led to the passing of the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1869, which conferred extensive powers upon the Privy Council and local authorities to deal with animal diseases, including pleuro-pneumonia and foot-and-mouth disease, as well as cattle-plague and sheep-pox. The Act of 1869 also imposed the first effective restrictions on the importation of animals from certain foreign countries where disease was prevalent. Agricultural opinion was not, however, favourable to the full exercise of the powers conferred by the Act of 1869, and the country had to experience two more outbreaks of cattle-plague (1872 and 1877), and very extensive outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease and contagious pleuro-pneumonia of cattle, before the Act of 1869 was revised by the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, which laid the foundation for the methods now in force. The Act of 1878 and its subsequent amendments were consolidated by the Diseases of Animals Act, 1894, which, with its nine amending Acts of 1896 to 1927, confers the powers upon which State action at the present time is based.

Main Objects of the Acts; Central and Local Organisation.—Generally speaking, the Acts impose upon the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, as the central authority, the duty of devising and putting into operation measures for the control and eradication of contagious diseases amongst animals in England, Wales and Scotland. They confer upon the Minister wide powers to make Orders for these and other specified purposes, including—

(a) The declaration of infected places and areas;

(b) The prohibition or regulation of the movement of animals into, out of, or within such places and areas, and of the exposure of animals at markets, sales and exhibitions;

(c) The control of the importation of foreign animals, carcasses, fodder, etc., for the purpose of preventing the introduction of disease from without;

(d) The muzzling and control of dogs; and

(e) The protection of animals and poultry from unnecessary suffering during transit by land or sea.

Thus, while indicating the general lines of the procedure to be adopted, the Acts empower the Minister to prescribe the details by administrative Orders which have the full force of an Act of Parliament.

For the discharge of these duties the Minister has established the Diseases of Animals Division of the Ministry, under the direction of the chief veterinary officer, assisted by a professional staff consisting of a deputy chief veterinary officer, 9 superintending inspectors, 32 divisional inspectors and 63 inspectors, and also by a lay administrative and clerical staff numbering 40. The professional staff is distributed between the head office, general field work, inspection of animals at ports and the Ministry's laboratory. Two of the senior inspectors are stationed in South America.

With certain exceptions, the Acts require the local authorities and the police generally to execute and enforce the provisions of the Acts, and of the Orders of the Minister thereunder. The local authorities constituted for the purposes of these Acts number 332, and comprise the county councils, the county borough councils and the councils of certain other boroughs and burghs. All these authorities are required to appoint their own veterinary and other inspectors to carry out the duties imposed upon them, and the expenses of the local authorities, with certain exceptions, have to be defrayed out of the local rate. In most of the counties the police have been appointed as inspectors. An inspector of the Ministry or of a local authority has special powers of entry upon any premises or on any vessel on which he has reason to believe that disease exists, or that the Acts or Orders of the Minister, or the Regulations of a local authority, are being infringed. In addition, an inspector of the Ministry may enter any premises to ascertain whether pleuro-pneumonia, foot-and-mouth disease or swine fever exists thereon.

Diseases dealt with under the Acts.—The Acts and Orders of the Minister at the present time require the notification of cases or suspected cases of the following twelve diseases: cattle plague, contagious pleuro-pneumonia of cattle, foot-and-mouth disease, sheep-pox, swine fever, sheep scab, anthrax, rabies, glanders, epizootic lymphangitis, parasitic mange in horses, asses or mules, and certain forms of bovine tuberculosis. These may be divided into two classes:—

(1) Those in which the diagnosis is in the hands of the Ministry's officers, i.e. cattle-plague, pleuro-pneumonia, foot-and-mouth disease, sheep-pox and swine fever; and

(2) Those in which the diagnosis is carried out primarily by officers of the local authorities, i.e. anthrax, sheep scab, glanders, rabies, epizootic lymphangitis, parasitic mange of equines and bovine tuberculosis. In anthrax and rabies, however, the diagnosis is subject to confirmation by the Ministry, and in sheep scab, glanders and tuberculosis the owner has a right of appeal to the Ministry against the diagnosis.

Of the above diseases, no outbreaks have occurred in Great Britain of cattle plague since 1877, pleuro-pneumonia since 1898, sheep-pox since 1850, epizootic lymphangitis since 1906, or of rabies since 1922. The efforts of the authorities are therefore directed mainly against other diseases.

Responsibilities of Stock Owners and Veterinary Practitioners; Reporting of Disease and Separation of Affected Animals.—Every person having in his possession or under his charge an animal or carcass affected with or suspected of any of the notifiable diseases above-named is required:

(a) As far as practicable to keep that animal or carcass separate from animals not so affected; and

(b) With all practicable speed to give notice, to a police constable, of the fact that the animal or carcass is so affected or suspected.

Section 57 (1) of the Act of 1894 provides that the owner or person in charge of an animal, charged with an offence against the Act relative to disease, shall be presumed to have known of the existence of the disease or illness, unless and until he shows to the satisfaction of the Court that he had not knowledge thereof, and could not with reasonable diligence have obtained that knowledge.

Any veterinary surgeon who finds any notifiable disease is likewise required to report such cases to the local authority.

An important provision contained in the Orders of the Minister dealing with the specified diseases is the prohibition of the exposure of any affected or suspected animal in a market, fairground, saleyard or place of exhibition, and of the movement or grazing of such an animal on a highway, road or lane, or on common or unenclosed land, or of its movement by rail or water.

The Acts and Orders impose upon stockowners and the public generally an obligation to afford inspectors and police all necessary facilities for the performance of their duties, and any obstruction is an indictable offence. Persons guilty of an offence in respect of these or other matters referred to in the Acts and Orders are liable to a penalty of £50, or £5 in respect of each animal where more than 10 animals are concerned, and in certain cases to imprisonment.

Slaughter and Compensation: Remedial Treatment.—In the case of cattle plague and pleuro-pneumonia the Acts render it obligatory upon the Ministry to slaughter all affected animals, with payment of compensation. In the case of sheep-pox slaughter by the local authority is compulsory.

In foot-and-mouth disease slaughter is not obligatory, but may be carried out at the discretion either of the Ministry or of the local authority. In practice, in cases of foot-and-mouth disease, slaughter of affected and in-contact animals, accompanied by stringent restrictions on movement of animals in infected areas, is adopted by the Ministry as being the most effective and economical method of maintaining the comparative freedom of this country from the disease, regard being had to present pathological knowledge. This disease is the subject of investigation by a scientific research committee appointed by the Minister of Agriculture.

In the case of swine fever also, slaughter is within the discretion of the Ministry. As a "stamping out" policy, slaughter in swine fever was given a prolonged trial over many years at considerable public expense, but without success. The attempt to stamp it out was abandoned in 1915 in favour of control by isolation of infected herds, and slaughter is now carried out only where necessary to provide a means of diagnosis by post-mortem examination.

Of the other notifiable diseases, slaughter of affected animals is obligatory upon the local authority in cases of glanders and certain forms of bovine tuberculosis, with compensation to the owners; and also of dogs and cats (but without compensation) found to be affected with rabies, or known to have been bitten by a rabid dog or cat.

Cases of sheep scab and parasitic mange in equines are dealt with by the application of remedial measures; sheep scab by the dipping of the affected sheep twice with a short interval (not less than 7 days and not more than 14 days) between the two dippings; and mange by a dressing or other remedy approved by a veterinary surgeon. Anthrax in animals is nearly always fatal, and slaughter is expressly avoided, as the spilling of the blood, which swarms with anthrax bacilli, is attended with great danger both to other animals and to human beings. All stockowners and butchers are cautioned against the cutting of the carcasses of animals which have died of anthrax or suspected anthrax. Cremation is the usual method of destruction of the carcasses.

The above measures are accompanied in every case by restrictions on the movement of the animals on the infected premises, with the object of preventing the spread of infection to other stock.

Principles of Compensation.—The amount of compensation payable for animals slaughtered by the Ministry or local authority varies with the disease and according to whether the animal is diseased or not. The object of the provision made in the Act of 1894 for the payment of compensation is frequently misinterpreted. Compensation is not provided for the purpose of reimbursing an owner for losses incurred through outbreaks of disease amongst his stock; such losses are ordinary trade risks connected with the live stock industry, and are to some extent insurable. Compensation is provided to enable the Ministry or local authority compulsorily to acquire the ownership of any animals which it considers should be slaughtered in the public interest. These animals become the property of the Ministry or local authority, and the owner is paid compensation according to a prescribed scale based upon the market value of the animals when slaughtered. The Ministry and the local authority have power, however, to withhold compensation, either wholly or partially, in respect of an animal slaughtered under the Acts and Orders where the owner or person in charge of the animal has, in the judgment of the Ministry or the local authority, as the case may be, been guilty, in relation to the animal, of any offence against the Diseases of Animals Acts or Orders made thereunder. This power to withhold compensation is sometimes exercised, more particularly in cases in which the owner or person in charge has been convicted for the very serious offence of failing to report disease.

Other Diseases: Provision for Research.—The Act of 1894 empowers the Minister, by Order, to add other diseases to the list of those to be dealt with by State action. Some of the more serious diseases in animals, such as contagious abortion in cattle, Johne's disease, etc., are not suitable for addition to the list of notifiable diseases, either because the nature of the disease renders this impracticable, or because the imposition of such measures of control as would be necessary would interfere unduly with the industry and thus make the remedy worse than the disease. Such diseases, therefore, are not notifiable, but the more important are dealt with in leaflets of advice which are available for the use of farmers.

In addition, scientific research is conducted into various contagious and infectious diseases of animals, including foot-and-mouth disease, contagious abortion in cattle, mares and ewes, various sheep diseases such as louping ill and scrapie, tuberculosis, Johne's disease, mastitis in cows, quarter evil in cattle, etc. These researches are conducted either at the Ministry's Veterinary Laboratory (New Haw, Weybridge, Surrey) or at various institutes aided by Government grants.

Measures for Preventing Introduction of Infection from Abroad.—One of the most important aspects of the problem of keeping Great Britain free from disease is the prevention of the introduction of disease from abroad. Our insular position gives us special advantages in this respect, but these are limited by the fact that we are not self-supporting either in regard to foodstuffs or various raw materials for manufacture,

Appendix II. etc. Without undue interference with these necessities, it has been possible to provide a considerable measure of protection against the introduction of infection by live animals, carcasses, hay, straw, packing materials and animal foodstuffs by the following action :—

(i) Prohibition of landing of live animals from abroad, except—

(a) From Ireland, the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man, subject to certain conditions ;

(b) Canadian store cattle for feeding purposes, subject to the provisions of the Act of 1922 ; and

(c) Fat cattle or sheep from Canada, the United States, the Union of South Africa (including the Mandated Territory of South West Africa), Southern Rhodesia, Iceland and the Faroe Islands, subject to slaughter at an imported animals' wharf at the port of landing within 10 days after landing.

(ii) Prohibition of the landing of fresh carcasses and animal products from the Continent of Europe, with certain minor exceptions.

(iii) Prohibition of landing of hay and straw from countries infected with foot-and-mouth disease.

(iv) Requirement that packing materials used for goods and meat, whether imported or not, shall not be brought into contact with animals and shall be destroyed when their use as packing material is finished.

(v) Requirement that all waste animal foodstuffs or swill containing animal matter, whether of foreign or home origin, shall be boiled before being fed to or brought into contact with animals.

(vi) Prohibition of landing of dogs and other canine animals from abroad, except by licence from the Ministry and subject to six months' quarantine on approved premises, as a protection against rabies.

(vii) Control of importation of horses, asses and mules, which are required to be accompanied by a veterinary certificate in specified terms, as a protection against glanders, epizootic lymphangitis, dourine, and certain other diseases of equines.

Protection of Animals and Poultry from Avoidable Suffering during Transit.—In addition to the measures above described for the suppression and prevention of animal diseases, the Ministry is charged under the Diseases of Animals Acts with the duty of making such regulations as may be considered necessary for protecting animals and poultry from avoidable suffering during transit on land or by sea, and for securing to them a proper supply of food and water. Orders with this object in view have been made as follows :

(a) Transit of Animals Order of 1927, dealing with the carriage of animals between ports in Great Britain and between Great Britain and Ireland, the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man, and also the carriage of animals by rail in Great Britain. This Order includes requirements as to the nature of the fittings for vessels engaged in the trade, and also the method of construction of railway vehicles carrying animals by railway.

(b) Conveyance of Live Poultry Order of 1919, to protect live poultry during transit by sea, road or rail, or during exposure for sale, from exposure to bad weather or excessive heat, and to prevent overcrowding or the use of unsuitable receptacles.

(c) The Exportation and Transit of Horses Order of 1921, which regulates the traffic in horses exported to the Continent or elsewhere, prevents the export of decrepit horses, i.e. horses unfit to travel or work, lays down stringent provisions as to the construction of the stalls in which the horses are to travel, and requires the provision of an adequate supply of food and water at all stages of the journey.

The Dogs Act, 1906.—Section 2 of the Act of 1906 is the only part of the Act with which the Ministry is directly concerned as the administering authority. That section adds to the purposes for which the Ministry may make Orders under the Diseases of Animals Act, 1894, the following :—

(a) For prescribing the wearing by dogs, whilst in a highway or place of public resort, of collars bearing the name and address of the owners ; and

(b) For preventing dogs from straying during the hours of darkness, the object being to prevent the worrying of cattle and sheep.

Collar Regulations are now in force throughout Great Britain, and local authorities are empowered to make regulations requiring dogs to be kept under adequate control during the hours of darkness. These powers have been exercised in nearly every county in Great Britain.

ALTERATIONS OF BOROUGH BOUNDARIES.

(LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1888, SECTION 54.)

PROVISIONAL ORDER INSTRUCTIONS * FOR TOWN COUNCILS (DATED JULY 3, 1928, ISSUED BY THE MINISTRY OF HEALTH).

PART I.

PROCEDURE.

1. FORM OF APPLICATION.

(i) The application, called in the Act a representation, should be in the form of a memorial of the council under the corporate seal.

(ii) It should be either printed or neostyled and in foolscap size.

(iii) For facility of reference, the information in the memorial should be arranged strictly in the order and manner set out in Part II. of these instructions.

2. MAPS.

The following maps should accompany the memorial:—

(i) An ordnance map on a scale of 6″ to the mile (Map A) mounted on linen and folded to about 12″ by 9″, showing clearly the proposed alterations of boundary. The colouring and notation defined in Appendix A should be employed, and the items should, in so far as applicable, be clearly indicated.

(ii) A 6″ ward map (Map B), mounted on linen and folded to about 12″ by 9″, showing the existing and proposed wards of the borough and the existing and proposed apportionment of councillors, but omitting the particulars shown on Map A.

(iii) A key map, on a scale of 1″ to the mile (Map C), showing the main outlines of the proposal and the whole of any district of which part is scheduled for inclusion, and indicating (without showing the whole) adjoining districts not so scheduled.

(iv) A map on a scale of 1″ to the mile (Map D), showing the existing county electoral divisions affected by the proposal, and the alterations proposed.

(v) A small-scale diagram in distinctive colours showing the borough and each of the areas which it is proposed to include. This diagram should be bound with or otherwise incorporated in the representation and is required for the use of the Parliamentary committees by whom the Bill will be considered.

* In the case of county boroughs these instructions apply subject to the provisions of the Local Government (County Boroughs and Adjustments) Act, 1926, ante, p. 1793. A county borough can proceed by way of a provisional Order only if no objection to that procedure is made by any local authority concerned.

Appendix II.

3. PRESENTATION OF THE MEMORIAL.

In the consideration and making of Provisional Orders time is an essential factor. Intervals must be allowed for the notification of possible objections, the publication of notice of the local inquiry of an inspector, the proceedings at the inquiry, the preparation by the inspector of his report, the consideration of the report at the Ministry, and the drafting of the Order. The time at which the confirmation Bill must be introduced is regulated by the Standing Orders of Parliament.

It is accordingly very desirable that the department should be informed at as early a date as possible of any intended application for an Order and that the application itself should be submitted in good time and in any case not later than the 1st September. The early submission of an application may also allow of an unopposed extension Order being brought into operation in April of the following year instead of six or twelve months later.

4. DEPOSIT AND DISTRIBUTION OF DOCUMENTS.

Simultaneously with the transmission of the memorial and maps to the Ministry, a duplicate of the map or maps should be deposited in—

(i) The Town Clerk's Office, and be open to inspection without payment at all reasonable hours by all local authorities or persons affected.

He shall keep the official mark secret.

2. The returning officer shall cause directions for the guidance of the voter to be printed in conspicuous characters, and placarded outside every polling station and in every compartment of every polling station. Such directions shall be in the Form No. 2 in the third schedule to the Borough Funds Acts (Polls) Order, 1903.

3. The presiding officer appointed to preside at each station shall keep order at his station, and, for that purpose, shall regulate the number of electors to be admitted at a time.

4. Every box for the reception of voting papers shall be so constructed that the voting papers can be introduced therein, but cannot be withdrawn therefrom, without the box being unlocked. The presiding officer at any polling station, just before the commencement of the poll, shall show the box empty to such persons, if any, as may be present in the station, so that they may see that it is empty, and shall then lock it up, and place his seal upon it in such manner as to prevent its being opened without breaking the seal, and shall place it in his view for the receipt of voting papers, and keep it so locked and sealed.

5. Immediately before a voting paper is delivered to an elector, the number, name, and description of the elector as stated in the copy of the register of voters shall be called out, and a mark shall be placed in the said copy of the register against the number of the elector, to denote that he has received a voting paper, but without showing the particular voting paper which he has received.

6. The presiding officer, on the application of any voter who is incapacitated by blindness or other physical cause from voting in manner prescribed by the Borough Funds Acts (Polls) Order, 1903, or (if the Poll be taken on Saturday) of any voter who declares that he is of the Jewish persuasion, and objects on religious grounds to vote in manner prescribed, or of any voter who makes such a declaration as hereinafter mentioned that he is unable to read, shall cause the vote of the said voter to be marked on a voting paper in manner directed by the voter, and the voting paper to be placed in the box, and the name and number on the register of voters of every voter whose vote is marked in pursuance of this rule, and the reason why it is so marked shall be entered on a list, hereinafter called "the list of votes marked by the presiding officer."

The said declaration, hereinafter referred to as "the declaration of inability to read," shall be made by the voter at the time of polling, before the presiding officer, who shall attest it in the Form No. 3 in the third schedule to the Borough Funds Acts (Polls) Order, 1903, and no fee, stamp, or other payment shall be charged in respect of the declaration, and the said declaration shall be given to the presiding officer at the time of voting.

7. A voter who has inadvertently dealt with his voting paper in such manner that it cannot be conveniently used as a voting paper, may, on delivering to the presiding officer the voting paper so inadvertently dealt with, and proving the fact of the inadvertence to the satisfaction of the presiding officer, obtain another voting paper in the place of the voting paper so delivered up (hereinafter called "a spoilt paper"), and the spoilt voting paper shall be immediately cancelled.

8. The presiding officer of each station, as soon as practicable after the close of the poll, shall make up into separate packets sealed with his seal,—

(1) Each box in use at his station, unopened but with the key attached; and
(2) The unused and spoilt voting papers, placed together; and
(3) The marked copies of the register of voters, and the counterfoils of the voting papers; and
(4) The list of votes marked by the presiding officer, and a statement of the number of the voters whose votes are so marked by the presiding officer under the heads "physical incapacity," "Jews," and "unable to read," and the declarations of inability to read; and shall deliver the said packets to the returning officer, by whom the votes are to be counted, unless the presiding officer is himself the returning officer.

The packets shall be accompanied by a statement made by the presiding officer, showing the number of voting papers entrusted to him, and accounting for them under the heads of voting papers in the box, unused and spoilt.

9. The returning officer, while counting and recording the number of voting papers and counting the votes, shall keep the voting papers with their faces upwards, and take all proper precautions for preventing any person from seeing the numbers printed on the backs of the papers.

10. The returning officer shall, so far as practicable, proceed continuously with counting the votes, allowing only time for refreshment, and excluding, if and so far as he thinks it necessary, the hours between the close of the poll and nine o'clock on the succeeding morning. During the excluded time the returning officer shall place the voting papers and other documents relating to the poll under his own seal, and shall otherwise take proper precautions for the security of the said papers and documents.

Directions as to printing Voting Paper.

Nothing is to be printed on the voting paper except in accordance with the Borough Funds Acts (Polls) Order, 1903.

The space in the voting paper as to the resolution or resolutions must be filled up according to circumstances—for example:—

1. If a single resolution in favour of the Bill has been put to the meeting and a poll demanded on it, it will only be necessary to insert the words "The Bill," and no figures will be required; or
2. If separate resolutions have been put to the meeting, one in favour of the whole Bill (except, for example, Part III. and Clauses 82 and 83), another in favour of Part III. separately, and another in favour of Clauses 82 and 83 separately, and a poll has been demanded on all of them, it will be necessary to insert:—
   (1) The whole of the Bill (except Part III. and Clauses 82 and 83):
   (2) Part III. of the Bill (relating to);
   (3) Clauses 82 and 83 of the Bill (relating to); or—
3. If resolutions have been put to the meeting as in the last example, and the first resolution in favour of the whole Bill (except Part III. and Clauses 82 and 83) has been carried and no poll has been demanded upon it, while a poll has been demanded on the second and third resolutions, the later resolutions only would be inserted, e.g.—
   (1) Part III. of the Bill (relating to);
   (2) Clauses 82 and 83 of the Bill (relating to); and so on.

The voter will go into one of the compartments, and, with the pencil provided in the compartment, place a cross thus X in the column of the voting paper headed "For," or in that headed "Against," according as he wishes to vote in favour of or against the resolution opposite to which he places the cross.

The voter may vote in the manner above described on each resolution referred to in the voting paper, where more than one resolution is there mentioned.

When the voter has voted, he must fold up the voting paper so as to show the official mark on the back, and, leaving the compartment, will, without showing the front of the paper to any person, show the official mark on the back to the presiding officer, and then, in the presence of the presiding officer, put the paper into the box provided for its reception, and forthwith quit the polling station.

If the voter inadvertently spoils a voting paper, he can return it to the officer, who will, if satisfied of such inadvertence, give him another paper.

BYELAWS.

PRINTING OF BYELAWS.

MEMORANDUM OF MINISTER OF HEALTH ISSUED IN JUNE, 1927.

1. Economy.

The Minister is often consulted by local authorities as to economy in printing new series of byelaws. The surest way is to make as few byelaws as possible, i.e. only those which are required by statute (very few indeed) or are otherwise essential—e.g. bringing building byelaws up to date so as to give the greatest possible encouragement to building and development and therefore to the country's trade.

This memorandum has been drawn up to answer the questions most commonly put in correspondence. The clerks of local authorities who need much printing will find what is said familiar, but others should find it helpful, if the inquiries received in the Ministry are typical of the information needed.

2. Local or central printing.

At the suggestion of several local authorities, inquiries have been made as to putting them in touch with the contractors who print the model byelaws for His Majesty's Stationery Office. It has also been strongly pressed upon the Minister that stocks of byelaws should be set up in stereotype, so that local authorities could insert merely such alterations as were required and have the local byelaws printed from stereotyped plates. This second suggestion has been found to be technically impracticable, for reasons too long to be stated here. The former suggestion is also found not to be advantageous to local authorities: the contracts for governmental printing cover large blocks of miscellaneous work and the contractors could not set up series of byelaws altered to meet the wishes of local authorities at prices at all comparable with those which the Government pays for the model byelaws (obviously the type of the model byelaws could not be used).

Some London firms doing local government work specialise in printing byelaws, but most printed copies received in the Ministry are found to have been printed locally: serious delays and omissions in printing some recent series were explained by the local authorities concerned as having been caused by their employing the same firm, who had been printing successive series of byelaws with one setting of the type.

3. Tenders.

Whether printing locally or not local authorities should (unless they have standing contracts which will have been based on competition) secure competitive tenders. Often they will be able to check these by comparing the prices recently charged to other local authorities for similar work.

On inquiring recently about the surprising time taken by several local authorities in sending byelaws for confirmation, the Minister was informed that they had had a number of copies of the byelaws typewritten, to be sent to different printers for tendering. This is here mentioned as showing how needless cost for copying and needless delay may be incurred. It would have been quicker and much cheaper to make copies—so far as needed—on the model forms with manuscript alterations.

But the printing of a long series of byelaws is a big enough " job " that in most towns the local printers would be glad to call at the local authority's office and inspect it; the making of extra copies would then be unnecessary except for sending to outside firms.

4. Deferring printing.

Local authorities sometimes defer the printing required by statute until they have several series which can be printed and bound together. There may thus be some slight saving of first cost, but the practice is undesirable. Section 185 of the Public Health Act, 1875, gives every ratepayer a statutory right to a copy of any particular byelaws without charge. Printing should therefore be done as soon as possible. Several local authorities have informed the Minister that their printers had not enough type to set up all the byelaws at once; a further reason to have them printed and confirmed as quickly as they are ready, and not all together. Six, eight, or more months have been known to elapse. This is plainly against the spirit of the Act.

5. Binding.

Moreover, it is often extravagant to bind byelaws on different subjects together, so that a person who demands a free copy of a series containing two or three clauses only cannot have it without taking also the other series bound with it—which may run to many pages.

The cover often states the price at which copies are sold. It is right that persons not entitled to free copies should pay a reasonable sum, but care should be taken that ratepayers (who often do not know of their rights) are not charged in error. " Free to ratepayers "—or similar words—should therefore be printed or stamped below the price.

6. Size and type.

Local authorities nearly always use an octavo page with long primer or small pica type: a preference, no doubt, dictated by experience. Among the octavo sizes " crown " is rather small, and " royal " (which is now the standard size for Parliamentary publications and is used for the octavo model byelaws) is rather large for general use. " Demy octavo " is the most usual, but the instructions to the printer for the page and for the type should depend upon careful comparison of the cost and upon practical convenience in everyday use. This last will nearly always rule out anything bigger than " royal octavo ": thus the " foolscap folio " size is the best for drafts (it is used for printing the model series in draft) but is inconvenient to carry and handle, and so is unsuitable for final copies.

For the collections of confirmed byelaws held for reference in the Ministry, it is not vital in what size or form the byelaws are sent, although " demy octavo," being the standard size adopted by most local authorities, facilitates uniform binding and shelving—these have practical importance when thousands of series of byelaws have to be stored and handled.

Not only should byelaws be kept as few as possible (as stated in paragraph 1 of this memorandum) but, in those which are thought necessary, needless details should be eliminated (all the model series are revised at short intervals, and constant care is given to shortening them).

7. Diagrams, tables, notes, and headings.

Diagrams are costly and seldom essential in byelaws; "table matter" (i.e. four or more columns divided by vertical rulings), and "tabular matter" (i.e. three columns so divided) may cost 100 per cent. and 50 per cent. respectively more than plain matter; side notes add from 1*s.* to 2*s.* to the cost of a page, according to its size. These should be avoided, and the byelaws should be printed as straightforward "bookwork." If division beyond that made by statutory sub-headings is needed, it can best be done by roman or clarendon cross-headings.

(If any cross-headings beyond those in the model byelaws are inserted, or if marginal notes are used, the following note must be printed on the first page, in connection with the word BYELAWS in the heading: "The sub-headings and/or marginal notes do not form part of the byelaws").

It will be understood that this memorandum deals with tabular matter, etc., solely in relation to printing. There are other objections to tabular printing, and there are advantages and disadvantages in side notes, etc., which are not relevant here.

8. Copies for sealing.

The Minister's seal and certificate of confirmation under section 184 of the Public Health Act, 1875, may lawfully be affixed to byelaws in any form (printed or manuscript or typewritten), but as the byelaws must be printed to comply with section 185 of the Act of 1875 it is obviously simplest to let him have a print to confirm. Local authorities therefore almost always supply for formal confirmation the final proof, i.e. a print of the series exactly as it will ultimately appear except that their seal appears in original, properly witnessed, and that a blank space is left where the Minister's seal and certificate of confirmation will be placed. A blank page at the end of the series, or (better) a final page on which a few lines of print appear, is a convenient place on which to impress the Council's seal, leaving space (which should be ample) for the Minister's seal and certificate. Byelaws can be sealed, and certified as confirmed, in duplicate or triplicate if this is definitely asked for; some local authorities always ask for it as a safeguard against loss, although section 186 of the Public Health Act, 1875, or section 24 of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, makes it commonly unnecessary. A few local authorities have the confirmation copy or copies printed on vellum or parchment or some superior paper. This costs more and is not necessary.

Unless there is some special reason for asking the Minister to confirm a copy containing manuscript alterations, much the safest course is to let him have the final revised print as stated above. Apart from any other reason, he cannot confirm a series containing manuscript alterations unless these are all initialed by the person or persons who attest the local authority's seal—a troublesome and untidy process.

9. Number of copies printed.

Sections 185 and 186 of the Act of 1875, and practical experience of local needs, supply the only safe guidance. Obviously the printing of unnecessary copies is to be avoided, but the resetting (in order to renew depleted stocks) of type which has been broken up is much more costly than running off extra copies at first. Section 185 requires that stocks of byelaws in force MUST NEVER be allowed to be exhausted.

CANAL BOATS.

REGISTRATION, ETC., OF CANAL BOATS—GENERAL ORDER OF 20TH MARCH, 1878 (AS AMENDED BY ONE OF 9TH JUNE, 1925).

WHEREAS by section 2 and section 9 of the Canal Boats Act, 1877 [the sections (ante, pp. 2396, 2398) are recited].

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, in pursuance of the powers given by the statutes in that behalf, hereby order that on the thirtieth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, the following regulations shall come into force, and shall thenceforth continue in force until revoked or varied :—

The owner in making such application shall inform the registration authority of a time and place at which the boat may be examined with a view to registration; and shall also furnish such other information as the registration authority may require in relation thereto.

Appointment of, and examination and report by officer of registration authority.

2. Every registration authority shall, from time to time, appoint or employ a fit and proper person to examine and report upon the several canal boats the owners whereof may, in pursuance of the regulation in that behalf, have made application to the authority for registration, and may pay him a reasonable remuneration for such examination and report.

Every person so appointed or employed shall ascertain and duly record with respect to the boat and the cabin or cabins thereof the several particulars requisite to enable him to furnish the information to be set forth in a report which shall be in the Form A. in the schedule to these regulations, and shall be submitted to the registration authority at their next ordinary meeting, or at a special meeting to be called for that purpose.

Registration of boat.

["The owner of a canal boat shall maintain it in the condition required for the purpose of registration under this regulation, and if such owner be convicted of default in so doing the Court of Summary Jurisdiction may (in lieu of or in addition to imposing a penalty) order the suspension or cancellation of the registration"] (b).

Each of the two certificates of registration which, in pursuance of the provisions of section 3 of the Canal Boats Act, 1877, the registration authority upon registration of a canal boat under that Act, shall give to the owner of the boat, shall, in addition to such other particulars as may seem fit to the authority, contain the several particulars set forth in the Form C. in the schedule to these regulations.

Fees in connection with registration.

6. Every owner of a canal boat applying for registration shall, before the delivery of the certificates, pay to the registration authority the sum of five shillings, as a fee in connection with the registration of the boat (c).

(a) Subject to the conditions hereinafter prescribed with respect to the separation of the sexes, the number of persons who may be allowed to dwell in the boat shall be such that in the cabin or cabins of the boat there shall be not less than 60 cubic feet of free air space for each person above the age of 12 years, and not less than 40 cubic feet of free air space for each child under the age of 12 years:

Provided that in the case of a boat built prior to the thirtieth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, the free air space for each child under the age of 12 years shall be deemed sufficient if it is not less than 30 cubic feet.

Provided also, that in the case of a boat registered as a "fly" boat, and worked by shifts, by four persons above the age of 12 years, there shall be not less than 180 cubic feet of free air space in any cabin occupied as a sleeping place by any two of such persons at one and the same time.

(b) A cabin occupied as a sleeping place by a husband and wife shall not at any time while in such occupation be occupied as a sleeping place by any other person of the female sex above the age of 12 years, or by any other person of the male sex above the age of 14 years:

Provided that in the case of a boat built prior to the thirtieth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, a cabin occupied as a sleeping place by husband and wife may be occupied by one other person of the male sex above the age of 14 years, subject to the following conditions:—

(i) That the cabin be not occupied as a sleeping place by any other person than those above mentioned;

(ii) That the part of the cabin which may be used as a sleeping place by the husband and wife shall, at all times while in actual use, be effectually separated from the part used as a sleeping place by the other occupant of the cabin, by means of a sliding or otherwise moveable screen or partition of wood or other solid material, so constructed or placed as to provide for efficient ventilation.

(c) A cabin occupied as a sleeping place by a person of the male sex above the age of 14 years shall not, at any time, be occupied as a sleeping place by a person of the female sex above the age of 12 years, unless she be the wife of the male occupant, or of one of the male occupants in any case within the proviso to Rule b.

IV.—FOR PROMOTING CLEANLINESS IN AND PROVIDING FOR THE HABITABLE CONDITION OF CANAL BOATS.

Renewal of paint.

9. The owner of a canal boat which may have been registered as a dwelling shall, once at least in every three years, cause the paint on every surface in the interior of every cabin which may be used as a dwelling to be thoroughly renewed.

Removal of bilge water.

10. The master of a canal boat which may have been registered as a dwelling shall cause all bilge water to be removed therefrom by pumping as often as may be necessary to prevent any collection of such water beneath the floor of any cabin which may be used as a dwelling, and, in any case, not less frequently than once in every twenty-four hours.

Cabins to be kept cleanly and habitable.

11. The master of a canal boat which may have been registered as a dwelling shall cause every cabin which may be used as a dwelling to be kept at all times in a cleanly and habitable condition.

V.—FOR PREVENTING THE SPREAD OF INFECTIOUS DISEASE BY CANAL BOATS (a).

Notification of infectious disease.

12. In every case where a person on a canal boat is seriously ill or is evidently suffering from an infectious disease, the master of the boat, if, at the time, the boat is proceeding on a journey, shall, as soon as may be practicable, give information thereof to the sanitary authority within whose district is situate the canal or the part of the canal along which the boat may at the time be passing, and, on the arrival of the boat at its port or place of destination, to the sanitary authority within whose district such port or place is situate, and also to the owner of the boat.

(a) See 40 & 41 Vict. c. 60, s. 4, ante, p. 2397.

If at the time the boat be at its port or place of destination, the master shall forthwith inform the sanitary authority within whose district such port or place is situate, and also the owner of the boat, that a person on board the boat is seriously ill or is evidently suffering from an infectious disease.

The owner of the boat shall forthwith, upon the receipt from the master of information to the effect that a person on board the boat is or has been suffering from an infectious disease, give notice to that effect to the sanitary authority having jurisdiction in the place to which the boat may have been registered or belonging.

Certificate of cleansing and disinfection.

13. In every case where, in the exercise of the power conferred by section 4 of the Canal Boats Act, 1877 (a), a sanitary authority may have detained a canal boat for the cleansing and disinfection thereof, the authority, before allowing the boat to proceed on its journey, shall obtain from their medical officer of health, or from some other legally qualified practitioner, a certificate to the effect that the boat has been duly cleansed and disinfected, and shall cause such certificate to be delivered to the master of the boat. The sanitary authority may pay a reasonable remuneration for any such certificate.

VI.—INTERPRETATION OF TERMS.

14. In these regulations, unless the context otherwise requires, words have the same meaning as in the Canal Boats Act, 1877 (b).

The expression "wide boat" means a boat not less than seven feet six inches beam:

The expression "narrow boat" means a boat of less than seven feet six inches beam.

(2) Here state which of the following rules has been adopted in determining the internal dimensions and cubical capacity of the cabin or cabins; distinguishing, in each case, where necessary, the rate of deduction.

RULE A. (for "wide" boats).

Measure :—

The height from the floor to the roof in the middle of the cabin.

The length from the bulkhead to the door of the opposite cupboard.

The width across the cabin at the bulkhead.

The product of the height, length, and width thus measured will represent, for the purpose of this Rule, both the gross and the net cubical capacity of free air space.

Measure :—

The height from the floor to the roof in the middle of the cabin.

The length from the bulkhead to the end of the cabin at the side of the doorway.

The greatest width from side to side of the boat at the bulkhead.

The product of the height, length, and greatest width thus measured will represent the gross cubical capacity of the cabin.

To obtain the net cubical capacity or free air space of the cabin, deduction from the gross cubical capacity should be made in accordance with the following directions :—

1 If the cabin have only the following shut-up cupboards or lockers, viz. : a table cupboard, a side bed-locker or cupboard, a cross bed-locker or lockers, and a cupboard above the cross-bed,—

(a) If the height of the cabin be not less than five feet, deduct $\frac{1}{5}$th.

THE CANAL BOATS ORDER, 1922, DATED JULY 10TH, 1922, MADE BY THE MINISTER OF HEALTH UNDER SECTION 10 OF THE CANAL BOATS ACT, 1884.

* * * * * *

1.—(1) Subject as hereinafter provided the Canal Boats Act, 1877, and the Canal Boats Act, 1884, shall apply to every vessel which would be within the definition of canal boat contained in section 14 of the first-mentioned Act if such vessel were not registered under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1894 to 1921, although such vessel may be so registered.

(2) Nothing in this Order shall apply to:—

- (a) any sea-going ship, or
- (b) any sailing barge of the class generally known as "Thames Sailing Barge," whether registered in the Port of London or elsewhere.

CANAL BOATS ORDER, 1922.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH, WHITEHALL, S.W.1.
May 1*st*, 1923.

SIR,—The attention of the Minister of Health has been drawn to the fact that many boats of the class to which the Canal Boats Acts were intended to apply are now being registered as ships under the Merchant Shipping Acts, and so avoid compliance with the Canal Boats Acts.

The practice of thus registering canal boats under the Merchant Shipping Acts has become much more general since the passing of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1921. It was not, however, unknown before that date; and the framers of the Canal Boats Act, 1884, foresaw that it might become common, and made provision for meeting it in section 10 of that Act. The section in question provides, in effect, that if the Minister of Health considers that the Canal Boats Acts ought to apply to any vessel or class of vessels which would be within the statutory definition of "canal boat" if not registered as "ships," he may declare that the Canal Boats Acts shall apply to such vessel or class of vessels although so registered.

It appears to the Minister to be undesirable that boats which are in all essentials canal boats should escape supervision under the Canal Boats Acts by the mere process of registration as "ships," and he has accordingly made under section 10 of the Act of 1884 an Order of which two copies are enclosed.

The Order is not intended to apply the Canal Boats Acts to any class of vessels which as a class were not previously within their scope. It will, however, have the effect of bringing or keeping within the scope of those Acts all boats which do not differ in essential characteristics from the ordinary inland trading canal boat, and which have in the past, or may in the future, become registered as ships under the Merchant Shipping Acts. The Order will thus remove the anomaly of existing conditions—embarrassing to inspectors and boat owners alike—under which of two identical boats engaged in the same trade one may be subject to the Canal Boats Acts and the other free from all supervision under those Acts. At the same time, it will not, of course, in any way prevent an owner from registering his boat as a "ship" and so reaping any benefit under the Merchant Shipping Acts which this registration may confer.

CHOLERA, YELLOW FEVER, AND PLAGUE.

REGULATIONS AS TO CHOLERA, YELLOW FEVER, AND PLAGUE.

(SHIPS ARRIVING FROM FOREIGN PORTS.)

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD, WHITEHALL, S.W.,
9th September, 1907.

SIR,—I am directed by the Local Government Board to state that they have had under consideration questions arising out of the International Sanitary Convention of Paris, 1903, to which this country is a party, and that they have deemed it desirable to rescind the existing regulations as to cholera, yellow fever, and plague prescribed by their Orders of the 9th November, 1896, and the 24th December, 1902, and to issue further regulations on this subject. The regulations are made in pursuance of section 130 of the Public Health Act, 1875, as amended and extended by the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, the Public Health Act, 1896, and the Public Health Act, 1904, with a view to the treatment of persons affected with cholera, yellow fever, or plague, and for preventing the spread of the disease both on land and water. Two copies of the new Order are enclosed.

The regulations have been so framed as to apply to every port sanitary authority (other than the Bristol, Gloucester, Harwich, Ipswich, Liverpool, and Manchester Port Sanitary Authorities), as well as to every council of a municipal borough or other urban district and to every rural district council, whose borough or district includes or abuts on any part of a Customs port, which part is not within the jurisdiction of a port sanitary authority; and in the Order and in this circular the expression "the sanitary authority" includes each of the port sanitary authorities (other than those excepted) and each of the councils above referred to.

The majority of the provisions contained in the regulations hitherto in force are reproduced in the new regulations, and it does not appear necessary to set them out in detail in the present circular. But it is desirable to give the following explanation of the general effect of the additions and alterations which, as indicated above, have been introduced chiefly for the purpose of securing the observance of principles embodied in the Paris Convention of 1903.

As the sanitary authority are aware the main principles on which the regulations in this matter have proceeded are that a report with regard to infected vessels arriving from foreign ports should be made by the officers of Customs to the sanitary authority of the place of arrival; that infected vessels should be temporarily detained pending visitation by the medical officer of health of the place; and that, after visitation by the medical officer of health of such vessels, or of any other vessels to which suspicion of infection attaches, the measures indicated by the regulations should be taken. Such measures have included, according to circumstances, the further detention of the vessel, the removal of persons suffering or suspected to be suffering from plague, cholera, or yellow fever, the adoption of steps to free the vessel from causes of infection, and such other action as is expedient for the purpose of tracing the further movements of persons allowed to leave the vessel.

Some modifications of the regulations have now been made in regard to most of the matters above mentioned.

In relation to vessels arriving from foreign ports a new classification is adopted. The term "infected ship" is limited to a ship on which there is actually on board at the time of arrival a case of cholera, yellow fever, or plague, or on which there has been a case of cholera or plague within seven days before arrival or a case of yellow fever within eighteen days before arrival. At the same time the term "suspected ship" is used as applying to a ship on which there has been a case of cholera or plague more than seven days before the arrival of the ship or a case of yellow fever more than eighteen days before arrival, whether the case has occurred in the port of departure or in another port in the course of the voyage, or at any time during the voyage, and on which no fresh case of cholera or plague has occurred within the seven days or of yellow fever within the eighteen days.

Visitations by officers of Customs and detention of ships.

The action of officers of Customs under Article 2, et seq., of the Order is in the first instance to extend both to infected and suspected ships. The question which the officer of Customs is to address to the master or surgeon of the ship and which has to be answered in the form set forth in Article 2, is designed to bring out the actual facts as to the occurrence of cases or suspected cases of cholera, yellow fever, or plague upon the ship. The officer of Customs is to give notice of the cause of the temporary detention of any ship to the sanitary authority. It will be observed that under Article 2 (2) of the new regulations a ship may be detained if the officer of Customs, although not satisfied that a ship is "infected" or "suspected," has reason to suppose that the ship has come from, or has during the voyage called at, a port infected with cholera, yellow fever, or plague.

In this connection the Board would point out that, in order to secure efficiency in applying the last-mentioned provision and to avoid unnecessary interference with shipping, it is important that the medical officer of health of the sanitary authority should keep himself informed as to the ports that may be infected and should advise (a) the local officers of Customs as to the ports from which it is anticipated that ships liable to detention by those officers under Article 2 (2) might come, or at which they might have called.

Detention in ships of persons aboard.

If a ship is certified to be "infected," the regulation in Article 15 (except as regards any person certified to be suffering from cholera, yellow fever, or plague, or from any illness which may prove to be cholera, yellow fever, or plague) prohibits the landing of any person who is on board, unless he satisfies the medical officer of health as to his name, intended place of destination, and intended address at such place. It will be observed that under this Article the regulation comes into force automatically in the case of an "infected" ship. As regards, however, a "suspected" ship and certain other ships, a similar provision under Articles 20 and 21 does not come into operation unless the medical officer of health gives a certificate declaring it desirable that the provision should take effect, with a view to checking the introduction or spread of cholera, or yellow fever, or plague.

In either case, when the provision is in force, the permission to land can only be given after the medical officer of health has been satisfied as to the person's name, intended place of destination, and intended address at that place; and even then the permission is coupled with an obligation that if any person who has stated his intended destination and intended address arrives at a different destination or address within five days after landing, he is forthwith to notify his destination and address to the medical officer of health or the local authority of the district in which the place of actual destination or address is situate. A person who fails to comply with this obligation will be liable to a penalty for infringement of the regulations.

The attainment of the effective safeguarding of the public health, aimed at by these provisions, will, as it seems to the Board, be materially furthered if any person permitted to land be made fully acquainted with the conditions under which the permission is granted; and accordingly it is suggested that the sanitary authority should furnish every such person with a short printed statement of the obligation imposed on him under Article 15 or Article 21 as the case may be, and of the penalty to which he becomes liable in the event of his failure to comply with the obligation.

Disinfection of ships.

It will be observed that under Article 19 of the new regulations the measures of disinfection that may be applied to an "infected" or a "suspected" ship, as apart from articles in it, are restricted to instances in which the infection is due to cholera or plague, and that they are to be confined to those parts of the ship which have been used as quarters by a person suffering from cholera or plague, or which, in the opinion of the medical officer of health, are infected with either of these diseases.

The disinfection or destruction of articles on board the ship, under Articles 18 and 19, is also restricted to those which may be infected with cholera or plague.

(a) As to this see now circular of October 17th, 1908, post, p. 3107.

Precautions for the prevention of the spread of cholera.

Certain proceedings for dealing with bilge water and water ballast, and also for substituting for any existing supply of water a proper supply of water for drinking and cooking purposes, were under the former regulations to be taken when requisite in the case of yellow fever and plague as well as in the case of cholera; under Article 22 these proceedings are now made available only in those instances where cholera is in question.

Precautions for the prevention of the spread of plague.

New provisions have been made in Articles 23 and 24 prescribing the procedure to be followed with a view to prevent the transmission of plague by rats on board ship, and the escape from the ship to shore of rats that may be infected with plague. With a view to obviating the first of these dangers, rats are in all cases to be destroyed when the ship is infected with plague, or when rats in the ship are infected with that disease. In the case of a ship which is not infected but is a suspected ship by reason of plague this procedure is not obligatory, except where the medical officer of health requires it to be followed.

Where a ship is neither infected nor suspected by reason of plague, but has come from, or has during the voyage called at, a port infected with plague, the danger from rats is comparatively small. Nevertheless, in the case of such a ship where the medical officer of health is satisfied that measures for the destruction of rats in the ship are necessary and certifies accordingly, these measures are to be applied, and the cost will be borne, not by the master of the ship, but by the sanitary authority.

With a view to averting danger that might ensue from the escape to shore of rats on board a ship which is infected or suspected by reason of plague, or which has come from or called at a port infected with plague or in which there are rats either infected with plague or affected by an unusual mortality, such precautions are to be taken for effectually stopping the access of rats from the ship to the shore as the medical officer of health may deem reasonably necessary.

Precautions for the prevention of the spread of yellow fever.

In view of the part now known to be taken by a certain species of mosquito in the transmission of yellow fever to man, a new provision is made in Article 25 enabling the medical officer of health to give a certificate requiring the taking of measures intended to secure the destruction of mosquitoes and their larvæ on board ship subject to the conditions set out in that article.

Execution of work by sanitary authority and recovery of the cost.

By the provisions of Article 28 the sanitary authority are placed under the obligation to do any such work as is therein specified, at the request of and in substitution for the master of a ship. They may, if they think fit, recover from the master of the ship the cost of the work so done; but they may not derive any profit by reason of the sum charged, and the amount recoverable may not in relation to any piece of work exceed £20.

CIRCULAR AS TO THE FOREGOING REGULATIONS.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD, WHITEHALL, S.W.,
October 17*th*, 1908.

SIR,—I am directed by the Local Government Board to advert to Article II. (2) of their General Order of the 9th September, 1907, relating to cholera, yellow fever and plague on ships arriving from foreign ports, under which a ship may be detained by the officer of Customs for examination by the medical officer of health of the sanitary authority, if the officer of Customs, although he does not find or has no reason to suppose that the ship is "infected" or "suspected" within the meaning of the Order, finds or has reason to suppose that the ship has come from, or has during the voyage called at, a port infected with any of the diseases referred to.

The Board stated in the Circular Letter which accompanied the Order that "it is important that the medical officer of health . . . should advise the local officers of Customs as to the ports from which it is anticipated that ships liable to detention by those officers under Article II. (2) might come, or at which they might have called." The Board have been in communication with the Commissioners of Customs with reference to the matter, and they find that it is necessary for the exercise of the power of detention conferred by the article that the medical officer of health should inform the local Customs officer of the date on which any particular port is believed to be infected, so that the ships coming from, or which have called at, that port on or after that date should be detained for examination by the medical officer of health.

The Board think that the information might be given in the following form :—

CHOLERA, YELLOW FEVER OR PLAGUE.

I have reason to believe that the port of is infected with cholera (or yellow fever or plague as the case may be), and I am desirous that until further notice from me in writing, any ship leaving that port on or after the day of 190(8), whether coming from such port, or having called there during the voyage, may, on arrival at , be detained by an officer of Customs for examination by the medical officer of health.

Signed
Medical Officer of Health.

Dated .

To the Officer of Customs.

I am accordingly to request that the sanitary authority will direct their medical officer of health to adopt this procedure. He will of course take care to inform the customs officer in writing when he considers that the port referred to in the notice may cease to be regarded as infected, and consequently the need for detention of ships coming therefrom no longer exists. A copy of this circular is enclosed for the information of the medical officer of health.

I am, etc.

NOTICE.—[As in Order of September 9th, 1907.]

RATS.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH, WHITEHALL, S.W.1.
January 30th, 1923.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to refer to the Ministry of Health (Rats and Mice Destruction, Transfer of Powers) Order, 1922, and to state that a general survey of the sanitary administration of Port and Riparian Sanitary Districts in England and Wales has recently been carried out by Medical Officers of this Department, who have reported that the authorities of many of these districts are experiencing difficulty in dealing with the question of rat destruction.

Among the more important functions of Port and Riparian Sanitary Authorities under the Public Health Acts is the prevention of the introduction and spread in this country of ship-borne plague. For this purpose it is desirable that, in addition to their powers under the Public Health Acts, they should be able to take measures under the Rats and Mice (Destruction) Act, 1919, for the destruction of rats both on board ship and also on the quays, wharves and warehouses abutting upon the port.

I am to point out, however, that a Riparian Authority which is not a county borough council is unable to take any measures under the Act of 1919 unless the powers of the county council under that Act have been delegated to them by the county council. Moreover the jurisdiction of port sanitary authorities is, as a rule, confined to the shipping and the waters of the ports, and unless a port sanitary authority is also a county borough council, or a sanitary authority to whom powers under the Act of 1919 have been delegated, they are unable to deal effectively with rats in the wharves and warehouses.

In this connection I am to draw attention to the circular letter issued by the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries on the 5th May, 1921, with reference to the delegation of powers under the Rats and Mice (Destruction) Act, 1919, and to state that the Minister would be glad if the county council will take into consideration the question of delegating their jurisdiction under that Act to each of the sanitary authorities within the administrative county which are named in the list enclosed herewith, and inform him of the result.

I am to add that the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries concurs in the terms of this circular letter.

I am, etc.

The Clerk of the County Council.

12. Nothing in this scheme or any byelaw made thereunder shall prejudice or affect any right of the person entitled as lord of the manor or otherwise to the soil of the common or of any person claiming under him which is lawfully exercisable in, over, under, or on the soil or surface of the common in connection with game, or with mines, minerals, or other substrata or otherwise, or prejudice or affect any right of the commoners in or over the common or the lawful use of any highway or thoroughfare on the common, or affect any power or obligation to repair any such highway or thoroughfare.

13. Printed copies of this scheme and of any byelaws made thereunder shall at all times be sold at the office of the council to all persons desiring to buy the same at a price not exceeding sixpence each.

Commons Act, 1899.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Council intend to make a scheme under the above Act for the regulation and management of COMMON in their district with a view to the expenditure of money on the drainage, levelling and improvement of the common, and to the making of byelaws and regulations for the prevention of nuisances and the preservation of order thereon.

Copies of the draft of the scheme may be obtained (price [not exceeding] sixpence per copy) and the plan therein referred to may be inspected at the offices of the Council.

Any objection or suggestion with respect to the scheme or plan may be sent, post free, to the Secretary, Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, 10, Whitehall Place, London, S.W.1, within three months from the date of this notice.

THE COMMONS ACT, 1899.

INSTRUCTIONS OF THE MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES WITH RESPECT TO SCHEMES FOR THE REGULATION AND MANAGEMENT OF COMMONS UNDER PART I. OF THE COMMONS ACT, 1899 (62 & 63 VICT. c. 30).

Who can make a scheme and the objects thereof.

1. The council of an urban or rural district are empowered by the above Act to make a scheme for the regulation and management of any common, town or village green within their district, with a view to the expenditure of money on the drainage, levelling and improvement thereof, and to the making of byelaws and regulations for the prevention of nuisances and the preservation of order.

Form of scheme and plan.

2. The scheme is to be in the form prescribed by the Regulations of the Minister made under the Act, and is to identify, by reference to a map, the common or green to be thereby regulated.

The map, in the preparation of which accuracy is essential, should be made on the latest available edition of the 1/2500 scale Ordnance Survey Sheets supplemented, where necessary, by dotted red lines to show such of the limits of the land to be regulated as are not defined by Ordnance Survey detail. The whole area proposed to be regulated should be tinted light green and its limits sharply defined by an edging of dark green. Great care should be taken to avoid the inclusion by the colour edging of ponds, drains, streams, paths, shaws or other features lying against the boundaries of the land but outside the area proposed to be regulated. Where a parish boundary forms part of the boundary of the land, the dark green edging should not go beyond the parish boundary characteristic shown thus : . . . on the Ordnance Survey Sheet. The following note should be conspicuously written on the map : "The green colour includes the whole of the lands, ponds, paths, and streams, forming parts of the common (or commons or town or village green), but is not intended to include any boundary ditches forming parts of adjoining properties."

Notice of intention to make a scheme.

3. Not less than three months before the making of a scheme the council are to give such notice of their intention to make it as is prescribed in the Minister's Regulations, and are to state thereby where copies of the draft of the scheme may be obtained, and where the map therein referred to may be inspected. They are also to send to the Ministry as soon as possible two copies of the draft-scheme and a copy of the deposited map.

Inspection of draft scheme and map and lodging of objections.

4. During the three months any person may obtain a copy of the draft scheme on payment of a sum not exceeding sixpence, and may inspect the map at the prescribed place, and may make in writing to the Ministry any objection or suggestion with respect to the scheme or map.

Statutory Declaration as to service of notices and deposit of draft scheme and map.

5. At the expiration of the three months the council by their clerk or other responsible officer are to send to the Minister the deposited map, and a Statutory Declaration—

(a) that the notice (in the form prescribed in the Minister's Regulations) has been advertised as required in a newspaper or newspapers having a wide circulation in the neighbourhood ;

(b) that it has been served and published in several ways indicated in the Regulations ;

(c) that the draft-scheme with the map has been deposited for the prescribed period at the office of the council ; and

(d) that the officer making the declaration is informed and believes that the person (whose name should be given) served with a notice as being entitled to the soil of the land, either as lord of the manor or otherwise, is the person so entitled.

Inquiry by Ministry.

6. The Minister will, upon receipt of the Declaration and map, take into consideration any objections or suggestions that have been made during the three months, and may, if he thinks fit, direct that an inquiry shall be held by an officer of the Ministry, and for this purpose may require the deposit of a sum of money sufficient to cover the expenses likely to be incurred by the Ministry in connection with the inquiry.

7. After the consideration of such objections or suggestions and of the report of the officer holding the inquiry (if any), the Ministry will inform the council whether the scheme will require to be modified before it can be approved. Approval of scheme.

8. When the final form of the scheme is settled the council will be asked (unless a deposit of a sufficient sum has been previously made) to pay the statutory fee of £2 and any additional expenses (e.g. cost of maps). On receipt of the money the Ministry will prepare two copies of the map mounted on linen, and send them to the council, for sealing in due course, with two copies of the scheme, which the council will prepare on parchment or tough paper. Copies of the scheme and map when sealed by the council should be sent to the Ministry. One of the copies will be returned with the Ministry's seal affixed, and the other will be retained by the Ministry for purposes of record. Payment of expenses and sealing of scheme and map.

9. Two printed copies of the approved scheme as prepared for issue to the public should be sent as soon as possible to the Ministry, and also two copies of any byelaws made from time to time under the scheme. It should be noted that any such byelaws must be confirmed by the Minister of Health and not by the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries. Printed copies of scheme and byelaws.

10. The Act contains a proviso that if, at any time before the Ministry has approved of the scheme, a written notice of dissent is received either— Notice of dissent to scheme.

(a) from the person entitled, as lord of the manor or otherwise, to the soil of the common; or

(b) from persons representing at least one-third in value of such interests in the common as are affected by scheme, and such notice is not subsequently withdrawn, the Ministry is not to proceed further in the matter.

15. A district council may acquire, by gift or by purchase by agreement, the fee simple or any estate in or any rights in or over any common regulated by a scheme under the Act, and hold the same without licence in mortmain for the purposes of the scheme, and the expenses thus incurred by the district council will be part of their expenses of executing the scheme. Power to acquire fee simple of common for purposes of the scheme.

16. When a common is regulated by a scheme under the Act, the restrictions imposed by section twenty of the Commons Act, 1876, on the digging of gravel for the repair of the highways, will apply, so that no road authority will be able to take material for roads from any part of the common without the consent of the district council, or in default of such consent without an order of the justices in petty sessions. The council of any urban district may, with a view to the benefit of the inhabitants of their district, and subject to the approval of the Minister of Health, enter into an undertaking with any other council making or having made a scheme to contribute any portion of the expenses incurred by that council in executing the scheme.

Provisions applicable to county boroughs.

22. The above provisions of the Act apply to the council of a county borough in like manner as if that council were the council of an urban district.

Commons to which a scheme cannot apply.

23. No scheme under the Act can apply to any common which is or might be the subject of a scheme made under the Metropolitan Commons Acts, 1866 to 1898, or is regulated by a provisional order under the Inclosure Acts, 1845 to 1882, or has been acquired, or managed as an open space, under the powers of the Corporation of London (Open Spaces) Act, 1878, or any Act therein referred to, or is the subject of any private or local and personal Act of Parliament having for its object the preservation of the common as an open space, or is subject to byelaws made by a parish council under section eight of the Local Government Act, 1894.

CONFERENCES.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT CONFERENCES—CIRCULAR TO LOCAL BOARDS.

(A similar circular accompanied the Order as to rural district councils.)

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD, WHITEHALL, S.W.,
May 14*th*, 1891.

SIR,—I am directed by the Local Government Board to advert to the provisions of the Public Health and Local Government Conferences Act, 1885 (a), under which any local authority within the meaning of the Public Health Act, 1875, other than the urban sanitary authority of a borough, may, when empowered by and subject to any regulations made by the Board, pay the reasonable expenses incurred by any member of the local authority or by the clerk in attending a conference or meeting of the members of the local authorities held for the purpose of discussing any matter connected with the duties devolving on them, and also any reasonable expenses incurred in purchasing reports of the proceedings of any such conference or meeting.

The Board have had under consideration the desirability of regulations being made under the Act referred to, and, having regard to the representations which have been made to them on the subject, they have considered it advisable to exercise their power of making regulations so far as regards conferences or meetings of members of the urban sanitary authorities to whom the Act applies.

The Board have accordingly issued an Order on the subject, which will apply to the local board of any local government district, and to the improvement commissioners of any Improvement Act district. Two copies of the Order are enclosed.

The Order provides for the payment of the reasonable expenses incurred by the representatives of a local authority to whom the Order applies in attending either at a central conference or meeting open to representatives of all local boards and improvement commissioners, or at a conference or meeting convened for an area including the district from which the representatives are sent. In the latter case, however, the conference or meeting must be held at a place not more than one hundred miles from the district.

The expenses will not be payable unless at a meeting of the local authority of the district a resolution has been passed expressly authorising the attendance at the conference or meeting of a member or members, or of the clerk to the local authority. It is necessary that a written or printed notice that the proposal will be considered at the meeting shall have been sent, by post or otherwise, to each member not less than four days before the date of the meeting of the local authority; and it should be observed that, if the attendance of more than one member is to be authorised, the number must be specified in the resolution.

The Order fixes two as the maximum number of members who may be empowered to attend, and directs that in the case of a central conference only one member shall be authorised to attend from any district more than fifty miles from the place of meeting. These numbers are in addition to the clerk.

The Board have not deemed it practicable to specify the precise sum which should be allowed in respect of an attendance at a conference or meeting. The statute only admits of the expenses actually incurred being charged, and it requires that these should be reasonable. They must necessarily vary in different cases, but the Board think that in addition to the actual travelling expenses they should not exceed the following scale for each person, viz. :—

Seven shillings and sixpence per day when not absent from home at night; and Fifteen shillings per day when absence from home is necessary.

With regard to the reports of the conferences or meetings it will be seen that the Board have left it to the local authority to determine by resolution what number of copies they will purchase. The power of purchase extends to the reports both of a central conference or meeting, and of any conference or meeting for an area including the district.

I am, etc.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT CONFERENCES—GENERAL ORDER.

CONTRACTS (a).

FAIR WAGES CLAUSES IN CONTRACTS— CIRCULAR.

(September 2nd, 1911.)

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD, WHITEHALL, S.W.,
September 2nd, 1911.

SIR,—I am directed by the Local Government Board to draw the attention of the local authority to the accompanying memorandum embodying the resolution passed by the House of Commons on the 10th March, 1909, on the subject of fair wages clauses in Government contracts, and the recommendations made by the advisory committee of representatives of Government departments which has been established as suggested in paragraph 124 of the Report of the Fair Wages Committee of 1908 (Cd. 4422).

It will be seen that the advisory committee recommend that clauses such as those inserted in Government contracts should also be introduced into contracts which are not entered into by Government departments but which involve the expenditure of public money or other consideration granted by a Government department or which require the approval of the department.

It appears to the Board that the policy adopted in the case of Government contracts should be followed in the cases of all contracts for the execution of works or the supply of materials which are entered into by local authorities or by or on behalf of any committee wholly or in part appointed by a local authority. Whilst they are aware that many local authorities specify in their contracts conditions to be observed by the contractor as to rates of wages and other matters affecting persons employed by him, the Board think that in every case the authority should give the matter careful consideration with the view to the introduction in the contracts of clauses on the lines of those inserted in Government contracts.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
H. C. MONRO, Secretary.

To the Clerk to the Local Authority.

FAIR WAGES CLAUSES IN GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS.

The following clauses recommended by the Fair Wages Advisory Committee for general use in Government contracts, with a view to carrying out the objects of the fair wages resolutions of the House of Commons, have been generally adopted by the contracting departments :—

FOR INCLUSION IN ALL CONTRACTS.

1.—Fair Wages Clause.

The contractor shall in the execution of his contract observe and fulfil the obligations upon contractors specified in the resolution passed by the House of Commons on the 10th March, 1909, namely: "The contractor shall . . . pay rates of wages and observe hours of labour not less favourable than those commonly recognised by employers and trade societies (or, in the absence of such recognised wages and hours, those which in practice prevail amongst good employers) in the trade in the district where the work is carried out. Where there are no such wages and hours recognised or prevailing in the district, those recognised or prevailing in the nearest district in which the general industrial circumstances are similar shall be adopted. Further, the conditions of employment generally accepted in the district in the trade concerned shall be taken into account in considering how far the terms of the fair wages clauses are being observed. The contractor shall be prohibited from transferring or assigning, directly or indirectly, to any person or persons whatever, any portion of his contract without the written permission of the department. Sub-letting, other than that which may be customary in the trade concerned, shall be prohibited. The contractor shall be responsible for the observance of the fair wages clauses by the sub-contractor."

2.—Exhibition of Notice at Works.

The contractor shall cause the preceding condition to be prominently exhibited for the information of his workpeople, on the premises where work is being executed under the contract.

3.—Inspection of Wages Books, &c.

The contractor shall keep proper wages books and time sheets, showing the wages paid and [so far as practicable] the time worked by the workpeople in his employ in and about the execution of the contract, and such wages books and time sheets shall be produced whenever required for the inspection of any officer authorised by the department (a).

FOR INCLUSION IN CONTRACTS IN CERTAIN TRADES.

4.—Factory Clause.

All work executed under the contract shall be carried out at the contractor's own factory or workshop at , or other place approved by the department (a), and no work under the contract shall be done in the homes of the workpeople.

5.—Direct Payment of Wages.

All wages earned by workers engaged on work under the contract shall be paid directly to them and not through a foreman or others supervising or taking part in the operations on which the workers are engaged.

SEMI-GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS

The Fair Wages Advisory Committee have recommended, that in the case of contracts which are not entered into by a Government department but which involve the expenditure of public money or other consideration granted by the department, or which have to be approved by a Government department, the department concerned should adopt the principle already followed in some instances and should require the insertion in such contracts of fair wages clauses on the lines of those inserted in Government contracts, with such modifications as may be necessary in particular cases.

March, 1911.

TRADE BOARDS ACT, 1909, CONTRACTS OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES CIRCULAR.

(July 29th, 1910)

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD, WHITEHALL, S.W.,
July 29th, 1910.

I am directed by the Local Government Board to state that they have been desired by the Board of Trade to draw the attention of local authorities to certain provisions in the Trade Boards Act, 1909, which are of importance in their bearing upon the contracts of local authorities.

The trades to which the Act at present applies are set out in the schedule to the Act and comprise:—

1. Ready-made and wholesale bespoke tailoring and any other branch of tailoring in which the Board of Trade consider that the system of manufacture is generally similar to that prevailing in the wholesale trade.
2. The making of boxes or parts thereof made wholly or partially of paper, cardboard, chip, or similar material.
3. Machine-made lace and net finishing and mending or darning operations of lace curtain finishing.
4. Hammered and dollied or tommied chain-making.

But the Board of Trade may, by Provisional Order to be confirmed by Parliament, extend the provisions of the Act to any other trade if the rate of wages prevailing in any branch of the trade is exceptionally low as compared with that in other employments, and the circumstances of the trade are such as to render the application of the Act expedient.

The Act provides for the establishment of Trade Boards, the chief business of which will be to fix minimum rates of wages for their trades. The Board of Trade may make an Order making a rate obligatory in cases to which it is applicable on all persons employing labour and on all persons employed. Until the issue of such an obligatory Order the minimum rate fixed by a Trade Board has only the limited operation indicated in section 7 of the Act (a). The provisions of this section are those to which it is particularly desired to draw the attention of the local authority.

The effect of the section, so far as the local authority are concerned, is that, pending the coming into full operation of any minimum rate of wages fixed by the Trade Board, the local authority are precluded from entering into contracts with any employer in the particular trade and area to which the rate is applicable, who has not given the specified notice to the Trade Board that he is willing that the minimum rate should be obligatory upon him.

Great importance is attached to the observance by local authorities of the statutory obligation thus imposed upon them, and it is requested that before entering into a contract the local authority will ascertain whether it involves employment to which a minimum rate of wages is applicable in pursuance of the section quoted, and, if so, whether the person to whom the contract is proposed to be given is an employer by whom notice under the section has been given to the Trade Board.

No minimum rates of wages have yet been fixed under the Act, and some of the Trade Boards are only now on the point of being constituted. Notice of certain rates which they propose to fix, has, however, been given by the Trade Board for the hammered and dollied or tommied chain trade.

When rates have been fixed by any Trade Board information as to the registration of employers under section 7 of the Act will be obtainable on application to the secretary of the Trade Board in question at the office of Trade Boards, Trafalgar Buildings, Northumberland Avenue, London, S.W.

I am, etc.

CIRCULAR 400.

CIRCULAR TO LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH,
15*th May*, 1923.

CONTRACTS.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to inform you that the Government have decided that, as regards all works in respect of which grants are given expressly because of unemployment by the Unemployment Grants Committee or by any Government Department, it shall be a condition of the grant that all contracts for or incidental to the works are to be placed in this country.

This follows a similar condition with regard to schemes in respect of which guarantees are given under the Trade Facilities Act.

The Government also urge that, in view of present conditions, the same principle should be adopted, in the absence of special circumstances, in the case of all contracts in respect of works carried out by Local Authorities, whether or not the expenditure on the works is assisted by grants from the National Exchequer or from the Road Fund.

I am, etc.

(a) This section is now repealed, but rates made thereunder still have the limited operation provided by s. 4 (5) of the Trades Boards Act, 1918.

CIRCULAR 569.

CIRCULAR OF MINISTRY OF HEALTH, DATED 24TH MARCH, 1925, AND ADDRESSED TO ALL LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

CONTRACTS.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to inform you that at the Imperial Economic Conference in 1923 the following resolution was passed :—

"(1) That this Imperial Economic Conference reaffirms the principle that in all Government contracts effective preference be given to goods made and materials produced within the Empire, except where undertakings entered into prior to this Conference preclude such a course or special circumstances render it undesirable or unnecessary.

"(2) That, so far as practicable, efforts be made to ensure that the materials used in carrying out contracts be of Empire production.

"(3) That State, provincial and local government authorities should be encouraged to take note of the foregoing resolutions."

The Government will be glad if the matter is considered by your authority with a view to giving effect to this resolution, subject to the condition that, in view of the present special circumstances with regard to unemployment, no alteration should be made in the policy laid down in Circular 400 of the 15th May, 1923, with regard to the placing of contracts in this country.

I am, etc.

CIRCULAR 686.

TO LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH,
31*st March*, 1926.

KING'S ROLL.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to refer to Circular 473 of 19th January, 1924, which invited local authorities to take steps to give effect to the recommendation of the King's Roll National Council by giving a preference in all their contracts to firms who are on the King's Roll.

The Minister directs the attention of your authority to the following resolution passed by both Houses of Parliament on the 16th February, 1926 :—

> "That, in the opinion of this House, it is the duty of the Government in all Government contracts to make provision for the employment to the fullest possible extent of disabled ex-service men, and to this end to confine such contracts, save in exceptional circumstances, to employers enrolled on the King's National Roll."

A large number of local authorities already adopt the practice of either restricting their contracts to firms on the Roll or giving preference to such firms. If your authority have not done so, the Minister will be glad if they will give the matter their consideration with a view to the adoption of this course.

The Minister takes this opportunity of again drawing attention to Circulars 400 of 15th May, 1923, and 569 of 24th March, 1925, with regard to contracts, and of emphasising the help that may be given to British trade if local authorities will not only place their contracts with British firms, but also make sure that so far as is reasonably practicable British materials and components only are used in the goods purchased.

I am, etc.

Except where an inquest has been held and a certificate given by a coroner in Form E (see Regulation 8), no cremation shall be allowed until the death of the deceased has been duly registered or a certificate has been given in pursuance of s. 2 (2) of the Act of 1926 that the death of the deceased is not required by law to be registered in England] (b).

7. No cremation shall be allowed to take place unless application therefor be made, and the particulars stated in the application be confirmed by statutory declaration, in accordance with Form A in the schedule hereto.

The application must be signed and the statutory declaration made by an executor or by the nearest surviving relative of the deceased, or, if made by any other person, must show a satisfactory reason why the application is not made by an executor or by the nearest surviving relative.

8. Except as hereafter provided, no cremation shall be allowed to take place unless

(a) A certificate in Form B be given by a registered medical practitioner who has attended the deceased during his last illness and who can certify definitely as to the cause of death, and a confirmatory medical certificate

(a) These regulations having been laid before both Houses of Parliament for 40 days came into force on June 5th, 1920. They have been amended by Regulations of June, 23rd, 1926, and May 6th, 1927, post, p. 3137, and are set out in their amended form.

(b) The regulation in brackets was substituted by the amending regulations of 1927.

in Form C be given by another medical practitioner, who must be qualified as prescribed in Regulation 9; or

(b) A post-mortem examination has been made by a medical practitioner expert in pathology, appointed by the cremation authority (or in case of emergency appointed by the medical referee), and a certificate given by him in Form D; or

(c) An inquest has been held and a certificate has been given by the coroner in Form E.

No cremation shall take place except on the written authority of the medical referee given in Form F.

9. The confirmatory medical certificate in Form C, if not given by the medical referee, must be given by a registered medical practitioner of not less than five years' standing, who must either

(a) be appointed for the purpose by the cremation authority; or

(c) hold an appointment as physician or surgeon in a public general hospital containing not less than 50 beds.

10. Every cremation authority shall appoint a medical referee, who must be a registered medical practitioner of not less than five years' standing and must possess such experience and qualifications as will fit him for the discharge of the duties required of him by these regulations. If otherwise qualified he may be a person holding the office of coroner or of medical officer of health.

Every cremation authority shall also appoint a deputy medical referee possessing the like qualifications to act in the absence of the medical referee and in any case in which the medical referee has been the medical attendant of the deceased.

The cremation authority on making any such appointment shall notify the name, address, and qualifications of the medical referee or deputy medical referee to the Secretary of State.

11. It shall be lawful for the medical referee if he has personally investigated the cause of death to give a certificate in Form C, and if he has made the post-mortem examination to give a certificate in Form D. The medical referee, if a coroner, may himself give the coroner's certificate in Form E.

12. The duties of the medical referee shall be as follows:—

(1) He shall not allow any cremation to take place if it appears that the deceased left a written direction to the contrary.

[(2) He shall not (except where an inquest has been held and a certificate given by a coroner in Form E) allow any cremation to take place unless he is satisfied—

(a) by the production of a certificate in pursuance of s. 2 (1) of the Act of 1926 that the death of the deceased has been duly registered; or

(b) by the production of a certificate in pursuance of s. 2 (2) of the Act of 1926 that the death of the deceased is not required by law to be registered in England.

The production of a duplicate which has been duly issued in pursuance of s. 2 (4) of the Act of 1926 may be accepted in lieu of the production of the original certificate under sub-s. (1) or sub-s. (2)] (a).

(3) He shall, before allowing the cremation, examine the application and certificates and ascertain that they are such as are required by these regulations and that the inquiry made by the persons giving the certificates has been adequate. He may make any inquiry with regard to the application and certificates that he may think necessary.

(4) He shall not allow the cremation unless he is satisfied that the application is made by an executor or by the nearest surviving relative of the deceased, or, if made by any other person, that the fact that the executor or nearest relative has not made the application is sufficiently explained, and that the person making the application is a proper person to do so.

(5) He shall not allow the cremation unless he is satisfied that the fact and cause of death have been definitely ascertained; and in particular, if the cause of death assigned in the medical certificates be such as, regard being had to all the circumstances, might be due to poison, to violence, to any illegal operation, or to privation or neglect, he shall require a post-mortem examination to be held, and if that fails to reveal the cause of death, shall decline to allow the cremation unless an inquest be held and a certificate given by the coroner in Form E.

(6) If it appears that death was due to poison, to violence, to any illegal operation or to privation or neglect, or if there is any suspicious circumstances whatsoever, whether revealed in the certificates or otherwise coming to his knowledge, he shall decline to allow the cremation unless an inquest be held and a certificate given by the coroner in Form E.

Provided that if in any case to which the foregoing rule applies it is shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary of State that by reason of any special circumstances it is impracticable or undesirable that an inquest shall be held, he may by order under his hand authorise the medical referee to allow the cremation without an inquest being held and certificate given by the coroner.

(7) If a coroner has given notice that he intends to hold an inquest on the body, he shall not allow the cremation to take place until the inquest has been held.

(8) He may in any case decline to allow the cremation without stating any reason.

In the case of the remains of a person who has died in any place out of England the medical referee may accept a declaration containing the particulars prescribed in Form A if it be made before any person having authority in that place to administer an oath or to take a declaration; and he may accept certificates in Forms B, C, and D, if they be signed by any medical practitioners who are shown to his satisfaction to possess qualifications substantially equivalent to those prescribed in the case of each certificate by these regulations.

In any such case the Secretary of State, if satisfied that the case is one in which cremation may properly take place, may by order under his hand authorise the medical referee to allow the cremation without the production of a Certificate of Registry of Death, or (a) of Forms B and C.

13. The foregoing regulations, 5 to 12, shall not apply to the cremation of the remains of a deceased person who has already been buried for not less than one year. Such remains may be cremated, subject to such conditions as the Secretary of State may impose in the exhumation licence granted by him or otherwise; and any such cremation in which those conditions are not observed shall be deemed a contravention of these regulations.

14. In the case of any person dying of plague, cholera, or yellow fever on board ship or in a hospital or temporary place of reception of the sick provided by a port or other local authority under the Public Health Acts or by a hospital committee under the Isolation Hospital Acts, the medical referee, if satisfied as to the cause of death, may dispense with any of the requirements of regulations 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 12. These regulations may also be temporarily suspended or modified in any district during an epidemic or for other sufficient reason by an order of the Secretary of State on the application of a local authority.

15. Notwithstanding the foregoing regulations 6 to 12, the medical referee may permit the cremation of the remains of a stillborn child if it be certified to be stillborn by a registered medical practitioner after examination of the body, and if the referee after such inquiries as he may think necessary is satisfied that it was stillborn, and that there is no reason for further examination [but before permitting such cremation, the medical referee shall, except where an inquest has been held and a certificate given by a coroner in Form E, require the production of a certificate in pursuance of s. 7 (4) of the Act of 1926 that the still-birth has been duly registered] (a).

Disposition of Ashes.

16. After the cremation of the remains of a deceased person the ashes shall be given into the charge of the person who applied for the cremation if he so desires. If not, they shall be retained by the cremation authority, and, in the absence of any special arrangement for their burial or preservation, they shall be decently interred in a burial ground or in land adjoining the crematorium reserved for the burial of ashes. In the case of ashes left temporarily in the charge of the cremation authority and not removed within a reasonable time, a fortnight's notice shall be given to the person who applied for the cremation before the remains are interred.

Registration of Cremations, etc.

17. Every cremation authority shall appoint a registrar who shall keep a register of all cremations carried out by the cremation authority in Form G. He shall make the entries relating to each cremation immediately after the cremation has taken place, except the entry in the last column, which he shall make as soon as the remains of the deceased have been handed to the relatives or otherwise disposed of.

18. All applications, certificates, statutory declarations and other documents relating to any cremation shall be marked with a number corresponding to the number in the register, shall be filed in order, and shall be carefully preserved by the cremation authority: [Provided that the cremation authority may, if they think fit, destroy any such applications, certificates, statutory declarations or other documents (but not the register of cremations or any part of such register) after the expiration of fifteen years from the date of the cremation to which they relate] (b).

All such registers and documents shall be open to inspection at any reasonable hour by any person appointed for that purpose by the Secretary of State, the Ministry of Health or the chief officer of any Police Force.

19. When any crematorium is closed as provided in Regulation 1, the cremation authority shall send all registers and documents relating to the cremations which have taken place therein to the Secretary of State, or otherwise dispose of them as he may direct.

20. The Secretary of State may make any inquiry he thinks fit as to the carrying out of these Regulations in connection with any crematorium.

21. I hereby revoke the Regulations made by the Secretary of State on the 31st March, 1903, and the 16th September, 1914.

ON THE PROVISION OF ISOLATION HOSPITAL ACCOMMODATION BY LOCAL AUTHORITIES (a).

This memorandum is designed to represent to those who are responsible for the health of communities the importance of providing hospital accommodation for the isolation of cases of infectious disease, and of doing so before the actual invasion of their districts by such disease. It is further intended to indicate to local authorities, more expecially to those of districts of small or moderate size, the means by which they may most advantageously make such provision. Some general principles to be held in view by all authorities who propose to provide, by means of loans sanctioned by the Local Government Board, isolation hospitals for their districts will be set forth in the course of the memorandum. Those in italics are points which the Board regard as indispensable.

The provision of hospital accommodation for cases of infectious diseases is to be regarded primarily as a measure of sanitary defence, for the protection of the public against the spread of these diseases. It is true that such accommodation incidentally serves other useful purposes. Thus, it is frequently of value for the relief of individuals suffering from infectious disease, whose sufferings may be alleviated and their recovery promoted by affording them better accommodation and attendance than they are able to obtain at their own homes. Or it may be the means of avoiding serious inconvenience and pecuniary loss, as when infectious disease breaks out in a school, a lodging house, or a place of business. But, nevertheless, the most important function which such a hospital serves is that of the isolation of the first cases of infectious disease with a view to preventing its further spread in the household or locality invaded.

In order that a hospital may fulfil this function it is essential that it should be in readiness beforehand. Experience has shown that on the invasion of an epidemic, a hospital, even of temporary kind, can seldom be provided and got ready for use until the time when it would have been of most service is past. The accommodation, moreover, which is required when an epidemic has become established is on a larger scale than would have sufficed for the isolation of the first cases; and hospitals hurriedly erected during the stress of an epidemic are never satisfactory in construction or suited to the permanent needs of the district.

An isolation hospital being intended primarily for the protection of the public at large rather than for the benefit of individuals, it is undesirable that admission should be subject to restrictive charges and conditions which may tend to prevent the use of the hospital by the poorer portion of the community; that is to say, by those who have the least facilities for isolation and treatment at their own homes. In some districts, however, e.g., at health resorts, it may be advisable to provide special accommodation of a superior kind, such as private wards, for persons willing to pay for it.

Area to be served by a Hospital.—The extent of area for which an isolation hospital may serve will depend in some degree upon considerations of local topography. If the area be too large the usefulness of the hospital will be diminished, owing to the difficulties attending the conveyance of patients over long distances. But, on the other hand, the unnecessary multiplication of small hospitals is to be avoided on grounds of economy and of efficiency. As compared with that of several smaller hospitals, the establishment of a single hospital containing an equal number of beds saves the cost of duplicating various buildings, appliances, and officers; it facilitates the classification of patients according to the diseases from which they are suffering; and it enables a more efficient staff to be maintained, since the hospital is less likely to remain empty for considerable periods. Hence, where districts are not very large or populous, combination for the purpose of providing hospital accommodation is often of advantage. In the less densely populated parts of the country, a market town with the surrounding rural district, or the several sanitary districts comprised in one poor law union, may form a convenient area for the purpose of combined hospital provision. A hospital intended solely for small-pox may often with advantage serve a larger area than a hospital for other infectious diseases. The modes by which local authorities may combine for the provision of hospitals are set forth in an office memorandum on "Isolation Hospitals," which may be obtained on application, for the guidance of local authorities desirous of such combination or of establishing hospitals under the sanction of the Local Government Board.

Size of Hospital in proportion to population.—The amount of permanent isolation hospital accommodation which should be provided in proportion to the population will depend upon various considerations, among the most important of which are the character of the district, whether urban or rural; the rate of increase of population; the housing and the habits of the people; and the amount of intercourse with other places from which infectious disease may be introduced. As a rough estimate, one bed for every thousand inhabitants is sometimes adopted, but in view of the diverse circumstances of different districts this cannot be regarded as a definite standard. Moreover, the sufficiency of the hospital accommodation will depend not merely upon the aggregate number of beds, but also upon the way in which they are arranged in wards. In a single block with wards connected together only one disease can safely be treated at a time; and thus, at a hospital containing only one such block, occasions may arise when, owing to the hospital being partly occupied by one disease, a case of a second disease requiring isolation cannot safely be taken in, although there may be a number of beds empty at the time.

It is common to find that the demand for hospital accommodation, when people have come to appreciate the benefits of its use, increases far beyond what was at first anticipated; and for this reason, as well as to allow for growth of the population, and for the possible need for temporary extensions during epidemics, it is well at the outset to provide for the contingency of future enlargement.

Site.—In selecting a site for an isolation hospital the following considerations should be had in view:—It should be convenient of access, and, as far as practicable, central for the population and area which it is to serve; but of course not in a very populous neighbourhood. (In the case of hospitals in which small-pox is intended to be received the choice of site must be specially governed by considerations as to the number of inhabitants in the neighbourhood, which will be referred to later on.) It will be of much convenience if sewers and a public water service are available; but, if not, a sufficient supply of wholesome water must be provided, and arrangements will have to be made for the treatment of the sewage by application to land, due care being taken to avoid pollution of any well or spring or of any river. The site should be in a healthy and open situation with a dry subsoil, and should be preferably of a compact and regular shape, and not too steep. Its area will depend upon the size of the hospital, and, except in the case of a very small hospital, should rarely be less than two acres; indeed, it is well to obtain a larger site than may at first be required, in order to afford space for subsequent extension if necessary. More land, too, will be needed if the sewage has to be disposed of on the site. The site, or so much of it as is to form the grounds of the hospital, should be enclosed by a wall or close fence at least 6 feet 6 inches in height, and every building which is to contain infected persons or things should be at least 40 feet distant from the boundary (a).

Hospital buildings.—These should be of three classes, viz.: 1st, ward-blocks for the reception of the sick; 2nd, administration-block for the housing of the staff and stores; and 3rd, out-offices, as laundry and mortuary. In hospitals for permanent use these buildings should be of brick or stone. Temporary buildings, as, for instance, buildings constructed of wood or corrugated iron, are ill suited for permanent use as hospitals, for the reason that it is difficult to maintain them at a proper temperature during extremes of hot and cold weather; moreover they are less durable than brick or stone buildings, requiring more frequent repairs in order to keep them in a properly weather-proof condition, and they are liable to be destroyed by fire and storm. It is not the practice of the Local Government Board in ordinary cases to sanction loans for iron hospitals or for hospital buildings of temporary character.

(a) If desired, an open unclimbable railing may be substituted for a wall or close fence for so much of the boundary as is within supervision and control from the administration block or porter's lodge, as between the points X-X on the annexed block plan A, but in that case a second line of unclimbable fence should be constructed within the first, as indicated on the plan. In very unfrequented situations a stout hedge or shrubbery between two rows of barbed wire fencing or unclimbable iron railing may sometimes suffice in place of a wall or close fence.

Existing buildings originally designed for a different purpose, such as dwelling houses, even when of large size, are rarely found to be well adapted for the reception of patients; especially for the accommodation at one time of patients suffering from different infectious diseases. An existing house, however, may sometimes serve as the administration-block, if it have sufficient land attached on which to erect ward-blocks.

The administration-block, which should be kept free from patients and infected articles, should be so placed as to control the entrance to the hospital grounds, unless a porter's lodge is intended to be erected. It should contain quarters for the matron or caretaker, and a sufficient number of bedrooms for the nurses and servants who will be required to work the hospital when in full operation; also a nurses' sitting-room; a kitchen (preferably in a one-storey projection with top ventilation), store-rooms, dispensary, etc. In hospitals of considerable size quarters for a resident medical officer will also be necessary. It is well to provide in the administration-block accommodation on a scale somewhat in excess of what may be at first required, in order that it may be available for future extensions of the hospital, temporary or permanent; but in any case the block should be so planned that it can be easily enlarged in the future if necessary.

The ward-blocks should be one-storey buildings, unless where in exceptional cases or at large hospitals exigencies of space may render it necessary to construct blocks of two storeys; in such case each storey should have a separate entrance from the open air. The annexed plans illustrate two different types of ward-block suitable for small or moderate-sized hospitals. The type illustrated in plan C is the most advantageous, as regards both cost of construction and convenience of administration, where a number of patients of both sexes suffering from the same disease have to be treated at one time. The number of beds in each ward will vary with the requirements of the district, and it is sometimes found desirable to make one ward rather larger than the other, as indicated on the plan, in order that young children of both sexes may be treated in the women's ward. The space in the centre of the block over the nurse's duty-room and entrance-hall (the height of which need not be so great as that of the wards) is sometimes utilised as a day-room for convalescent patients.

Plan B shows a ward-block with small wards separately entered from the open air under a verandah. Accommodation of this kind is useful not only for cases of a second disease, but also under a variety of circumstances, as for the keeping under observation of a case of doubtful nature; for the segregation of a complicated, delirious, or offensive case; or as private wards for paying patients, etc.

Single-bed wards in connection with a block of the type of plan C are sometimes found useful for the segregation of a case of the same disease as that treated at the same time in the main wards, but small wards so situated cannot be safely used for patients with a different disease, or for cases of which the nature is still doubtful. A convenient position for such single-bed wards is indicated on the plan.

For very large hospitals others types of ward may be found of advantage.

In the ward-blocks each bed must have at least 12 linear feet of wall space, 144 square feet of floor space, and 2,000 cubic feet of air space. In calculating the latter any height of wards above 13 feet should not be taken into account. The walls should be of adequate thickness; and the inner face of the walls as well as the floors and woodwork should be constructed with smooth impervious surfaces and rounded angles, so as to facilitate cleanliness and to avoid spaces which may harbour dust and dirt. Ventilation should be by windows on opposite sides of the ward; the windows should be double-hung sashes with fanlight above, and the fanlight should be made to fall inwards, hopper-fashion, with side cheeks to prevent down draughts. The area of the windows should be sufficient but not excessive; one square foot of window to every 70 cubic feet of ward space is a suitable proportion. The best aspect for the ward-blocks is usually with the windows facing respectively south-east

Appendix II. and north-west. The wards should have adequate means of warming, which may with advantage be so contrived as to furnish a supply of warm fresh air. An ample supply of hot water for baths should be provided, and bath-rooms should be capable of being warmed. The closets and slop-sinks should be placed in annexes separated from the wards by cross-ventilated lobbies. The closets should be water-closets where practicable; and the slop-sinks should be of an appropriate pattern adapted to receive the solid and liquid contents of bed-pans, the waste-pipe being 3 inches in diameter and arranged similarly to the soil-pipe of a water-closet.

The out-offices will comprise such buildings as laundry, disinfecting-chamber, mortuary and ambulance-shed; and in large establishments a boiler-house and engine-house may be needed. Except in very small hospitals, the laundry should comprise a wash-house, a drying-closet and an ironing-room. An apparatus should be provided for the disinfection by steam of bedding and articles which cannot be washed. The mortuary should be in a cool and unobtrusive position, and should be lighted from the north only.

A discharging block is not unfrequently provided, consisting of an undressing-room, a bath-room, and a dressing-room, in which convalescents may take their final bath and put on clean clothes before leaving the hospital.

Each building which is to contain infected persons or things should be at least 40 feet distant from any of the other buildings.

The drains of each block should be trapped from the common drain and ventilated separately by an inlet just above the trap and by ventilating shafts at their highest points.

The annexed block plan A illustrates the arrangement upon a rectangular site of about two acres of a hospital containing sixteen beds, in two ward-blocks with administration-block and out-offices; space being also reserved for future extensions. The best arrangement of the buildings will, however, in practice largely depend upon the shape and contour of the site.

If, owing to the bleakness of the site, it is considered desirable that the several blocks should be connected by covered ways, these should not be enclosed, but should be open at the sides. A screen for protection against wind and driving rain may be provided if desired.

Hospitals for Small-pox.—In view of the frequently demonstrated liability of small-pox hospitals to disseminate that disease to neighbouring communities, and in order to lessen the risk of such occurrence, the Board require the following conditions to be complied with in the case of small-pox hospitals provided by means of loans sanctioned by them:

1st. The site must not have within a quarter of a mile of it either a hospital, whether for infectious diseases or not, or a workhouse, asylum, or any similar establishment, or a population of as many as 200 persons.

2nd. The site must not have within half a mile of it a population of as many as 600 persons, whether in one or more institutions, or in dwelling-houses.

3rd. Even where the above conditions are fulfilled, a hospital must not be used at one and the same time for the reception of cases of small-pox and of any other class of disease.

Useful information on the administration of isolation hospitals, derived from experience of them in various parts of England and Wales, will be found in a report [C.—3290] of the Medical Department, 1882—re-issued in 1901.

APPENDIX TO MEMORANDUM ON THE PROVISION OF ISOLATION HOSPITAL ACCOMMODATION BY LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

The annexed plan D for an Observation Block is intended to provide isolation accommodation for single cases of infectious diseases, for cases of mixed infection, or for cases of doubtful diagnosis; and is arranged in such a way that one nurse may, assuming that rigid precautions are taken, attend to more than one such case.

It will be noted that the new plan D only provides 1,440 cubic feet of air-space per bed instead of the 2,000 cubic feet required in ward-blocks. This has been permitted in view of the separation of individual patients and the efficient cross-ventilation which the plan provides, expense at the same time being diminished.

ISOLATION HOSPITALS.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE GUIDANCE OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN APPLYING TO THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD FOR SANCTION TO LOANS FOR THE PROVISION OF ISOLATION HOSPITALS; FOR THE CONSTITUTION OF JOINT HOSPITAL DISTRICTS; AND IN PROCEEDINGS UNDER THE ISOLATION HOSPITALS ACT, 1893.

(A) UNDER THE PUBLIC HEALTH ACT, 1875.

1. Under section 131 of the Public Health Act, 1875:

> "Any local authority may provide for the use of the inhabitants of their district hospitals or temporary places for the reception of the sick, and for that purpose may build themselves such hospitals or places of reception; or contract for the use of any such hospital or part of a hospital or place of reception; or enter into any agreement with any person having the management of any hospital, for the reception of the sick inhabitants of their district, on payment of such annual or other sum as may be agreed on.
> "Two or more local authorities may combine in providing a common hospital."

Provision of hospitals by local authorities.

2. If a local authority desire to obtain a loan to defray the cost of providing a hospital, the sanction of the Local Government Board must be obtained (Public Health Act, 1875, sections 233 and 234). Any provisional agreement entered into by the local authority for the purchase of land as a site for the hospital should be made conditional upon such sanction being given.

3. Any application to the Board for sanction to a loan should be accompanied by:

(1) A copy of the local authority's resolution directing the application to be made;

(2) Detailed estimates (in forms which the Board supply on application) of the cost of the proposed works;

(3) A map (say on the scale of inch to the mile) showing the boundaries of the sanitary district or districts for which the hospital is to serve, the parish and sanitary district in which the site is comprised, the position of the proposed hospital site, and the means of access to the site from the various parts of the district or districts; and

(4) A further map on a larger scale (say on the scale of 25 inches to the mile) or plan showing the area and shape of the proposed site, and its relation to houses and lands, in its immediate vicinity, and showing also the points of the compass;

(5) Plans of the proposed hospital buildings, in cases where the application includes the cost of such buildings;

(6) A statement showing the number of persons residing within a quarter of a mile and half a mile, respectively, from the site;

(7) Information as to the available water supply and the proposed means for disposing of the sewage of the hospital; and

(8) Particulars (in forms which the Board supply on application) respecting the assessable value and the existing debt for sanitary purposes of the district or districts.

4. The plans of the hospital buildings should be submitted to the Board at an early stage of their preparation. If they are not found to be satisfactory, the Board are usually willing to arrange for a conference on the subject at their office between representatives of the local authority (accompanied by their architect and medical officer of health) and representatives of the Board's medical and architectural departments.

Appendix II.

5. Before sanctioning a loan the Board usually cause a public local inquiry into the matter to be held in the district by one of their inspectors, at which any person interested may attend and give evidence. Due public notice of any such inquiry is given in the locality concerned.

Provision of hospitals by two or more local authorities acting in combination.

6. When two or more local authorities desire to combine in providing a hospital, it is often desirable to form the combined districts into a joint hospital district, by a provisional Order under section 279 of the Public Health Act, 1875, with a joint hospital board as the governing body.

A joint hospital board consists of members elected by the local authorities concerned, together with such ex-officio members as the Local Government Board may by the provisional Order determine (section 280, Public Health Act, 1875).

> Joint boards exercise their powers independently of the local authorities comprised within the united district.
> By section 244 of the Public Health Act they are enabled to borrow money, and under section 280 a joint board is a body corporate with power to hold lands for the purposes of their constitution.
> They are also empowered to issue precepts to the local authorities within the united district for the sums to be contributed by such authorities towards the expenses of the joint board, and, in case of default, to proceed in a summary manner to raise such sums.
> Moreover, by the provisional Order constituting the united district the joint board are directly invested with various powers in relation to their meetings and officers, conduct of business, contracts, purchase of land either by agreement or compulsorily, arbitration, audit of accounts, legal proceedings, and with any other powers which the special circumstances of the case may require, so as to enable them to perform their duties in the most convenient and efficient manner.

7. Applications to the Board for the issue of provisional Orders forming united districts for hospital purposes should be accompanied by copies of resolutions of the local authorities concerned, and should be made as soon as practicable after the 1*st October* in each year.

8. Applications for loans by joint hospital boards should be made in the manner indicated in paragraphs 3 to 5 above.

(B) UNDER THE ISOLATION HOSPITALS ACT, 1893.

9. Under the Isolation Hospitals Act, 1893, county councils are empowered to constitute hospital districts, consisting in each case either of a single local area or of two or more local areas as defined by section 26 of the Act; and under section 8 (3) "if any local authority, having jurisdiction within any part of the proposed hospital district, object to the formation of such a district, or to the addition or subtraction thereto or therefrom of any local area within their jurisdiction, such authority may at any time within three months from the date of the Order appeal to the Local Government Board, and the decision of such Board shall be conclusive."

10. Under section 22 of the Act "a county council may borrow on the security of the county rate, and in manner provided by the Local Government Act, 1888, any money required for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act." The sanction of the Local Government Board is required to any such borrowing by a county council.

11. Hospital committees, and the local authorities having jurisdiction in the areas included within a hospital district set up by a county council, are not empowered themselves to borrow money for the purposes of the Isolation Hospitals Act; but under section 22 of that Act any loans borrowed by a county council to carry the provisions of the Act into effect, "and any other money expended by them for the purposes of this Act, together with interest thereon . . . shall be repaid to the county council out of the local rate" as in the Act directed.

12. In dealing with applications from county councils for sanction to loans under this Act, the Board act upon the principles (set out in the earlier sections of the present memorandum) which guide them in dealing with applications by local authorities for sanction to borrow money for hospital purposes under the Public Health Act.

ASSIGNMENT OF CERTAIN POWERS UNDER THE INFECTIOUS DISEASE (PREVENTION) ACT, 1890—GENERAL ORDER.

WHEREAS [recites section 1 of the P. H. (Ports) Act, 1896].

And whereas by divers Orders issued by us, section 120 of the Public Health Act, 1875, has been put in force in the several port sanitary districts in England and Wales (other than the district of the port sanitary authority of the port of London), or some of them;

And whereas [recites section 5 of the Infectious Disease (Prevention) Act, 1890 (herein-after referred to as "the Act")].

And whereas it is expedient that the provisions of section 5 of the Act with certain necessary modifications should be assigned to the several port sanitary authorities other than the port sanitary authority of the port of London in substitution for the provisions of section 120 of the Public Health Act, 1875:

NOW THEREFORE, we, the Local Government Board, in pursuance of the powers given to us by the statutes in that behalf, do hereby order as follows:—

ARTICLE I.—This Order shall come into operation on the first day of September, one thousand nine hundred and twelve.

ARTICLE II.—Subject as herein-after mentioned, we do hereby assign to every port sanitary authority other than the port sanitary authority of the port of London, all powers, rights, duties, capacities, and obligations under the provisions of section 5 of the Act, in relation to any infectious disease to which the Public Health Act, 1875, applies, and under sections 16, 17, 18, and 20 of the Act so far as those sections relate to the exercise of the powers, rights, duties, capacities, and obligations under the provisions of section 5 of the Act as hereby assigned.

ARTICLE III.—For the purposes of the assignment of the said powers, rights, duties, capacities, and obligations under sections 5, 16, 17, 18, and 20 of the Act to every port sanitary authority other than the port sanitary authority of the port of London as aforesaid, the said sections shall be modified so as to read as follows:—

"5. Section one hundred and twenty of the Public Health Act, 1875, so far as it applies to any port sanitary district, shall be no longer in force, and the following provisions shall be in force in lieu thereof; that is to say:—

"(1) Where the medical officer of health of any port sanitary authority certifies that the cleansing and disinfecting of—

"(a) any berth, cabin, or other place which is or has been occupied, or is or has been provided or appropriated for occupation, by any person while on board any ship, or

"(b) any articles on board any ship which are likely to retain infection, would tend to prevent or check infectious disease, the clerk to the port sanitary authority shall give notice in writing to the master of such ship, that such berth, cabin, or other place or that such articles will be cleansed and disinfected by the port sanitary authority at the cost of the master of such ship, unless such master informs the port sanitary authority within six hours from the receipt of the notice that he will forthwith cleanse and disinfect such berth cabin or other place or such articles to the satisfaction of the medical officer of health.

"(2) If within six hours from the receipt of the notice the master does not inform the port sanitary authority as aforesaid, or if, having so informed the port sanitary authority, he fails to have such berth cabin or other place or such articles disinfected as aforesaid, the berth cabin or other place or such articles shall be cleansed and disinfected by the officers of the port sanitary authority under the superintendence of the medical officer of health, and the expenses incurred may be recovered from the master in a summary manner.

"(3) Provided that where the master of any such ship is unable, in the opinion of the port sanitary authority or of their medical officer of health, effectually to cleanse and disinfect any such berth cabin or other place of such articles, the same may without any such notice being given as aforesaid, but with the consent of such master, be cleansed and disinfected by the officers of and at the cost of the port sanitary authority, and such cleansing and disinfection shall be completed with all reasonable despatch by such officers."

"16. Every person who shall wilfully obstruct any duly authorised officer of the port sanitary authority in carrying out the provisions of sections 5 and 17 of this Act shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds, and if the offence is a continuing one, to a daily penalty not exceeding forty shillings a day so long as the offence continues."

"17. For the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of section 5 of this Act the port sanitary authority may, by any officer appointed in that behalf, who shall produce his authority in writing, enter at any time on any ship."

"18. Every penalty imposed by section 16 of this Act shall be recoverable in a court of summary jurisdiction on the information or complaint of the port sanitary authority, or of their duly authorised officer, but not otherwise, and shall be paid to the port sanitary authority."

"20. Any expenses incurred by a port sanitary authority in the execution of any of the provisions of sections 5, 17 or 18 of this Act shall be paid as part of the expenses of that authority in the execution of the Acts relating to public health."

ARTICLE IV.—In the provisions of the Act applied as modified by this Order to port sanitary authorities other than the port sanitary authority for the port of London, the expression "medical officer of health" shall include any person duly authorised to act temporarily as medical officer of health.

ARTICLE V.—This Order may be cited as "The Port Sanitary Authorities (Assignment of Powers) Order, 1912."

NOTIFICATION AND TREATMENT OF TUBERCULOSIS—GENERAL ORDER (a).

WHEREAS [recites section 130 of the P. H. A., 1875, as amended by the P. H. A., 1896].

Health (Tuberculosis in Hospitals) Regulations, 1911, and by the Public Health (Tuberculosis) Regulations, 1911, we made certain regulations for preventing the spread of pulmonary tuberculosis;

And whereas it appears to us to be expedient that the said regulations should be revoked, and that the regulations which are hereinafter set forth should be made in relation to tuberculosis:

NOW THEREFORE, we, by this our Order and in the exercise of the powers conferred upon us by the Public Health Act, 1875, the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, and the Public Health Act, 1896, and of every other power enabling us in that behalf, do hereby make the following regulations, that is to say:—

ARTICLE I.—(Definitions.)

ARTICLE II.—On and after the date of the operation of these regulations the previous regulations and all Orders made by the Local Government Board thereunder shall be revoked.

ARTICLE III.—These regulations shall come into operation on the first day of February, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, and, subject to the provisions of Article XVII. of these regulations, shall then and thereafter apply and have effect throughout England and Wales, and shall be enforced and executed by every local authority.

ARTICLE IV.—For the purposes of these regulations—

Every local authority shall provide and maintain a sufficient supply of printed copies of the forms set out in the Schedule A. to these regulations, and shall as soon as practicable after these regulations come into operation, and afterwards from time to time when application is made to them, furnish—

(a) printed copies of Form A. to every medical practitioner resident or practising within the district of the local authority;

(b) printed copies of Form B. to the school medical inspector or inspectors of every public elementary school situate within the district of the local authority; and

(c) printed copies of Form C. and Form D. to the medical officers of every Poor Law institution and sanatorium situate within the district of the local authority.

ARTICLE V.—Subject to the provisions of these regulations every medical practitioner (unless acting as a school medical inspector) attending on or called in to visit any person (whether at an institution or otherwise), shall, within forty-eight hours after first becoming aware that such person is suffering from tuberculosis, make and sign a notification of the case in Form A., and shall transmit the notification to the medical officer of health for the district within which the place of residence of the person is situate at the date of the notification:

Provided that a medical practitioner shall not notify a case of tuberculosis under this article if he has reasonable grounds for believing that the case has already been notified, either under this Order or under the previous regulations or otherwise, to the medical officer of health for the district within which the place of residence of the person is situate:

Provided further that if a notification is required in pursuance of this article in respect of an in-patient at an institution, the notification shall be sent to the medical officer of health for the district in which the usual place of residence of the patient is situate.

ARTICLE VI.—Every school medical inspector shall, as soon as practicable after the end of each week, make and sign a notification in Form B. of all cases of tuberculosis of which he has first become aware in the course of inspections made by him during the week of children attending public elementary schools, and shall transmit the notification to the medical officer of health for the district within which the places of residence of the children are situate. When the places of residence are situate in more than one district, a separate notification shall be transmitted to the medical officer of health of each district.

ARTICLE VII.—The medical officer of a Poor Law institution or of a sanatorium shall, as soon as practicable after the end of each week—

(a) make and sign a notification in Form C. of all cases of tuberculosis admitted during the week and not being cases which are required to be notified under

Article V. of these regulations, and transmit the notification to the medical officer of health for the district within which the places of residence of the persons notified are situate; and

(b) make and sign a notification in Form D. of all cases of tuberculosis discharged during the week, other than cases transferred to a Poor Law institution or a sanatorium, and transmit the notification to the medical officer of health for the district within which the places of destination of the persons notified are situate.

When the places of residence, or the places of destination, as the case may be, of the persons to be notified are situate in more than one district a separate notification shall be transmitted to the medical officer of health of each district.

ARTICLE VIII.—For the purposes of these regulations a medical practitioner shall be deemed to have become aware that a person is suffering from tuberculosis when he has arrived at this conclusion from evidence other than that derived solely from tuberculin tests applied to that person.

The statement shall show on which form the notification was made and shall contain the information in regard to each person which was given in the notification.

(4) Any expenses incurred by a medical officer of health in carrying out the duties imposed upon him by this article shall be defrayed by the local authority of the district for which he is medical officer of health.

ARTICLE XII.—Upon the receipt of a notification under these regulations the medical officer of health, or an officer of the local authority acting under the instructions of the medical officer of health, shall make such inquiries and take such steps as are necessary or desirable for investigating the source of infection, for preventing the spread of infection, and for removing conditions favourable to infection;

Provided that nothing in this article shall be deemed to authorise a medical officer of health or other officer to take any of the steps herein mentioned at any institution other than one belonging to the local authority, except with the consent of the managers of that institution.

ARTICLE XIII.—For the purposes of these regulations—

(1) A local authority on the advice of their medical officer of health may supply all such medical or other assistance, and all such facilities and articles as may reasonably be required for the detection of tuberculosis, for preventing the spread of infection and for removing conditions favourable to infection, and for that purpose may appoint such officers, do such acts and make such arrangements as may be necessary:

Provided that nothing in this sub-division of this article shall be deemed to authorise a local authority to take any of the measures herein mentioned at any institution other than one belonging to the local authority.

(2) A local authority on the advice of their medical officer of health, may provide and publish or distribute suitable summaries of information and instruction respecting tuberculosis, and the precautions to be taken against the spread of infection from that disease.

ARTICLE XVI.—Nothing in these regulations shall have effect so as to apply, or so as to authorise or require a medical officer of health or a local authority, or any other person or authority, directly or indirectly, to put in force with respect to any person in relation to whom a notification in pursuance of these regulations has been transmitted to a medical officer of health any enactment which renders the person, or any one in charge of the person, or any other person, liable to a penalty, or subjects the person to any restriction, prohibition, or disability affecting himself, or his employment, occupation or means of livelihood, on the ground of his suffering from tuberculosis.

ARTICLE XVII.—Nothing in these regulations shall have effect in derogation of any power conferred, or of any duty or obligation imposed with respect to tuberculosis by a local Act, and these regulations shall not apply to a district in which any such local Act as aforesaid is in force except so far as they impose duties and obligations or confer powers which are not imposed or conferred by the local Act and which are not inconsistent with any duties, obligations, or powers which are imposed or conferred by the local Act. CIRCULAR TO COUNTY COUNCILS, ETC.

DOMICILIARY TREATMENT OF TUBERCULOSIS.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD, WHITEHALL, S.W.,
September 20, 1916.

SIR,—I am directed by the President of the Local Government Board to refer to the circular letter issued by this department on the 27th July, 1912, enclosing copies of an Order made by the Board on the 26th July, 1912, prescribing the manner of domiciliary treatment of insured persons suffering from tuberculosis approved by the Board for the purpose of section 16 (1) (b) of the National Insurance Act, 1911.

The Board stated in the circular letter referred to that they regarded the regulations made by this Order as somewhat provisional in character, and that they had reserved to themselves power to modify the regulations, should experience show that modifications were desirable, and they have now arrived at the conclusion that it would be expedient to amend and simplify the regulations in some respects. A further Order, of which copies are enclosed, has therefore been made by the Board, rescinding the Order of the 26th July, 1912, and prescribing afresh the manner of domiciliary treatment of insured persons suffering from tuberculosis approved by the Board for the purpose of section 16 (1) (b) of the National Insurance Act, 1911. It will be observed that the new Order will come into operation on the 1st January, 1917, and, in consequence of the provisions of section 42 (1) of the National Insurance Act, 1913, will apply only to England, excluding Monmouthshire.

The effect of the Order will be to rescind the provisions of Article II. (3) and (4) of the Order of the 26th July, 1912, whereby a medical practitioner carrying out the domiciliary treatment of an insured person suffering from tuberculosis is required to keep a continuous record of the clinical history of the illness of the patient and particulars of the treatment given to the patient under his direction, and to submit the card or sheet containing the record periodically to the Consulting Officer. It is anticipated that the abolition of this requirement will appreciably diminish the calls upon the time of practitioners undertaking the domiciliary treatment of insured tuberculous patients.

At the same time the Order (see Article II. (3) and the Schedule) prescribes the form in which the medical practitioner shall make his periodical reports to the consulting officer in regard to each of the patients under his care, and provides that the medical practitioner shall make arrangements with the consulting officer for each of his patients to be examined by the consulting officer not less often than once in every twelve months (see Article II. (4)).

The Order will be shortly placed on sale so that further copies may be obtained, either directly or through any bookseller, from Messrs. Wyman and Sons, Limited, 29, Bream's Buildings, Fetter Lane, London, E.C.

Appendix II.

TO COUNTY COUNCILS AND SANITARY AUTHORITIES.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH, WHITEHALL, S.W.1.
November 28th, 1919.

MEASLES AND GERMAN MEASLES.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to state that the large numbers of deaths which occur annually from measles, and the disabilities and impairment of health which are the after-result of this disease in so many cases make it, in the view of the Ministry, extremely important that all practical measures for combating the mortality from measles should be extended and developed as much as possible.

The Ministry have therefore considered it desirable to review the whole position including the working and results of the present notification arrangements which were made obligatory by the Local Government Board Order of 27th November, 1915 (Notification and Treatment of Measles and German Measles). The Ministry have given careful consideration to various criticisms which have reached them as to the ineffectiveness of that Order, and have come to the conclusion that its continuance on present lines is not the best method of dealing with the problem.

A new Order (copies enclosed) has, therefore, been made which rescinds the former Order as from 31st December next, and I am to request that the rescission of the regulations may be brought to the notice of all medical practitioners and made known by every practicable means throughout the district of the authority. In bringing the new Order to the notice of local health authorities the Ministry wish it to be understood that it is in no sense their intention to impose any check on the action which such authorities can take to combat the mortality from measles. On the contrary, the withdrawal of the Notification Order in its present form still leaves local authorities free to organise various forms of combating and preventing the spread of the disease immediately on receiving information respecting cases of measles occurring in their districts from the many different local sources of information now available. Such information should enable appropriate action to be taken not less speedily in regard to cases of measles than has been possible when knowledge of the incidence of the disease has depended solely on notification.

Section 1 of this circular gives a brief summary of the principal ways in which local action can be taken for this purpose.

Section 2 refers to the grants available for work in connection with measles.

Section 3 indicates the action which can be taken by local authorities who may be of opinion that continuation of some system of compulsory notification is desirable in their areas. The date for the coming into operation of the Order is fixed for the 31st December next, in order to allow of the inauguration of any revised arrangements, where this is desired, without break of continuity.

Under the terms of section 133 of the Public Health Act, 1875, and of section 77 of the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, any local authority may, with the sanction of the Local Government Board (now the Ministry of Health) themselves provide a temporary supply of medicine and medical assistance for the poorer inhabitants of their district, and the Ministry hereby give general consent to the exercise of these powers by any local authority in regard to measles.

Section 1—Practical Measures.

Apart from any information which may in particular localities continue to be obtained from some form of notification of measles, it is important that the medical officer of health in all districts should utilise to the full the various opportunities which are available to him to learn of the occurrence of measles arising in his district and to follow its epidemic variations. This information can be obtained principally through the reports of health visitors, school nurses and the school attendance officer, while parents and guardians should also be encouraged to report cases to the office of the local sanitary authority.

1. Instruction of Parents and Guardians.—Formal and informal lectures by the medical officer of health or medical practitioners to those most likely to influence the public attitude to measles; instruction imparted at the Infant Welfare Centre, and other propaganda work, such as the distribution of posters, pamphlets, etc., on the disease all prove useful in instructing the public concerning measles. The practical advice of the health visitor or nurse, exemplified in a particular case in the home, will educate the parent and spread practical working knowledge more satisfactorily than any other method.

2. Health Visiting.—It should be a general instruction to health visitors to whom measles work is assigned that, on learning of the occurrence of a case of measles in their particular district, a visit should be made promptly to the home of the sufferer. The health visitor advises the parents or persons in charge as to the infectious nature of the disease and the precautions to be taken, and gives elementary instructions as to nursing where this is required. She makes enquiries as to the existence of previous cases, or of other cases of the disease, and as to whether the school authorities have been informed. She reports on her visit to the medical officer of health; doing so immediately, if she finds conditions of environment which seem to call for action by the public health authority, or if the case is obviously one in which steps should be taken at once to secure medical treatment and nursing. If she receives no other instructions she continues her visits as required until the child is convalescent. On receipt of her report, the medical officer of health decides whether it is necessary for him to communicate with the medical attendant, if any, or to make a personal visit to the house, and whether nursing or other assistance is required, and in what way it can be supplied.

It is not necessary, as a rule, to appoint health visitors solely for measles visiting. It is convenient that health visitors engaged in maternity and child welfare visiting should also undertake the visiting of cases of measles. In periods of severe epidemics of measles it may be necessary for a local authority to employ the whole resources of its health visiting staff in measles visiting. In such times of stress, if the staff available is insufficient to allow of visits to all cases, such action should be confined to children under five years of age.

3. Nursing Provision.—This is of the first importance in preventing mortality and disablement resulting from measles. The services of nurses are not perpetually required, but it is essential that sanitary authorities should have a call on the services of nurses for home nursing whenever the need for utilising them arises.

Arrangements may be made for engaging the nurses of a district nursing association, or by employing the nurses of the sanitary authorities' isolation hospital staff. Often local authorities of contiguous districts can usefully combine with the object of providing nurses who can serve a large number of smaller urban districts and rural districts, and who can be dispatched to the seat of outbreaks of measles as required. The various component authorities combining for this purpose contribute to the cost in proportion to their populations or otherwise. Another, and in some cases a more efficient and economical arrangement, is for the county council to provide a staff of nurses for the visiting and nursing of measles and other infectious diseases, such as whooping cough, poliomyelitis, epidemic diarrhœa and ophthalmia neonatorum in children under five years of age throughout the county. This provision can be made by county councils exercising their powers under the Maternity and Child Welfare Act, 1918. The direct employment of these nurses by the county council for the benefit of the whole administrative county simplifies the financial arrangements, since the county can be rated equally for the salaries, and no charge need be made for their services to the particular local authorities who use them.

With regard to health visitors and nurses undertaking visits to the homes of cases of measles while engaged also on other branches of work, the Ministry are advised that subject to the taking of simple precautions, on the advice of the medical officer of health, there is little or no risk of the conveyance of infection from house to house.

It is, naturally, of the utmost importance that health visitors and nurses employed by the local authorities in visiting and nursing cases of measles should not only be fully acquainted with the principles which govern the work but should know how in practice to make the best of unsatisfactory conditions of environment in the interest of the sick child and the family.

4. Medical Assistance.—The health visitor should be instructed to advise the calling in of a doctor in all cases of measles. Medical assistance may be provided for necessitous cases at the expense of the sanitary authority, on the advice of the medical officer of health.

5. Institutional Treatment.—Although the majority of cases must necessarily be treated at home, yet cases occur where, for one or another reason, hospital treatment is specially desirable, and provision should be made for such cases. Institutional treatment in measles is specially valuable for severe or necessitous cases coming from bad home surroundings, whose prospect of recovery may be improved by hospital treatment; and on account of the provision made in institutions for the prevention of complications and sequelæ of the disease.

The Local Government Board in 1911, issued orders enabling the managers of the Metropolitan Asylums Board to receive patients suffering from measles into their hospitals under certain conditions. At present, admission is restricted to very severe cases and to children of the poorest class, who cannot receive proper attention at their homes. The cases are recommended for admission by medical officers of health and poor law medical officers. In certain large urban centres in England and Wales, some hospital provision for necessitous cases has been made, but the provision is generally inadequate for the needs of the population. In other cases it is entirely lacking. The provision of numerous small wards, containing only a few patients, which allow of successive cleansing of each ward, together with prompt isolation of a case of bronchial pneumonia, are calculated to secure favourable results in hospital treatment. The adoption of such measures in France has proved efficacious in checking mortality from the disease.

6. Convalescent Home Treatment.—For children who have recently passed through an attack of measles a certain period of treatment in a convalescent home is often specially important for complete recovery.

It is desirable, therefore, that local authorities should either themselves or through a voluntary agency, arrange for beds in convalescent homes for children convalescent from measles. The selection of suitable cases can be entrusted to the medical officer of health.

7. After-Care.—The health visitor should keep under review children who have recently suffered from measles. The disease is often followed by a more or less prolonged period of ill-health which can be ameliorated by good home conditions, suitable food, fresh air and so forth. Special medical observation of these cases, e.g. at the Child Welfare Centre, or at a school clinic, seems desirable for some months in order that if sequelæ arise the child may promptly receive the benefit of expert advice.

8. Measles in Institutions.—The risks of measles should always be kept in mind in connection with day nurseries, crèches and other institutions for children. The authorities of such institutions should consult the medical officer of health, or the medical officer in attendance at the institution on all cases of suspected infectious disease arising in the institution at ordinary times, and with regard to all children presenting themselves for admission during the prevalence of a measles epidemic.

Section 2.—Grants for Measles Work (a).

(a) These grants forming part of the maternity and child welfare grants are discontinued as from April 1st, 1930, by s. 85, Sched. II. of the L. G. A., 1929, ante, pp. 1948, 2007.

Section 3.—Authorities adopting Compulsory Notification of Measles and German Measles (Rubeola).

Since the issue of the Order of 27th November, 1915, experience of the notification of measles in practice has shown that this system under which notification is required of the first case in a household attended by a medical practitioner, and of each case in the household by the parents of the patient, is not an essential factor in a practical scheme having the diminution of the mortality from measles as its aim. According to the information of the Ministry the local authorities which have been most active in this work have had still in large measure to rely on their own means for finding out cases of measles, for example through the reports of health visitors and through information obtained from the schools, with the result that notification afterwards received has been redundant. On the other hand, in certain districts notifications have been filed without appropriate action, and in such cases it is difficult to justify the expenditure on notification fees.

The withdrawal of the Order of 1915 does not preclude any local authority which is satisfied that notification is a useful adjunct to measles work from continuing notification. The Ministry are willing to consider an application from any sanitary authority for an Order on the lines of the Order of 27th November, 1915, making the compulsory notification of measles and German measles applicable to cases of these diseases occurring in their district, provided that any sanitary authority so applying possesses, and is prepared to utilise, a satisfactory organisation for dealing with cases of measles; in the absence of sufficient evidence in these respects it is obvious that very little useful purpose would be served by the Order, and that it, therefore, could not be justified.

When reason is shown, the Ministry are prepared to consider a local Order which would require compulsory notification for all cases of measles occurring in the district, not merely the first cases as in the Order of 1915.

A copy of the enclosed Order and of this circular have been forwarded to the medical officer of health.

The circular and Order will be placed on sale so that copies may shortly be obtained through any bookseller or directly from H.M. Stationery Office at the following addresses:—Imperial House, Kingsway, London, W.C.2; 28, Abingdon Street, London, S.W.1; 37, Peter Street, Manchester; and 1, St. Andrew's Crescent, Cardiff.

Appendix II.

FINANCIAL ARRANGEMENTS TO BE MADE ON AND AFTER THE 1ST MAY, 1921, IN REGARD TO THE SCHEMES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES FOR THE TREATMENT OF TUBERCULOSIS IN ENGLAND.

1. The Minister of Health will repay to the councils of counties and county boroughs (and to the joint committees for tuberculosis constituted under section 64 (3) of the National Insurance Act, 1911, for the exercise of all the powers of the constituent councils in regard to the institutional treatment of tuberculosis) the approved expenditure incurred by the councils and joint committees in the provision of residential treatment for tuberculous ex-service men in accordance with the arrangements set out in Memo. 30/T issued by the Minister of Health on the 31st March, 1921.

2.—(a) The Minister of Health will pay to each of the above-named councils and joint committees, in respect of the services to be rendered by their tuberculosis officers during the eight months 1st May to 31st December, 1921, in accordance with section 22. A of Memo. 30/T, the share of the council or joint committee in the sum of £6,650 mentioned in section 5 of circular 190, issued by the Minister on the 31st March, 1921. This sum will be allocated between the councils and joint committees in proportion to the populations of their areas, and the amount available for the county of London will be apportioned between the metropolitan borough councils in accordance with the populations of the several metropolitan boroughs.

(b) The records of the numbers of notifications, reports, etc., to be kept by tuberculosis officers, as indicated at the end of paragraph 22.A of Memo. 30/T, will be utilised in determining the amount of the payment to be made for these services for periods subsequent to 31st December, 1921.

3. Parliament will be asked to vote such an amount as will enable the Minister of Health to pay, as from the 1st May, 1921, to the councils of counties and county boroughs, and to the joint committees specified in paragraph 1 of this memorandum, a block grant of an annual amount equivalent to the amount received in respect of the year 1920 under their principal agreements with the insurance committees of their areas for the treatment of insured persons suffering from tuberculosis; or, in the case of those councils which have no comprehensive agreements with the insurance committees of their areas for the institutional treatment of insured persons, to the amount of the sanatorium benefit income which is available to the insurance committees of those areas in respect of the year 1920 for defraying the cost of institutional treatment.

The sum to be voted will also include a sum equivalent to the annual amount at present available to the Seaman's National Insurance Society for defraying the cost of the institutional treatment of tuberculosis. This sum will be distributed annually amongst the councils of those areas in which the society's members are located, in proportion to the number of members located in each area.

For the period 1st May, 1921, to 31st March, 1922, eleven-twelfths of the annual amount will be payable.

4. The Minister of Health will continue to distribute the annual Exchequer grant in aid of the cost of schemes of institutional treatment, equivalent to 50 per cent. of the net approved expenditure of councils and joint committees, after deduction of the amounts payable in accordance with the preceding paragraphs of this memorandum and of any receipts of the council or joint committee from any other source in respect of their scheme.

5. Parliament will be asked to vote such an amount as will enable the Minister of Health to pay grants to councils and joint committees equivalent to 50 per cent. of their approved expenditure on the provision of extra nourishment as part of the treatment of tuberculous persons who are not under treatment in residential institutions, subject to the annual expenditure for this purpose not exceeding £2 per 1000 of the population of the area of the council or joint committee.

Appendix II.

TREATMENT OF TUBERCULOSIS.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH, WHITEHALL, S.W.1.,
March 31*st*, 1921.

SIR,—(1) I am directed by the Minister of Health to refer to circular 158 issued on the 1st December last, in which it was indicated that the first day of May, 1921, had been appointed as the date on which section 4 of the National Health Insurance Act, 1920 (which provides that sanatorium benefit shall cease to be included among the benefits conferred by Part I. of the National Insurance Act, 1911) should come into operation. On and after the 1st May next, insurance committees will accordingly no longer have the duty of providing treatment for insured persons suffering from tuberculosis, except in so far as medical treatment and attendance are provided, as part of medical benefit under section 8 (1) (a) of the National Insurance Act, 1911, as interpreted by section 4 (3) of the National Health Insurance Act, 1920; and the contributions payable by insured persons and their employers under the National Health Insurance Acts will not include any payment towards the cost of the institutional treatment of insured persons suffering from tuberculosis. It will therefore rest with the county and county borough councils to provide institutional treatment for such persons as well as for other members of the community.

(2) In practically every county and county borough a scheme for the institutional treatment of tuberculosis, comprising both dispensaries and residential institutions, is already in operation or in course of development, and is available for the treatment of the whole population of the area of the council. In the large majority of these areas agreements are also in operation by which the councils provide institutional treatment for insured persons suffering from tuberculosis in consideration of the payments by the insurance committees which are specified in the agreements. These agreements will of necessity be determined when sanatorium benefit is discontinued, and copies are enclosed of draft regulations under section 4 (2) of the National Health Insurance Act, 1920, providing for the termination of such agreements as at the 30th April, 1921. The arrangements which will be made for increasing the grant payable to councils in aid of their approved expenditure on the treatment of tuberculosis, consequent upon the discontinuance of the contributions hitherto received from the insurance committees, are explained in the accompanying Memorandum 31/T.

(3) In those areas in which the council have already undertaken, by agreement with the insurance committee, to provide institutional treatment for insured persons, no difficulty should arise in the continued provision by the council of the institutional treatment needed by such persons on and after the 1st May next. In the remaining areas it will be necessary for the council to supplement the provision they have already made, either by taking over the arrangements made by the insurance committee for the provision of residential treatment, or by making other arrangements for that purpose, to come into operation on the 1st May, under which at least an equivalent amount of residential treatment will be provided; and the Minister should be informed at the earliest possible date of the precise arrangements which the councils of these areas propose to make for that purpose.

It is important that there should be no interruption on the appointed day of the course of treatment provided by an insurance committee for any insured person. For this purpose, whether or not there is a general agreement in force between the council and the insurance committee in regard to the institutional treatment of insured persons, the council should obtain from the insurance committee as soon as possible a list showing any ex-service men and other persons who will be receiving treatment on the 30th April in residential institutions under arrangements made by the insurance committee otherwise than with the council, and make due provision for continuing the course of treatment being received by such persons.

(4) The regulations referred to in paragraph 3 provide for the following matters :—

(5) The attention of the council is particularly drawn to the separate memorandum 30/T, issued with this circular, dealing with the special arrangements which should be made by the council for the treatment of ex-service men suffering from tuberculosis. The memorandum indicates the nature of the arrangements at present in force, and explains in detail the arrangements which will be brought into operation on the 1st May, 1921. Provision is made for repayment to the council of the cost of residential treatment provided for ex-service men in accordance with these arrangements.

(7) On the discontinuance of sanatorium benefit, insured persons will, of course, be no longer in a position to apply to their insurance committees for that benefit, and arrangements should be made whereby all cases of such persons, and of other members of the community, who are suffering from tuberculosis, are brought to the notice of the tuberculosis officer at the earliest possible date. Apart from cases in which patients apply to the council or their officers for treatment, this will usually be effected through the notification of the case under the Public Health (Tuberculosis) Regulations, 1912, and in order to secure prompt notification it is suggested that councils should once more circularise the medical practitioners practising in their areas, drawing attention to the importance of strict compliance with their obligations under Article V. of the regulations, and of their utilising freely the services of the tuberculosis officers in order that in any doubtful case a definite diagnosis may be arrived at as soon as possible. It is assumed that in all counties the weekly statements of notifications furnished to the county medical officer of health under Article XI. (3) of the regulations, and in county boroughs the notifications received by the medical officer of health, are at once made available for the tuberculosis officers.

(8) With the termination of sanatorium benefit, the Tuberculosis (Domiciliary Treatment in England) Order, 1916, will cease to have effect, but regulations (a draft of which is enclosed) will shortly be made by the Minister under the National Health Insurance Acts, 1911 to 1920, in order to provide for the continuance of periodical reports by insurance practitioners upon insured persons under treatment by such practitioners for tuberculosis, and for consultations in regard to such cases between the practitioner and the tuberculosis officer. A stock of the forms prescribed by the regulations for the purpose of these periodical reports will be supplied by this department to insurance committees, for distribution to the insurance practitioners in their respective areas. If, however, the council are for any special reasons desirous of themselves providing a stock of the forms for use in their area, it will be open to them to do so; and in that event they should arrange for the distribution of the forms through the insurance committee, and should also notify this department. It should also be borne in mind, if this course is followed, that as the regulations provide that the insurance practitioner is to make his first report in regard to each case when treatment for tuberculosis is first required to be given, it is important that the forms should be in the hands of the insurance practitioners by the 1st May. The reports will be transmitted by each practitioner to the regional medical officer appointed by the Minister under the provisions of the National Health Insurance (Medical Benefit) Regulations, 1920, for the district in which the practitioner carries on insurance practice, and will be forwarded to the medical officer to the appropriate tuberculosis officer.

(9) Insurance committees in general have made some provision, in the administration of sanatorium benefit, for the supply of extra nourishment to insured persons suffering from tuberculosis in cases where the tuberculosis officer has certified that the provision of such extra nourishment is necessary for the proper treatment of the case. The Minister is advised that such provision, in suitable cases, is to be regarded as an essential part of treatment, and he is prepared to consider applications from councils under section 3 of the Public Health (Prevention and Treatment of Disease) Act, 1913, for sanction to arrangements for the supply of extra nourishment to persons suffering from tuberculosis who are under treatment at home or at a dispensary. The arrangements should provide that extra nourishment will only be supplied as part of treatment on the recommendation of the tuberculosis officer in each case, and should indicate what precautions will be taken to prevent abuse; and an estimate should be furnished of expenditure to be incurred on this service during the period expiring on the 31st March, 1922. The arrangements should extend not only to insured persons, but to the population generally, excepting tuberculous ex-service men whose disease has been held to be attributable to or aggravated by war service. The provision of extra nourishment for these men, if their medical attendants certify that they need special diet, is a matter for the Local War Pensions

Appendix II.

Committees as explained in the circular letter addressed to insurance committees on the 10th February last, a copy of which was enclosed with circular 179.

In order that there may be no break in the supply of extra nourishment to insured persons, it is suggested that councils should temporarily take over, as from the 1st May next, the arrangements at present made by insurance committees, and the Minister hereby sanctions any reasonable expenditure incurred for this purpose in anticipation of his sanction to the complete arrangements proposed by the council. The basis upon which grants will be available for this service is explained in Memorandum 31/T.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH (TUBERCULOSIS) REGULATIONS, 1921, DATED APRIL 21, 1921, MADE BY THE MINISTER OF HEALTH.

* * * * * *

2. In the Regulations of 1912 the following definitions shall be substituted for the definitions contained in paragraphs (h) and (i) of Article I. of those regulations, that is to say—

"(h) The expression 'tuberculosis dispensary' means a non-residential institution approved by the Minister of Health for the treatment of tuberculosis."

"(i) The expression 'sanatorium' means a residential institution approved by the Minister of Health for the treatment of tuberculosis."

3. Sub-division (2) of Article XI. of the Regulations of 1912 shall be altered and have effect as if the words "the medical officer of a tuberculosis dispensary which serves any area within which the district is situate" were inserted therein immediately before the words "a school medical inspector."

4. Every medical officer of health shall from time to time, but not less often than once in every quarter, revise the register of notifications required to be kept by him in pursuance of Article XI. of the Regulations of 1912, by removing from such register the entries therein relating to notifications in respect of persons who have to his knowledge died or have ceased permanently to reside within the district for which he is medical officer of health.

5. Every medical officer of health, on becoming aware that a person who has been resident in his district and who is suffering from tuberculosis has permanently changed his place of residence into some other district, shall forthwith notify the medical officer of health of that district of the case and of all relevant particulars thereof which are contained in the register of notifications kept by him.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH, WHITEHALL, S.W. 1.
April 21, 1921.

PUBLIC HEALTH (TUBERCULOSIS) REGULATIONS, 1921.

SIR,—I am directed by the minister of health to enclose herewith copies of the Public Health (Tuberculosis) Regulations, 1921, which have been issued for the purpose of amending the Public Health (Tuberculosis) Regulations, 1912, in certain respects.

In accordance with the provisions of section 4 of the National Health Insurance Act, 1920, sanatorium benefit will terminate in England and Wales on the 30th instant, and the provisions of section 16 (1) (a) of the National Insurance Act, 1911, will then cease to have effect. It has, consequently, been necessary to alter the definitions contained in paragraphs (h) and (i) of Article I. of the Regulations of 1912, and the necessary provision for this purpose is contained in Article 2 of the present regulations.

The effect of Article 3 of the present regulations is to enable the medical officer of a tuberculosis dispensary to have access to the register of notifications hereinafter referred to.

Experience has shown that in many districts the register of notifications which the medical officer of health is required to keep under Article XI. (2) of the Regulations of 1912 has not been kept up to date, and Article 4 of the present regulations therefore requires that every medical officer of health shall from time to time, but not less often than once in every quarter, revise the register by removing from it the entries therein relating to notifications in respect of persons who have, to his knowledge, died, and of persons who have ceased permanently to reside within his district.

Difficulties may be experienced in county districts in obtaining complete information for the purposes of this Article, but if there is adequate co-operation between the medical officer of health and the tuberculosis officer appointed by the county council for the district, the medical officer of health should be able generally to secure prompt information both of the deaths of notified patients and of removals of such patients to other districts. In the circular issued by the Local Government Board on the 20th December, 1912, with reference to the Regulations of 1912, it was pointed out that close co-operation between the medical officer of health and the tuberculosis officer was essential, and I am to draw attention to the suggestion which was then made that it would be desirable that the tuberculosis officer should, for the purpose of the tuberculosis regulations, act as an officer of the sanitary authority under the direction of the medical officer of health.

I am also to refer to section 28 of the Registration of Births and Deaths Act, 1874, under which a sanitary authority can obtain from the registrar of births and deaths, on payment of the prescribed fees, returns of the particulars registered concerning deaths from tuberculosis.

Article 5 of the present regulations requires every medical officer of health, on becoming aware that a person suffering from tuberculosis, who has been resident in his district, has permanently changed his place of residence, to notify forthwith the medical officer of health of the district to which the person has removed, and to furnish him with all relevant particulars of the case which are contained in the register of notifications. It will be apparent that for the due performance of his duties under this Article also, it is important that the medical officer of health should be in close touch with the work of the tuberculosis officer.

The present regulations will come into operation on the 1st May, and I am to request that the requirements of the regulations may at once be brought to the notice of the medical officer of health, to whom copies of the regulations and of this circular have been sent direct.

CIRCULAR 722.

COUNTY COUNCILS—LOCAL SANITARY AUTHORITIES.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH, WHITEHALL, LONDON, S.W.1, 9th August, 1926.

PUERPERAL FEVER AND PUERPERAL PYREXIA.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to forward to you the enclosed copies of the Public Health (Notification of Puerperal Fever and Puerperal Pyrevia) Regulations, 1926, which will come into operation on the 1st October, 1926.

Notification.

Puerperal fever has been notifiable throughout the country since the Infectious Disease (Notification) Extension Act, 1899, came into force. Experience has shown, however, that for a variety of reasons notification of this disease has been far from complete; with the result that not only are the statistics relating to the disease inaccurate and misleading (particularly as regards incidence and fatality rate), but measures for the prevention and effective treatment of the condition have been seriously hampered. In this connection, reference may be made to pages 58 to 62 Dame Janet Campbell's report on Maternal Mortality (Reports on Public Health and Medical Subjects No. 25) which was issued in 1924.

The main reason for the comparative failure to notify is to be found in the fact that puerperal fever is ill defined and is not a specific disease comparable with scarlet fever or diphtheria. There is frequently, therefore, a genuine doubt as to the correct diagnosis. The term moreover bears a connotation which may be thought to imply some slur upon the patient or medical attendant, and this may possibly act as a deterrent to notification of a doubtful case. In any event, it is certain that many cases are not notified at all and that severe cases are often notified only when it is too late for effective action to be taken ; and it is therefore important to modify the existing arrangements for the notification of puerperal fever by requiring the prompt notification of this morbid process as soon as symptoms suggestive of septic infection become manifest, in order that adequate nursing and treatment can be ensured and the spread of infection to others prevented.

The Minister consulted the section of obstetrics and gynæcology of the Royal Society of Medicine in this matter, and a representative committee appointed by the section submitted a report in February, 1925, upon which the enclosed Regulations are based.

The Minister is advised that it will ultimately be desirable to replace the term "puerperal fever" by the term "puerperal pyrexia," the latter being defined in terms which involve no theory as to causation, but without legislation amending the Infectious Disease (Notification) Acts it is not practicable to substitute "puerperal pyrexia" for "puerperal fever" as a disease notifiable under those Acts. The Regulations therefore, while prescribing new forms for the notification of cases of puerperal fever, also require the notification of cases of puerperal pyrexia (as defined in the Regulations) in addition to the present notification of puerperal fever under the Infectious Disease (Notification) Acts, thus placing an obligation upon medical practitioners to notify all cases of pyrexia during the puerperium irrespective of the cause to which the fever may be attributed. It is recognised that this requirement will lead to a great increase in the number of notifications and that many cases so reported will be relatively trivial in degree, but the great importance of securing adequate treatment in the early stages of puerperal infection is regarded as outweighing any objection to the notification of a certain amount of minor illness which gives no cause for anxiety.

Reports received on inquiries recently carried out in regard to the occurrence of puerperal infection in connection with various maternity institutions in different parts of the country, lead the Minister to think that pyrexia during the puerperium is not infrequently looked upon as a comparatively unimportant incident, and that proper precautions to prevent the spread of infection are at times neglected with disastrous results. He desires to take this opportunity of impressing upon all those concerned with administration or treatment in maternity institutions that the presence of infection, however slight in degree, in a patient or in a member of the staff should be considered as liable to give rise to an outbreak of virulent infection and should be dealt with accordingly.

Article 3 of the Regulations requires the local authority to cause notice to be given to all medical practitioners resident or practising within the district of the authority of the duties imposed upon them by the Regulations, and Article 4 requires the authority also to supply practitioners with copies of the notification forms which are prescribed in the Schedules to the Regulations. In this connection, it will be desirable to explain that the effect of Articles 7 and 8 is merely to require medical practitioners when notifying a case of puerperal fever under the Infectious Disease (Notification) Act, 1889, or under section 55 of the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, to use the form prescribed in Part I. or Part II., as the case may be, of the First Schedule to the present Regulations, instead of the forms contained in the Schedules to the Public Health (Notification of Infectious Disease) Regulations, 1918. The attention of practitioners should also be specially called to the definition of "puerperal pyrexia" and to the fact that the notification forms enable practitioners, when notifying a case of either puerperal fever or puerperal pyrexia, to indicate whether any assistance in dealing with the case is desired.

It will be observed that Article 13 of the Regulations requires the medical officer of health of any local authority in London, who receives a notification of a case of puerperal pyrexia, to send a copy of the notification, within twelve hours after its receipt, to the metropolitan asylum managers. This requirement already applies to notifications of cases of puerperal fever by virtue of section 55 (4) of the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, and in this connection I am to draw the attention of metropolitan borough councils to Circular 622 which was issued on the 14th September, 1925, and to suggest that the attention of medical practitioners in London should again be drawn to the special arrangements described in that Circular which have been made by the metropolitan asylum managers for the treatment of cases of puerperal fever.

Facilities for Treatment.

It will be realised that if the more complete notification is to have practical value it should be supplemented by the provision, when necessary, of facilities for assistance in diagnosis and for the treatment of patients who are not able to secure adequate treatment for themselves. These facilities can most readily be provided by the local authorities which are administering schemes under the Maternity and Child Welfare Act, 1918, and it will be observed that provision is made in Article 5 of the Regulations by which these authorities will receive prompt information of cases arising in the districts of sanitary authorities which do not administer such schemes. Maternity and child welfare authorities are empowered, with the sanction of the Minister, to make provision for the special treatment of women suffering from puerperal pyrexia, for consultation with an obstetric specialist, for skilled nursing, or for institutional treatment; and it is important that these authorities and their medical officers of health should do all that is possible to meet the requests of medical practitioners for special assistance for women suffering from puerperal pyrexia which is, or is likely to be, serious in character, in order that maternal mortality and morbidity from this cause may be so far as possible prevented.

If special assistance from the local authority is desired, the medical officer of health should ask the medical practitioner to supply him with further information which might include some or all of the following points:—

1. Conditions in the patient, if any, prior to the labour, which might have been factors in producing the pyrexia, e.g. septic foci, vaginal discharge, carious teeth, etc.
2. The names of all persons who have made internal examinations, including the name of the person who delivered the patient: their occupations and professional qualifications (if any).
3. Day and hour of commencement of labour or miscarriage.
4. The clinical course of labour or miscarriage, mentioning any special means used to assist labour, e.g. obstetrical operations or manual removal of placenta; and any injuries incurred by the patient.
5. The duration of labour and time of termination of labour or miscarriage.
6. The clinical history subsequent to delivery, including the amount and character of lochia; copy of temperature chart, etc.
7. The time of the onset and the probable cause of pyrexia.
8. Any cases of specific fevers, erysipelas, puerperal pyrexia, or other possible forms of sepsis, visited recently by doctor or other attendant, giving dates.

I am, etc.

The Clerk of the Council or The Town Clerk.

5. Subject to the provisions of these Regulations, every medical practitioner, as soon as he becomes aware that a person upon whom he is in professional attendance is suffering from malaria, or dysentery, or acute primary pneumonia, or acute influenzal pneumonia, shall forthwith transmit a notification thereof to the medical officer of health of the district, in the form and containing the particulars set forth in Schedule A or Schedule B, as the case may be, of the Public Health (Notification of Infectious Disease) Regulations, 1918:

Provided that a medical practitioner shall not be required to notify to the medical officer of health of the district a case of malaria occurring in an institution in which the infection has been induced for therapeutic purposes; but, at least four days before the discharge of the patient from the institution, the medical practitioner under whose charge he has been shall, if he is of opinion that the patient may be regarded as liable to relapses of malaria, notify the case to the medical officer of health of the district in which the patient proposes to reside, in the form and containing the particulars set forth in the Second Schedule to these Regulations.

Supply of Forms of Notification.

6. For the purposes of these Regulations every local authority shall provide and maintain a sufficient supply of printed copies of the prescribed Forms of Notification, and shall from time to time when application is made to them, furnish printed copies of the said forms to every medical practitioner practising within the district of the local authority.

Transmission of Notifications.

7. A notification to be transmitted to a medical officer of health in pursuance of these Regulations shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to that officer, and may be transmitted by being delivered to him or by being delivered at his office or residence, or may be sent by prepaid letter post addressed to him at his office or at his residence:

Provided that the requirement herein contained that a notification shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope shall be deemed to be complied with if the notification is folded in such a manner that during its transmission the particulars of the notification cannot be observed.

Fees for Notification.

8.—(1) The local authority shall pay to every medical practitioner a fee of two shillings and sixpence for each notification duly made, signed, and transmitted by him under these Regulations if the case occurs in his private practice, and of one shilling if the case occurs in his practice as medical officer of any public body or of any institution.

(2) Every fee shall be paid as soon as practicable after the end of the quarter to which the notification was sent, and the local authority shall not require before payment an account of fees claimed under these Regulations.

(3) The said fees shall in each case be deemed to cover all expenses, including the cost of transmission.

(4) The receipt of such fees shall not disqualify the medical practitioner for serving as a member of a local authority or in any other public office.

ACTION TO BE TAKEN IN REGARD TO THE VARIOUS DISEASES TO WHICH THESE REGULATIONS RELATE.

Duties of Medical Officers of Health.

9. A medical officer of health on receipt of a notification under these Regulations in relation to a case occurring in a place which is not in his district shall, unless such notification is made under the proviso to Regulation 5 hereof, forthwith forward the notification to the medical officer of health of the district in which the place is situated.

10. Upon the receipt of a notification under these Regulations, or on becoming aware in any other way of a case or suspected case of malaria, or dysentery, or acute primary pneumonia, or acute influenzal pneumonia, in his district, the medical officer of health, or an officer of the local authority acting under the instructions of the medical officer of health, shall make such inquiries and take such steps as are necessary or desirable for investigating the source of infection, for preventing the spread of infection, and for removing conditions favourable to infection, and if no medical practitioner is in attendance on the patient, the medical officer of health shall also take such steps as are necessary or desirable for ascertaining the nature of the case.

Savings.

12. Nothing in these Regulations shall be deemed to authorise a medical officer of health or other officer of any local authority to take any of the steps herein mentioned at any institution other than one belonging to the local authority, except with the consent of the managers of that institution.

13. Where a patient is an inmate of any building, ship, vessel, boat, tent, van, shed, or similar structure belonging to His Majesty the King, nothing in these Regulations shall be construed as requiring a notification to be transmitted to a medical officer of health in respect of that patient in any case not falling within the provisions of para. (b) of section 5 of the Local Government (Emergency Provisions) Act, 1916 (as made permanent by the Expiring Laws Act, 1925, and as applied to the Royal Air Force by the Air Force (Application of Enactments) (No. 2) Order, 1918).

Expenses of Medical Officer of Health.

14. Any expenses incurred by a medical officer of health in carrying out the duties imposed upon him by these Regulations shall be defrayed by the local authority of the district for which he is medical officer of health.

Appendix II.

SCHEDULES.

FIRST SCHEDULE.

PART I.

Malaria.

1. In every case of malaria occurring in his district of which the medical officer of health becomes aware, and in which he considers that action is necessary to prevent the spread of infection, he shall take all necessary and practicable steps to ensure that the person suffering from malaria :—

(1) is supplied with efficient mosquito netting,
(2) receives necessary quinine treatment,
(3) receives proper advice as to the continuation of quinine treatment in order to prevent relapses, and
(4) receives proper advice as to the precautions to be taken to prevent the spread of infection.

2. On the occurrence within a district of two or more cases in which the infection has, in the opinion of the medical officer of health, been contracted within the district, the local authority may, and if required by the Minister shall, appoint and pay a medical practitioner approved by him who shall—

(1) make systematic visits to houses where malaria has occurred or where risk of malaria infection arises, and shall offer to examine persons therein who are suspected of being infected with malaria and shall endeavour to obtain material for microscopic examination in order to determine whether malarial infection is present, and
(2) secure that effective measures are taken to prevent the spread of infection by the administration of quinine, by the use of mosquito netting, and by the destruction of mosquitoes, and otherwise.

3. In every case occurring in his district of which the medical officer of health becomes aware and in which he has reason to believe that the infection was contracted in England or Wales (including every case in which the notification relates to a patient in whom the malaria has been induced for therapeutic purposes), the medical officer of health shall immediately send the name and address of the patient to the Minister, and, unless the district is a county borough, to the medical officer of health of the county in which the district is situate.

PART II.

Typhus Fever and Relapsing Fever.

1. In any case of typhus fever or relapsing fever occurring in his district of which the medical officer of health becomes aware.

(i) he shall immediately send the name and address of the patient to the Minister, and, unless the district is a county borough, to the medical officer of health of the county in which the district is situated ;
(ii) if he is satisfied that it is necessary, he shall report accordingly to the local authority who may, by notice in writing, require—
  (a) that such measures as may be specified in the notice shall be immediately taken to the satisfaction of the medical officer of health to obtain the complete destruction of lice on the person and clothing of every occupant of the building, and to secure the destruction of lice or their products in the building ;
  (b) the temporary segregation, for a period to be specified in the notice, of other inmates of the building or of other persons recently in contact with the patient until their persons and clothing have been completely freed from lice.
(iii) The notice may be addressed to the head of the family to which the patient belongs, or to any person in charge of or in attendance on the patient, or any other person in the building of which the patient is an inmate, or the occupier of the building, and also to a person with whom the patient has recently been in contact.

PART III.

A.—Enteric Fever and Dysentery.

1.—(i) In any case of enteric fever or dysentery occurring in his district of which the medical officer of health becomes aware, and in connection with which he is of opinion after inquiry that such a course is necessary to prevent the spread of infection, he shall report accordingly to the local authority who may by notice in writing require that, until a further notice in writing is given by them revoking the first mentioned notice on the ground that the risk of infection is removed—

(a) the person specified in the notice shall discontinue any occupation connected with the preparation or handling of food or drink for human consumption,

(b) suitable measures to be specified in the notice shall be taken with respect to cleansing, disinfection, disposal of excreta, destruction of flies, and prevention of contamination of articles of food or drink for human consumption.

(ii) The notice may be addressed to the head of the family to which the patient belongs, or to any person in charge of or in attendance on the patient, or to any other person in the building or place of which the patient is an inmate, or to the occupier of the building or place.

2.—(i) If a medical officer of health has grounds for suspecting that any person in the district who is employed in any trade or business concerned with the preparation or handling of food or drink for human consumption is a carrier of enteric fever or dysentery infection, he shall report accordingly to the local authority, who may give notice in writing to the responsible manager of the trade or business concerned certifying that for the purpose of preventing the spread of the disease they consider it necessary for their medical officer of health or a medical officer acting on his behalf to make a medical examination of such suspected person, and the responsible manager and all other persons concerned shall give to the medical officer of health all reasonable assistance in the matter.

(ii) If from the result of any such examination, or from bacteriological or protozoological examination of material obtained at any such examination, or from any other evidence which he may deem sufficient for the purpose, the medical officer of health is of opinion that the specified person is a carrier of enteric fever or dysentery infection, the medical officer of health shall report to the local authority who may give a notice in writing to that effect to the responsible manager and to the suspected person with a view to preventing, during a period to be specified in such notice, the employment of the person to whom the notice relates in the conduct of the trade or business, or in any other trade or business concerned with the preparation or handling of food or drink for human consumption.

CIRCULAR 820.

TO SANITARY AUTHORITIES, ETC.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH,
24th October, 1927.

PUBLIC HEALTH (INFECTIOUS DISEASES) REGULATIONS, 1927.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to state that he has had under review the Public Health (Pneumonia, Malaria, Dysentery, etc.) Regulations, 1919, which provide for the notification and treatment of certain infectious diseases, and contain provisions for the prevention and treatment of other infectious diseases which are notifiable under the general law. After careful consideration it has been decided to issue new Regulations dealing with these diseases, and to revoke the Regulations of 1919 as from the 1st January next.

Copies of the new Regulations are enclosed, and I am to draw attention to Article 4 which requires the local authority to cause notice to be given forthwith to all medical practitioners resident or practising within the district of the local authority of the duties imposed upon them by the new Regulations, and of the alterations which have been made in the duties which were imposed on them by the Regulations of 1919.

The following is a statement of the principal alterations which are effected by the new Regulations:—

(1) It has been decided that there is no longer any necessity to require cases of trench fever to be notified to the medical officer of health.

(2) As regards malaria and dysentery, Article 5 of the Regulations provides for the notification of every case of those diseases by any medical practitioner who becomes aware that a person upon whom he is in professional attendance is suffering from either disease, except in those cases of malaria for which provision is made in the proviso to that Article. It has not been considered desirable to continue the exemption from notification, contained in Article V. of the Regulations of 1919, of a case which has already been notified within six months of the date on which a medical practitioner first becomes aware of the disease in that case.

(3) The proviso to Article 5 of the new Regulations exempts from notification a case of malaria in which the disease has been induced in an institution for therapeutic purposes. But if the medical practitioner under whose charge the patient has been is of opinion that the patient may be regarded as liable to relapses of malaria, he is required, at least four days before the discharge of the patient from the institution, to notify the case, in the form set out in the Second Schedule to the Regulations, to the medical officer of health of the district in which the patient proposes to reside.

(4) Article 8 provides for the payment by the local authority of a fee of 2*s*. 6*d*. to the notifying practitioner for each notification made under the Regulations if the case occurs in his private practice, and of 1*s*. if the case occurs in his practice as medical officer of any public body or institution.

(5) Article 17 provides that section 308 of the Public Health Act, 1875, shall apply to any person who sustains any damage by reason of the exercise of any of the powers of the Regulations in relation to any matter in which he is not himself in default. This provision has been included more particularly with reference to the powers conferred in Part III. of the First Schedule to the Regulations.

I am to add that it has not been thought desirable to include in the present Regulations any provision similar to Article XIX. (2) of the Regulations of 1919. I am, however, to draw attention to the provisions contained in section 124 of the Public Health Act, 1875, and section 66 of the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, as to the removal to hospital of persons suffering from dangerous infectious disease.

Copies of this Circular and of the enclosed Regulations have been forwarded to the medical officer of health, and further copies may be obtained from the addresses shown below.

I am, etc.

ELECTIONS.

ELECTION PETITIONS.

GENERAL RULES.

The following is the text of the general rules for the effectual execution of Part IV. of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, made by Sir Charles Edward Pollock, Knight; Sir Henry Manisty, Knight; and Sir Henry Charles Lopes, Knight, the judges for the time being on the rota for the trial of parliamentary election petitions:

1. The presentation of a Municipal Election Petition shall be made by leaving it at the office of the Master for the time being nominated as prescribed officer, under the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, and such Master or his clerk shall (if required) give a receipt which may be in the following form:

Received on the day of at the Master's office a petition touching the election of A. B., alderman, councillor [etc., as the case may be], for the borough of , purporting to be signed by [insert the name of petitioners].

C. D., Master's Clerk.

With the petition shall also be left a copy thereof for the Master to send to the town clerk, pursuant to section 88, sub-section (3) of the Act.

2. A municipal election petition shall contain the following statements:

(1) It shall state the right of the petitioner or petitioners to petition within section 88, sub-section (1), of the Act.

(2) It shall state the holding and result of the election, and shall briefly state the facts and grounds relied on to sustain the prayer.

3. The petition shall be divided into paragraphs, each of which, as nearly as may be, shall be confined to a distinct portion of the subject, and every paragraph shall be numbered consecutively, and no costs shall be allowed of drawing or copying any petition not substantially in compliance with this rule, unless otherwise ordered by the High Court or a judge thereof.

4. The petition shall conclude with a prayer, as for instance, that some specified person should be declared duly returned or elected, or that the election should be declared void, or that a return may be enforced, (as the case may be,) and shall be signed by all the petitioners.

5. The following form, or one to the like effect, shall be sufficient:

In the High Court of Justice,

The Municipal Corporations Act, 1882.

Election for [state the place and office for which election held] holden on the day of A.D.

The petition of A. of [or of A. of , and B. of , as the case may be] whose names are subscribed.

1. Your petitioner A. is a person who voted [or had a right to vote, as the case may be,] at the above election [or was a candidate at the above election]; and your petitioner B. [here state in like manner the right of each petitioner].

2. And your petitioners state that the election was holden on the day of A.D. , when A. B., C. D., and E. F. were candidates, and that A. B. and C. D. have been in the usual manner declared to be duly elected.

3. And your petitioners say that [here state the facts and grounds on which the petitioners rely].

Wherefore your petitioners pray that it may be determined that the said A. B. was not duly elected, and that the election was void [or that the said E. F. was duly elected, and ought to have been returned, or as the case may be].

(Signed)
B.

6. Evidence need not be stated in the petition, but the High Court or a judge thereof may order such particulars (a) as may be necessary to prevent surprise and unnecessary expense, and to insure a fair and effectual trial in the same way as in ordinary proceedings in the said High Court, and upon such terms as to costs and otherwise as may be ordered.

7. When a petitioner claims the office for an unsuccessful candidate, alleging that he had a majority of lawful votes, the party complaining of or defending the election shall, six days before the day appointed for trial, deliver to the Master and also at the address, if any given by the petitioners and respondent, as the case may be, a list of the votes intended to be objected to, and the heads of objection to each such vote, and the Master shall allow inspection and office copies of such lists to all parties concerned; and no evidence shall be given against the validity of any vote, nor upon any head of objection not specified in the list, except by leave of the High Court or a judge thereof, upon such terms as to amendment of the list, postponement of the inquiry, and payment of costs, as may be ordered (b).

8. When the respondent in a petition under the Act complaining of an undue election and claiming the office for some person, intends to give evidence to prove that the election of such party was undue, pursuant to the 93rd section of the Act, subsection (10), such respondent shall, six days before the day appointed for trial, deliver to the Master, and also at the address, if any, given by the petitioner, a list of the objectoins to the election upon which he intends to rely, and the Master shall allow inspection and office copies of such list to all parties concerned; and no evidence shall be given by a respondent of any objection to the election not specified in the list, except by leave of the High Court or a judge thereof, upon such terms as to amendment of the list, postponement of the inquiry, and payment of costs, as may be ordered.

(a) An order for particulars of the corrupt practices alleged in a municipal election petition was made at chambers in the following form: That the petitioners do within a week deliver to the respondents particulars of all the persons alleged to have been bribed or treated, by whom, and when and where; and of all persons alleged to have been retained or employed as canvassers and by whom, and when and where; and of all persons to whom money was paid or agreed to be paid on account of the conveyance of voters to the poll, and by whom, and when and where such moneys were paid or agreed to be paid (Maude v. Lowley (1874), L. R. 9 C. P. 165; 38 J. P. 280). Where a judge in chambers ordered a petitioner to furnish particulars of his charges against the respondent ten clear days before the hearing of the petition, the Divisional Court refused to interfere with the order (Barrow-in-Furness Election Petition (1885), 2 T. L. R. 356). The ordinary time for delivery of particulars is seven days before the trial (Lenham v. Barber (1884), 10 Q. B. D. 293; 48 J. P. 23). See also Clarke v. Wallond (1884), 52 L. J. Q. B. 321. But this is not a hard and fast rule, and in determining whether there are special circumstances upon which it will act in extending the time the court will take into consideration the size and nature of the constituency, the population and the number of voters, and also the number of witnesses whom it is proposed to call (Rushmere v. Isaacson, [1893] 1 Q. B. 118; 57 J. P. 790). The respondent to a petition in which the seat is claimed upon a scrutiny is not entitled to obtain particulars under this rule, but r. 7 applies exclusively to such a case (Munro v. Balfour, [1893] 1 Q. B. 113; 57 J. P. 789; Furness v. Beresford, [1898] 1 Q. B. 495).

(b) The trial of a municipal election petition was appointed for January 20th. A list of objections was tendered at the Rule Office of the Common Pleas on January 13th, and refused on the ground that it was too late, and it was taken away by the person tendering it. On the 14th a list of objections was left at the Rule Office, and one was also delivered to the respondent:—Held, that the list was not delivered in due time according to the rule, and that the court had no jurisdiction to order delivery nunc pro tunc under the last clause of the rule (Nield v. Batty (1874), L. R. 9 C. P. 104; 38 J. P. 264).

9. With the petition the petitioner or petitioners shall leave at the office of the Master a writing, signed by him or them or on his or their behalf, giving the name of some person entitled to practise as a solicitor in the High Court of Justice, whom he or they authorise to act as his or their agent, or stating that he or they act for himself or themselves, as the case may be, and in either case giving an address, within three miles of the General Post Office, at which notices addressed to him or them may be left; and if no such writing be left or address given, then notice of objection to the recognizances, and all other notices and proceedings may be given by sticking up the same at the Master's office.

10. Any person elected to any municipal office may at any time after he is elected send to or leave at the office of the Master a writing signed by him or on his behalf, appointing a person entitled to practise as a solicitor in the High Court of Justice, to act as his agent in case there should be a petition against him, or stating that he intends to act for himself, and in either case giving an address within three miles from the General Post Office at which notices may be left, and in default of such writing being left in a week after service of the petition, notices and proceedings may be given and served respectively by sticking up the same at the Master's office.

11. The Master shall keep a book or books at his office in which he shall enter all addresses and the names of agents given under either of the preceding rules, which book shall be open to inspection by any person during office hours.

12. The Master shall upon the presentation of the petition, forthwith send a copy of the petition to the town clerk, pursuant to section 88 of the Act, sub-section (3), and shall therewith send the name of the petitioner's agent, if any, and the address, if any, given as prescribed, and also the name of the respondent's agent, and the address, if any, given as prescribed, and the town clerk shall forthwith publish those particulars along with the petition.

The cost of publication of this and any other matter required to be published by the town clerk shall be paid by the petitioner or person moving in the matter, and shall form part of the general costs of the petition.

13. The time for giving notice of the presentation of a petition and of the nature of the proposed security shall be five days, exclusive of the day of presentation.

14. When the respondent has named an agent or given an address, the service of a municipal election petition may be by delivery of it to the agent, or by posting it in a registered letter to the address given at such time that, in the ordinary course of post, it would be delivered within the prescribed time.

In other cases the service must be personal on the respondent, unless a judge of the High Court, on an application made to him not later than five days after the petition is presented on affidavit, showing what has been done, shall be satisfied that all reasonable effort has been made to effect personal service and cause the matter to come to the knowledge of the respondent, in which case the judge may order that what has been done shall be considered sufficient service, subject to such conditions as he may think reasonable. An agent employed for the petitioner or respondent shall forthwith leave written notice at the office of the Master of his appointment to act as such agent, and service of notices and proceedings upon such agent shall be sufficient for all purposes.

15. In case of evasion of service the sticking up a notice in the office of the Master of the petition having been presented, stating the petitioner, the prayer, and the nature of the proposed security, shall be deemed equivalent to personal service if so ordered by a judge.

16. The deposit of money by way of security for payment of costs, charges, and expenses payable by the petitioner, shall be made by payment into the Bank of England to an account to be opened there by the description of "The Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, Security Fund," which shall be vested in and drawn upon from time to time by the Lord Chief Justice of England for the time being, for the purposes for which security is required by the said Act, and a bank receipt or certificate for the same shall be forthwith left at the Master's office.

17. The Master shall file such receipt or certificate, and keep a book open to inspection of all parties concerned, in which shall be entered from time to time the amount and the petition to which it is applicable.

18. All claims at law or in equity to money so deposited or to be deposited in the Bank of England shall be disposed of by the High Court of Justice or a judge thereof.

19. Money so deposited shall, if, and when the same is no longer needed for securing payment of such costs, charges, and expenses, be returned or otherwise disposed of as justice may require, by rule of the High Court, or order of a judge thereof.

20. Such rule or order may be made after such notice of intention to apply, and proof that all just claims have been satisfied or otherwise sufficiently provided for, as the court or judge may require.

21. The rule or order may direct payment either to the party in whose name the same is deposited, or to any person entitled to receive the same.

22. Upon such rule or order being made, the amount may be drawn for by the Lord Chief Justice of England for the time being.

23. The draft of the Lord Chief Justice of England for the time being shall in all cases be a sufficient warrant to the Bank of England for all payments made thereunder.

Not later than the day prescribed for that purpose by the First Schedule to this Order, the returning officer shall prepare and sign a notice of the election, and shall cause public notice to be given of the same in the district in accordance with rule 30 of this Order. The notice shall be in the Form No. 1 in the Second Schedule to this Order, or in a form to the like effect (b).

(a) This Order has been amended by Orders of 1925 and 1928, post, pp. 3232, 3239.

4.—(1) Each candidate for election as an urban district councillor shall be nominated in writing.

(2) The nomination paper shall state the name of the district or ward (a) for which the candidate is nominated, the surname and other name or names in full of the candidate (b), and his place of abode (c) and description (d), and whether he is qualified as a parochial elector of some parish within the district, or by having during the whole of the twelve months preceding the election resided [or by being the owner of property held by freehold, copyhold, leasehold, or any other tenure within the district (e)] in the district. It shall be signed (f) by two parochial electors (g) of the district, or, if the district is divided into wards, of the ward, as proposer and seconder, and no more, and shall state their respective places of abode. It shall be [Form No. 2] (e) in the Second Schedule to this Order, or in a form to the like effect.

(3) The name of more than one candidate shall not be inserted in any one nomination paper.

(4) A parochial elector shall not sign more nomination papers than there are urban district councillors to be elected for the district or ward for which the election is to be held. He shall not sign a nomination paper for the district, or for any ward, unless he is registered as a parochial elector in respect of a qualification therein. Neither shall he sign nomination papers for more than one ward in the urban district (h).

(5) If any parochial elector shall sign nomination papers for more than one ward in the urban district, or shall sign a number of nomination papers larger than the number of urban district councillors to be elected for the district or ward, such of the nomination papers signed by him as relate to the first ward for which a nomination paper signed by him is received by the returning officer shall alone be valid, and of the nomination papers signed by him which relate to the district or to such ward, such as are first received by the returning officer up to the number of urban district councillors to be so elected shall alone be valid (i). Provided that, for the purposes of this paragraph, nomination papers not properly filled up and signed shall be excluded (k).

Nomination papers to be provided.

5. The returning officer shall provide nomination papers. Any parochial elector may obtain nomination papers from him free of charge.

Time for sending in nomination papers.

6. Every nomination paper shall be sent (l) to the returning officer so that it shall be received at his office within the time prescribed for that purpose by the First Schedule to this Order. A nomination paper received after that time shall not be valid (m). The returning officer shall note on each nomination paper whether it was received before or after that time.

Dealing with nomination by returning officer.

7.—(1) The returning officer shall number the nomination papers in the order in which they are received by him; and the first valid nomination paper received for a candidate shall be deemed to be the nomination of that candidate.

(2) The returning officer shall, as soon as practicable after the receipt of any nomination paper, examine the same and decide whether it has or has not been properly filled up and signed by two parochial electors of the district or ward, and whether it is or is not invalid under rule 4 (5) or rule 6 (a). His decision that a nomination paper has been so filled up and signed, and is not invalid as aforesaid, shall be final, and shall not be questioned in any proceeding whatever.

(3) If the returning officer shall decide that a nomination paper is invalid, he shall put a note on it to this effect, stating the grounds of his decision, and he shall sign such note (b).

(4) After deciding that the nomination of any candidate is valid, or (except where nomination of the candidate has been decided to be valid) that a nomination paper for any candidate is invalid, the returning officer shall, not later than the day prescribed for that purpose by the First Schedule to this Order, send, by post or otherwise, notice of his decision to the candidate.

Statement as to persons nominated.

8 (c). [Not later than the day prescribed for that purpose by the First Schedule to this Order, the Returning Officer shall make out a statement in the Form No. 3 in the Second Schedule to this Order, or in a form to the like effect, containing the names, places of abode, and descriptions of the persons nominated as Urban District Councillors for the District or for the several Wards thereof, and also containing a notice of his decision as regards each candidate as to whether he has been nominated by a valid nomination paper or not. He shall forthwith cause a copy thereof to be affixed on or near to the principal external gate or door of the Offices of the Urban District Council. If there are no such Offices he shall cause such notice to be posted in some conspicuous place or places within the District.]

Withdrawal of candidates.

9. Any candidate may withdraw his candidature by delivering or causing to be delivered at the office of the returning officer, within the time prescribed for that purpose by the First Schedule to this Order, a notice in writing of such withdrawal, signed by him (d).

Relation of nomination to election.

10. Section 56 of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, shall be altered and adapted in its application to the election of urban district councillors in the district, so as to provide as follows:

(1) If the number of candidates who receive valid (e) nominations and who do not withdraw their candidature under rule 9 exceeds that of the persons to be elected as urban district councillors, the councillors shall be elected from amongst the persons nominated (f).

(2) (g) [If the number of valid nominations does not exceed the number of urban district councillors to be elected, or if, by the withdrawal of any candidate as provided by rule 9, the number of candidates for the district is reduced to a number not exceeding the number to be elected, or if the number of

See per Lords WATSON and HERSCHELL in Pritchard v. Mayor, etc. of Bangor, supra. There may be a valid nomination within the meaning of s. 56 of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, notwithstanding that the candidate is disqualified under s. 12 (Hobbs v. Morey, [1904] 1 K. B. 74; 68 J. P. 132).

(3) [Such notice shall be in the Form No. 4 in the Second Schedule to this Order, or in a form to the like effect.]

Days and hours of poll.

11.—(1) The poll, if any, shall be held on the day of election as prescribed or defined by the First Schedule to this Order, and the hours during which the poll shall be open shall be such as shall be fixed by the county council by any general or special order, or if no such order is in force in the district then such hours as were applicable at the last ordinary election of urban district councillors or guardians, so, however, that the poll shall always be open between the hours of six and eight in the evening (b).

(2) Provided that in any urban district the hours during which any poll shall be open for the election of urban district councillors and guardians shall be the same.

When polls to be taken together.

12.—(1) If the urban district or any ward or wards of the district is or are co-extensive with a parish or united parishes for which an election of guardians is to be held, or with any wards or ward of such a parish, or if the district is not divided into wards such district, or if it is divided into wards any one ward of the district, includes the whole of such parish, united parishes, or ward of a parish, the poll for the election of urban district councillors for the district, and any poll for the election of guardians for the parish, united parishes, or ward shall be taken together.

(2) If the county council shall be of opinion, in any other case, that the polls for the election of urban district councillors and for the election of guardians can conveniently be taken together, they may give directions accordingly to the returning officers for the two elections, and the polls for such elections shall thereupon be taken together.

(3) The returning officer for the election of urban district councillors shall act as the deputy returning officer at any poll for the election of guardians, if the polls for the two elections are to be taken together.

Polling districts

13.—(1) (a) Any parish, or, where a parish is united with another parish for the election of guardians, the united parishes, shall, if wholly comprised in the urban district, be a polling district, or be subdivided into polling districts for the election of urban district councillors, if a poll for the said elections and a poll for the election of guardians are to be taken together.

(b) If any parish is divided into wards for the election of guardians, paragraph (a) of this rule shall apply with the substitution of "ward" for "parish."

(c) Provided that if any parish, united parishes, or ward of a parish for the election of guardians is or are divided into polling districts for the election of county councillors, the whole of each polling district being comprised in the parish, united parishes, or ward and the lists of parochial electors are made out in separate parts for such polling districts, each district shall, if a poll for the election of urban district councillors and a poll for the election of guardians are to be taken together, be a polling district for the election of urban district councillors.

(b) The door of a polling station may be closed before the time if there are sufficient voters inside to occupy the remainder of the time in voting, and papers issued before the hour of closing may be placed in the box, though the hour has struck (Worcester (1880), 3 O'M. & H. 184). But no papers should be issued after the hour, though to persons already in the station when the doors are closed (Gribbin v. Kiker (1873), Ir. Rep. 7 C. L. 30; Ex parte Elliott, Times, June 3rd and Oct. 27th, 1891; Midhurst v. Lough (1901), 17 T. L. R. 210).

(d) Subject as aforesaid, the returning officer may, if he thinks fit, divide the district into polling districts for the election of urban district councillors, but each district shall consist of an area for which a [separate part of the local government register] (a) will be available.

(e) The polling districts for the election of urban district councillors, and of any guardians, when the polls for the two elections are to be taken together, shall be the same.

(2) If the district is divided into polling districts, each parochial elector shall give his vote in the polling district in which the property in respect of which he is entitled to vote is situate, and if it is situate in more than one polling district, he may vote in any one (but in one only) of the polling districts in which it is situate.

Polling places and stations.

14. The returning officer shall determine the number and situation of the polling places and polling stations.

Provided as follows:

(a) No premises licensed for the sale of intoxicating liquor shall be used for a polling station;

(b) The polling stations for the election of urban district councillors and of any guardians, when the polls for the two elections are taken together, shall be the same;

(c) Where the number of parochial electors in the urban district, or (if the district is divided into polling districts) in any polling district is not more than five hundred, only one polling station shall, unless the county council otherwise direct, be provided for the urban district or polling district; and so on for each additional five hundred parochial electors, or for any less number of parochial electors over and above the last five hundred.

Notice of poll.

15.—(1) If a poll has been taken, the returning officer shall, within the time prescribed for that purpose by the First Schedule to this Order, give public notice thereof in accordance with rule 30 of this Order. The notice shall specify—

(a) the day and hours fixed for the poll;

(b) the number of urban district councillors to be elected for the district;

(c) the names, place of abode, and description of each candidate for the district whom he has decided to have been nominated by a valid nomination paper, and who has not withdrawn his candidature;

(d) the names of the proposer and seconder who signed the nomination paper of each candidate;

(e) a description of the polling districts, if any; and

(f) the situation and allotment of the polling places and polling stations (b) and the description of the persons entitled to vote thereat.

(2) The notice shall be in the Form No. 5 in the Second Schedule to this Order, or in a form to the like effect.

(3) If polls are to be taken together in the district as to the election of both urban district councillors and guardians, the returning officer may, if he thinks fit, give one notice only for both polls, and such notice shall be in the Form No. 6 in the Second Schedule to this Order, or in a form to the like effect.

Presiding officer.

16. The returning officer, or some person appointed by him for the purpose, shall preside at each polling station. The person presiding at any polling station shall be called the presiding officer. Provided that at any polling station the same person shall act as presiding officer for the election of urban district councillors and guardians, the polls for which are to be taken together.

(a) Words substituted by amending Order of 1925, post, p. 3232.

(b) In Pembroke Election Petition, [1908] 2 I. R. 158, 433, two polling stations were announced: in fact there were ten polling tables at the two places indicated: held immaterial.

17. The returning officer shall furnish every polling station with a sufficient number of compartments in which the voters can mark their votes screened from observation, and shall furnish each presiding officer with such number of ballot papers as may be necessary for effectually taking the poll at the election.

Compartments of polling stations. Ballot papers.

18. If there are only two candidates, each of them may, in writing, appoint a polling agent for each polling station, who may be paid or unpaid. If there are more than two candidates, any number of them, being not less than one-third of the whole number of candidates, may, in writing, appoint one polling agent for each polling station, who may be paid or unpaid. Any such appointment shall be delivered at the office of the returning officer not less than two clear days before the day of the poll. Except as aforesaid, no polling agent, whether paid or unpaid, shall be appointed for the purposes of the election (a).

Polling agents.

19.—(1) The presiding officer may, and if required by any parochial elector of the district, or any polling agent appointed under rule 18, shall, put to any elector at the time of his applying for a ballot paper, but not afterwards, the following questions, or one of them, and no other:

Questions to elector.

(a) Are you the person entered in the parochial register for the parish of [or for the ward] as follows [read the whole entry from the register] ?

(b) Have you already voted at the present election of urban district councillors for the urban district of [in this or any other ward] ?

(2) A person required to answer either of these questions shall not receive a ballot paper or be permitted to vote until he has answered it (b).

20.—(1) If the returning officer appoints a person to act as deputy returning officer for the district as regards the custody and opening of the ballot boxes, the counting and recording of the votes, and the declaration of the number of votes given for each candidate, and of the election of the candidate or candidates to whom the largest number of votes has been given, the person so appointed shall, in addition to his other powers and duties, have all the powers and duties of the returning officer in relation to the matters aforesaid, and to the decision of any question as to any ballot paper and otherwise as to the ballot papers (c).

Counting the votes.

(2) If polls for the election both of urban district councillors and guardians are taken together, the same person shall discharge the duties referred to in paragraph (1) of this rule in relation to both elections.

(3) The votes shall be counted in the district or in some place near thereto as soon as practicable after the close of the poll.

21. If an equality of votes is found to exist between any candidates, and the addition of a vote would entitle any of such candidates to be declared elected, the returning officer who counts the votes may, if a parochial elector of the district, give such additional vote in writing, but shall not otherwise be entitled to vote at the election (d). If in such a case the returning officer, or deputy returning officer, as the case may be, is not a parochial elector of the district, or is unwilling to vote,

Equality of votes.

(a) A candidate has a right to be present in a polling station if he does not interfere with the polling or misconduct himself, although he does not act as his own polling agent (Clementson v. Mason (1875), L. R. 10 C. P. 209). The appointment of too many polling agents will not necessarily avoid an election (Pembroke Election Petition, ante, p. 3200).

(b) The first question may be truthfully answered even if the name be erroneously spelled in the register (R. v. Thwaites (1853), 1 E. & B. 704), or even if it be a totally different name from the real name of the voter provided it was intended to designate him and no other person (R. v. Fox (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 166). In either case the vote would be good on a scrutiny (Oldham case (1869) 1 O'M. & H. 153). No oath can be administered to a voter.

(c) A ballot paper is validly marked if the voter has so placed his mark as to make it clear for which particular candidate he intended to vote, although the mark as placed is outside the ruled space or parallelogram printed on the paper for its reception (Pontardawe R. D. C. Election, [1907] 2 K. B. 313; 71 J. P. 371. See also Woodward v. Sarsons (1875), L. R. 10 C. P. 733; 39 J. P. 776; Stepney (1886), 4 O'M. & H. 37; Buckrose (1886), 4 O'M. & H. 110; Berwick-on-Tweed (1880), 44 L. T. 289; Oldham Petition: Cooper v. Ogden (1908), 72 J. P. 115; 24 T. L. R. 242).

As to the right of a candidate to be present at the counting, see Clementson v. Mason, supra.

(d) If he votes when there is no tie, a petition will lie (Brittain v. Ritchie (1889), 43 Sol. J. 532), and the returning officer will be liable to an action for penalties (Brittain v. Whitehorn, Times, March 30th, 1900).

he shall determine by lot which of the candidates whose votes are equal shall be elected (a).

Who shall be deemed to fill casual vacancies at ordinary election

22. In the event of one or more casual vacancies being filled up at the ordinary election, where there is a poll, the persons elected by the fewest votes shall be deemed elected to fill such vacancies. Should there be an equality of votes between such persons the urban district council shall determine by ballot which of such persons shall be deemed elected to fill the casual vacancy. If the persons elected to fill the casual vacancies will hold office for different periods, the person elected by the fewest votes, or if the votes are equal the person selected by the urban district council by ballot from the persons so elected shall hold office for the shorter period. Where there is no poll the person or persons to be deemed to be elected to fill the casual vacancy or vacancies shall be determined by the urban district council by ballot.

Declaration of result of poll.

23.—(1) The declaration of the result of the poll shall be in the Form No. 7 in the Second Schedule to this Order, or in a form to the like effect.

(2) The returning officer, or deputy returning officer, as the case may be, making the declaration shall forthwith cause a copy of it to be affixed on the front of the building in which the votes have been counted. If the declaration is made by a deputy returning officer, he shall forthwith send it to the returning officer.

Publication of result of election.

24.—(1) The returning officer shall prepare and sign a notice (b) of the result of the election in the district, or in all the wards of the district, as the case may be, and shall by such notice declare to be elected or to be deemed to be re-elected the persons who, under rule 10, are to be declared to be elected or to be deemed to be re-elected without a poll being taken. The notice shall be in the Form No. 8 in the Second Schedule to this Order, or in a form to the like effect.

(2) The returning officer shall cause . . . (c) public notice thereof to be given in accordance with rule 30 of this Order. The returning officer shall also send copies of the notice to the persons elected or deemed to be re-elected.

Application and adaptation of Ballot Act, 1872.

25. The provisions of the Ballot Act, 1872, which, with adaptations and alterations, are set out in the Third Schedule to this Order, and only such provisions of that Act, shall, subject to such adaptations and alterations, apply to the election of urban district councillors in like manner as in the case of a municipal election.

Provided as follows:

(a) Such application shall be subject to the provisions of this Order.

(b) If polls are taken together for the election of urban district councillors and guardians, one ballot box may, if the returning officer think fit, be used for the two elections; but if separate ballot boxes are used for the two elections respectively, no vote for any urban district councillor shall be rendered invalid by the ballot paper being placed in the box intended for the reception of ballot papers for guardians.

(c) The ballot papers used at the election of urban district councillors shall be of a different colour from that of any ballot papers used in the election of any guardians in the district when the polls for both elections are taken together.

Adaptation of Municipal Corporations Act, 1882.

26.—(1) The provisions of sections 74 and 75 of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, which, with adaptations and alterations, are set out in the Fourth Schedule to this Order, and such of the provisions of that Act as relate to the acceptance of office, resignation, re-eligibility of holders of office, and filling of casual vacancies, and are, with adaptations and alterations, set out in the Fifth Schedule to this Order, shall, subject to such adaptations and alterations, apply to the election of urban district councillors and to the persons elected or deemed to be re-elected thereat.

(a) This avoids the difficulty which arose in Crone v. Waugh, Local Government Chronicle, 1892, p. 599.

(c) Certain words repealed by amending Order of 1925, post, p. 3232.

(2) In the application of Part IV. of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882 (relating to corrupt practices and election petitions) (a), as amended by the Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act, 1884 (b), the following adaptations and alterations shall have effect:

(a) Such application shall be subject to the provisions of this Order.

(b) References to the election of urban district councillors shall be substituted for references to a municipal election or to an election to a corporate office. "Urban district" shall be substituted for "borough," "rate applicable to the general expenses of the urban district council" shall be substituted for "borough fund or borough rate," "returning officer" shall be substituted for "town clerk," and "voter" shall mean "a parochial elector or a person who votes or claims to vote at an election of urban district councillors."

(c) In the application of the sub-section (2) of section 89 such sub-section shall be adapted and altered so as to read as follows:

"(2) The security shall be to the amount of fifty pounds unless in any case the High Court or a judge thereof, on summons, order that the same shall be to a lesser amount, or to a larger amount not exceeding three hundred pounds, and shall be given in the prescribed manner either by a deposit of money or by recognisance entered into by not more than four sureties, or partly in one way and partly in the other."

Adaptation of Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act, 1884.

27. In the application of the Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act (b), the following adaptations and alterations shall have effect:

(1) Such application shall be subject to the provisions of this Order.

(2) The expressions "urban district or ward of an urban district," "returning officer of urban district councillors," and "rate applicable to the general expenses of the urban district council" shall be deemed to be substituted in the Act for "borough or ward," "town clerk," and "borough fund or rate," respectively.

(3) The expression "corporate office" in the Act shall mean "the office of urban district councillor" and "municipal election" shall mean "an election of one or more urban district councillors"; and the expressions "municipal election court," "municipal election list," and "municipal election petition" shall be construed accordingly.

(4) So much of section 13 of the Act as permits one polling agent to be employed in each polling station shall not apply, except so far as the employment of polling agents is permitted by rule 18 of this Order.

(5) An election petition complaining of the election on the ground of an illegal practice may be presented at any time within six weeks after the day of election.

(6) In section 34 of the Act "burgess roll" shall mean "register of parochial electors."

(7) Section 37 of the Act shall be read as if a reference to an election of urban district councillors was substituted for a reference to any of the elections mentioned in the First Schedule to the Act.

Expenses.

28.—(1) Any sum which may be payable to the returning officer in respect of his services in the conduct of the election of urban district councillors, or in respect of expenses incurred in relation to the election, shall be defrayed by the urban district council out of the fund or rate applicable to their general expenses under the Public Health Act, 1875.

(2) If polls for the election of urban district councillors and guardians are taken together, one half of any expenses which may be payable in respect of the two polls jointly, including the remuneration of any officers employed in the conduct thereof, shall be deemed to have been incurred in relation to the poll for the election of urban district councillors, and shall be defrayed accordingly.

Wards.

29.—(1) If the district is divided into wards for the election of urban district councillors the rules in this Order shall apply to each of such wards as if it were the district.

THIRD SCHEDULE.

PROVISIONS OF THE BALLOT ACT, 1872, AS ADAPTED AND ALTERED IN THEIR APPLICATION TO THE ELECTION OF URBAN DISTRICT COUNCILLORS IN ANY DISTRICT OTHER THAN A BOROUGH.

PROCEDURE AT ELECTIONS OF URBAN DISTRICT COUNCILLORS.

Poll at elections.

2. The ballot of each voter shall consist of a paper (in this Act called a ballot paper) showing the names and description of the candidates. Each ballot paper shall have a number printed on the back, and shall have attached a counterfoil with the same number printed on the face. At the time of voting, the ballot paper shall be marked on both sides with an official mark, and delivered to the voter within the polling station, and the number of such voter on the register of voters shall be marked on the counterfoil, and the voter having secretly marked his vote on the paper, and folded it up so as to conceal his vote, shall place it in a closed box in the presence of the officer presiding at the polling station (in this Act called "the presiding officer") after having shown to him the official mark at the back.

If in the register of parochial electors for a parish, the same number is placed opposite to the name of more than one parochial elector, the returning officer shall put a distinguishing mark on each part of the register which contains numbers used in other parts of the register, and when the number of any voter on any part of the register is entered on the counterfoil of a ballot paper, the mark on that part shall also be entered thereon.

Any ballot paper which has not on its back the official mark, or on which votes are given to more candidates than the voter is entitled to vote for, or on which anything, except the said number on the back, is written or marked by which the voter can be identified, shall be void and not counted.

After the close of the poll the ballot boxes shall be sealed up, so as to prevent the introduction of additional ballot papers, and shall be taken charge of by the returning officer, and that officer shall, in the presence of such agents, if any, of the candidates as may be in attendance, open the ballot boxes, and ascertain the result of the poll by counting the votes given to each candidate, and shall forthwith declare to be elected the candidates or candidate to whom the majority of votes have been given. The decision of the returning officer as to any question arising in respect of any ballot paper shall be final, subject to reversal on petition questioning the election or return.

OFFENCES.

Offences in respect of ballot papers and ballot boxes.

3. Every person who—

(1) Forges and counterfeits or (a) fraudulently defaces or fraudulently destroys any ballot paper, or the official mark on any ballot paper; or

(2) Without due authority supplies any ballot paper to any person; or

(3) Fraudulently puts into any ballot box any paper other than the ballot paper which he is authorised by law to put in; or

(4) Fraudulently takes out of the polling station any ballot paper; or

(5) Without due authority destroys, takes, opens, or otherwise interferes with any ballot box or packet of ballot papers then in use for the purposes of the election (b); shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and be liable, if he is a returning officer or an officer or clerk in attendance at a polling station, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and if he is any other person, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour.

Any attempt to commit any offence specified in this section shall be punishable in the manner in which the offence itself is punishable.

In any indictment or other prosecution for an offence in relation to the ballot boxes, ballot papers, and marking instruments at an election, the property in such papers, boxes, and instruments may be stated to be in the returning officer at such election, as well as the property in the counterfoils.

Infringement of secrecy.

4. Every officer, clerk, and agent in attendance at a polling station shall maintain and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting in such station, and shall not communicate, except for some purpose authorised by law, before the poll is closed, to any person any information as to the name or number on the register of parochial electors of any elector who has or has not applied for a ballot paper or voted at that station, or as to the official mark, and no such officer, clerk, or agent, and no person whosoever, shall interfere with or attempt to interfere with a voter when marking his vote, or otherwise attempt to obtain in the polling station information as to the candidate for whom any voter in such station is about to vote or has voted, or communicate at any time any information obtained in a polling station as to the candidate for whom any voter in such station is about to vote, or has voted, or as to the number on the back of the ballot paper given to any voter at such station. Every officer, clerk, agent, and person in attendance at the counting of the votes shall maintain and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting, and shall not attempt to ascertain at such counting the number on the back of any ballot paper, or communicate any information obtained at such counting as to the candidate for whom any vote is given in any particular ballot paper. No person shall directly or indirectly induce any voter to display his ballot paper after he shall have marked the same, so as to make known to any person the name of the candidate for or against whom he has so marked his vote.

Every person who acts in contravention of the provisions of this section shall be liable, on summary conviction before two justices of the peace, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour (a).

USE OF SCHOOL AND PUBLIC ROOM FOR POLL.

6. The returning officer at an election of urban district councillors may use free of charge, for the purpose of taking the poll or for counting the votes at such election, any room in a school receiving a grant out of moneys provided by Parliament, and any room the expense of maintaining which is payable out of any local rate, but he shall make good any damage done to such room, and defray any expense incurred by the person or body of persons, corporate or unincorporate, having control over the same on account of it being used for the purpose of taking the poll or for counting the votes as aforesaid.

The use of any room in an unoccupied house for taking the poll shall not render any person liable to be rated or to pay any rate for such house.

DUTIES OF RETURNING AND ELECTION OFFICERS.

General powers and duties of returning officer.

8. Subject to the provisions of this Act, every returning officer shall provide such nomination papers, polling stations, ballot boxes, ballot papers, stamping instruments, copies of register of parochial electors, and other things, appoint and pay such officers, and do such other acts and things as may be necessary for effectually conducting the election.

Every deputy returning officer shall, in so far as he acts as returning officer, be deemed to be included in the term returning officer.

Keeping of order in station.

9. If any person misconducts himself in the polling station, or fails to obey the lawful orders of the presiding officer, he may immediately, by order of the presiding officer, be removed from the polling station by any constable in or near that station, or any other person authorised in writing by the returning officer to remove him; and the person so removed shall not, unless with the permission of the presiding officer, again be allowed to enter the polling station during the day.

Any person so removed as aforesaid, if charged with the commission in such station of any offence, may be kept in custody until he can be brought before a justice of the peace.

Provided that the powers conferred by this section shall not be exercised so as to prevent any elector who is otherwise entitled to vote at any polling station from having an opportunity of voting at such station (b).

Powers of presiding officer and administration of oaths, etc

10. For the purpose of the adjournment of the poll, a presiding officer shall have the power by law belonging to a deputy returning officer in a parliamentary election; and any presiding officer and any clerk appointed by the returning officer to attend at a polling station shall have the power of asking the questions and administering the oath authorised by law to be asked of and administered to voters, and any justice of the peace and any returning officer may take and receive any declaration authorised by this Act to be taken before him.

Liability of officers for misconduct.

11. Every returning officer, presiding clerk, and clerk who is guilty of any wilful misfeasance or any wilful act or omission in contravention of this Act shall, in addition to any other penalty or liability to which he may be subject, forfeit to any person aggrieved by such misfeasance, act, or omission a penal sum not exceeding one hundred pounds (c).

No returning officer or officer appointed by him in connection with the election of urban

(a) See Stannanought v. Hazeldine (1879), 4 C. P. D. 191; 43 J. P. 352.

(b) Should confusion arise from a rush being made into the polling station the presiding officer is justified in having it cleared and order restored before proceeding with the poll (Worcester (1880), 3 O'M. & H. 184).

(c) A person who has lost the election by reason of such misfeasance, act, or omission on the part of the officer or clerk is a person aggrieved within the meaning of this provision. And an action will lie to recover the penalty without any allegation of malice or want of reasonable care (Pickering v. James (1873), L. R. 8 C. P. 489; 37 J. P. 679).

district councillors for any urban district, nor any partner or clerk of any such officer, shall act as agent for any candidate in the management or conduct of his election as an urban district councillor. If any returning officer or officer appointed by him, or the partner or clerk of any such officer, shall so act he shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Prohibition of disclosure of vote.

12. No person who has voted at an election shall, in any legal proceeding to question the election or return, be required to state for whom he has voted.

Non-compliance with rules.

13. No election shall be declared invalid by reason of a defect in the title or appointment of the returning officer or deputy returning officer of or a non-compliance with the rules contained in the First Schedule to this Act or in the Urban District Councillors Election Order, 1898, or any mistake in the use of the forms in the Second Schedule to this Act or in the said Order, if it appears to the tribunal having cognisance of the question that the election was conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in the body of this Act and of the Local Government Act, 1894, and that such non-compliance or mistake did not affect the result of the election (a).

PERSONATION.

Definition and punishment of personation.

24. The following enactments shall be made with respect to personation at an election of urban district councillors:

It shall be the duty of the returning officer to institute a prosecution (b) against any person whom he may believe to have been guilty of personation (b), or of aiding, abetting, counselling, or procuring the commission (c) of the offence of personation of any person, at the election for which he is returning officer, and the costs and expenses of the prosecutor and the witnesses in such case, together with compensation for their trouble and loss of time, shall be allowed by the court in the same manner in which courts are empowered to allow the same in cases of felony.

Sections 86 to 89, both inclusive, of the Parliamentary Voters Registration Act, 1843 (d), shall apply to personation at an election of urban district councillors in the same manner

(a) The result of the election does not necessarily mean the result as to another candidate being elected at the poll. The result would be affected if the majority was substantially reduced (per GROVE, J., Hackney (1874), 2 O'M. & H. 84). For an instance of non-compliance with rules not avoiding the election, see Pembroke Petition, [1908] 2 I. R. 158, 433.

(b) It is not necessary either to charge in the indictment, or to prove, that the presiding officer at the polling station where the offence is alleged to have been committed was duly appointed (R. v. Garvey (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 252).

(c) See definition, ante, p. 2481.

(d) This offence is complete though the vote is not got in. "Procuring" is complete if the person procured actually applies for a ballot paper, though he never gets it; and "counselling" is complete though the person counselled never even applies for a ballot paper. See Hague v. Brown, ante, p. 2481.

(e) The effect of these sections as applied is as follows:

If at the time any person applies for a ballot paper after he has voted and before he leaves the polling station, any parochial elector or polling agent, of whose appointment proper notice has been given, declares to the presiding officer that he verily believes and undertakes to prove that the person so voting is not in fact the person in whose name he assumes to vote, or to the like effect, the presiding officer must immediately after such person has voted, by word of mouth order any constable to arrest him, and the order is sufficient warrant for the constable to do so. But the presiding officer must, nevertheless, not refuse a ballot paper to any one answering in the affirmative the questions permitted by law and taking the oath authorised and required of him, nor may the presiding officer refuse to allow the ballot paper of any such person to be put into the ballot box.

The constable must take the accused at the earliest convenient time before two justices for the place within which the voting has taken place. If two justices cannot be found, within three hours of the close of the poll, the constable must take him before one justice who must release him on bail to appear before two justices. If not even one justice can be found within four hours of the close of the poll, the prisoner must be discharged; but he may in such case be subsequently re-arrested and the charge inquired into.

If on the hearing before two justices they are satisfied on the oath of two credible witnesses that the prisoner is guilty, they must commit him for trial. But if, on the contrary, they think the charge unfounded, they must make a written order on the elector or agent, at whose instance the prisoner was arrested, to pay him compensation, if he will accept it, to the amount of not more than £10 nor less than £5. The compensation so awarded may be levied by warrant of distress on the goods of the elector or agent, or of the candidate by whom the agent was employed. Acceptance of the compensation bars all further actions.

as they apply to a person who knowingly personates and falsely assumes to vote in the name of another person as mentioned in the said Act, but with the substitution of the words "any parochial elector or any agent appointed under the Urban District Councillors Election Order, 1898," for "any such agent so appointed as aforesaid" or for any reference to any such agent, and of "the presiding officer" for "the returning officer or his respective deputy."

EFFECT OF SCHEDULES.

28. The schedules to this Act, and the notes thereto, and directions therein shall be construed and have effect as part of this Act.

SCHEDULES TO ACT.

FIRST SCHEDULE TO ACT.

RULES FOR ELECTIONS OF URBAN DISTRICT COUNCILLORS.

The poll.

15. At every polling place the returning officer shall, subject to the provisions of the Urban District Councillors Election Order, 1898, provide a sufficient number of polling stations for the accommodation of the electors entitled to vote at such polling place, and shall distribute the polling stations amongst those electors in such manner as he thinks most convenient.

17. A separate room or separate booth may contain a separate polling station, or several polling stations may be constructed in the same room or booth.

18. No person shall be admitted to vote at any polling station except the one allotted to him.

20. The returning officer shall provide each polling station with materials for voters to mark the ballot papers, with instruments for stamping thereon the official mark, and with copies of the register of voters, or such part thereof as contains the names of the voters allotted to vote at such station. He shall keep the official mark secret.

21. The presiding officer appointed to preside at each station shall keep order at his station, shall regulate the number of electors to be admitted at a time, and shall exclude all other persons except the clerks, the agents of the candidates, and the constables on duty.

22. Every ballot paper shall contain a list of the candidates described as in their respective nomination papers (a), and arranged alphabetically in the order of their surnames, and (if there are two or more candidates with the same surname) of their other names; it shall be in the form set forth in the Second Schedule to this Act or as near thereto as circumstances admit and shall be capable of being folded up.

23. Every ballot box shall be so constructed that the ballot papers can be introduced therein, but cannot be withdrawn therefrom, without the box being unlocked. The presiding officer at any polling station, just before the commencement of the poll (b), shall show the ballot box empty to such persons, if any, as may be present in such station, so that they may see that it is empty, and shall then lock it up, and place his seal upon it in such manner as to prevent its being opened without breaking such seal, and shall place it in his view for the receipt of ballot papers, and keep it so locked and sealed.

24. Immediately before a ballot paper is delivered to an elector, it shall be marked on both sides with the official mark, either stamped or perforated, and the number, name, and description of the elector as stated in the copy of the register shall be called out, and the number of such elector, together with the distinguishing mark, if any, of the part of the register in which the number occurs, shall, as required by section 2 of this Act, as adapted, be marked on the counterfoil, and a mark shall be placed in the register against the number of the elector, to denote that he has received a ballot paper, but without showing the particular ballot paper which he has received.

25. The elector, on receiving the ballot paper, shall forthwith proceed into one of the compartments in the polling station, and there mark (c) his paper, and fold it up so as to conceal his vote, and shall then put his ballot paper, so folded up, into the ballot box (d); he shall vote without any undue delay and shall quit the polling station at soon as he has put his ballot paper into the ballot box.

(a) If a candidate has been more than once validly nominated by different descriptions, his name should be entered only once in the nomination paper with both or all the descriptions as alternatives (Northcote v. Pulsford (1875), L. R. 10 C. P. 476; 39 J. P. 487).

(d) This must be done in the presence of the presiding officer, after having shown him the official mark on the back. See s. 2, ante, p. 3209, and HAWKINS, J., in Ackers v. Howard (1886), 16 Q. B. D. 739 at p. 752; 50 J. P. 519.

26. The presiding officer, on the application of any voter who is incapacitated by blindness or other physical cause from voting in manner prescribed by this Act, or (if the poll be taken on Saturday) of any voter who declares that he is of the Jewish persuasion, and objects on religious grounds to vote in manner prescribed by this Act, or of any voter who makes such a declaration as hereinafter mentioned that he is unable to read, shall, in the presence of the agents of the candidates, cause the vote of such voter to be marked on a ballot paper in manner directed by such voter, and the ballot paper to be placed in the ballot box, and the name and number on the register of voters of every voter whose vote is marked in pursuance of this rule, and the reason why it is so marked shall be entered on a list, in this Act called "the list of votes marked by the presiding officer."

The said declaration, in this Act referred to as "the declaration of inability to read," shall be made by the voter at the time of polling, before the presiding officer, who shall attest it in the form hereinafter mentioned, and no fee, stamp, or other payment shall be charged in respect of such declaration, and the said declaration shall be given to the presiding officer at the time of voting (a).

27. If a person, representing himself to be a particular elector named on the register applies for a ballot paper after another person has voted as such elector, the applicant shall, upon duly answering the questions permitted by the Urban District Councillors Election Order, 1898, to be asked of voters at the time of polling, and upon taking an oath in the form hereinafter set out, which the presiding officer shall administer, be entitled to mark a ballot paper in the same manner as any other voter, but the ballot paper (in this Act called a tendered ballot paper) shall be of a colour differing from the other ballot papers, and, instead of being put into the ballot box, shall be given to the presiding officer and endorsed by him with the name of the voter and his number in the register of voters, and set aside in a separate packet, and shall not be counted by the returning officer (b). And the name of the voter and his number on the register shall be entered on a list, in this Act called "the tendered votes list."

The oath shall be administered in the following form:

> "You do swear that you are the same person whose name appears as A. B. on the register of parochial electors for the parish of in this district [or on such part of the register of parochial electors for the parish of as relates to this ward], and that you have not already voted at the present election for this district [add, in case of an election for a ward, in this or any other ward].
> "SO HELP YOU GOD."

Provided that any person entitled to affirm in lieu of taking an oath may affirm in the following form:

> "I, A. B., do solemnly, sincerely, and truly declare and affirm that I am the same person whose name appears as A. B. on the register of parochial electors for the parish of in this district [or on such part of the register of parochial electors for the parish of as relates to this ward], and that I have not already voted at the present election for this district [add, in case of an election for a ward, in this or any other ward]."

28. A voter who has inadvertently dealt with his ballot paper in such a manner that it cannot be conveniently used as a ballot paper, may, on delivering to the presiding officer the ballot paper so inadvertently dealt with, and proving the fact of the inadvertence to the satisfaction of the presiding officer, obtain another ballot paper in the place of the ballot paper so delivered up (in this Act called a spoilt ballot paper), and the spoilt ballot paper shall be immediately cancelled.

29. The presiding officer of each station, as soon as practicable after the close of the poll, shall make up into separate packets sealed with his seal,

(1) Each ballot box in use at his station, unopened but with the key attached; and
(2) The unused and spoilt ballot papers, placed together; and
(3) The tendered ballot papers; and
(4) The marked copies of the register of parochial electors, and the counterfoils of the ballot papers (c); and

(a) The presiding officer must not put these declarations wrapped up with the ballot papers into the box, but he must put them aside and afterwards make them up together with the tendered votes list and the lists of votes marked by him in a sealed packet for the returning officer. See Woodward v. Sarsons, ante, p. 3212.

(b) The tendered vote will be added on a scrutiny, if it be proved that the person tendering it was entitled to vote (Oldham (1869), 1 O'M. & H. 152; St. Andrews (1886), 4 O'M. & H. 32), even though the presiding officer has omitted to endorse on it the name of the voter (Stepney (1886), 4 O'M. & H. 43), but it would not be counted if the person tendering the vote, instead of returning the ballot paper to the presiding officer to be endorsed, puts it into the ballot box (Buckrose (1886), 4 O'M. & H. 115).

(c) Having regard to the difference in the provisions for the inspection of the marked register and of the counterfoils, it is better to seal them up in separate packets (Stowe v. Jolliffe (1874), L. R. 9 C. P. 446; 38 J. P. 617).

(5) The tendered votes list, and the list of votes marked by the presiding officer, and a statement of the number of voters whose votes are so marked by the presiding officer under the heads "physical incapacity," "Jews," and "unable to read," and the declarations of inability to read; and shall deliver such packets to the returning officer, or deputy returning officer by whom the votes are to be counted, unless he is himself such officer.

30. The packets shall be accompanied by a statement made by such presiding officer showing the number of ballot papers entrusted to him, and accounting for them under the heads of ballot papers in the ballot box, unused, spoilt, and tendered ballot papers, which statement is in this Act referred to as the ballot paper account.

Counting votes.

31. Each candidate may appoint an agent to attend the counting of the votes.

32. The returning officer shall make arrangements for counting the votes in the presence of the agents of the candidates as soon as practicable after the close of the poll, and shall give to the agents of the candidates appointed to attend at the counting of the votes notice in writing of the time and place at which he will begin to count the same.

33. The returning officer, his assistants and clerks, the agents of the candidates, and any person to whom Rule 51 of this Schedule applies, and no other person, except with the sanction of the returning officer, may be present at the counting of the votes (a).

34. If a poll has been taken as to the election of urban district councillors only, before the returning officer proceeds to count the votes, he shall, in the presence of the agents of the candidates, open each ballot box, and taking out the papers therein, shall count and record the number thereof, and then mix (b) together the whole of the ballot papers contained in the ballot boxes. If polls have been taken at the same date for the election both of urban district councillors and of guardians, before the returning officer proceeds to count the votes, he shall, in the presence of the agents of the candidates, open one of the ballot boxes and taking out the papers therein shall separate those relating to the election of urban district councillors from any relating to the election of guardians, and shall count and record the number of ballot papers relating to each election. He shall then secure the ballot papers relating to each election by placing them in separate packets under his own seal, and the seals of such of the agents of the candidates as desire to affix their seals, and shall proceed in like manner with any other ballot boxes and the papers therein. When all the ballot boxes and the papers therein have been so dealt with, he shall open all the packets of ballot papers relating to one election, and shall mix all such papers together, and shall proceed to count the votes, keeping the papers relating to any other election sealed up until he has completed such counting. He shall afterwards deal in manner aforesaid with the packets and papers relating to the other election or elections.

The returning officer, while counting and recording the number of ballot papers and counting the votes, shall keep the ballot papers with their faces upwards, and take all proper precautions for preventing any person from seeing the numbers printed on the backs of such papers.

35. The returning officer shall, so far as practicable, proceed continuously with counting the votes, allowing only time for refreshment, and excluding, if and so far as he thinks it necessary, the hours between the close of the poll and nine o'clock on the succeeding morning. During the excluded time the returning officer shall place the ballot papers and other documents relating to the election under his own seal and the seals of such of the agents of the candidates as desire to affix their seals, and shall otherwise take proper precautions for the security of such papers and documents.

36. The returning officer shall endorse "rejected" on any ballot paper which he may reject as invalid, and shall add to the endorsement "rejection objected to," if an objection be in fact made by any agent to his decision (c). The returning officer shall draw up a statement showing the number of ballot papers rejected and not counted by him under the several heads of—

1. Want of official mark;
2. Voting for more candidates than entitled to;

(a) Even the alteration of the wording of Rule 31 does not seem to oust the general right of a candidate to be present although he may have appointed an agent, and that agent is also present. See Clementson v. Mason (1875), L. R. 10 C. P. 209; 39 J. P. 360. The returning officer may order any person interrupting the proceedings by making a great noise or disturbance to be taken into custody and brought before a justice to give security for good behaviour (Spilsbury v. Micklethwaite (1808), 1 Taunt. 146).

(b) Failure to so mix them will not necessarily avoid the election (Pembroke Petition, ante, p. 3211).

(c) Where the returning officer omitted to endorse rejected ballot papers, but merely put them aside, and after he had finished counting placed all the rejected ballot papers in one parcel and sealed it up and endorsed it "Rejected ballot papers," this was held not to avoid the election (Woodward v. Sarsons, ante, p. 3212).

3. Writing or mark by which voter could be identified;
4. Unmarked or void for uncertainty (a);

and shall on request allow any agents of the candidates to copy such statement. If the votes are counted by a deputy returning officer he shall, with the declaration of the result of the poll, report to the returning officer the number of ballot papers rejected and not counted by him, under the above heads, and no such statement as aforesaid shall be drawn up by the returning officer. The deputy returning officer shall, on request, allow any agents of the candidates, before such report is sent in, to copy it.

37. Upon the completion of the counting, the returning officer shall seal up in separate packets the counted and rejected ballot papers. He shall not open the sealed packet of tendered ballot papers or marked copy of the register of voters and counterfoils, but shall proceed, in the presence of the agents of the candidates, to verify the ballot paper account given by each presiding officer by comparing it with the number of ballot papers recorded by him as aforesaid, and the unused and spoilt ballot papers in his possession and the tendered votes list, and shall re-seal each sealed packet after examination. The returning officer shall draw up a statement as to the result of such verification, and shall, on request, allow all agents of the candidates to copy it.

If the votes are counted by a deputy returning officer, he shall report to the returning officer the result of the verification, and no such statement as aforesaid shall be drawn up by the returning officer. The deputy returning officer shall, on request, allow any agents of the candidates, before such report is sent in, to copy it. He shall with his report send to the returning officer the sealed packets of counted and rejected ballot papers, and the unopened sealed packets which he has received from any presiding officer.

38. Lastly, the returning officer shall carefully preserve for the period hereinafter mentioned all the packets of ballot papers in his possession, together with the said reports, the ballot paper accounts, tendered votes lists, lists of votes marked by the presiding officer, statements relating thereto, declarations of inability to read, and packets of counterfoils, and marked copies of registers, endorsing on each packet a description of its contents and the date of the election to which they relate, and the name of the district for which such election was held.

39. The returning officer shall retain for six months all documents relating to an election of urban district councillors, and then, unless otherwise directed by an order of the county court having jurisdiction in the parish or in any part thereof, or of any tribunal in which the election is questioned, shall cause them to be destroyed.

40. No person shall be allowed to inspect any rejected ballot papers in the custody of the returning officer, except under the order of the county court or tribunal aforesaid, to be granted by such court or tribunal on being satisfied by evidence on oath that the inspection or production of such ballot papers is required for the purpose of instituting or maintaining a prosecution for an offence in relation to ballot papers, or for the purpose of a petition questioning an election or return; and any such order for the inspection or production of ballot papers may be made subject to such conditions as to persons, time, place, and mode of inspection or production as the court or tribunal making the same may think expedient, and shall be obeyed by the returning officer (b).

41. No person shall, except by order of the county court having jurisdiction in the district or any part thereof, or of any tribunal having cognizance of any question relating to the election (c), open the sealed packet of counterfoils after the same has been once sealed up, or be allowed to inspect any counted ballot papers in the custody of the returning officer. Such order may be made subject to such conditions as to persons, time, place, and mode of opening or inspection as the court or tribunal making the order may think expedient: Provided that on making and carrying into effect any such order, care should be taken that the mode in which any particular elector has voted shall not be discovered until he has been proved to have voted, and his vote has been declared by a competent court to be invalid (d).

42. All documents in the custody of a returning officer in pursuance of this Act, other than ballot papers and counterfoils, shall be open to public inspection at such time and under such regulations as may have been or may hereafter be prescribed by the council of the county in which the district is situate, and the returning officer shall supply copies of or extracts from the said documents to any person demanding the same, on payment of such fees and subject to such regulations as may have been or may hereafter be prescribed by the county council.

in his possession relating to any specified election of urban district councillors the production by such officer or his agent of the document ordered, in such manner as may be directed by such order, or by an order of the court having power to make such first-mentioned order, shall be conclusive evidence that such document relates to the specified election; and any endorsement appearing on any packet of ballot papers produced by such returning officer or his agent shall be evidence of such papers being what they are stated to be by the endorsement. The production from proper custody of a ballot paper purporting to have been used at any election, and of counterfoil marked with the same printed number and having a number marked thereon in writing, shall be primâ facie evidence that the person who voted by such ballot paper was the person who at the time of such election had affixed to his name in the register of voters at such election the same number as the number written on such counterfoil.

43A. There shall be an appeal from any order of the county court under these rules in like manner as in other cases in such court (a).

General provisions.

47. If the returning officer presides at any polling station, the provisions of this Act relating to a presiding officer shall apply to such returning officer with the necessary modifications as to things to be done by the returning officer to the presiding officer, or the presiding officer to the returning officer.

48. The returning officer may, in addition to any clerks, appoint competent persons to assist him in counting the votes.

49. No person shall be appointed by a returning officer for the purposes of an election who has been employed by any other person in or about the election.

50. The presiding officer may do, by the clerks appointed to assist him, any act which he is required or authorised to do by this Act at a polling station, except ordering the arrest, exclusion, or rejection from the polling station of any person.

51. A candidate may himself undertake the duties which any agent of his, if appointed under Rule 31 of this Schedule, might have undertaken, and may, if he does not appoint such an agent (b), be present at the counting of the votes, or may himself take the place of such agent: Provided that any persons acting under this rule may, at any time before so acting, make the statutory declaration as to secrecy required by Rule 54 of this Schedule, but he shall not so act until he has made such declaration.

52. The name and address of every agent of a candidate appointed to attend the counting of the votes shall be transmitted to the returning officer one clear day at the least before the opening of the poll; and the returning officer may refuse to admit to the place where the votes are counted any agent whose name and address has not been so transmitted, notwithstanding that his appointment may be otherwise valid, and any notice required to be given to an agent by the returning officer may be delivered at or sent by post to such address.

53. If any person appointed an agent for the purposes of attending a polling station, or at the counting of the votes dies, or becomes incapable of acting during the time of the election, another agent may be appointed in his place, and notice shall forthwith be given to the returning officer in writing of the name and address of any agent so appointed.

54. Every returning officer, and every officer, clerk, or agent authorised to attend at a polling station, and also every officer, clerk, or agent authorised to attend at the counting of the votes, shall, before the opening of the poll, make a statutory declaration of secrecy, in the presence, if he is the returning officer, of a justice of the peace, and if he is any other officer or agent, of a justice of the peace or of the returning officer: but no such returning officer, officer, clerk, or agent as aforesaid shall, save as aforesaid, be required, as such, to make any declaration or take any oath on the occasion of any election.

55. Where in this Act any expressions are used requiring or authorising or inferring that any act or thing is to be done in the presence of the agents of the candidates, such expressions shall be deemed to refer to the presence of such agents of the candidates as may be authorised to attend, and as have in fact attended, at the time and place where such act or thing is being done, and the non-attendance of any agents or agent at such time and place shall not, if such act or thing be otherwise duly done, in any wise invalidate the act or thing done.

SECOND SCHEDULE TO ACT.

NOTE.—The forms contained in this Schedule, or forms as nearly resembling the same as circumstances will admit, shall be used in all cases to which they refer and are applicable, and when so used shall be sufficient in law.

DIRECTIONS AS TO PRINTING BALLOT PAPER.

Nothing is to be printed on the ballot paper except in accordance with this schedule.

The surname of each candidate, and if there are two or more candidates of the same surname, also the other names of such candidates, shall be printed in large characters, and the names, places of abode, and descriptions and the number on the back of the paper, shall be printed in small characters.

FORM OF DIRECTIONS FOR THE GUIDANCE OF THE VOTER IN VOTING, WHICH SHALL BE PRINTED IN CONSPICUOUS CHARACTERS, AND PLACARDED OUTSIDE EVERY POLLING STATION AND IN EVERY COMPARTMENT OF EVERY POLLING STATION.

The voter may vote for candidates as urban district councillors.

The voter will go into one of the compartments, and, with the pencil provided in the compartment, place a cross on the right-hand side, opposite the name of each candidate for whom he votes, thus X.

The voter will then fold up the ballot paper so as to show the official mark on the back, and leaving the compartment will, without showing the front of the paper to any person, show the official mark on the back to the presiding officer, and then, in the presence of the presiding officer, put the paper into the ballot box and forthwith quit the polling station.

If the voter inadvertently spoils a ballot paper, he can return it to the officer, who will if satisfied of such inadvertence, give him another paper.

If the voter votes for more than candidates, or places any mark on the paper by which he may be afterwards identified, his ballot paper will be void, and will not be counted.

If the voter takes a ballot paper out of the polling station, or deposits in the ballot box any other paper than the one given him by the officer, he will be guilty of a misdemeanor and be subject to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour.

NOTE.—These directions shall be illustrated by examples of the ballot paper.

RURAL DISTRICT COUNCILLORS—GENERAL ORDER.

RULES AS TO NOMINATION AND ELECTION.

WHEREAS [recites sections 20, 24, 48, of the L. G. A., 1894].

And whereas by the Rural District Councillors (Additional Councillors) Election Order, 1895, and the Rural District Councillors Casual Vacancies Election Order, 1895, we prescribed rules for the first election of any additional rural district councillors for any rural parish in England and Wales, and the first election of a rural district councillor or councillors to be appointed for any rural parish which might thereafter be constituted, and for every election to be held to fill a casual vacancy in the office of rural district councillor in any rural parish in England and Wales:

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, in pursuance of the powers given to us in that behalf, do hereby rescind the said Rural District Councillors (Additional Councillors) Election Order, 1895, and the said Rural District Councillors Casual Vacancies Election Order, 1895, except as regards any election the proceedings in respect of which have been already commenced;

And we do hereby order that, subject to any directions which may be given by us, and until we otherwise order, the following rules shall apply to, and shall be observed in connexion with, elections of rural district councillors as hereinafter set forth; that is to say,—

(a) the election held in any year to fill any ordinary vacancies in the rural district councillors for any rural parish in England and Wales;

(b) the first election of any additional rural district councillors for any rural parish or parishes in England and Wales, and the first election of a rural district councillor or councillors to be elected for any such rural parish which may hereafter be constituted; and

(b) In 1896 the law officers advised that s. 48 (4) (b) of the L. G. A., 1894 (here reproduced), applies only where the person whose retirement, death, etc., has caused the casual vacancy would himself have gone out of office in the ordinary course of events within six months (60 J. P. 800).

Appendix II.

(2) If the clerk is unwilling to act as returning officer, or if the office of clerk is vacant at the time when any duty relative to the election has to be performed by the returning officer, or if the clerk from illness or other sufficient cause is unable to perform such duty, the rural district council shall appoint some other person to act as returning officer or to perform such other duties of the returning officer as then remain to be performed as the case may be, but the same person shall in all cases be the returning officer at the election of the rural district councillors and of any parish councillors to be elected at the same date in the parish.

(3) The returning officer shall appoint some place within the union or rural district in which the parish is situate as an office for the purpose of the election.

(4) The returning officer may, in writing, appoint a fit person to be his deputy for all or any of the purposes relating to the election of rural district councillors, and shall appoint such a deputy in the case and for the purposes mentioned in Rule 19 of this Order. A deputy returning officer shall have all the powers, duties, and liabilities of the returning officer in relation to the matters in respect of which he is appointed as deputy.

(5) The same person shall act as deputy returning officer in respect of the election both of rural councillors and of any parish councillors to be elected at the same date in the parish.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING AND POWER.

BOARD OF TRADE REGULATIONS UNDER THE ELECTRIC LIGHTING ACTS, 1882 AND 1888.

(A) FOR SECURING THE SAFETY OF THE PUBLIC, AND (B) FOR ENSURING A PROPER AND SUFFICIENT SUPPLY OF ELECTRICAL ENERGY.

DEFINITIONS.

In the following regulations—

The expression "the Order" means the

The expression "the undertakers" means the undertakers for the purposes of the Order.

Appendix II.

The expression "consumer's wires" means any electric lines on the consumer's premises which are connected with the service lines of the undertakers at the consumer's terminals.

The expression "sub-station" means any premises in which energy is transformed or converted for the purpose of supply to consumers, and which are large enough to admit the entrance of a person after the transforming or converting apparatus is in position, provided that for the purpose of these regulations any place within any such premises which is used solely for some purpose other than such transformation or conversion shall not be deemed to form part of a sub-station.

The expression "overhead line" means any electric line which is placed above ground and in the open air.

The expression "pressure" means the difference of electrical potential between any two conductors through which a supply of energy is given, or betweeen any part of either conductor and the earth; and, subject to the variations allowed by No. B 3 of these regulations—

(a) Where the conditions of the supply are such that the pressure at any pair of consumer's terminals does not exceed 250 volts, the supply shall be deemed a low pressure supply;

(b) Where the conditions of the supply are such that the pressure exceeds 250 volts but does not exceed 650 volts, the supply shall be deemed a medium pressure supply;

Other expressions to which meanings are assigned in the Order or in the Electric Lighting Acts, 1882 and 1888, have the same respective meanings in these regulations.

A.—REGULATIONS FOR SECURING THE SAFETY OF THE PUBLIC.

General.

1. The pressure of a supply delivered to any consumer shall not exceed the limit of low pressure, except for special purposes, for which a medium pressure supply may be given on the consumer undertaking to comply with the following conditions:—

(a) Where the supply is for power purposes—

(1) The frame of every electric motor shall be efficiently connected with earth.

(2) The consumer's wires forming the connections to motors, or otherwise in connection with the supply, shall be, as far as practicable, completely enclosed in strong metal casing efficiently connected with earth, or they shall be fixed in such a manner that there shall be no danger of any shock.

(3) The supply to every motor shall be controlled by means of an efficient cut-off switch, placed in such a position as to be easily handled by the person in charge of the motor, and connected so that by its means all pressure can be cut off from the motor itself, and from any regulating switch, resistance or other device in connection therewith.

(4) Switches, efficient fuses or other automatic circuit-breakers shall be provided, so as to protect the circuits from excess of current, and all switches and cut-outs shall be so enclosed and protected that there shall be no danger of any shock being obtained in the ordinary handling thereof, or of any fire being caused by their normal or abnormal action.

(5) A notice shall be fixed in a conspicuous position at every motor and switch board in connection with the supply forbidding unauthorised persons to touch the motors or apparatus.

(b) Where the supply is for arc lamps in series—

(1) The consumer's wires forming the connections to the arc lamps, or otherwise in connection with the supply, shall be, as far as practicable, completely enclosed in strong metal casing efficiently connected with earth, or they shall be fixed in such a manner that there shall be no danger of any shock.

(2) The supply to every arc lamp shall be controlled by means of an efficient cut-off switch, placed in such a position as to be easily handled by the person in charge of the arc lighting, and connected so that by its means all pressure can be cut off from the arc lamp itself, and from any regulating switch, resistance or other device in connection therewith. Provided that where the arc lamps are connected in series across the outer conductors of a three-wire system, it shall be sufficient if one such switch be provided for each series of arc lamps.

(3) Switches, efficient fuses or other automatic cut-outs shall be provided, so as to protect the circuits from excess of current, and all switches and cut-outs shall be so enclosed and protected that there shall be no danger of any shock being obtained in the ordinary handling thereof, or of any fire being caused by their normal or abnormal action.

(c) Where the supply is for incandescent lamps in series—

(1) The consumer's wires forming the connections to the incandescent lamps, or otherwise in connection with the supply, shall be completely enclosed in strong metal casing, and this casing, together with the switches and lamp holders, if metallic, shall be efficiently connected with earth.

(2) Switches, efficient fuses or other automatic cut-outs shall be provided so as to protect the circuits from excess of current, and all switches and cut-outs shall be so enclosed and protected that there shall be no danger of any shock being obtained in the ordinary handling thereof, or of any fire being caused by their normal or abnormal action.

Where the supply is for any special purpose other than those above mentioned, or where the pressure of the supply exceeds the limits of medium pressure, it shall be subject to such other regulations as the Board of Trade may from time to time prescribe.

This regulation shall not apply within the premises of a factory, a workshop, a mine, or a quarry.

2. When the pressure between the outer conductors of a three-wire system exceeds 250 volts and the three wires of the system or two pairs of wires are brought into a consumer's premises, the supply shall be given to two pairs of terminals arranged in such a manner that there shall be no danger of any shock, and the wiring from these terminals shall be kept distinct.

This regulation shall not apply within the premises of a factory, a workshop, a mine, or a quarry.

3. An extra high pressure supply shall not be given to any consumer's premises other than a factory, a workshop, a mine, a quarry, or electric traction works, waterworks, sewerage or drainage works; and no such supply shall be given to electric traction works, waterworks, sewerage or drainage works, except with the consent of the Board of Trade and subject to such regulations as the Board may prescribe.

4. The sectional area of the conductor in any electric line laid or erected in any street after the date of these regulations shall not be less than that of a strand of seven wires, each of which is of No. 20 standard wire gauge, and the sectional area of every wire in a strand forming any such conductor shall not be less than that gauge.

This regulation shall not apply in the case of an electric line placed in a lamp-post.

5. Every low pressure and medium pressure main shall be tested for insulation after having been placed in position and before it is used for the purposes of supply, the testing pressure being the maximum pressure to which it is intended to be subjected in use, and in any case at least 200 volts, and the undertakers shall duly record the results of the tests of each main, or section of a main.

6. The insulation of every complete circuit used for the supply of energy, including all machinery, apparatus, and devices forming part of, or in connection with, that circuit, shall be so maintained that the leakage current shall not under any conditions exceed one-thousandth part of the maximum supply current; and suitable

Appendix II. means shall be provided for the indication and localisation of leakage. Every leakage shall be remedied without delay.

Every such circuit shall be tested for insulation at least once in every week, and the undertakers shall duly record the results of the testings.

Provided that where any part of any electric circuit is connected with earth, either in accordance with these regulations or with the approval of the Board of Trade, the provisions of this regulation shall not apply to that part of the circuit so long as the connection with earth exists.

7. A high pressure circuit shall not be brought into use unless the insulation of every part thereof has withstood the continuous application, during half an hour, in the case of every electric line of a pressure twice the maximum pressure to which it is intended to be subjected in use, and, in the case of every machine, device, or apparatus, of a pressure 50 per cent. greater than the said maximum pressure.

The undertakers shall duly record the results of each test.

8. Every high pressure main, conductor, or other apparatus shall be protected by a suitable fuse or automatic circuit-breaker.

Provided that it shall not be incumbent upon the undertakers to provide such a fuse or circuit-breaker for the outer conductor of a concentric main which is, with the approval of the Board of Trade, efficiently connected with earth.

9. In every case where a high pressure supply is transformed for the purpose of supply to one or more consumers, some suitable automatic and quick-acting means shall be provided to protect the consumer's wires from any accidental contact with or leakage from the high pressure circuit, either within or without the transforming apparatus.

This regulation shall not apply within the premises of a factory, a workshop, a mine, or a quarry, where the high pressure transformer is under the jurisdiction of the Home Office.

10. The metallic portion of every high pressure transformer, with the exception of the conductors thereof, shall be efficiently connected with earth.

This regulation shall not apply within the premises of a factory, a workshop, a mine, or a quarry, where the high pressure transformer is under the jurisdiction of the Home Office.

11. Where any portion of any electric line or any support for an electric line is exposed in such a position as to be liable to cause injury from lightning it shall be efficiently protected against such liability.

12. Where any accident by explosion or fire, or any other accident of such kind as to have caused or to be likely to have caused loss of life or personal injury has occurred at any part of any electric line or work, the undertakers shall give immediate notice thereof to the Board of Trade.

Overhead Lines.

13. Overhead lines shall not after the date of these regulations be erected or maintained except in accordance with such regulations as the Board may prescribe; provided that this regulation shall not apply to any electric lines which have been erected at the date of these regulations so long as those lines are maintained in accordance with any regulations of the Board of Trade which are in force and applicable thereto at that date and with any requirements of the Board made thereunder. (See the Regulations made under this para. at p. 3290, post.)

Electric Lines other than Overhead Lines.

14. All conduits, pipes, casings, and street boxes used as receptacles for electric lines shall be constructed of durable material, and where laid under carriage ways shall be of ample strength to prevent damage from heavy traffic, and reasonable means shall be taken by the undertakers to prevent accumulation of gas in such receptacles.

15. Where any electric line crosses, or is in proximity to, any metallic substance, special precautions shall be taken by the undertakers against the possibility of any electrical charging of the metallic substance from the line or from any metal conduit, pipe, or casing enclosing the line.

16. All metal conduits, pipes, or casings containing any high pressure electric line shall be efficiently connected with earth, and shall be so jointed and connected across all street boxes and other openings as to make good electrical connection throughout their whole length.

17. Where the conductors of electric lines placed in any conduit are not continuously covered with insulating material they shall be secured in position, and no unfixed uninsulated material of a conducting nature shall be contained in the conduit. No such conductor shall be at a pressure exceeding 300 volts from earth.

Adequate precautions shall also be taken to ensure that no accumulation of water shall take place in any part of the conduit, and to prevent any dangerous access of moisture to the conductors or the insulators.

The insulators of any such electric line shall be so disposed that they can be readily inspected, but this requirement shall not apply to any such insulators which before the date of these regulations were not required by any regulation then in force to be so capable of ready inspection.

18. Every portion of any high pressure electric line placed above the surface of the ground, or in any subway not in the sole occupation of the undertakers shall be completely enclosed either in a tube of highly insulating material embedded in brickwork, masonry, or cement concrete, or in strong metal casing efficiently connected with earth.

19. Where any high pressure electric line is laid beneath the surface of the ground, efficient means shall be taken to render it impossible that the surface of the ground or any neighbouring electric line or conductor shall become charged by leakage from the high pressure electric line.

20. A high pressure electric line shall not be used for the supply of energy before it has been completely laid, properly jointed, examined, and tested, or until it is in the sole charge of the undertakers, and every such line shall during its use be in the sole charge of the undertakers.

Sub-stations and Street Boxes.

21. Sub-stations shall be established in suitable places and shall be in the sole occupation and charge of the undertakers. Sub-stations shall be erected above ground wherever possible, but where necessarily underground, due provision shall be made for ventilation and for drainage.

22. In addition to the provisions contained in regulation 14 as to the construction of receptacles for electric lines, the following conditions shall be observed with respect to street boxes :—

(a) The covers of all street boxes shall be so secured that they cannot be opened except by means of a special applicance.

(b) The covers of all street boxes containing high pressure apparatus other than cables shall be connected to strips of metal laid immediately underneath the street, and efficient means shall be taken to render it impossible that the covers or other exposed parts of these boxes, or any adjacent material forming the surface of the street, shall become electrically charged whether by reason of leakage, defect, or otherwise.

(c) Where street boxes are used as transformer chambers, reasonable means shall be taken to prevent as far as possible any influx of water, either from the adjacent soil or by means of pipes; and in the case of any such street box exceeding one cubic yard in capacity, ample provision shall be made, by ventilation or otherwise, for the immediate escape of any gas which may by accident have obtained access to the box, and for the prevention of danger from sparking.

(d) All street boxes shall be regularly inspected for the presence of gas, and if any influx or accumulation is discovered, the undertakers shall give immediate notice to the authority or company whose gas mains are laid in the neighbourhood of the street box.

(e) Where mains at different pressures pass through the same street box they shall be readily distinguishable from one another.

23. The maximum power supplied to any underground sub-station or street box shall not, without the consent of the Board of Trade, exceed 30 kilowatts in the case of a sub-station or street box containing a single transformer, or 75 kilowatts in the case of a sub-station or street box containing two or more transformers.

Consumer's Premises.

24. The undertakers shall be responsible for all electric lines, fittings, and apparatus belonging to them, or under their control, which may be upon a consumer's premises, being maintained in a safe condition and in all respects fit for supplying energy.

25. In delivering the energy to a consumer's terminals the undertakers shall exercise all due precautions so as to avoid risk of causing fire on the premises.

26. A suitable safety fuse or other automatic circuit-breaker shall be inserted in each service line within a consumer's premises as close as possible to the point of entry, and contained within a suitable locked or sealed receptacle of fireproof construction, except in cases where the service line is protected by fuses in a street box; but no fuse or automatic circuit-breaker shall be inserted in the intermediate conductor of a three-wire system.

27. All service lines and apparatus placed on a consumer's premises shall be highly insulated and thoroughly protected against injury to the insulation or access of moisture, and any metal forming part of the electric circuit shall not unless efficiently connected with earth be exposed so that it can be touched. All electric lines shall be so fixed and protected as to prevent the possibility of electrical discharge to any adjacent metallic substance.

28. Where the general supply of energy is a high pressure supply, and transforming apparatus is installed on a consumer's premises, the whole of the high pressure service lines, conductors, and apparatus, including the transforming apparatus itself, so far as they are on the consumer's premises, shall be completely enclosed in solid walls, or in strong metal casing efficiently connected with earth and securely fastened throughout.

29. The undertakers shall not connect a consumer's wires with their mains unless they are reasonably satisfied that the connection would not cause a leakage from those wires or fittings exceeding one ten-thousandth part of the maximum supply current to the premises; and where the undertakers decline to make such connection they shall serve upon the consumer a notice stating their reasons for so declining.

30. If the undertakers are reasonably satisfied, after making all proper examination by testing or otherwise, that a leakage exists at some part of a consumer's wires or fittings of such extent as to be a source of danger, any officer of the undertakers, duly authorised by them in writing, or, if the undertakers so require, an electric inspector, may, for the purpose of discovering whether the leakage exists at any part of a circuit within or upon any consumer's premises, by notice require the consumer at some reasonable time after the service of the notice to permit him to inspect and test the wires and fittings belonging to the consumer and forming part of the circuit.

In any case where the undertakers require the services of an electric inspector under this regulation they shall pay him the prescribed fee.

If on any such testing the officer or the electric inspector discovers a leakage from the consumer's wires exceeding one ten-thousandth part of the maximum supply current to the premises, or if the consumer does not give all due facilities for inspection and testing, the undertakers shall forthwith discontinue the supply of energy to the premises in question, giving immediate notice of the discontinuance to the consumer, and shall not recommence the supply until they are reasonably satisfied that the leakage has been removed. This regulation shall not affect any power contained in the order or otherwise enabling the undertakers to discontinue the supply.

31. If any consumer is dissatisfied with the action of the undertakers in refusing to give, or in discontinuing or in not recommencing the supply of energy to his premises, the wires and fittings of that consumer shall, on his application and on payment of the prescribed fee, be tested for the existence of leakage by an electric inspector.

This regulation shall be endorsed on every notice given under the provisions of either of the two last preceding regulations.

Arc Lighting.

32. Arc lamps used in any street for public lighting shall be so fixed as not to be in any part at a less height than 10 feet from the ground.

33. All arc lamps shall be so guarded as to prevent pieces of ignited carbon or broken glass falling from them, and shall not be used in situations where there is any danger of the presence of explosive dust or gas.

Connections of Circuits with Earth.

34. Where the pressure of a supply between the adjacent conductors of a three-wire system of mains exceeds 125 volts, the intermediate conductor shall be connected with earth in accordance with the following conditions:—

(a) The connection with earth of the intermediate conductor shall be made at one point only on each distinct circuit, namely, at the generating station, sub-station, or transformer, and the insulation of the circuit shall be efficiently maintained at all other parts.

(b) The current from the intermediate conductor to earth shall be continuously recorded, and if it at any time exceed one-thousandth part of the maximum supply current, steps shall be immediately taken to improve the insulation of the system.

Penalties.

35. If the undertakers make default in complying with any of the preceding regulations, they shall on conviction be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 for every such default, and to a daily penalty not exceeding £10.

The recovery of a penalty under these regulations shall not affect the liability of the undertakers to make compensation in respect of any damage or injury which may be caused by reason of the default.

B.—REGULATIONS FOR ENSURING A PROPER AND SUFFICIENT SUPPLY OF ELECTRICAL ENERGY.

1. From the time when the undertakers commence to supply energy through any distributing main, they shall maintain a supply sufficient for the use of all the consumers for the time being entitled to be supplied from that main; and that supply shall, except so far as the Board of Trade may otherwise from time to time permit, be constantly maintained, and in the case of continuous currents, without change of polarity. Provided that, for the purposes of testing, or for any other purposes connected with the efficient working of the undertaking, the authority by whom the electric inspector is appointed may give permission to the undertakers to discontinue the supply at such intervals of time and for such periods as that authority may think expedient. When the supply is so discontinued, or the polarity is changed, notice to all persons likely to be affected shall be given of such discontinuance, or change, and of the probable duration thereof.

2. The system of distributing mains shall be separated into sections corresponding approximately to the different feeders, and these sections shall be interconnected only through suitable circuit breakers or fuses, arranged so as to be easily inspected.

3. Before commencing to give a supply of energy to any consumer, the undertakers shall declare to that consumer the constant pressure at which they propose to supply energy at his terminals. The pressure so declared shall be constantly maintained, subject to a variation not exceeding 4 per cent. above or below the declared pressure, under any conditions of supply which the consumer is entitled to receive, or such other variation as the Board of Trade may from time to time allow, and shall not be altered or departed from to an extent greater than that variation except by consent of the Board of Trade, and upon such terms and conditions as the Board of Trade may impose, and after public notice has been given during the period of one month, in such manner as the Board of Trade may require, of the intention of the undertakers to apply for consent to alter the same.

Provided that any regulations in force at the date of these regulations whereby the consent of any consumer (or in default thereof the consent of the Board of Trade) was then required to a change in the declared constant pressure to that consumer's premises shall, notwithstanding anything in these regulations, continue of full force and effect in the case of any consumer whose consent was then so required, and shall apply in that case as if it had been expressly set out in these regulations.

Appendix II.

4. Before commencing to give a supply of energy to any consumer, the undertakers shall declare to that consumer the system which they propose to adopt, whether alternating or continuous current, and, in the case of alternating current, the frequency—that is to say, the number of complete periods per second at which they propose to supply. The system and frequency so declared shall be maintained subject, as respects frequency, to a variation not exceeding $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. above or below the declared frequency, and shall not be altered or departed from except by consent of the Board of Trade, and upon such terms and conditions as the Board of Trade may impose, and after public notice has been given during the period of one month, in such manner as the Board of Trade may require, of the intention of the undertakers to apply for consent to alter the same.

5. If the undertakers make default in complying with any of these regulations as to supply, they shall, subject to the provisions of the Order, be liable on conviction to a penalty not exceeding £5 for every such default, and to a daily penalty not exceeding £5.

These regulations are made subject to the power of the Board of Trade to make such further or other regulations as they may think expedient; and nothing in these regulations shall be construed to authorise the undertakers to lay any electric line or work their undertaking otherwise than in accordance with the Order and the principal Act, or to supply energy otherwise than by a system for the time being approved by the Board of Trade under the Order.

These are the regulations and conditions for securing the safety of the public and for ensuring the proper and sufficient supply of electrical energy, made by the Board of Trade under the provisions of the Electric Lighting Acts, 1882 and 1888, and of the , referred to in the letter from the Board of Trade to the , of the 30th day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nine.

Except as hereinafter mentioned, the date of these regulations shall be the 1st day of July, 1909.

As to so much of any electrical station as was constructed before the 1st day of July, 1908, the date of these regulations shall be the 1st day of January, 1910.

Assistant Secretary,
Board of Trade.

The Postmaster-General may at any time serve upon the owner notice requiring such alteration in the position and mode of laying or mode of use of any electric line of the owner or compliance with such other conditions as the Postmaster-General may think necessary for the due protection of his electric lines or other works, and failure on the part of the owner to comply with any such notice shall be deemed to be a non-compliance with the requirements of the Electricity Commissioners' Notice to which these Regulations are annexed.

(c) Any notice required to be served upon the Postmaster-General under these Regulations may be served by being addressed to the General Post Office, London, E.C.1, or by being addressed to and left at or transmitted through the post to the office of the Sectional Engineer in whose area the works specified in the notice are situated, and any notice required to be served on the owner may be served by being addressed to him and left at or transmitted through the post to his office or last known place of address.

Sub-stations and Transformers.

9. Sub-stations shall be established in suitable places and shall be in the sole occupation and charge of the owner and subject to any requirements of the Home Office. Where transformers are used in any other premises (not being sub-stations as defined for the purposes of these Regulations) they shall be so guarded and protected as to avoid the risk of causing electric shock.

II.—EXTRA HIGH PRESSURE MAINS, ETC.

Testing of Insulation.

10. An extra high pressure main shall not be brought into use unless, after it has been placed in position and before it is used for the purposes of supply, the insulation of every part thereof has withstood the continuous application, during half an hour, of pressure exceeding the maximum pressure to which it is intended to be subjected in use, that is to say, in the case of every electric line to be used for a pressure not exceeding 10,000 volts twice the said maximum pressure, and in the case of a line to be used for a pressure exceeding 10,000 volts a pressure exceeding the said maximum pressure by 10,000 volts, and the owner shall record the results of the tests of each main or section of a main.

Protection by Fuses or Circuit Breakers.

11. Every extra high pressure main shall be protected by a suitable fuse or automatic circuit-breaker, but in the case of a concentric main that fuse or circuit-breaker shall not be inserted in any external conductor thereof which is connected with earth.

Prevention of Leakage in Transformers.

12. In every case where an extra high pressure supply is transformed or converted to a reduced pressure, some suitable automatic and quick-acting means shall be provided to protect the reduced pressure circuits from any accidental contact with or leakage from the extra high pressure system, either within or without the transforming or converting apparatus.

Electrical Continuity of Metal Conduits, etc.

13. All metal conduits, pipes, or casings, containing any extra high pressure electric line shall be efficiently connected with earth, and shall be so jointed and connected across all street boxes and other openings so as to make good electrical connection throughout their whole length.

Lines above Ground or in Subways.

14. Every portion of any extra high pressure electric line placed above the surface of the ground, otherwise than in a sub-station, or in any subway not in the sole occupation of the owner shall be completely enclosed either in a tube of highly insulated material embedded in brickwork, masonry, or cement concrete, or in strong metal casing efficiently connected with earth.

Prevention of Leakage.

15. Where extra high pressure mains for three-phase supply consist of insulated conductors laid together, provision shall be made to ensure that neither the ground nor any neighbouring electric line or conductor can become charged by leakage from any such main.

Where this provision is made by a copper strip under a lead sheath, that strip shall be not less than sixteen-thousandths of an inch in thickness, and where it is made by steel wires outside a lead sheath, each of those wires shall not be less than one-tenth of an inch in diameter.

Where the mains are enclosed in a lead sheath, that sheath shall not be less than one-tenth of an inch in thickness, and shall be permanently and efficiently connected with earth.

Mains for Single Phase Supply.

16. Extra high pressure mains for single phase supply and all cables connected therewith shall consist either of two concentric conductors or of separate conductors. Where concentric conductors are used the insulation shall be maintained efficiently throughout except that the outer conductor shall be connected with earth at one point, and where separate conductors are used, provision shall be made as in the case of mains for three phase supply to ensure that neither the ground nor any neighbouring electric line or conductor can become charged by leakage.

Completion and Control.

17. An extra high pressure electric line shall not be brought into use for the supply of energy before it has been completely laid, properly jointed, examined, and tested, or until it is in the sole charge of the owner and every such line shall during its use be in the sole charge of the owner.

Street Boxes.

18. Extra high pressure mains shall not pass through the same street box with other mains, unless they are enclosed in strong metal casing; and street boxes containing extra high pressure mains shall not contain pipes for water, gas, or other service, or electric mains belonging to any other body or person, provided that any such street box may contain telephone wires belonging to the owner.

Sub-stations.

19. Sub-stations supplied at extra high pressure shall be established in suitable places and shall be in the sole occupation of the owner.

Sub-station below Streets.

20. Sub-stations constructed below the surface of any street to which an extra high pressure supply is to be given shall not contain switches or other apparatus than transformers.

Transforming Apparatus in Sub-stations.

21. The transforming apparatus at any sub-station supplied at extra high pressure shall be so arranged that there shall be no danger of any mains connected therewith being charged to any pressure beyond the limits of pressure for which these mains are intended.

Fire Risks.

22. In delivering the energy to a sub-station at extra high pressure the owner shall exercise all due precautions so as to avoid risk of causing fire on the premises.

Insulation, etc., of Electric Lines and Apparatus in Sub-stations.

23. All extra high pressure electric lines and apparatus placed in a sub-station shall be highly insulated and thoroughly protected against injury to the insulation or access of moisture, and any metal forming part of the electric circuit shall not unless efficiently connected with earth be exposed so that it can be inadvertently touched. All such lines shall be so fixed and protected as to prevent the possibility of electrical discharge to any adjacent metallic substance.

III.—OVERHEAD LINES.

[See the Overhead Lines Regulations, 1928, post, p. 3290.]

Danger Notices.

42. Supports shall be numbered consecutively and each support shall have a danger notice of a permanent character securely fixed to it. Adequate provisions shall also be made to prevent unauthorised climbing.

IV.—CONNECTION OF CIRCUITS WITH EARTH.

Continuous Current Circuits.

43. Where the pressure of a supply between the adjacent conductors of a three-wire continuous current system of mains exceeds 125 volts, the intermediate conductor shall be connected with earth, in accordance with the following conditions :—

(a) The connection with earth of the intermediate conductor shall be made at one point only on each distinct circuit, namely, at the generating station or sub-station, and the insulation of the circuit shall be efficiently maintained at all other parts.

(b) The current from the intermediate conductor to earth shall be continuously recorded, and if it at any time exceeds one-thousandth part of the maximum supply current, steps shall be immediately taken to improve the insulation of the system.

Alternating Current Circuits.

44. Alternating current circuits may, with the approval of the Electricity Commissioners and with the concurrence of the Postmaster-General, be connected with earth in accordance with the following conditions, etc. :—

I.—GENERAL.

(a) The connection with earth shall be made only where energy is delivered to each circuit, that is to say, at a generating station, a sub-station or transformer, and shall, wherever practicable, be made at a neutral point in the circuit and in such a manner as will ensure at all times an immediate and safe discharge of energy.
(b) The connection with earth shall be efficiently maintained, except when it is interrupted by means of a switch or link for the purpose of periodical tests for ascertaining whether any current is passing by means of the connection with earth.
(c) The insulation of the mains shall be efficiently maintained at all other parts.
(d) Tests shall be periodically made to ascertain whether any current is passing by means of the connection with earth, and if at any time the current so passing exceeds one-thousandth part of the maximum supply current of the circuit, steps shall be immediately taken to improve the insulation.

II.—SPECIAL.

Where separate or three- or four-core mains are used for alternating current and the pressure between any two conductors exceeds 125 volts, the connection with earth shall be made in the case of—
(a) A single phase supply, at the neutral point on the winding of the transformer ;
(b) A two-phase three-wire supply, by means of the third wire ;
(c) A two-phase four-wire supply, at the neutral point on the winding ;
(d) A three-phase three-wire or four-wire supply, at the neutral point on the star winding.

Concentric Mains.

45. Concentric mains used either for continuous or for alternating current shall be connected with earth by means of the external conductor in accordance with the following conditions :—
(a) The connection with earth shall be made by means of the external conductor.
(b) The connection with earth shall be made only at the point or points where energy is given to each distinct circuit, namely, at a generating station, sub-station, or transformer.
(c) The insulation of the external conductor shall be efficiently maintained at all other parts.
(d) The external conductor shall form a complete metal sheathing round the inner conductor.
(e) The connection with earth shall be efficiently maintained except when it is interrupted by means of a switch or link for the purpose of periodical tests for ascertaining whether any current is passing by means of the connection with earth.
(f) Tests shall be periodically made to ascertain whether any current is passing by means of the connection with earth, and if at any time the current passing by means of the connection with earth exceeds one-thousandth part of the maximum supply current of the circuit, steps shall be immediately taken to improve the insulation.

Nothing in these Regulations shall be deemed to be in substitution for Regulations made under the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901 ; the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887 ; and the Metalliferous Mines Regulation Act, 1872.

N.B.—These Regulations are prescribed subject to the power of the Electricity Commissioners to prescribe such further or other Regulations as they may think expedient.

Appendix II.

ELECTRICITY COMMISSION,
1*st May*, 1925.

ELECTRICITY (SUPPLY) ACTS, 1882 TO 1922.

For the purposes of the Electricity (Supply) Acts, 1882 to 1922, and the Orders made and issued thereunder, and all special Acts relating to the supply of electricity, the Electricity Commissioners approve of the system of supply described hereunder, subject to the Regulations made by the Electricity Commissioners for securing the safety of the public and for ensuring a proper and sufficient supply of energy.

System of Supply.

A three-phase alternating current supply at an extra high pressure of 6,600 volts (or 11,000 volts, or 33,000 volts, or 49,500 volts, or 66,000 volts, as the case may be).

(1) The supply will be given—

(a) for general supply at high pressure to transformers, converters or motors on the consumers' premises, or at medium or low pressure ;

(b) for traction purposes at medium pressure.

(2) The extra high pressure and high pressure supply will be given by alternating current, and the medium pressure and low pressure supply will be given by alternating current or by direct current.

(3) All alternating current will be at a frequency not varying from 50 complete cycles per second by more than 2½ per cent. plus or minus.

Mains.

(4) The mains will consist of insulated conductors laid together and enclosed in a lead sheath, and either

(a) braided, compounded, and armoured, and laid direct in the ground, and covered with—

(i) wooden planks 2 inches thick, and (except for making up pieces and at bends) 10 feet long, and treated with preservative compound to prevent decay ; or

(ii) reinforced concrete slabs, 3 feet long by 2 inches thick, and 6 inches wide, and suitably interlocked so as to prevent lateral displacement ; or

(iii) concrete, made in situ, 3 inches thick, of a minimum width of 9 inches, and overlapping the breadth of the mains by at least 2 inches on each side ; or

(b) drawn into pipes or ducts of approved design ; or

(c) laid in troughs filled in with composition and covered with hard burned tiles or other approved protection held in position through contact with the filling in composition.

Any joint electricity authority or authorised undertakers within the meaning of the above-mentioned Acts adopting an extra high pressure system of supply in pursuance of this General Approval must notify the Electricity Commissioners in order that the Regulations as to extra high pressure for securing the safety of the public and for ensuring a proper and sufficient supply of electrical energy may be prescribed on such authority or undertakers where necessary.

Any extra high pressure system of supply other than that described above will require special approval by the Electricity Commissioners.

Appendix II.

S. R. & O., 1926, No. 1081.

ELECTRICITY.

THE JOINT ELECTRICITY AUTHORITIES (BORROWING POWER) REGULATIONS, 1926, DATED 30TH AUGUST, 1926, MADE BY THE MINISTER OF TRANSPORT WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE TREASURY UNDER THE ELECTRICITY (SUPPLY) ACT, 1922 (12 & 13 GEO. 5, C. 46).

Whereas by Sect. 1 of the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1922, it is enacted that, for the purposes therein mentioned, a joint electricity authority may, with the consent of the Electricity Commissioners, and subject to regulations to be made by the Minister of Transport with the approval of the Treasury, borrow money, in such manner and subject to such provisions as to the repayment thereof, and with such powers as to reborrowing for the purpose of paying off a loan previously raised, as may be prescribed by the Regulations, and such Regulations may empower a joint electricity authority to borrow temporarily, to issue bonds and to make arrangements with bankers, and may apply with or without modifications any enactments relating to borrowing by local authorities, including provisions as to the enforcement of the security by the appointment of a receiver or otherwise, and further that any money borrowed as aforesaid, and the interest thereon, may be charged on the undertaking and all the revenues of the joint electricity authority, or on any specific property forming part of that undertaking, and shall be repaid within such period not exceeding sixty years as the Electricity Commissioners may determine.

Now, therefore, in exercise of the powers conferred upon him by the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1922 (hereinafter called " the Act "), and any and every other power thereunto him enabling the Minister of Transport with the approval of the Treasury hereby orders and prescribes that the exercise by joint electricity authorities of the powers of borrowing conferred by the Act shall be subject to the following Regulations (hereinafter called " the Regulations ") that is to say :—

Preliminary.

1. The Regulations may be cited as " The Joint Electricity Authorities (Borrowing Power) Regulations, 1926."

2. In the Regulations the following expressions shall, unless the contrary intention appears, have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them namely—

The expression " the Minister " means " the Minister of Transport."

The expression " the Commissioners " means the Electricity Commissioners.

The expression " the Joint Authority " means any joint electricity authority established by an order made under the Electricity (Supply) Acts, 1882 to 1922.

The expression " the Clerk " means the clerk or other principal officer of the joint authority.

The expression " statutory borrowing power " means any power of the joint authority under the Electricity (Supply) Acts, 1882 to 1922, or any Order made thereunder or any Act of Parliament or under the Regulations whether the power be or be not coupled with a duty of borrowing or reborrowing money.

The expression " statutory security " means any security in which trustees are for the time being by or under any Act of Parliament passed or to be passed authorised to invest trust money and any mortgage bond debenture debenture stock stock or other security authorised by or under any Act of Parliament passed or to be passed of any county council or municipal corporation or other local authority as defined by Sect. 34 of the Local Loans Act, 1875, or Sect. 4 of the Local Authorities Loans (Scotland) Act, 1891, as the case may be other than securities of the joint authority and annuities rent charges and securities transferable by delivery.

3. The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply for the purpose of the interpretation of the Regulations in like manner as it applies for the purpose of the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

4. Whenever the joint authority make application for the consent of the Commissioners to the borrowing of money they shall furnish to the Commissioners full particulars of the amount purpose nature and circumstances of the proposed borrowing.

Mode of raising Money.

5. Subject to the provisions of the Regulations the joint authority may raise all or any moneys which they are authorised to borrow under any statutory borrowing power by mortgage charged on the undertaking and all the revenues of the joint authority or any specific property forming part of that undertaking.

Provided that in respect of any mortgage issued by the joint authority for a period of less than ten years no extension of the term of such mortgage shall be granted by such authority and in respect of any other mortgage issued by the joint authority no extension of the term of that mortgage shall be granted by such authority for a period of less than ten years.

Provided also that the provisions of the Articles of the Regulations whereof the marginal notes are " Form of Mortgage " " Ranking of Mortgages " " Appointment of Receiver " and " Powers of Receiver " shall not apply to or in respect of mortgages and other securities granted or issued by the joint authority and charged upon any specific property forming part of the undertaking of that authority.

6. Subject to the necessary authority of the Commissioners being obtained in that behalf under Sect. 3 of the Act the joint authority may raise by the issue of stock all or any moneys which they are authorised to borrow under the Act.

Subject to the provisions of the Act all such stock shall be issued transferred dealt with and redeemed according to regulations made by the Commissioners.

The provisions of the Regulations (other than this Article) shall not apply to such stock except in so far as such provisions are made applicable thereto by Regulations made by the Commissioners.

7. Subject to the provisions of the Regulations every mortgage granted by the joint authority shall be by deed duly stamped truly stating the consideration and the time and place of payment, and shall be sealed with the common seal of the joint authority and may be made in the form contained in the First Schedule to the Regulations or to the like effect.

8. Subject to the provisions of the Regulations all mortgages granted by the joint authority shall rank equally without any priority or preference by reason of any precedence in the date of any statutory borrowing power or in the date of the mortgages or on any other ground whatsoever and shall also rank equally with all other securities granted or issued by the joint authority.

9. For the purpose of raising any moneys which the joint authority are authorised to borrow or for the purpose of securing any advances to be made to the joint authority under the Article of the Regulations of which the marginal note is " Temporary borrowing by Joint Authority " the joint authority may instead of or in temporary substitution for any other method of raising money prescribed by the foregoing provisions of the Regulations issue and renew bonds subject to and in accordance with the provisions contained in the Second Schedule to the Regulations.

Bonds may be issued shortly before any other bonds fall due in order to pay off those bonds notwithstanding that the statutory borrowing power of the joint authority would thereby be temporarily exceeded.

10.—(1) The joint authority shall have power to borrow—
- (a) for the purpose of paying off any moneys previously borrowed by them which are intended to be forthwith repaid ; or
- (b) for the purpose of paying off loans or of redeeming a continuing liability taken over by the joint authority under the Electricity (Supply) Acts, 1882 to 1922 ; or
- (c) in order to replace moneys which during the previous twelve months have been temporarily applied from other funds of the joint authority in repaying moneys previously borrowed in accordance with the Regulations and which at the time of such repayment it was intended to replace by borrowed moneys.

(2) Any moneys borrowed under this Article shall for the purpose of repayment be deemed to form part of the original loan, and shall be repaid within that portion of the period prescribed for the repayment of that loan which remains unexpired and the provisions which are for the time being applicable to the original loan shall apply to the moneys borrowed under this Article.

Provided that the joint authority shall not have power to borrow (except temporarily as provided in the Regulations) for the purpose of making any payment to a sinking fund or of paying any annual or other instalment of principal which has or may become due in respect of borrowed moneys, or in order, to replace any moneys previously borrowed which have been repaid—

(a) by instalments or annual payment ; or

(b) by means of a sinking fund ; or

(c) out of moneys derived from the sale of land ; or

(d) out of any capital moneys properly applicable to the purpose of the repayment other than moneys borrowed for that purpose.

Provided also that the power of reborrowing conferred by this Article shall not be exercised in respect of mortgages issued for a period of less than ten years and that mortgages shall not be issued for a period of less than ten years for reborrowing purposes.

11. The joint authority may from time to time subject to such conditions as the Commissioners may see fit to impose for the purpose of providing temporarily for any current expenses borrow by way of temporary loan or overdraft from any bank or otherwise such sums as they may from time to time require not exceeding in the aggregate at any time one-third of the approximate amount of the revenue of the joint authority for the year then current.

Any amount so borrowed together with the interest thereon shall be repaid out of the revenue of the joint authority received in respect of the financial year in which the expenses were incurred.

The joint authority may until provision can be made for borrowing money on mortgage or in any other manner provided by the Regulations borrow temporarily with the consent of the Commissioners for the purpose of any statutory borrowing power and for a period not exceeding six months any sum or sums from any bank or otherwise on such terms and conditions and in such form as may be agreed and any money so borrowed shall be repaid out of moneys duly borrowed on mortgage or in such other manner as aforesaid.

Except as provided by the Article of the Regulations whereof the marginal note is "Power to issue Bonds" the provisions of the Regulations as to borrowing and the repayment of moneys borrowed shall not apply to advances under this Article.

Application of Money borrowed.

12. All money borrowed by the joint authority shall be applied only to the purposes for which the statutory borrowing power is being exercised and (except in the case of money borrowed under the powers of the last preceding Article) to which capital is properly applicable provided that if after the raising of such money it is found that any part thereof is not required for the purposes to which it is applicable as aforesaid the joint authority shall carry the same to the sinking fund established under the Article of the Regulations of which the marginal note is "Sinking Fund" or apply it in the reduction of moneys already borrowed or in such other manner as the Commissioners may approve.

The joint authority may from time to time invest temporarily in statutory securities any sum raised by borrowing and not for the time being required for the purpose for which it was raised.

Repayment of Money borrowed and Sinking Fund.

13. The joint authority shall make provision for the repayment of all moneys borrowed by them in accordance with the Regulations within such period or periods not exceeding sixty years from the date or dates of the borrowing of the same as the Commissioners shall prescribe (hereinafter referred to as "the prescribed period").

Provided that in the case of money borrowed for the purpose of capital expenditure which will not become immediately remunerative the provision for repayment may with the sanction of the Commissioners be suspended for a period not exceeding five years from the commencement of the financial year next after that in which such expenditure commences to be incurred.

14. The joint authority shall either pay off the moneys borrowed in accordance with the provisions of the Regulations by equal yearly or half-yearly instalments of principal or of principal and interest combined, or they shall set apart as a sinking fund an equal annual sum sufficient without accumulations (hereinafter referred to as a non-accumulating sinking fund) to repay the moneys so borrowed within the prescribed period, or an equal annual sum which if accumulated at compound interest at such rate as may from time to time be approved by the Commissioners (hereinafter referred to as an accumulating sinking fund) would be sufficient to pay off the moneys so borrowed within such period. In the case of an accumulating sinking fund the yearly appropriation from the revenue of the undertaking of the joint authority shall comprise the equal annual sum aforementioned increased by a sum equivalent to interest on the amount from time to time standing to the credit of the fund at the rate per centum per annum on which the aforesaid equal annual sum is based.

Provided that the joint authority may if they think fit pay off the moneys borrowed partly by one of the above methods, and partly by another or others of them, and the payment of the first instalment or the first payment to the sinking fund shall subject to the proviso to the last preceding Article be made within twelve months or when the moneys are repaid by half-yearly instalments within six months from the commencement of the prescribed period.

15.—(1) Every sum paid to a sinking fund shall unless applied in accordance with the Article of the Regulations of which the marginal note is " Application of Sinking Fund " in repayment of the loan in respect of which the sinking fund is formed or in accordance with the Article of the Regulations of which the marginal note is " Use of Sinking Fund instead of borrowing " be immediately invested in statutory securities the joint authority being at liberty from time to time to vary and transpose such investments.

(2) The interest on the investments of the sinking fund shall form part of the revenue of the undertaking of the joint authority and may be applied by the joint authority towards the annual payments to the fund.

(3) Any expenses connected with the formation maintenance investment application management or otherwise of any sinking fund under the Regulations shall be paid by the joint authority in addition to the payments provided for by the Regulations.

(4) If it appear to the joint authority at any time that the amount in or the investments of the sinking fund with the future payments thereto in accordance with the provisions of the Regulations will probably not be sufficient to repay within the prescribed period the moneys for the repayment of which the sinking fund is formed it shall be the duty of the joint authority to make such increased payments to the sinking fund as will cause the sinking fund to be sufficient for that purpose: Provided that if it appear to the Commissioners that any such increase is necessary the joint authority shall increase the payments to such extent as the Commissioners may direct.

(5) If the joint authority desire to accelerate the repayment of any loan they may increase the amounts payable to any sinking fund.

(6) If the amount in or the investments of any sinking fund with the future payments thereto in accordance with the provisions of the Regulations will in the opinion of the Commissioners be more than sufficient to repay within the prescribed period the moneys for the repayment of which the sinking fund is formed the joint authority may reduce the payments to be made to the sinking fund either temporarily or permanently to such an extent as the Commissioners shall approve.

(7) If the amount in or the investments of any sinking fund at any time will in the opinion of the Commissioners be sufficient to repay the loan in respect of which it is formed within the prescribed period the joint authority may with the consent of the Commissioners discontinue the annual payments to such sinking fund until the Commissioners shall otherwise direct.

(8) Any surplus of any sinking fund remaining after the discharge of the whole of the moneys for the repayment of which it was formed shall be applied to such purpose or purposes as the joint authority with the consent of the Commissioners may determine.

16. The joint authority may at any time apply the whole or any part of any sinking fund set apart under the Regulations in or towards the discharge of the moneys for the repayment of which the fund has been established.

Provided that in the case of an accumulating sinking fund they shall pay into the fund each year an additional sum equivalent to the interest which would have been produced by the sinking fund or the part of the sinking fund so applied, if invested at the rate per centum per annum on which the equal annual payments to the sinking fund are based.

17. For the purpose of exercising any statutory borrowing power the joint authority may, with the consent of the Commissioners, instead of raising further moneys in accordance with the Regulations, employ any moneys for the time being standing to the credit of any sinking fund established under the Regulations and may realise and employ the proceeds of the realisation of any securities in which the moneys of any such fund are for the time being invested.

Provided that no such moneys shall be so employed unless provision is made in such manner as the Commissioners approve for replacing the same together with any loss of interest occasioned in any such fund by reason of so employing such moneys at or before the date (if any) at which loans repayable by means of such moneys are required to be repaid.

18.—(1) The clerk shall, if and when he is requested by the Commissioners so to do, transmit to the Commissioners a return showing the provision made for the repayment of money borrowed in accordance with the Regulations.

(2) The return shall show such particulars and shall be made up to such date and in such form as the Commissioners may require, and shall, if so required by them, be verified by statutory declaration of the clerk or other the chief accounting officer of the joint authority, and shall be transmitted within one month after the making of the request; and in the event of his failing to make such return the clerk shall for each offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds to be recovered by the Minister in a court of summary jurisdiction, and notwithstanding the recovery of such penalty the making of the return shall be enforceable by writ of mandamus to be obtained by the Minister out of the High Court.

(3) If it appear to the Commissioners by such a return as aforesaid or otherwise that the joint authority have failed to pay any instalment or annual payment required to be paid or to appropriate any sum required to be appropriated or to set apart any sum required for any sinking fund (whether such instalment or annual payment or sum is required by the Regulations or by the Commissioners in virtue thereof to be paid appropriated or set apart), or have applied any portion of any sinking fund to any purpose other than those authorised the Commissioners shall report the matter to the Minister who may by order direct that the sum in such order mentioned not exceeding the amount in respect of which default has been made shall be paid or applied in the manner and by the date in such order mentioned, and the joint authority shall notify the Minister as soon as the order is complied with, and any such order shall be enforceable by writ of mandamus to be obtained by the Minister out of the High Court.

In the application of this Article to Scotland the words " which shall be recoverable by the Minister as a debt due to the Crown is recoverable " shall be substituted for the words " to be recovered by the Minister in a court of summary jurisdiction " in the second paragraph and the words " by decree of either Division of the Inner House of the Court of Session in Scotland pronounced in a summary application presented for the purpose " shall be substituted for the words " by writ of mandamus to be obtained by the Minister out of the High Court " in the second and third paragraphs.

Registration and Transfers.

19. There shall be kept at the principal office of the joint authority a register of mortgages granted by them and within fourteen days after the date of any such mortgage an entry shall be made in the register of the number and date thereof, and of the names and description of the parties thereto as stated in the mortgage deed. Every such register shall be open to inspection by any mortgagee or other person entitled to any mortgage at the said office, without fee or reward, on such days (Saturdays excepted) as the office is open for public business, and in the event of such inspection being refused, the clerk shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding five pounds.

20. Any mortgagee or other person entitled to any mortgage granted by the joint authority may transfer his estate and interest therein to any other person by deed, duly stamped, truly stating its date and the consideration for the transfer and such transfer may be according to the form contained in the First Schedule to the Regulations or to the like effect.

21.—(1) There shall be kept at the principal office of the joint authority a register of transfers of mortgages granted by the joint authority and within thirty days after the date of every deed of transfer if executed within Great Britain and Northern Ireland, or within thirty days after its arrival in Great Britain and Northern Ireland if executed elsewhere, the same shall be produced to the clerk, who shall on payment of a sum not exceeding five shillings cause an entry to be made in such register of the date of such deed and of the names and description of the parties thereto as stated therein, and until such entry is made the joint authority shall not be in any manner responsible to the transferee.

(2) On the registration of any such transfer the transferee, his executors or administrators shall be entitled to the full benefit of the original mortgage and the principal and interest secured thereby, and any transferee may in like manner transfer his estate and interest in any such mortgage and no person except the last transferee so registered, his executors or administrators, shall be entitled to release or discharge any such mortgage or any moneys secured thereby.

(3) If the clerk wilfully neglects or refuses to make in the register any entry by this Article required to be made, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds.

22. If any such mortgage be transmitted by reason of the bankruptcy of the person entitled thereto there shall be produced to the joint authority official evidence of such bankruptcy and of the vesting of the bankrupt estate in the trustee official assignee or other person to whom such estate shall be transferred.

General.

23. The joint authority may subject to the provisions of the Regulations, and to the approval of the Commissioners, make any arrangement with any banker, firm of bankers or banking company brokers or financial agents with respect to the issue of mortgages, bonds or other securities which the joint authority are authorised to grant or issue the registration and transfer of such securities, the payment of interest on such securities, the keeping of books and other matters incidental to the issue, management, redemption and paying off of such securities. Any such arrangement may provide for the proper remuneration of the banker, firm of bankers or banking company, brokers or financial agents or for the payment of underwriting commission brokerage and other expenses incidental to the issue of such securities as aforesaid.

24. 13.—(1) Subject to the provisions of the principal Acts and the Special Act and the regulations of the Electricity Commissioners, the Undertakers may construct in any street such boxes as may be necessary for purposes in connection with the supply of energy, including apparatus for the proper ventilation of the boxes: Provided that no such box or apparatus shall be placed above ground except with the consent of the authority, body, or person by whom the street is repairable.

(2) Every such box shall be for the exclusive use of the Undertakers and under their sole control, except so far as the Electricity Commissioners otherwise order, and shall be used by the Undertakers only for the purpose of leading off service lines and other distributing conductors, or for examining, testing, regulating, measuring, directing, or controlling the supply of energy, or for examining or testing the condition of the mains or other portions of the works, or for other like purposes connected with the undertaking, and the Undertakers may place therein meters, switches, and any other suitable and proper apparatus for any of the above purposes.

(3) Every such box, including the upper surface or covering thereof, shall be constructed of such materials and shall be constructed and maintained by the Undertakers in such manner as not to be a source of danger, whether by reason of inequality of surface or otherwise.

(4) The local authority may, with the approval of the Electricity Commissioners, prescribe the hours during which the Undertakers are to have access to the boxes, and if the Undertakers during any hours not so prescribed remove or displace or keep removed or displaced the upper surface or covering of any box without the consent of the local authority they shall be liable for each offence to a penalty not exceeding five pounds and to a daily penalty not exceeding five pounds : Provided that the Undertakers shall not be subject to any such penalties as aforesaid if the court are of opinion that the case was one of emergency and that the Undertakers complied with the requirements of this section so far as was reasonable under the circumstances.

Section 14. (Notice of works, with plan, to be served on Postmaster-General and local authority.)

14.—(1) Where the exercise of any of the powers of the Undertakers in relation to the execution of any works (including the construction of boxes) will involve the placing of any works in, under, along, or across any street or public bridge, the following provisions shall have effect :—

(a) One month or in the case of service lines seven days before commencing the execution of the works (not being repairs, renewals, or amendments of existing works of which the character and position are not altered), the Undertakers shall serve a notice upon the Postmaster-General and the local authority describing the proposed works, together with a plan of the works showing the mode and position in which the works are intended to be executed, and the manner in which it is intended that the street or bridge, or any sewer, drain, or tunnel therein or thereunder is to be interfered with, and shall, upon being required to do so by the Postmaster-General or the local authority, give him or them any such further information in relation thereto as he or they desire.

(b) The Postmaster-General or the local authority may, in his or their discretion, approve any such works or plan, subject to such amendments or conditions as may seem fit, or may disapprove them, and may give notice of that approval or disapproval to the Undertakers.

(c) Where the Postmaster-General or the local authority approve any such works or plan subject to any amendments or conditions with which the Undertakers are dissatisfied, or disapprove any such works or plan, the Undertakers may appeal to the Minister of Transport, and the Minister of Transport may inquire into the matter and allow or disallow the appeal, and may approve any such works or plan subject to such amendments or conditions as seem fit, or may disapprove them.

(d) If the Postmaster-General or the local authority fail to give any such notice of approval or disapproval to the Undertakers within one month or in the case of service lines seven days after the service of the notice upon them, he or they shall be deemed to have approved the works and plan.

(e) Notwithstanding anything in the Special Act or the principal Acts, the Undertakers shall not be entitled to execute any such works as above specified except so far as they may be of a description and in accordance with a plan which has been approved, or is to be deemed to have been approved, by the Postmaster-General and the local authority, or by the Minister of Transport as above mentioned; but where any such works, description, and plan are so approved, or to be deemed to be approved, the Undertakers may cause those works to be executed in accordance with the description and plan, subject in all respects to the provisions of the Special Act and the principal Acts.

(f) If the Undertakers make default in complying with any of the requirements or restrictions of this section, they shall (in addition to any other compensation which they may be liable to make under the provisions of the Special Act or the principal Acts) make full compensation to the Postmaster-General and the local authority for any loss or damage which he or they may incur by reason thereof, and in addition thereto they shall be liable for each default to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds and to a daily penalty not exceeding five pounds: Provided that the Undertakers shall not be subject to any such penalty as aforesaid if the court are of opinion that the case was one of emergency and that the Undertakers complied with the requirements of this section so far as was reasonable under the circumstances.

(2) In the application of this section to a street or public bridge (not within a county borough) which is repairable by the county council, a reference to the county council shall be substituted for a reference to the local authority.

(3) Nothing in this section shall exempt the Undertakers from any penalty or obligation to which they may be liable under the Special Act or otherwise by law in the event of any telegraphic line of the Postmaster-General being at any time injuriously affected by the Undertakers' works or their supply of energy.

Section 15. (As to streets not repairable by local authority, railways, tramways, and canals.)

15. Where the exercise of the powers of the Undertakers in relation to the execution of any works will involve the placing of any works in, under, along, or across any street or part of a street not repairable by the local authority (including the county council) or over or under any railway, tramway, or canal, the following provisions shall have effect unless otherwise agreed between the parties interested:—

(a) One month before commencing the execution of the works (not being repairs, renewals, or amendments of existing works of which the character and position are not altered) the Undertakers shall, in addition to any other notices which they may be required to give under the Special Act or the principal Acts, serve a notice upon the body or person (if any) liable to repair the street or part of a street, or the body or person for the time being entitled to work the railway or tramway, or the owners of the canal (as the case may be), in this section referred to as the "owners," describing the proposed works, together with a plan of the works showing the mode and position in which the works are intended to be executed and placed, and shall, upon being required to do so by any such owners, give them any such further information in relation thereto as they desire.

(b) Every such notice shall contain a reference to this section and direct the attention of the owners to whom it is given to the provisions thereof.

(c) Within three weeks after the service of any such notice and plan upon any owners, those owners may, if they think fit, serve a requisition upon the

Undertakers requiring that any question in relation to the works, or to compensation in respect thereof, and any other question arising upon the notice or plan, shall be settled by arbitration; and thereupon that question, unless settled by agreement, shall be determined by arbitration accordingly.

(d) In settling any question under this section an arbitrator shall have regard to any duties or obligations which the owners may be under in respect of the street, railway, tramway, or canal, and may, if he thinks fit, require the Undertakers to execute any temporary or other works so as to avoid any interference with any traffic so far as may be possible.

(e) Where no such requisition as in this section mentioned is served upon the Undertakers, or where after any such requisition has been served upon them any question required to be settled by arbitration has been so settled, the Undertakers may cause to be executed the works specified in such notice and plan as aforesaid, and may repair, renew, and amend them (provided that their character and position are not altered), but subject in all respects to the provisions of the Special Act and the principal Acts and only in accordance with the notice and plan so served by them as aforesaid, or such modifications thereof respectively as may have been determined by arbitration as hereinbefore mentioned or as may be agreed upon between the parties.

(f) All works to be executed by the Undertakers under this section shall be carried out to the reasonable satisfaction of the owners, and those owners shall have the right to be present during the execution of the works.

(g) Where the repair, renewal, or amendment of any existing works of which the character or position is not altered will involve any interference with any railway or with any tramway over or under which those works have been placed, the Undertakers shall, unless it is otherwise agreed between the parties or in case of emergency, give to the owners not less than twenty-four hours' notice before commencing to effect the repair, renewal, or amendment, and the owners shall be entitled by their officer to superintend the works, and the Undertakers shall conform to such reasonable requirements as may be made by the owners or that officer. The notice shall be in addition to any other notices which the Undertakers may be required to give under the Special Act or the principal Acts.

(h) If the Undertakers make default in complying with any of the requirements or restrictions of this section they shall (in addition to any other compensation which they may be liable to make under the provisions of the Special Act or the principal Acts) make full compensation to the owners affected thereby for any loss or damage which they may incur by reason thereof, and in addition thereto they shall be liable for each default to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds and to a daily penalty not exceeding five pounds: Provided that the Undertakers shall not be subject to any such penalty as aforesaid if the court are of opinion that the case was one of emergency and that the Undertakers complied with the requirements of this section so far as was reasonable under the circumstances.

Section 16. (Street authority, etc., may give notice of desire to break up streets, etc., on behalf of Undertakers.)

16. Any body or person for the time being liable to repair any street or part of a street, or entitled to work any railway or tramway which the Undertakers are empowered to break up for the purposes of the Special Act, may, if they think fit, serve a notice upon the Undertakers stating that they desire to exercise or discharge all or any part of any of the powers or duties of the Undertakers as therein specified in relation to the breaking up, filling in, reinstating, or making good any streets, bridges, sewers, drains, tunnels, or other works vested in or under the control or management of that body or person, and may amend or revoke any such notice by another notice similarly served.

Where any such body or person (in this section referred to as the "givers of the notice") have given notice that they desire to exercise or discharge any such specified powers and duties of the Undertakers, then so long as that notice remains in force the following provisions shall have effect unless it is otherwise agreed between the parties interested:—

(a) The Undertakers shall not be entitled to proceed themselves to exercise or discharge any such specified powers or duties as aforesaid except where they have required the givers of the notice to exercise or discharge those powers or duties and the givers of the notice have refused or neglected to comply with that requisition, as hereinafter provided, or in cases of emergency.

(b) In addition to any other notices which they are required to give under the provisions of the Special Act or the principal Acts, the Undertakers shall, not more than four days and not less than two days before the exercise or discharge of any such powers or duties so specified as aforesaid is required to be commenced, serve a requisition upon the givers of the notice stating the time when that exercise or discharge is required to be commenced and the manner in which any such powers or duties are required to be exercised or discharged.

(c) Upon receipt of any such requisition as last aforesaid, the givers of the notice may proceed to exercise or discharge any such powers or duties as required by the Undertakers subject to the like restrictions and conditions, so far as they are applicable, as the Undertakers would themselves be subject to in that exercise or discharge.

(d) If the givers of the notice decline or for twenty-four hours after the time when any such exercise or discharge of any powers or duties is by any requisition required to be commenced neglect to comply with the requisition, the Undertakers may themselves proceed to exercise or discharge the powers or duties therein specified in like manner as they might have done if such notice as aforesaid had not been given to them by the givers of the notice.

(e) In any case of emergency the Undertakers may themselves proceed at once to exercise or discharge so much of any such specified powers or duties as aforesaid as may be necessary for the actual remedying of any defect from which the emergency arises without serving any requisition on the givers of the notice; but in that case the Undertakers shall, within twelve hours after they begin to exercise or discharge such powers or duties as aforesaid, give information thereof in writing to the givers of the notice.

(f) If the Undertakers exercise or discharge any such specified powers or duties as aforesaid otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this section, they shall be liable for each offence to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds and to a daily penalty not exceeding five pounds: Provided that the Undertakers shall not be subject to any such penalties as aforesaid if the court are of opinion that the case was one of emergency and that the Undertakers complied with the requirements of this section so far as was reasonable under the circumstances.

(g) All expenses properly incurred by the givers of the notice in complying with any requisition of the Undertakers under this section shall be repaid to them by the Undertakers and may be recovered summarily.

Provided that nothing in this section shall in any way affect the rights of the Undertakers to exercise or discharge any powers or duties conferred or imposed upon them by the Special Act or the principal Acts in relation to the execution of any works beyond the actual breaking up, filling in, reinstating, or making good any such street or part of a street, or any such bridges, sewers, drains, tunnels, or other works, or railway or tramway as in this section mentioned.

Section 17. (As to alteration of pipes, wires, etc., under streets.)

17. The Undertakers may alter the position of any pipes (except any pipe forming part of any sewer of the local authority) or any wires being under any street or place authorised to be broken up by them which may interfere with the exercise of their powers under the principal Acts or the Special Act; and any body or person may in like manner alter the position of any electric lines or works of the Undertakers being under any such street or place as aforesaid which may interfere with the lawful exercise of any powers vested in that body or person in relation to that street or place, subject to the following provisions unless it is otherwise agreed between the parties interested:—

(a) One month before commencing any such alterations the Undertakers or the body or person (as the case may be), in this section referred to as the "operators," shall serve a notice upon the body or person for the time being entitled to the pipes, wires, electric lines, or works (as the case may be), in this section referred to as the "owners," describing the proposed alterations, together with a plan showing the manner in which it is intended that the alterations shall be made, and shall, upon being required to do so by any such owners, give them any such further information in relation thereto as they may desire.

(b) Within three weeks after the service of any such notice and plan upon any owners those owners may, if they think fit, serve a requisition upon the operators requiring that any question in relation to the works or to compensation in respect thereof or any other question arising upon such notice or plan as aforesaid shall be settled by arbitration; and thereupon that question unless settled by agreement shall be determined by arbitration accordingly.

(c) In settling any question under this section an arbitrator shall have regard to any duties or obligations which the owners may be under in respect of the pipes, wires, electric lines, or works, and may, if he thinks fit, require the operators to execute any temporary or other works so as to avoid interference with any purpose for which the pipes, wires, electric lines, or works are used so far as possible.

(d) Where no such requisition as in this section mentioned is served upon the operators, the owners shall be held to have agreed to the notice of plan served on them as aforesaid, and in that case, or where after any such requisition has been served upon them any question required to be settled by arbitration has been so settled, the operators may cause the alterations specified in such notice and plan as aforesaid to be made, but subject in all respects to the provisions of the principal Acts and the Special Act, and only in accordance with the notice and plan so served by them as aforesaid, or such modifications thereof respectively as may have been determined by arbitration as hereinbefore mentioned or as may be agreed upon between the parties.

(e) At any time before any operators are entitled to commence any such alterations as aforesaid, the owners may serve a statement upon the operators stating that they desire to execute the alterations themselves, and where any such statement has been served upon the operators they shall not be entitled to proceed themselves to execute the alterations except where they have notified to the owners that they require them to execute the alterations and the owners have refused or neglected to comply with the notification as hereinafter provided.

(f) Where any such statement as last aforesaid has been served upon the operators, they shall, not more than forty-eight hours and not less than twenty-four hours before the execution of the alterations is required to be commenced, serve a notification upon the owners stating the time when the alterations are required to be commenced and the manner in which the alterations are required to be made.

(g) Upon receipt of any such notification as last aforesaid, the owners may proceed to execute the alterations as required by the operators subject to the like restrictions and conditions, so far as they are applicable, as the operators would themselves be subject to in executing the alterations.

(h) If the owners decline or for twenty-four hours after the time when any such alterations are required to be commenced neglect to comply with the notification, the operators may themselves proceed to execute the alterations in like manner as they might have done if no such statement as aforesaid had been served upon them.

(i) All expenses properly incurred by any owners in complying with any notification of any operators under this section shall be repaid to them by the operators and may be recovered summarily.

(j) If the operators make default in complying with any of the requirements or restrictions of this section they shall (in addition to any other compensation which they may be liable to make under the provisions of the Special Act or the principal Acts) make full compensation to the owners affected thereby for any loss, damage, or penalty which they may incur by reason thereof, and in addition thereto they shall be liable for each default to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds and to a daily penalty not exceeding five pounds: Provided that the operators shall not be subject to any such penalty as aforesaid if the court are of opinion that the case was one of emergency and that the operators complied with the requirements of this section so far as was reasonable under the circumstances.

Section 18. (Laying of electric lines, etc., near sewers, etc., or gas or water pipes, or other electric lines.)

18.—(1) Where the Undertakers require to dig or sink any trench for laying down or constructing any new electric lines (other than service lines) or other works near to which any sewer, drain, watercourse, defence, or work under the jurisdiction or control of the local authority, or any main, pipe, syphon, electric line or other work belonging to any gas, electric supply or water company has been lawfully placed, or where any gas or water company require to dig or sink any trench for laying down or constructing any new mains or pipes (other than service pipes) or other works near to which any lines or works of the Undertakers have been lawfully placed, the Undertakers or the gas or water company (as the case may be), in this section referred to as the "operators," shall, unless it is otherwise agreed between the parties interested or in case of sudden emergency, give to the local authority or to the gas, electric supply or water company, or to the Undertakers (as the case may be), in this section referred to as the "owners," not less than three days' notice before commencing to dig or sink such trench as aforesaid, and those owners shall be entitled by their officer to superintend the work and the operators shall conform with such reasonable requirements as may be made by the owners or the officer for protecting from injury every such sewer, drain, watercourse, defence, main, pipe, syphon, electric line, or work and for securing access thereto, and they shall also, if required by the owners thereof, repair any damage that may be done thereto.

(2) Where the operators find it necessary to undermine but not alter the position of any pipe, electric line, or work, they shall temporarily support it in position during the execution of their works, and before completion provide a suitable and proper foundation for it where so undermined.

(3) Where the operators (being the Undertakers) lay any electric lines crossing or liable to touch any mains, pipes, lines, or services belonging to any gas, electric supply or water company, the conducting portion of the electric line shall be effectively insulated in a manner approved by the Electricity Commissioners; and the Undertakers shall not, except with the consent of the gas, electric supply, or water company (as the case may be) and of the Electricity Commissioners, lay their electric lines so as to come into contact with any such mains, pipes, lines, or services, or, except with the like consent, employ any such mains, pipes, lines, or services as conductors for the purposes of their supply of energy.

(4) Any question or difference which may arise under this section shall be determined by arbitration.

(5) If the operators make default in complying with any of the requirements of this section they shall make full compensation to all owners affected thereby for any loss, damage, penalty, or costs which they may incur by reason thereof; and in addition thereto they shall be liable for each default to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds and to a daily penalty not exceeding five pounds: Provided that the operators shall not be subject to any such penalty if the court are of opinion that the case was one of emergency and that the operators complied with the requirements of this section so far as was reasonable under the circumstances, or that the default in question was due to the fact that the operators were ignorant of the position of the sewer, drain, watercourse, defence, main, pipe, syphon, electric line, or work affected thereby and that that ignorance was not owing to any negligence on the part of the operators.

(6) For the purposes of this section the expression "gas company" shall mean any body or person lawfully supplying gas; the expression "water company" shall mean any body or person lawfully supplying water or water power; and the expression "electric supply company" shall mean any body or person other than the Undertakers supplying energy in pursuance of the principal Acts.

Section 19. (For protection of railway and canal companies.)

Modified for incorporation as follows:—

19. In the exercise of any of the powers of the Special Act relating to the execution of works, the Undertakers shall not in any way injure the railways, tunnels, arches, works, or conveniences belonging to any railway or canal company nor obstruct or interfere with the working of the traffic passing along any railway or canal.

Section 20. (For protection of telegraphic and telephonic wires.)

20.—(1) The Undertakers shall take all reasonable precautions in constructing, laying down, and placing their electric lines and other works of all descriptions and in working their undertaking so as not injuriously to affect, whether by induction or otherwise, the working of any wire or line used for the purpose of telegraphic, telephonic, or electric signalling communication or electrical control of railways, or the currents in that wire or line, whether that wire or line be or be not in existence at the time of the laying down or placing of the electric lines or other works.

If any question arises between the Undertakers and the owner of any such wire or line as to whether the Undertakers have constructed, laid down or placed their electric lines or other works or worked their undertaking in contravention of this sub-section and as to whether the working of that wire or line or the current therein is or is not injuriously affected thereby, that question shall be determined by arbitration; and the arbitrator (unless he is of opinion that the wire or line not having been so in existence at such time as aforesaid has been placed in unreasonable proximity to the electric lines or works of the Undertakers) may direct the Undertakers to make any alterations in, or additions to their system so as to comply with the provisions of this section, and the Undertakers shall make those alterations or additions accordingly.

(2) Seven days before commencing to lay down or place any electric line or to use any electric line in any manner whereby the work of telegraphic or telephonic or electric signalling communication or electrical control of railways through any wire or line lawfully laid down or placed in any position may be injuriously affected, the Undertakers shall, unless otherwise agreed between the parties interested give to the owner of the wire or line notice in writing specifying the course, nature, and gauge of the electric line and the manner in which the electric line is intended to be used, and the amount and nature of the currents intended to be transmitted thereby, and the extent to and manner in which (if at all) earth returns are proposed to be used; and any owner entitled to receive that notice may serve a requisition on the Undertakers requiring them to adopt such precautions as may be therein specified in regard to the laying, placing or user of the electric line for the purpose of preventing the injurious affection; and the Undertakers shall conform with such reasonable requirements as may be made by the owner for the purpose of preventing the communication through the wire or line from being injuriously affected as aforesaid.

If any difference arises between any such owner and the Undertakers with respect to the reasonableness of any requirement so made, that difference shall be determined by arbitration.

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to repairs or renewals of any electric line so long as the course, nature, and gauge of the electric line and the amount and nature of the current transmitted thereby are not altered.

(3) If in any case the Undertakers make default in complying with the requirements of this section, they shall make full compensation to every such owner as aforesaid for any loss or damage which he may incur by reason thereof, and in addition thereto they shall be liable for each default to a penalty not exceeding five pounds and to a daily penalty not exceeding forty shillings. Provided that the Undertakers shall not be subject to any such penalty as aforesaid if the court are of opinion that the case was one of emergency and that the Undertakers complied with the requirements of this section so far as was reasonable under the circumstances, or that the default was due to the fact that the Undertakers were ignorant of the position of the wire or line affected thereby and that that ignorance was not owing to any negligence on the part of the Undertakers.

(4) Nothing in this section contained shall be held to deprive any owner of any existing rights to proceed against the Undertakers by indictment, action, or otherwise in relation to any of the matters aforesaid.

OVERHEAD LINE REGULATIONS, DATED 16TH APRIL, 1928, FOR SECURING THE SAFETY OF THE PUBLIC, MADE BY THE ELECTRICITY COMMISSIONERS UNDER THE ELECTRICITY (SUPPLY) ACTS, 1882 TO 1926.

DEFINITION.

In the following Regulations the expression " line conductors " means conductors used for transmitting a supply of electrical energy, including so much of any service line as may be under the control of the undertakers.

I.—GENERAL.

Material of Line Conductors.

1. Line conductors shall be of copper, aluminium, or such other materials as may be approved by the Electricity Commissioners.

Strength of Line Conductors.

2. All line conductors at the time of erection shall comply, as regards elongation, breaking load and elasticity, with the specification of the British Engineering Standards Association then in force.

Minimum Size of Line Conductor.

3. The minimum permissible size for copper and other line conductors (other than service lines) shall be such as to have an actual breaking load of not less than 1,237 pounds, the equivalent minimum cross-sectional area and weight per mile for copper being as follows :—

Conductor.	Cross-sectional area.	Weight per mile.
	sq. ins.	lbs.
No. 8 S.W.G. . . .	0·0201	409

The minimum permissible size of service line shall be such as to have an actual breaking load of not less than 816 pounds, the equivalent minimum cross-sectional area and weight per mile for copper being as follows :—

Conductor.	Cross-sectional area.	Weight per mile.
	sq. ins.	lbs.
No. 10 S.W.G. . . .	0·0129	262

Line Conductors to be Inaccessible.

4. Line conductors shall be rendered inaccessible to any person from any building or other place without the use of a ladder or other special appliance.

Regard shall be had to the normal use by the occupier of any premises or land and where necessary (a) the height of the line conductors shall be increased to provide sufficient clearance for safety in accordance with such use, and (b) provision as hereinafter prescribed in Regulations 14 or 17 shall be made to prevent danger.

Line Conductors Crossing other Lines.

5. Where a line conductor crosses over or under, or is in proximity to any other overhead wire, precautions shall be taken by the undertakers to prevent contact, due to breakage or otherwise, between the line conductor and the other overhead wire, or between the other wire and the line conductor.

Provided that this Regulation shall not be deemed to require the undertakers to take precautions against contact between a broken line conductor and other auxiliary conductors and earth wires carried on the same support and forming part of the same overhead line.

Supports.

6. Line conductors shall be attached to suitable insulators carried on supports of wood, iron, steel, or reinforced concrete. All wooden supports other than oak or hard wood cross-arms shall unless otherwise approved by the Electricity Commissioners be of red fir impregnated with creosote. Special precautions shall be taken to prevent the corrosion of all metal work at or below the surface of the ground.

Factor of Safety of Supports.

7. The supports, in conjunction with stays or struts if provided, shall withstand the longitudinal, transverse, and vertical loads due to the ice loadings and wind pressure hereinafter specified without damage and without movement in the ground. In no case shall the strength of a support in the direction of the overhead line be less than one-quarter the required strength in a direction transverse to the line.

The following factors of safety shall apply to each support:—

Material.	Factor of Safety.
Iron or steel	2·5
Wood	3·5
Reinforced concrete . .	3·5

These factors of safety shall be calculated on the assumption that all line conductors, cables, and wires carried by the supports are at a temperature of 22° F., and have a covering of ice to the radial thickness specified in Regulation 12 (or Regulation 15 according to the voltage) and that together with the supports they are subjected to a wind of fifty miles per hour at right angles to the line, this wind to be taken as exerting a pressure equivalent to 8 pounds per square foot calculated on the whole of the projected area.

The wind pressure on the lee side members of lattice steel or other compound structures, including A and H Poles, shall be taken as one-half of the wind pressure on the windward side members. The factor of safety shall be calculated on the crippling load of struts and upon the elastic limit of tension members.

Service Lines.

8. Service lines shall be connected to line conductors at a point of support only and shall be fixed to insulators on consumers' premises. Every part of a service line (other than a neutral conductor connected with earth) which is accessible from a building with the use of a ladder or other special appliance shall be efficiently protected either by insulating material or by other means approved by the Electricity Commissioners.

Erection of Line Conductors at different Voltages on same Supports.

9. Where line conductors forming parts of systems at different voltages are erected on the same poles or supports adequate provision shall be made to guard against danger to linesmen and from the lower voltage system being charged above its normal voltage by leakage from or contact with the higher voltage system; and the type of construction shall be subject to the prior approval of the Electricity Commissioners.

Inspection and Maintenance of Lines.

10. Every overhead line, including its supports and structural parts, and electrical appliances and devices belonging to or connected therewith, shall be regularly inspected and efficiently maintained.

Materials Used.

11. All materials used shall at the time of erection conform to the specifications of the British Engineering Standards Association and to the Post Office Technical Instructions for the construction of aerial lines for the time being in force, so far as the same are applicable and are not inconsistent with these Regulations.

II.—SPECIFIC REGULATIONS.

[Applicable according to the voltage between line conductors where no part of the system is connected with earth, or according to the voltage to earth where part of the system is connected with earth.]

A. For voltages not exceeding 650 volts direct current and 325 volts alternating current.

Factor of Safety of Line Conductors.

12. The factor of safety of line conductors shall be 2. The factor of safety shall be based on the breaking load and shall be calculated on the assumption that the line conductors are at a temperature of 22° F. and have a covering of ice to a radial thickness of three-sixteenths of an inch, and that they are simultaneously subjected to a wind of 50 miles per hour at right angles to the line, this wind to be taken as exerting a pressure equivalent to 8 pounds per square foot calculated on the whole of the projected area of the ice-covered lines.

The weight of ice is to be taken as 57 pounds per cubic foot.

The elasticity of the metal may be allowed for in calculating the sag for line conductors.

Minimum Height of Conductors.

13. The height from the ground of any line conductor (other than a service line), earth wire, or auxiliary conductor at any point of the span at a temperature of 122° F. shall not, except with the consent of the Electricity Commissioners, be less than 19 feet across a public road or 17 feet in other positions. A height of 15 feet may be adopted in situations inaccessible to vehicular traffic.

Where a service line is carried across or along a carriage-way, the height of the line from the ground at any part of the carriage-way shall not, except with the consent of the Electricity Commissioners, be less than 19 feet and 17 feet respectively.

Provision to Prevent Danger.

14. Where the voltage to earth exceeds 250 volts direct current or 125 volts alternating current, precautions should be taken to prevent danger—

(1) from a broken line conductor by the provision of—

(a) a neutral or earthed conductor carried continuously from pole to pole, and so arranged in relation to the other conductors that in the event of breakage of any one of them the line conductor shall make contact with the earthed wire; or

(b) other means approved by the Electricity Commissioners.

(2) from leakage by the provision—
- (a) in cases where metal poles are used, of
  - (i) an earthed wire, running from pole to pole and connected to the poles; or
  - (ii) a suitable metal framework to support the insulators carrying the line conductors, the framework being insulated from the pole but connected to the neutral conductor; or
  - (iii) other means approved by the Electricity Commissioners.
- (b) in cases where wooden poles are used, of
  - (i) a bonding wire connected to the supporting metal-work of all insulators, the bonding wire terminating at the lowest part of the supporting metal-work; or
  - (ii) other means approved by the Electricity Commissioners.

Where lightning conductors are used or other uninsulated conductors are run down wooden poles to within 10 feet from the ground, the precautions for the prevention of danger from leakage shall be as for metal poles.

All stay wires other than those which are connected with earth by means of a continuous earth wire shall be insulated to prevent danger from leakage. For this purpose an insulator shall be placed in each stay wire at a height of not less than 10 feet from the ground.

B. For voltages exceeding 650 volts direct current and 325 volts alternating current.

Factor of Safety of Line Conductors.

15. The factor of safety of line conductors shall be 2. The factor of safety shall be based on the breaking load and shall be calculated on the assumption that the line conductors are at a temperature of 22° F., and have a covering of ice to a radial thickness of three-eighths of an inch, and that they are simultaneously subjected to a wind of 50 miles per hour at right angles to the line, this wind to be taken as exerting a pressure equivalent to 8 pounds per square foot calculated on the whole of the projected area of the ice-covered lines.

The weight of ice is to be taken as 57 pounds per cubic foot.

The elasticity of the metal may be allowed for in calculating the sag for line conductors.

Minimum Height of Conductors.

16. The height from the ground of any line conductor at any point on the span at a temperature of 122° F. shall not, except with the consent of the Electricity Commissioners, be less than the height hereunder stated:—

Voltages not exceeding 66,000 volts.	20 feet.
Voltages exceeding 66,000 volts and not exceeding 110,000 volts.	21 feet.
Voltages exceeding 110,000 volts and not exceeding 165,000 volts.	22 feet.
Voltages exceeding 165,000 volts.	23 feet.

The height from the ground of an earth wire or auxiliary conductor shall not be less than the minimum heights prescribed in Regulation 13.

Provision to Prevent Danger.

17. Adequate means shall be provided to render any line conductor dead in the event of it falling due to breakage or otherwise.

All metal work other than conductors shall be permanently and efficiently connected with earth. For this purpose a continuous earth wire shall be provided and connected with earth at four points in every mile, the spacing between the points being as nearly equidistant as possible, or, alternatively, the metal work shall be connected to an effective earthing device at each individual support. The design and construction of the system of earth connections shall be such that when contact is made between a line conductor and metal connected with earth the resulting leakage current shall not be less than twice the leakage current required to operate the devices which make the line dead.

Road Crossings, etc.

18. Where an overhead line is erected along or across a public road or canal or across a railway all wires including earth wires and auxiliary conductors shall be placed at the appropriate height from the ground specified in Regulation 16 for line conductors, and the following additional precautions shall be taken to prevent danger:—

(1) In the case of a line erected along a public road or canal (or within 50 feet thereof) there shall be provided—

(a) duplicate insulators supporting the conductors; or

(b) a device to ensure that in the event of a line conductor falling it shall be put to earth; or

(c) other means approved by the Electricity Commissioners.

(2) In the case of a line erected across a public road, canal, or railway there shall be provided—

(a) duplicate insulators for supporting the line conductor and a device to ensure that in the event of a line conductor falling it shall be put to earth; or

(b) duplicate insulators supporting duplicate conductors tied at intervals not exceeding 5 feet; or

(c) other means approved by the Electricity Commissioners.

Danger Notices.

19. Supports shall be numbered consecutively and each support shall have a danger notice of a permanent character securely fixed to it. Adequate provision shall also be made to prevent unauthorised climbing.

These Regulations are made subject to the power of the Electricity Commissioners to make such further or other Regulations as they may think expedient and shall apply to any overhead lines erected by authorised undertakers:

Provided that these Regulations shall not apply to any overhead lines in existence at the date hereof and constructed and maintained by authorised undertakers under and in accordance with the provisions of any prior Regulations for overhead lines made by the Board of Trade or the Electricity Commissioners.

ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE, DATED DECEMBER 20TH, 1882 (a), IMPOSING CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT IN CASES OF SPECIAL EXCEPTIONS.

Whereas the Factory and Workshop Act, 1878 (b), part 2, section 63, provides as follows :—

MINISTRY OF HEALTH, WHITEHALL, S.W.1.
October 2, 1921.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to forward for the information of the local authority, copies of the Ministry of Health (Factories and Workshops Transfer of Powers) Order, 1921, made under the Ministry of Health Act, by which the powers and duties of the Secretary of State, under the undermentioned sections of the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901, are transferred to the Minister of Health, namely:—

Section 61.—Prohibition of employment of women after childbirth.
Sections 97–100.—Provisions relating to bakehouses.
Section 109.—Making of wearing apparel where there is scarlet fever or smallpox.
Section 110.—Prohibition of homework where there is infectious disease.

PROHIBITION OF EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN AFTER CHILDBIRTH.

Section 61 of the Act provides that the occupier of a factory or workshop shall not knowingly allow a woman or girl to be employed therein within four weeks after she has given birth to a child. This section is extended to laundries by section 103 of the Act.

The Minister trusts that local authorities administering maternity and child welfare schemes will assist occupiers of factories, workshops, and laundries in observing the provisions of this section, so far as they are in a position to do so. He would be glad if all local authorities would in the future communicate with this department on any points which may arise under this section.

BAKEHOUSES.

It seems to the Minister that the enforcement of the provisions relating to bakehouses can better be undertaken locally than centrally, especially as the work is of the same character as that at present performed by the sanitary staff of local authorities in relation to retail bakehouses under section 102 of the Act of 1901.

The actual amount of additional work involved will be very small, as it is believed that the number of wholesale bakehouses in England and Wales is less than two thousand.

In addition to their duties in relation to retail bakehouses under section 102, local authorities are also charged with the certification of underground bakehouses under section 101. Under section 98 the authority have concurrent powers with the factory inspector to undertake a prosecution in the case of a bakehouse which is unsuitable on sanitary grounds. The Minister understands that the power of prosecution under this section has in the past been mainly exercised by the factory inspector, but he suggests that in future it should be wholly exercised by the local authority. Local authorities have no specific powers of enforcement in regard to sections 97, 99 and 100, but it is suggested that where an offence is committed under any of these sections, and the defect is not remedied at the suggestion of the authority, proceedings could usually be undertaken under the general terms of section 98. In any case, where this cannot be done, the Minister would be glad if the facts were referred to him.

Reference may also be made to section 125 under which the local authority and their officers have all necessary powers of entry, inspection, etc.

HOMEWORK IN INFECTED PREMISES.

The powers and duties of local authorities under sections 109 and 110, relating to homework in premises where there is infectious disease are not affected by the transfer to the Minister of jurisdiction in regard to these sections, and there is no alteration of the classes of work to which the sections have hitherto applied.

The Minister considers it desirable, however, to draw the attention of the local authorities to the provisions of sub-section 5 of section 110 under which the section may be applied by special order of the Secretary of State (now the Minister of Health) to other classes of work besides those specified in the sub-section, and to Article 2 of the Homework Order of the 10th April, 1911, which applied the sub-section to various classes of work in addition to those specified therein.

The attention of the medical officer of health should be drawn to the provisions of the Order, and it is requested that the duplicate copy of the Order and of this Circular may be handed to him.

I am, etc.

   (ii) " Appeal " means an appeal under section 10 (8) of the Act.

   (iii) " Appellant" means a serving or retired professional fireman who gives notice to the local authority of his desire to appeal under section 10 (8) of the Act.

(iv) "The local authority" means the local authority on whose behalf a serving or retired professional fireman is examined by a medical practitioner for the purposes of section 10 of the Act, and includes any officer authorised by the local authority to act on their behalf in the matters referred to therein.

2. Every opinion given by the medical practitioner selected by the local authority on any question referred to him under section 10 of the Act shall be stated in writing; and if the serving or retired professional fireman to whom the opinion relates applies, within 14 days of his being informed of the decision of the local authority, for a copy of that opinion, it shall be supplied to him by the local authority; and he shall be entitled to appeal against the opinion so given, if, within 14 days after the copy of the opinion has been sent to him, or such longer period as the local authority may fix, he gives notice in writing to the local authority of his desire to appeal. Any such notice shall be accompanied by a written statement of the grounds on which he desires to appeal against the opinion of the medical practitioner.

3. On receipt of such notice and statement, the local authority shall within 7 days forward to the Secretary of State two copies thereof and of the opinion which is the subject of the appeal, with particulars of the name of the appellant and the place where he resides.

4. When a referee has been nominated by the Secretary of State to act for the purposes of the appeal and has received from the Secretary of State copies of the documents referred to in the preceding paragraph, he shall as soon as may be appoint a time and place for proceeding with the consideration of the appeal, and shall send notice thereof in writing to the local authority and to the appellant.

Provided that where the referee is satisfied that the appellant is unable to travel, the place appointed shall be that at which the appellant resides.

5. The appellant and the local authority, on receipt of notice of the appointment of the referee, may forward to him in writing any further statements relative to the subject of the appeal which they may respectively desire to submit, and any such statements, if received by the referee before the appointed date, shall be considered by him. Where any such statements are forwarded to the referee a copy thereof shall at the same time be supplied by the local authority to the appellant, or by the appellant to the local authority, as the case may be.

6.—(a) It shall be the duty of the appellant to attend at the time and place appointed and, if he is a serving professional fireman, he shall be given such leave as may be necessary to enable him to attend. He shall submit himself to any medical examination which the referee may desire to make or may direct to be made.

(b) The medical practitioner whose opinion is the subject of the appeal, or any other duly qualified medical practitioner selected by the local authority, and a duly qualified medical practitioner chosen by the appellant may also attend.

7. In the event of failure of the appellant to attend at the time and place appointed, the referee may forthwith decide on the matter referred to him upon such information as shall then be available: provided that where the absence of the appellant is shown to the satisfaction of the referee to be unavoidable he shall, and on any other grounds he may at his discretion, adjourn the proceedings and resume them at such time and place as he may appoint, giving due notice to the local authority and to the appellant.

8. The referee shall notify his decision in writing to the local authority and to the appellant.

9. For the purposes of any appeal to which these Rules apply, the referee shall be entitled to fees and allowances as follows:—

(a) For deciding on the question referred to him in the appeal and for all duties performed in connection therewith, three guineas:

(b) Where for the purposes of the appeal the referee is compelled to travel to a place distant more than two miles from his residence, in addition to the above fee, five shillings for each mile beyond two, and up to ten, miles distant from such residence, and thereafter one shilling for each mile distant therefrom:

(c) The amount of any fees or expenses incurred by him with the approval of the Secretary of State in respect of any expert assistance which, in a case involving special difficulty, he may consider it necessary to obtain.

10.—(a) Except as hereinafter provided, all fees and allowances payable to the referee who acts for the purposes of the appeal and all expenses of the medical practitioner whose opinion is the subject of the appeal or of any other duly qualified medical practitioner selected by the local authority shall be paid by the local authority out of the fire brigade pension fund; and all expenses incurred by the appellant in attending before the referee at the time and place appointed and all fees or expenses of any medical practitioner chosen by the appellant shall be paid by the appellant.

(b) Where the referee decides in favour of the local authority, the local authority may, unless the referee otherwise directs, require the appellant to pay towards the costs of the appeal such sum as they may think fit, not exceeding the total amount of any fees and allowances payable by the local authority to the referee in respect of the appeal, and such sum shall be recoverable from him by the local authority, and may, if the local authority so direct, be deducted from any pay or pension due or which may become due to him. Any such sum shall be paid into the fire brigade pension fund.

(c) Where the referee decides in favour of the appellant, the local authority shall, unless the referee otherwise directs, refund to the appellant a sum equal to the amount of any personal expenses actually and reasonably incurred by him in respect of his attendance before the referee and, if a medical practitioner chosen by him has attended before the referee, the amount of any reasonable fees and expenses paid by the appellant in respect of such attendance: and any such sum shall be paid out of the fire brigade pension fund.

(d) If any question arises whether the decision is in favour of the local authority or of the appellant, it shall be determined by the referee.

(e) Where no fire brigade pension fund is established by the local authority, the payments directed in paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of this rule to be made into or out of the fire brigade pension fund shall be made into or out of the district or other fund from which the expenses of the fire brigade are defrayed.

11. These Rules shall have effect as from the 1st April, 1926.

(g) The expression " public laying " includes any laying which is not a private laying;

(h) The expression " the persons interested " means the persons interested in the laying or in the collection of shell-fish therefrom.

ARTICLE II.—(1) In any case in which the medical officer of health of a local authority is in possession of information that any person is suffering, or has recently suffered, from infectious or other disease attributable to shell-fish, or that the consumption of shell-fish exposed for sale within the district is likely to cause danger to public health, he shall take all such steps as are practicable to ascertain the laying or layings from which such suspected shell-fish were derived, and shall report thereon to the local authority.

(2) The local authority may require any fishmonger supplying shell-fish in the district to furnish to the medical officer of health, within a reasonable time fixed by them, a list of all the layings, so far as, with the exercise of due diligence, he can ascertain them, from which his supply of shell-fish is derived or has been derived during the six weeks last preceding the date of the requirement, together with any information in his possession which will assist the medical officer of health in ascertaining the particular laying or layings from which the suspected shell-fish were derived, and, if the supply or any part of it is obtained through any other fishmonger, may make a similar requisition upon that fishmonger, and a fishmonger on whom such a requisition is made shall comply with the requisition.

ARTICLE III.—The local authority shall, on receipt of the report of the medical officer of health, if the laying or layings from which the suspected shell-fish were derived has or have been ascertained and if the laying or layings is or are not situate in their district, make a representation to the local authority or local authorities of the district or districts in which the laying or layings is or are situate, and such representation shall be accompanied by a copy of the report of the medical officer of health, and by any other information which may be in the possession of the local authority indicating possible danger to the public health from the consumption of the shell-fish in question.

ARTICLE IV.—(1) In the case of a public laying the local authority of the district in which the laying is situate shall forthwith, on receipt of such a representation as is referred to in Article III. of these regulations, or, if the laying is situate in their own district, on receipt of the report of their medical officer of health,referred to in subdivision (1) of Article II. of these regulations, give to the persons interested notice to appear before them, within such time not less than twenty-one days as may be specified in the notice, to show cause why an order should not be made prohibiting, as the circumstances may require, the distribution for sale for human consumption of shell-fish brought from the laying, unless the shell-fish have been relaid for such period as the local authority, on the advice of their medical officer of health, may direct.

(2) The notice shall be given by advertisement published in each of two successive weeks in one or more local newspapers circulating in the district, and a copy of the notice shall be served, either personally or by post, upon every person known to the local authority to be interested in the laying referred to in the notice.

(3) If in the opinion of the local authority sufficient cause is not shown why an order should not be made by the local authority, then the local authority shall forthwith make such order as the circumstances require.

ARTICLE V.—In the case of a private laying the local authority of the district in which the laying is situate shall forthwith, on receipt of such a representation as is referred to in Article III. of these regulations, or, if the laying is situate in their own district, on receipt of the report of the medical officer of health referred to in subdivision (1) of Article II. of these regulations, communicate with the owner and occupier thereof, and if the owner or other the occupier is able and willing to give to the local authority an undertaking that he will forthwith carry out their requirements for dealing with the shell-fish taken from the laying or for prohibiting the taking of shell-fish therefrom and that he will not permit shell-fish to be taken therefrom otherwise than in accordance with such requirements, the local authority may accept the undertaking so given.

If such an undertaking is not given and sufficient cause is not shown why an order should not be made by the local authority, then the local authority shall forthwith make such order as the circumstances require.

ARTICLE VI.—(1) If the local authority of the district in which the laying is situate shall, on receipt of such a representation as is referred to in Article III. of these regulations, fail to give the notice provided for in Article IV. or to communicate with the owner and occupier as provided in Article V., as the case may be, or if after compliance with those Articles they shall refuse to make an order, then the local authority making the representation may appeal to us within fourteen days after the date of such refusal or after a period of six weeks has elapsed from the date of their representation without an assurance that the notice has been given or the communication made, and if, after such inquiry into the circumstances as we may deem necessary, we are satisfied that an order should be made, we may require the local authority of the district in which the laying is situate to make such order in the matter as we may think fit.

(2) For the purposes of this Article it shall be the duty of the local authority of the district in which the laying is situate forthwith to inform the local authority making the representation of their refusal to make an order.

ARTICLE VII.—A local authority shall, with as little delay as possible, inform us and the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries of any action taken under these regulations, and, when action has been taken by a local authority in whose district a laying is situate as a result of a representation from the local authority of another district, the like information shall be supplied to that local authority.

ARTICLE VIII.—(1) As soon as practicable after an Order under these regulations is made the local authority making the Order shall cause a copy of the Order to be served, either personally or by post, upon every person known to the local authority to be interested in the laying referred to in the order if the laying is a public laying, and on the owner, if any, and on the occupier, if any, if the laying referred to in the order is a private laying.

(2) The Order shall come into operation on the expiration of seven days from the date of compliance with subdivision (1) of this Article.

(3) As soon as practicable after the Order has come into operation the local authority shall, if the laying is a public laying—

(a) publish the Order in one or more local newspapers circulating in the district; and

(b) cause warning notices containing a copy of the order or a sufficient statement of its terms and printed in easily legible type to be posted in conspicuous places in the vicinity of the laying.

If the laying is a private laying the local authority may publish the order and cause warning notices to be posted if they consider it to be necessary or expedient.

ARTICLE IX.—(1) If at any time the local authority are satisfied that the conditions of the laying have so changed that any order may be withdrawn without prejudice to the public health, the local authority shall forthwith withdraw the Order and shall send a statement of the reasons for the withdrawal to us, and to the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries, and to the local authority of any district that has made a representation with regard to the laying in respect of which the order was made.

(2) In the event of an appeal being made under Article XI. of these regulations against the refusal of the local authority to withdraw the order, the order shall continue to be operative until and unless it is varied or withdrawn by us.

ARTICLE X.—(1) Where an order has been made by a local authority under these regulations and has come into operation, any person who for human consumption sells, or exposes, distributes, or offers for sale or has in his possession for the purposes of sale, contrary to the order, shell-fish brought from the laying shall be deemed to be acting in contravention of these regulations.

(2) Before proceedings are instituted against any person for a contravention of these regulations, the local authority shall afford him an opportunity of furnishing an explanation, in writing or otherwise, as they may appoint, and shall duly consider any such explanation, and all the circumstances of the case.

(3) A person shall not be liable under this Article if he did not know and could not with reasonable diligence have ascertained that the shell-fish in question were derived from a laying which had been the subject of an order made under these regulations.

ARTICLE XI.—(1) Any of the persons interested may appeal to us against an Order other than an Order made in pursuance of subdivision (1) of Article VI. of these regulations, within fourteen days after the date of compliance with subdivision (1) of Article VIII. of these regulations, or may after the expiration of that period appeal against the refusal of the local authority to withdraw such Order; and we may appoint an officer to hear the appeal and to report to us thereon, and may at any stage require the appellant to pay to us such sums as we deem right to secure the payment of any costs incurred by us in the matter of the appeal, and may confirm, vary, or withdraw the Order, and may direct to and by whom the costs of the appeal (including any sum paid or payable to us as aforesaid) are to be paid.

(2) The said officer shall, for the purposes of the appeal, have all the powers of an inspector of the Local Government Board under section 296 of the Public Health Act, 1875.

ARTICLE XII.—These regulations shall come into operation on the first day of March, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, and may be cited as the Public Health (Shell-fish) Regulations, 1915.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD, WHITEHALL, S.W.
February 17*th*, 1915.

PUBLIC HEALTH (SHELL-FISH) REGULATIONS, 1915.

SIR,—I am directed by the Local Government Board to transmit to you the accompanying copies of an Order which they have issued in pursuance of the Public Health (Regulations as to Food) Act, 1907 (7 Edw. 7, c. 32), containing regulations prohibiting the sale of shell-fish likely to cause danger to public health.

Numerous representations have been made by local authorities to the Board to the effect that further powers are required to prevent danger to health from the consumption of shell-fish which have been grown or fattened in polluted waters, and these were submitted to the royal commission on sewage disposal. The commissioners stated in their fourth report that they were satisfied, after carefully considering the whole of the evidence on the point, that a considerable number of cases of enteric fever and of other illness were caused by the consumption of shell-fish which had been exposed to sewage contamination, and they made certain recommendations for preventing the sale of polluted shell-fish for human consumption.

Opportunity has not yet arisen for altering the law in the way recommended by the commission, and the present Order has been made with a view to the provision of an alternative procedure under powers which the Board already possess. In framing the regulations the Board have taken the opportunity of consulting the Fishmongers' Company, and several suggestions made by the Company have been incorporated in the Order.

Machinery is provided by the regulations for the closing of shell-fish layings in regard to which there is evidence to show that shell-fish from such layings have actually caused infectious or other disease, or are likely to be a source of danger to public health. The power to close layings is vested by the Order in the sanitary authority of the district in which the layings are situated, and a right of appeal to the Board is provided for in the particular cases specified in Articles VI. and XI. of the regulations.

It will be seen that the sanitary authority of the district in which the layings are situated are required to take action on receipt of a representation from another local authority, in whose district the shell-fish are consumed, indicating that the shell-fish have caused or are likely to cause infectious or other disease, or, on the report of their own medical officer of health, if such shell-fish are found in their own district.

Apart from any representation from another district, the medical officer of health of every district in which shell-fish are laid should examine the conditions of the layings in his district and should report to the local authority any cases in which the layings are so situated as to be liable to dangerous contamination, with a view to steps being taken under the regulations to prevent shell-fish being distributed for sale for human consumption from such layings unless the shell-fish have been relaid in fresh water for a period sufficient to free them from contamination. The Appendix II. Board are advised that, as a general rule, the period of relaying required to rid shell-fish of micro-organisms should not be less than a fortnight.

In this connection I am directed to say that the Board consider it of great importance that any action taken with a view to the closing of a laying should be based rather on epidemiological and topographical considerations than on the results of bacteriological analysis. On this point it may be well to refer to the findings of the commissioners on sewage disposal, who in paragraph 64 of their fourth report state that in their opinion they would not be justified in recommending "that the closing of a foreshore, laying or pond should depend, as a matter of routine, on the results of a bacteriological examination." I am also to direct your attention to the following extract from that report:—

> "65. It will be seen from the evidence of Dr. Bulstrode and others that in the great majority of the cases in which outbreaks of disease have been clearly traced to shell-fish, the foreshores, layings or ponds from which the shell-fish have been procured have been so situated that the opportunities of pollution by sewage have been obvious and indisputable. That is to say, the foreshores, layings or ponds in question were such as would have been condemned on a careful examination by a trained person without the aid of bacteriological examination of the water or the shell-fish.
> "Having regard to the number of such foreshores, layings and ponds obviously liable to pollution which Dr. Bulstrode has noted in England and Wales, and Dr. Browne in Ireland, we think that in the light of experience we are justified in concluding that, if those were closed, or else freed from chance of pollution, the greater number of cases of disease due to the consumption of contaminated shell-fish would be eliminated."

The regulations will take effect from the 1st day of March, 1915. The Board are anxious to secure uniformity in the administration of the regulations, and will be glad to have their attention drawn to any cases of difficulty which may arise.

A copy of the Order and of this circular are enclosed for transmission to the medical officer of health.

The Order and this circular will be placed on sale so that additional copies may shortly be obtained, either directly or through any bookseller, from Messrs. Wyman and Sons, Limited, 29, Bream's Buildings, Fetter Lane, London, E.C.

7.—(1) The medical officer of health may examine any article of food which has been landed within the district, and where the circumstances, in his opinion, so require, he may examine an article of food while it is on board a ship within the district, or after it has been delivered overside, and before it has been landed.

9.—(1) If, on examination, the medical officer of health is of opinion that an article of food is diseased or unsound or unwholesome, or unfit for human consumption, he may himself, or by an assistant, seize and carry away the article of food and apply to a justice to deal with the same under Article 15 or he may by a notice in writing to the importer, or to the master of the ship, or to any other person having charge of the article of food, require that, until it has been dealt with by a justice, it shall not, without the permission of the medical officer of health, be removed from the place of examination or from any other place specified in the notice.

(2) Neither the importer nor the master of the ship, nor any other person shall, without the permission of the medical officer of health, remove an article of food in relation to which a notice has been given in pursuance of this article from the place at which the medical officer of health has examined it, or such other place as is specified in the notice, until it has been dealt with by a justice, and such justice has authorised its removal.

He shall send a copy of every such notice to the sanitary authority, and where the officer of Customs and Excise has given a notice under this Article in respect of such meat he shall also send a copy to that officer.

12.—(1) The sanitary authority, within twelve hours after the receipt of a copy of a notice by the medical officer of health given in pursuance of paragraph (4) of Article 11 with respect to any oversea meat, shall give to the importer notice in writing that, unless, within the time specified in the notice not being less than twelve hours after the receipt thereof, he gives a written undertaking to export the meat at his own expense, or to prove in proceedings before a justice that the meat is not intended for sale for human consumption, the meat will be destroyed or disposed of under the supervision of the medical officer of health by such means and in such a manner as to prevent its being used for human consumption.

(2) If within the time specified in the notice, the sanitary authority have not received such a written undertaking as is described in the notice or if within that time they have received an undertaking that the importer will at his own expense export the meat, and within three days after the receipt of the undertaking the importer fails to export the meat, the sanitary authority may cause the meat to be destroyed or disposed of under the supervision of the medical officer of health by such means and in such a manner as to prevent its being used for human consumption.

(3) Where in pursuance of this Article the importer has given an undertaking to prove that any meat is not intended for sale for human consumption the sanitary authority shall within twenty-four hours after the receipt of the undertaking take steps to obtain the decision of a justice with respect thereto.

13.—(1) Where in pursuance of Article 11 the officer of Customs and Excise or the medical officer of health has given a notice forbidding the removal of any meat a person shall not remove such meat contrary to the terms of the notice except with the express permission of the officer by whom the notice was given.

15.—(1) Where in pursuance of these Regulations an application is made to a justice in respect of an article of food and the justice is satisfied :—

(a) that the article of food is diseased, or unsound, or unwholesome, or unfit for human consumption : or he shall condemn the article of food and order it to be destroyed or disposed of under the supervision of the medical officer of health by such means and in such a manner as to prevent its being used for human consumption.

(2) Where on such application the justice is satisfied that the article of food is not intended for sale for human consumption, he shall order the return of such article to the person entitled thereto or the rescission of the notice prohibiting the removal thereof, as the case may require.

(3) The justice shall in every Order under this Article set forth the description of, and such other details as will suffice to identify, the article of food, together with the name, description and address of the importer and of the person to whom it is to be delivered ; and he shall forthwith furnish the sanitary authority with a copy of the Order.

16. If a difference arises in relation to any subject matter of, or to anything done under, these Regulations, the difference may, on the application of all the parties affected, be referred to the Minister for determination, and the Minister may by Order determine the difference, and such determination shall be final and conclusive.

12.—(1) On or before the 22nd day of February immediately succeeding the making of the application the undertakers or their agent shall deliver to the Minister and to the Board of Trade, (a) a printed draft of the Provisional Order in triplicate containing in manuscript all such clauses or other amendments as have been agreed between the several parties concerned and, (b) a certified copy of any resolution passed before that date by any local authority and by any road authority (where such exists distinct from the local authority for the purposes of the Act of 1870) whose consent is required under section 4 of the Act of 1870 approving the application.

(2) If any of the proposed clauses or other amendments which have been delivered to the undertakers or their agent and to the Minister and the Board of Trade have not been settled with the consent of all the parties concerned, the undertakers or their agent shall, so far as they can, on or before the 22nd day of February immediately succeeding the making of the application furnish to the Minister and the Board of Trade in writing a statement showing what are the amendments, if any, which each party would be willing to accept.

Procedure after Making of Order.

13.—(1) After a Provisional Order has been made, and before it is introduced into a Confirmation Bill in Parliament, the undertakers shall, within fourteen days after the day on which the Provisional Order shall have been sent to them, transmit to the Minister a statutory declaration made by them or their agent proving that the Provisional Order was published on or before the 25th day of April immediately succeeding the making of the Order, in conformity with paragraph 3 of Part IV. of Schedule B of the Act of 1870, and that paragraphs 1 and 2 of the said part of that Schedule have been complied with.

(2) Copies of the Provisional Order and of the newspaper containing the advertisement of the Order, shall be annexed to the declaration as exhibits.

(3) The advertisement shall have a short heading stating that the Order has been made by the Minister and the Board of Trade under the Act of 1870 for the purpose of being introduced into a Confirmation Bill in Parliament, and must also state the office where printed copies of the Order can be obtained, which shall be the office named in the original advertisement of the application for the Order.

(4) The declaration shall state that a sufficient number of printed copies of the Order have been deposited for sale at the office named in the original advertisement, and the price, not exceeding one shilling for each copy, for which they may be obtained.

(5) This Rule shall have effect subject to the provisions of Rule 14 hereof.

General.

14. If on or before the 31st day of December in the year in which the application is made the undertakers or their agent shall receive notice by letter from the Minister and the Board of Trade that the documents required by Rules 7, 8, 9 and 13 to be deposited with the Minister should be deposited with the Board of Trade instead of with the Minister, the undertakers shall deposit such documents accordingly.

15. The Minister and the Board of Trade may if they think fit and subject to such conditions as they may impose, exercise their powers under the Act of 1870, notwithstanding the failure of the undertakers to comply with any of the requirements of these Rules other than statutory requirements.

FORMS AND INSTRUCTIONS WITH REFERENCE TO PART I. AND PART II. SCHEMES (a).

(The following forms are suggested by the Ministry of Health subject to any necessary adaptations.)

PART I. (IMPROVEMENT) SCHEMES.

1.—FORM OF OFFICIAL REPRESENTATION OF THE MEDICAL OFFICER OF HEALTH.

Name of local authority__________________________

HOUSING ACTS, 1890 TO 1919.

Designation of Area ______________________________

OFFICIAL REPRESENTATION OF THE MEDICAL OFFICER OF HEALTH.

To the council of

I, , medical officer of health for the do hereby represent (b) that in my opinion, within a certain area, described in the schedule hereto

(a) there are certain houses, courts and alleys which are unfit for human habitation, or (b) the narrowness, closeness and bad arrangement, or the bad condition of the streets and houses or groups of houses within such area, or the want of light, air, ventilation or proper conveniences or other sanitary defects, or one or more of such causes, are dangerous or injurious to the health of the inhabitants of the buildings in the said area or of the neighbouring buildings,

---

(a) Part I. and Part II. Schemes are now IMPROVEMENT and RECONSTRUCTION SCHEMES respectively made under Part II. of the Housing Act, 1925, ante, p. 1409. The notes to that part of the Act should be carefully considered in taking all steps in connection with the preparation, etc. of Schemes. The forms must be altered when necessary to refer to the corresponding provision of the 1925 Act.

(b) The medical officer of health when making his representation should bear in mind the remarks of Lord HANWORTH, M.R., cited in note (a) to s. 35, ante, p. 1410.

and that the most satisfactory method of dealing with the evils connected with such houses, courts or alleys, and the sanitary defects in such area, is an improvement scheme for the re-arrangement and re-construction of the streets and houses within such area, or of some of such streets and houses.

Dated this day of 19 .

(Signature)
Medical officer of health.

SCHEDULE.

The area to which the above official representation relates is coloured red on the map annexed hereto and is bounded by a line commencing (set out the entire boundary line).

2.—RESOLUTION OF LOCAL AUTHORITY DECIDING THAT IMPROVEMENT SCHEME SHOULD BE MADE, AND GIVING NECESSARY INSTRUCTIONS FOR ITS PREPARATION.

The official representation of the medical officer of health under the Housing Acts, 1890 to 1919, was submitted.

RESOLVED :—

1. That the council, having taken into consideration the official representation of the medical officer of health, dated , 19 , and being satisfied of the truth thereof and of the sufficiency of their resources, declare that the area described in such representation is an unhealthy area, and that an improvement scheme ought to be made in respect of the area (a).

2. That the clerk be instructed to prepare a draft scheme, in accordance with the provisions of Part I. of the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, as amended by subsequent Acts, and that the surveyor prepare the necessary plans, particulars and estimates.

3.—MAPS, PARTICULARS, ESTIMATES, ETC.

Maps.

The following maps (b) should be prepared in connection with the scheme :—

Map No. 1, on the scale of 1/500, or on a scale approximating to this, showing the lands included in the improvement scheme, the unhealthy area being coloured pink, and any " neighbouring lands " which have been included in the scheme in order to make it efficient being coloured blue.

The several properties should be numbered consecutively on this map. Each parcel of land, notwithstanding that several may belong to one owner, should be separately numbered, the outside boundaries of each parcel being defined by hard lines, and the buildings (if any) on each parcel being linked into it, so that it may be seen to what properties each number applies.

Map No. 2 on the scale of 1/500, or on a scale approximating to this, showing the proposals for dealing with the cleared area, indicating any proposed new dwelling accommodation, street planning, open spaces or playgrounds or other intended developments. On this map any lands proposed to be used for re-housing should be coloured yellow and any lands proposed to be appropriated as open spaces green.

Map No. 3 on the scale of 6 inches to the mile, showing any site or sites where re-housing accommodation is to be provided which is not within the area comprised in the scheme, and the position of each site in relation to the area included in the scheme.

(NOTE.—The Minister of Health will require two copies, mounted on linen, of each of the above maps. If in any case the lands included in the scheme as " the unhealthy area " do not comprise all the lands to which the official representation extended, a copy of the map prepared in connection with the official representation should be supplied to the Ministry.)

(a) If the local authority decide to exclude any part of the area or to include any neighbouring lands under s. 38 (1) (a), ante, p. 1413, the resolution should be extended so as to indicate this.

(b) The maps should be carefully checked. It is important that all buildings and boundaries should be correctly shown. All buildings should be hatched, and buildings other than dwelling-houses and their appurtenances should have their character lettered upon them. A certificate by the competent official as to the correctness of the map must be given on the map itself.

Particulars of the Scheme.

The scheme should be accompanied by a statement giving the following particulars :—

(i) The acreage of the area comprised in the scheme ;
(ii) The number of persons of the working classes who will be displaced by the scheme ;
(iii) The number of persons for whom dwelling accommodation is to be provided ;
(iv) Where the accommodation is to be provided ;
(v) Any other necessary information or explanations.

Estimates.

The estimates should distinguish the cost of the acquisition of the lands comprised in the scheme and the cost of the laying out and construction of new streets and the erection of new buildings, and should also specify the estimated value of any surplus lands and recoupments.

The Book of Reference.

The book of reference should be in the following form and should be prepared on the ground at the same time as, and in conjunction with, the Map No. 1, each parcel of land being numbered to correspond with that map, and being described so as to show clearly what properties are covered by each number.

THE HOUSING TRUSTS (FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE) REGULATIONS, 1919. DATED OCTOBER 6TH, 1919 (a).

Whereas by sub-section (1) of section 19 of the Housing, Town Planning, etc. Act, 1919, it is enacted that where a housing trust as defined by that Act has submitted to the Local Government Board a scheme for the provision of houses for the working (a) See also the amending Regulations of 1920, 1921, and 1924, post, pp. 3381, 3390, 3395.

Appendix II. classes and the scheme is approved by the Board, then, if the scheme is carried out within such period after the passing of that Act as may be specified by the Board, with the consent of the Treasury, the Board may pay or undertake to pay out of moneys provided by Parliament such contributions towards the cost of carrying out the scheme as may be determined to be payable under regulations made by the Board, with the approval of the Treasury, subject to such conditions (including conditions as to audit of accounts by district auditors) as may be prescribed by those regulations;

And whereas by sub-section (2) of the said section it is enacted that the regulations shall provide that the amount of any annual payment to be made under the section shall be equivalent to thirty per centum of the annual loan charges which would have been payable in accordance with the regulations on the total capital expenditure incurred by the housing trust for the purposes of the scheme if the amount of that expenditure had been borrowed from the Public Works Loan Commissioners;

And whereas by section 40 of that Act the expression "housing" is defined as follows:—

> "The expression 'housing trust' means a corporation or body of persons which, by the terms of its constituent instrument, is required to devote the whole of its funds, including any surplus which may arise from its operations, to the provision of houses for persons the majority of whom are in fact members of the working classes, and to other purposes incidental thereto":

Now therefore, the Minister of Health, in pursuance of his powers under the recited enactments and under any other statutes in that behalf, hereby makes the following regulations:—

ARTICLE I.—In these regulations, unless the contrary intention appears—

(a) The expression "the Minister" means the Minister of Health;

(b) The expression "the Act of 1919" means the Housing, Town Planning, etc. Act, 1919;

(c) The expressions "housing trust" and "public utility society" have the same meaning as in the Act of 1919;

(d) The expression "local authority" means the local authority within the meaning of Part III. of the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, for the district in which the houses are built or to be built by the housing trust.

ARTICLE II.—Subject to the provisions of these regulations and provided that these regulations are complied with:—

(1) An annual contribution out of moneys provided by Parliament (herein-after referred to as "the Exchequer subsidy") may be made by the Minister towards the cost of carrying out a scheme submitted by a housing trust and approved by the Minister, and the amount of the Exchequer subsidy shall be calculated as herein-after provided.

(2) The amount of the Exchequer subsidy shall be [(a) the equivalent during the period ending on the thirty-first day of March, 1927, of fifty per cent. and thereafter of forty per cent. of the annual charges] and which would have been payable, in respect of interest and repayment of principal, on the capital expended by the trustees for the purpose of the approved scheme if that capital had been raised by way of a loan advanced by the Public Works Loan Commissioners, on the same terms as those granted for the time being to a public utility society for the like purposes:

Provided that the Minister may reduce the amount of the Exchequer subsidy in any case in which he is satisfied that the capital expenditure incurred by the trustees has been excessive.

(3) The Exchequer subsidy shall be payable in two half-yearly instalments or in such other manner as the Minister may think fit during the period of fifty years from the date on which the scheme is approved by the Minister, and for the purposes of sub-division (2) of this article that date shall be the date from which the annual charges therein referred to shall be deemed to become payable.

(a) Words substituted by later order dated January 2nd, 1924, post, p. 3395.

ARTICLE III.—(1) The Exchequer subsidy shall cease to be payable—

(a) [Revoked by amending regulations of July 21*st*, 1921, post, p. 3390.]

(b) in respect of any scheme or part of a scheme not carried into effect before the expiry of a period of three years from the passing of the Act of 1919, or such later date as the Minister may allow, regard being had to the supplies of labour and material available from time to time and all other local or general circumstances affecting the carrying into effect of the scheme.

(2) For the purposes of these regulations a scheme or part of a scheme shall be deemed to have been carried into effect when all the houses to be provided thereunder are let or available for letting.

ARTICLE IV.—(1) The scheme as submitted for approval, shall be accompanied by detailed plans, specifications, and estimates of the cost of the works.

(2) The carrying out of the works shall be subject to the supervision of the Minister, exercised either through his own officers or through the local authority.

ARTICLE V.—The capital expenditure in respect of which the annual charges referred to in Article II. (2) of these regulations shall be deemed to be payable shall not include any sum in respect of the professional charges to be paid by the trustees in excess of five per centum of the gross capital expenditure approved by the Minister.

ARTICLE VI.—The rents to be charged for houses included in the scheme shall be subject to the approval of the Minister, and shall not be altered without the consent of the Minister.

ARTICLE VII.—The trustees shall not sell any land or houses included in the scheme, except with the consent of and subject to conditions laid down by the Minister.

ARTICLE VIII.—[See article substituted by amending Order of July 21*st*, 1921, post, p. 3390.]

ARTICLE IX.—These regulations may be cited as "The Housing Trusts (Financial Assistance) Regulations, 1919," and shall, unless and until revoked or altered by the Minister, with the approval of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, apply and have effect with respect to any scheme made by a housing trust and approved by the Minister in accordance with these regulations:

Provided that, in any case where a difficulty arises with regard to the application of these regulations, the Minister may, by Order, make such minor modification of these regulations as may be necessary, in regard to any particular scheme, for the purpose of giving effect to the intention of these regulations.

THE LOCAL AUTHORITIES (ASSISTED HOUSING SCHEMES) REGULATIONS, 1919 (a).

(iii) In the case of any scheme or part of a scheme under Part III. of the Act of 1890, unless such scheme or part of a scheme is carried into effect within three years from the passing of the Act of 1919, or such further period as the Minister may allow; or

(iv) In the case of any scheme or part of a scheme under Part I. or Part II. of the Act of 1890, unless such scheme or part of a scheme is carried into effect within six years from the passing of the Act of 1919, or such further period as the Minister may allow.

(3) No such payment shall be made :—

(i) In respect of the cost of acquiring or clearing a site under Part I. or Part II. of the Act of 1890 where the site was acquired or cleared (as the case may be) before the 6th day of February, 1919; or

(ii) In respect of any scheme made or carried into effect by the Minister or the County Council in default of the local authority, unless the Minister otherwise directs.

(4) In determining whether a further period may be allowed as herein-before provided the Minister shall have regard to the supplies of labour and material available from time to time and all other local or general circumstances affecting the carrying into effect of the scheme, and if part only of a scheme has been carried into effect within the periods allowed under paragraphs (iii) and (iv) of sub-division (2) of this Article, that part of the scheme may, with the approval of the Minister, and subject to the provisions of these regulations, be regarded as the assisted scheme.

(5) [See paragraph substituted by amending Order of 17*th December*, 1921, post, p. 3392.]

ARTICLE IV.—(1) The local authority shall for the purposes of an assisted scheme or a scheme which, in the opinion of the Minister, is likely to become an assisted scheme, keep separate accounts, to be called "The Housing (Assisted Scheme) Accounts," including a separate revenue account, to be called "The Housing (Assisted Scheme) Revenue Account."

(a) the sums required for interest and repayment of principal in respect of all moneys borrowed by them for the purposes of the assisted scheme (including moneys borrowed for the purchase of land which is approved by the Minister as part of the assisted scheme) which in the opinion of the Minister may properly be debited to the said account;

(b) the rates, taxes, rents or other charges payable by them in respect of any land or houses acquired, leased or provided by them under the assisted scheme, including any sums payable by way of rent, with the approval of the Minister, to any other account of the local authority, in respect of land acquired by them for some other purpose and appropriated for purposes of the assisted scheme;

(4) (a) In the case of the council of a borough whose accounts under the Housing Acts are not otherwise subject to audit by the district auditor, the Housing (Assisted Scheme) Accounts shall be made up and shall be audited by the district auditor

(b) In every case as soon as practicable after the conclusion of each financial year the local authority shall forward to the Minister a copy of the Housing (Assisted Scheme) Revenue Account, certified by the district auditor.

ARTICLE V.—Except with the approval of the Minister, the local authority shall not borrow moneys for the purposes of an assisted scheme, or a scheme which, in the opinion of the Minister, is likely to become an assisted scheme, at a higher rate of interest than that fixed for the time being in the case of loans by the Public Works Loan Commissioners to local authorities for the purposes of assisted schemes.

ARTICLE VI.—Subject to the provisions of these regulations and provided that these regulations are complied with the annual payment to be made by the Minister to the local authority out of moneys provided by Parliament (herein-after referred to as " the Exchequer subsidy ") shall be determined by the Minister as follows :—

(a) During the period (a) [up to and including the 31*st day of March*, 1930] the Exchequer subsidy shall be an amount equivalent to the deficit in the Housing (Assisted Scheme) Revenue Account made up at the conclusion of each financial year, in accordance with the provisions of Article IV. of these regulations ;

(b) during the period (a) [if any, after the 31*st day of March*, 1930] and before the whole of the assisted scheme has been carried into effect the Exchequer subsidy, in respect of that part of the assisted scheme which has been carried into effect, shall be calculated upon the basis of an estimate submitted to the Minister by the local authority and approved by the Minister, and, in respect of that part of the assisted scheme which has not been carried into effect, shall be an amount equivalent to the deficit under the last-mentioned part of the assisted scheme as shown by the entries relating thereto in the Housing (Assisted Scheme) Revenue Account at the conclusion of the financial year ;

(c) during the remainder of the period or periods allowed for the repayment of the loans raised by the local authority for the purposes of the assisted scheme the Exchequer subsidy shall be calculated upon the basis of estimates submitted to the Minister by the local authority and approved by the Minister (a) [of which the first shall be submitted to the Minister by the local authority as soon as possible after the 31st day of March, [1930], and subsequent estimates after the conclusion of the tenth financial year during the remainder of the period or periods last mentioned ;]

(d) [Revoked by amending Order of 5th August, 1925.]

(e) Each of the estimates referred to in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this Article shall be in a form approved by the Minister and (a) [except where the Minister has dispensed with a decennial estimate] shall be an estimate of the average annual income and expenditure of the local authority under the assisted scheme, or under that part of the assisted scheme which has been carried into effect (as the case may be), in respect of the period ending at the conclusion of the financial year after which the next estimate is to be submitted under these regulations ;

(f) The estimate shall in each case be accompanied by an estimate of the annual produce of a rate of one penny in the pound herein-before referred to, and in the framing of such estimate regard shall be had to the produce of a rate of one penny in the pound during the last financial year before the date of such estimate, and to any probable increase or decrease of the assessable value of the district of the local authority during the period to which the estimate relates ;

(g) The Exchequer subsidy, in so far as it is calculated upon an estimate, shall be determined on the basis of the average annual deficit to be incurred by the local authority under the assisted scheme (or under that part of the assisted scheme which has been carried into effect, as the case may be), as shown by the estimate last made by the local authority under this Article, and shall be the equivalent of the amount of the said average annual deficit subject to the deduction from the said average annual deficit of the estimated produce of a rate of one penny in the pound herein-before referred to:

Provided that in the determination of the amount of the Exchequer subsidy during the period to which paragraph (b) of this Article applies, there shall be added to the amount of the said average annual deficit an amount equivalent to the deficit referred to in the said paragraph (b).

(h) In this Article the expression "part of the assisted scheme" means so much of the assisted scheme as will be carried out under Parts I. and II. of the Act of 1890, or under Part III. of the Act of 1890, as the case may be.

ARTICLE VII (1).—In any determination of the amount of the Exchequer subsidy, whether based on an estimate or otherwise, such deductions may be made from the amount of the deficit upon which the Exchequer subsidy is calculated as will in the opinion of the Minister represent—

(a) an item of expenditure or estimated expenditure which is excessive or not properly chargeable to the debit of the assisted scheme; or

(b) the omission from the account or estimate of any item of income which should be included therein; or

(c) any deficiency of income or estimated income which is due to the insufficiency of the rents charged or proposed to be charged by the local authority; or

(d) any deficiency of income or estimated income which is due to the failure of the local authority to secure due economy in the carrying out or administration of the scheme.

(2) For the purposes of sub-division (1) (a) of this Article the following items of expenditure, or estimated expenditure, in respect of any one financial year, shall not be regarded as excessive:—

(a) A charge, in respect of unoccupied houses and uncollected rents, not exceeding five per centum of the gross estimated rent;

(b) a contribution to a repairs fund not exceeding fifteen per centum of the gross estimated rent;

(c) a charge in respect of the cost of supervision and management not exceeding five per centum of the gross estimated rent; and

(d) any item of expenditure referred to in this sub-division of this Article which exceeds the percentages thereby prescribed, but which the Minister, having regard to the special circumstances of the case, considers to be reasonable.

(3) The Minister shall, not later than the 31st day of March, [1930] (a), after consultation with local authorities or with any associations of local authorities, and after such inquiry as he may consider necessary for the purpose, make such revision, if any, of the percentages mentioned in sub-division (2) of this Article as appears to him to be just and equitable.

(4) (a) In the event of any difference of opinion arising between the Minister and the local authority with regard to any of the matters referred to in paragraphs (c) or (d) of sub-division (1) of this Article the question at issue shall be referred for decision to a tribunal appointed as herein-after provided, and the decision of such tribunal shall be final and conclusive, and the amount of the Exchequer subsidy shall (if necessary) be altered accordingly.

(b) [See Article substituted by Amending Order of 12*th March*, 1921, post, p. 3390.]

(5) In any determination of the sufficiency of the rents charged or to be charged by the local authority, regard shall be had to the rules set out in Schedule B to these regulations.

(6) For the purposes of sub-division (2) of this Article the gross estimated rent shall be deemed to be the total amount of the rents, rates and water charges payable in respect of the houses included in the assisted scheme less the total amount of the rates and water charges payable in respect of the said houses during the financial year.

(7) Where the local authority apply any capital moneys, including any accumulated funds, belonging to them for defraying any expenditure incurred by them for purposes of an assisted scheme for which the local authority are authorised to borrow moneys, the rate of interest on the capital moneys or funds so applied shall be calculated as follows:—

(a) where moneys have been borrowed by the local authority for the purposes of the assisted scheme from sources other than moneys or funds belonging to the local authority, the rate of interest shall be the same as that payable on the moneys last previously so borrowed;

(b) where no moneys have been borrowed by the local authority as aforesaid the rate of interest shall be the same as that in force for the time being for loans for assisted schemes advanced by the Public Works Loan Commissioners.

ARTICLE VIII.—(1) The amount of the Exchequer subsidy, when determined under these regulations, shall not be varied by the Minister during the period for which the Exchequer subsidy was fixed except as herein-after provided or except with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury and of the local authority.

(2) The Exchequer subsidy in respect of any financial year shall be varied so far as may be necessary in consequence of any difference between the produce of a rate of one penny in the pound in that year and the estimate of the produce of the said rate submitted under Article VI. of these regulations.

(3) When any land or buildings included in an assisted scheme are leased or sold by the local authority, the Minister may (a) [except where he has dispensed with a decennial estimate] make such adjustment of the amount of the lease or sale and of the appropriation of the rents or proceeds of the sale:

Provided that the adjustment shall in no case be such as to increase the contribution to be made by the local authority from the rates towards the annual cost of the assisted scheme, and that if, as the result of the appropriation of the rents or proceeds of the sale, the annual deficit to be incurred by the local authority under the assisted scheme is reduced, a proportion of the amount by which the deficit is reduced shall, subject to such conditions as the Minister may determine, be applied under any such adjustment in reduction of the said contribution, as well as of the Exchequer subsidy.

(4) When the period allowed for the repayment of any of the loans raised by the local authority for the purposes of the assisted scheme has expired, the amount of the Exchequer subsidy shall be reduced by the Minister, so far as may be necessary, in consequence of such repayment.

ARTICLE IX.—The Exchequer subsidy shall be payable in such instalments as the Minister may think fit (including payments on account, during the periods mentioned in paragraphs (a) and (b) of Article VI. of these regulations, based on the probable deficit for the year as certified by the local authority), but the Minister may, if he thinks fit, withhold payment of the final instalment of the Exchequer subsidy until the provisions of sub-division (4) (b) of Article IV. of these regulations have been complied with.

ARTICLE X.—In any case where one area is affected by two or more assisted schemes the Minister may make such adjustments as may be necessary for securing that in the calculation of the total amount of the Exchequer subsidies, in any one financial year, under both or all the assisted schemes affecting the said area, there shall not be taken into account, in respect of that area, the produce, or estimated annual produce, of a rate of more than one penny in the pound.

SCHEDULE A.

RULES TO BE OBSERVED IN THE DETERMINATION OF THE AMOUNT PRODUCED BY A RATE OF ONE PENNY IN THE POUND.

1. The produce of a rate during any financial year shall be the amount actually realised during that year by the collection of that rate, in accordance with a return made by the duly authorised financial officer of the local authority and certified by the district auditor.

(a) See amending Order of August 5th, 1925, post, p. 3421.

2. For the purposes of the foregoing rule, the amount of the rate or rates collected during the financial year shall be regarded as having been collected in respect of the rate or rates made for that year.

3. The produce of a rate of one penny in the pound shall be that proportion of the produce of a rate which one penny bears to the total amount in the pound of the said rate.

4. Where it is desired to ascertain the amount of the produce of a rate of one penny in the pound levied in any area comprising two or more parts which are differentially rated, the said amount shall be separately ascertained in respect of each of these parts in accordance with the foregoing rules, and the sum of the amounts so ascertained shall be the produce of a rate of one penny in the pound levied in the said area.

SCHEDULE B.

RULES WITH REGARD TO THE DETERMINATION OF RENTS.

1. The local authority in first fixing the rents under an assisted scheme shall have regard to:—

(a) the rents obtaining in the locality for houses for the working classes;
(b) any increase in the rent of houses for the working classes authorised under the Increase of Rent and Mortgage Interest (War Restrictions) Act, 1915, and any Acts amending or extending that Act;
(c) any superiority in the condition or amenity of the houses to be let by them under the assisted scheme or in the accommodation provided therein; and
(d) the classes of tenant in the district for whom the houses are provided.

2. The rent to be charged after the 31st day of March, 1927, shall, if reasonably possible, having regard to the conditions then prevailing and to the classes of tenant in the district for whom the houses were provided, be sufficient to cover (in addition to the expenses of maintenance and management of the houses and a suitable allowance for depreciation) the interest which would have been payable on the capital cost of building the houses if they had been built after that date.

3. If it is not found reasonably possible after the 31st day of March, 1927, to obtain the rent prescribed by rule 2, the rent shall be the best rent which can reasonably be obtained from the classes of tenant in the district for whom the houses were provided, regard being had to any superiority of such houses in accommodation, construction or amenities as compared with houses previously built in the district.

THE HOUSING TRUSTS (FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE) REGULATIONS, 1920. DATED JANUARY 30TH, 1920.

(c) he and the occupants of his house avoid any conduct detrimental to good neighbourship.

To the councils of the several administrative counties in England and Wales :—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by sub-section (1) of section 7 of the Housing. Town Planning, etc. Act, 1919, it is enacted (amongst other things) that if it appears to the Local Government Board that the carrying out of any scheme approved by the Board for the provision of houses for persons in the employment of, or paid by, a county council, or a statutory committee thereof, has resulted or is likely to result in a loss, the Board shall, if the scheme is carried out within such period after the passing of that Act as may be specified by the Board with the consent of the Treasury, pay or undertake to pay to the county council, out of moneys provided by Parliament, such part of the loss as may be determined to be so payable under regulations made by the Board with the approval of the Treasury, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed by those regulations ;

And whereas by sub-section (2) of the said section 7, as altered by section 4 of the Housing (Additional Powers) Act, 1919, it is enacted that the regulations shall provide that the amount of any annual payment to be made under the section shall, in the case of a scheme for the provision of houses for persons in the employment of, or paid by, a county council, or a statutory committee thereof, be an amount equivalent during the period ending on the 31st day of March, 1927, to fifty per centum and thereafter to thirty per centum of the annual loan charges as calculated in accordance with the regulations on the total capital expenditure incurred by the county council for the purposes of the scheme :

Now therefore, the Minister of Health, in pursuance of his powers under the recited enactments and under any other statutes in that behalf, hereby makes the following regulations :—

ARTICLE I.—(1) These regulations may be cited as "The County Councils (Assisted Schemes for the Housing of Employees) Regulations, 1920."

(2) The County Councils (Assisted Schemes for the Housing of Employees) Regulations, 1919, are hereby revoked, without prejudice to any right, privilege or liability acquired, accrued or incurred thereunder.

ARTICLE II.—(1) In these regulations, unless the contrary intention appears :—

(a) The expression "the Minister" means the Minister of Health ;

(b) The expression "the Act of 1919" means the Housing, Town Planning, etc. Act, 1919 ; and

(c) The expression "county council" includes a statutory committee of a county council, the Lancashire Asylums Board, the West Riding of Yorkshire Asylums Board, and any other body constituted for the purpose of the administration of the Lunacy Acts on behalf of any combination of county councils and county borough councils.

(2) The Interpretation Act, 1889, applies to the interpretation of the regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

ARTICLE III.—Subject to the provisions of Article IV. of these regulations :—

(1) An annual contribution out of moneys provided by Parliament (hereinafter referred to as "the Exchequer subsidy") shall be made by the Minister towards the cost of carrying out a scheme submitted by a county council, and approved by the Minister, for the provision of houses for persons in the employment of, or paid by, the county council.

(2) The Exchequer subsidy shall be an amount equivalent during the period ending on the 31st day of March, 1927, to fifty per centum (a) [and thereafter to forty per centum of the annual charges] for interest and repayment of principal, in respect of the aggregate amount of the loans raised by the county council for the purposes of the approved scheme :

Provided that the Minister may reduce the amount of the Exchequer subsidy in any case in which he is satisfied that the capital expenditure incurred by the county council has been excessive.

Appendix II.

(3) The Exchequer subsidy shall be payable in two half-yearly instalments or in such other manner as the Minister may think fit during the periods allowed for the repayment of the loans raised by the county council for the purposes of the approved scheme, and shall be reduced by the Minister so far as may be necessary as and when the period allowed for the repayment of any one of the said loans expires.

(4) For the purposes of this Article the annual charges in respect of the aggregate amount of the loans raised by the county council shall be ascertained by calculating the total amount which would be annually payable in respect of the several loans for principal and interest if the loans were repayable by equal annual instalments of principal and interest combined:

Provided that, save with the consent of the Minister, the rate of interest shall not for the purposes of this paragraph exceed the rate for the time being in force for loans advanced by the Public Works Loan Commissioners for the purposes of schemes to which section 7 of the Act of 1919 applies.

(5) The foregoing provisions of this Article shall apply to accumulated funds or capital moneys belonging to a county council and used by them for the purposes of an approved scheme as though such funds or moneys were loans, and for the purpose of the last preceding paragraph the rate of interest in respect of such funds or moneys shall be deemed to be—

(i) where moneys have been borrowed for the purposes of the scheme from sources other than funds or moneys belonging to the county council, the rate of interest payable in respect of the moneys last previously so borrowed; and

(ii) where no moneys have been borrowed for the purposes of the scheme from such sources as aforesaid, the rate in force for loans advanced by the Public Works Loan Commissioners for the purposes referred to in the last preceding paragraph at the date when the funds or moneys were so used.

ARTICLE IV.—(1) The Exchequer subsidy shall cease to be payable—

(a) in any case in which the Minister is not satisfied that reasonable progress has been made with the carrying into effect of the scheme within twelve months from the passing of the Act of 1919, or such later date as the Minister may allow, regard being had to the supplies of labour and material available from time to time and all other local or general circumstances affecting the carrying into effect of the scheme; and

(b) in respect of any scheme or part of a scheme not carried into effect before the expiry of a period of three years from the passing of the Act of 1919, or such later date as the Minister may allow, regard being had to the supplies of labour and material available from time to time and all other local or general circumstances affecting the carrying into effect of the scheme.

(2) For the purposes of these regulations a scheme or part of a scheme shall be deemed to have been carried into effect when all the houses to be provided thereunder are let or available for letting.

2.—(1) Each external wall of the building shall either

(a) to a height of not less than 6 inches above the surface of the ground adjoining the wall, be constructed of good cement concrete not less than 6 inches thick, or of brickwork composed of good whole bricks or stonework, all brickwork or stonework in the wall to be properly bonded and solidly put together with good lime or cement mortar and to be not less than 4½ inches thick; or

The local authority shall obtain particulars of the current rents of working-class houses of all types erected in their district before the 3rd day of August, 1914, in such numbers and proportions as are, in their opinion, fairly representative of all those houses in the district: Provided that—

(i) for this purpose parlour and non-parlour houses shall be treated as separate classes; and

(ii) if there are substantial differences in the rents payable in respect of houses in different parts of the area having similar accommodation, each of such parts shall for this purpose be treated as a separate area and appropriate normal rents shall be ascertained in respect of the houses in each of such parts accordingly.

3. The appropriate normal rent for each of the two classes of houses in the area or in any part of the area, as the case may be, shall be the average rent payable in respect of the houses of that class of which particulars have been obtained.

RULES FOR THE CALCULATION OF MEASUREMENTS UNDER SECTION 92 (2) OF THE HOUSING ACT, 1925.

These rules are set out in a circular issued by the M. of H. on August 20, 1924, the material part of which is set out here.

"The rules for the measurement of superficial area will be as follows :—

(a) The area will be measured within the external or containing walls of the house (so as to include the area of chimney breasts, bay windows and similar space), and, in the case of two-storey cottages, will be the combined areas, as so measured, of the two storeys.

(b) In the case of houses built in flats the space occupied by a staircase will not be included in measuring the area of a flat.

(c) Habitable accommodation provided in an attic or storey formed in the roof will be included without regard to the use to which it may be intended to be put. In determining whether accommodation is habitable regard should be had not only to its condition as shown in the plans, but also to the possibility of its conversion into habitable accommodation. The area of so much of the attic as is less than 5 feet in height will be excluded in measuring the habitable accommodation.

(d) Cellars will not be included.

(e) Outbuildings will be excluded if they are not an essential part of the house, but will be included if they provide accommodation which is necessary to the occupation of the house or is usually included within the containing walls of the house. Outbuildings are buildings not communicating with the house which are outside the containing walls of the house, whether attached thereto or not. Examples of an outbuilding to be included are a W.C., coal-house or scullery. A tool shed, wood shed or bicycle shed would not be included. The area of an outbuilding to be included will be measured within the containing walls of that area.

(f) With regard to covered areas, such as the area of a verandah or porch, the general principle is that where such small areas are covered by light structures which though attached to are outside the containing walls of the house, and consequently do not add to the bulk of the main building, the measurement of these areas should not be included. But the area of porches or other open air spaces included within the lines of the main containing walls of the house which do increase the bulk of the buildings should be included in the measurement of the house."

CIRCULAR 555.

TO HOUSING AUTHORITIES, ETC.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH,
30*th January*, 1925.

HOUSING ACTS.

GUARANTEES TO BUILDING SOCIETIES.

SIR,—I am directed by the Minister of Health to invite the attention of local authorities to an arrangement recently concluded with the Building Societies' Association with regard to the guarantees which may be given by local authorities to building societies under section 5 (1) (b) of the Housing etc., Act, 1923, as amended by the Second Schedule to the Housing (Financial Provisions) Act, 1924, and applied to county councils by section 12 of the last-named Act. Many persons desiring to build houses for their own occupation are unable to find the difference between the cost of building and the loan which a building society will normally advance under its rules, and the object of the guarantee is to enable the building society to make an additional advance, and so help to bridge the gap. Such guarantees may be given both for houses for the working-classes which would qualify for subsidy assistance and also for houses of a larger type, provided that the local authority's valuation of the mortgagor's interest in the property does not exceed £1,500. The houses for which guarantees may be given are new houses to be built either within or without the district of the local authority. The construction of the houses must not have been commenced before the 25th April, 1923.

The following is a summary of the arrangements which have been agreed between the Minister and the Building Societies' Association :—

(1) The guarantee will apply in respect of the difference between the total loan to be advanced by the society and the loan which might normally have been advanced by the society under its rules without guarantee.

(2) The total loan to be advanced by the society with guarantee must not exceed 90 per cent. of the value of the mortgagor's interest in the property as assessed after a valuation made by the local authority in agreement with the building society.

(3) The local authority's liability under the guarantee will arise only if, upon the sale of the property by the society under the power of sale conferred upon them by the mortgage, the proceeds of the sale are insufficient to cover the principal, interest and costs due to the society under the mortgage.

(4) The local authority's maximum liability will then be the difference between the deficiency so arising on the sale and the deficiency which would have arisen if the total original loan had been that which the society would normally advance under its rules without guarantee.

(5) Within one calendar month after the happening of any of the events giving rise to the exercise of the power of sale under the mortgage, the building society shall give notice to the local authority and shall, if so required by the local authority, demand payment of the principal and interest owing on security of the mortgage and in default of payment proceed to the exercise of such power of sale. Subject to this, the building society may allow time to the mortgagor for payment.

(6) At any time after receipt of the notice mentioned in the preceding paragraph and during the continuance of the mortgage, the local authority may acquire the interest of the building society in the mortgage by payment to the society of the principal, interest and costs then owing on security of the mortgage.

(7) The guarantee will be determined when the amount of the loan has been reduced by repayment to 45 per cent. of the valuation.

The Building Societies' Association has prepared a model form of guarantee which embodies the arrangements agreed with the Minister, and this form of guarantee has been circulated to the building societies. The Minister has not accepted any responsibility for the precise form of the guarantee because he considers that this is a matter for the legal advisers of the local authority. He would be prepared to consider favourably proposals submitted to him by a local authority for a guarantee in this form, or in any form which, in the opinion of the local authority's advisers, gives effect to the above arrangements, and he would further be prepared to consider any minor modifications of these arrangements which may be thought necessary in view of any special local requirements.

Many building societies have considerable sums available for investment and the Minister has no doubt that co-operation between building societies and local authorities may have very useful results in encouraging the building of houses for their own occupation by those who have a small amount of savings available for investment.

I am, etc.

S. R. & O., 1925, No. 237.

THE PUBLIC UTILITY SOCIETIES REGULATIONS, 1925, DATED 9TH MARCH, 1925, MADE BY THE MINISTER OF HEALTH UNDER SECTION 19 OF THE HOUSING, TOWN PLANNING, ETC., ACT, 1919.

The Minister of Health in pursuance of the powers conferred on him by section 19 of the Housing, Town Planning, etc., Act, 1919, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following Regulations :—

General.

1.—(1) These Regulations may be cited as the Public Utility Societies Regulations, 1925.

(2) The Regulations named in the First Schedule to these Regulations are hereby revoked, so far as they relate to Public Utility Societies, without prejudice, however, to the validity of any undertaking given or other act or thing done thereunder.

2. In these Regulations, unless the contrary intention appears :—

" The Minister " means the Minister of Health ;

" The Commissioners " means the Public Works Loans Commissioners ;

" Society " means a Public Utility Society ;

" The Act of 1919 " means the Housing, Town Planning, etc., Act, 1919 ;

" Local Authority " means the local authority within the meaning of Part III. of the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, for the district in which the houses are provided or are to be provided by the Public Utility Society ;

" Scheme " means a scheme for the provision of houses for the working classes prepared by a society and approved by the Minister under sub-sect. (1) of section 19 of the Act of 1919 ;

" House " means a house comprised in a scheme and includes any yard, garden, outhouses and appurtenances belonging thereto.

PART II.

Exchequer Subsidy.

(3).—(1) Subject to the provisions of these Regulations and to the discharge by a society of its obligations thereunder the Minister may make out of moneys provided by Parliament an annual contribution (in these Regulations referred to as "the Exchequer subsidy") towards the cost incurred by the society in carrying out a scheme.

(2) The Exchequer subsidy shall during the period ending on the 31st day of March, 1927, be an amount equal to 50 per cent. of the annual charges in respect of interest and repayment of principal on the capital raised by the society under the scheme, and thereafter shall be an amount equal to 30 per cent. of those charges, or, if the conditions set out in the next succeeding paragraph are complied with, an amount equal to 40 per cent. :

Appendix II.

Provided that—

(i) in the case of the annual charges incurred by the society before the houses are completed if the balance of those charges, after deducting the Exchequer subsidy, is defrayed out of borrowed moneys, such moneys shall not, for the purposes of this article, be included as part of the capital raised by the society under the scheme;

(ii) the Minister may reduce the amount of the Exchequer subsidy in any case in which he is satisfied that the capital expenditure incurred by the society has been excessive; and

(iii) the Minister shall not be under any liability to pay to a society Exchequer subsidy at the rate of 40 per cent. so far as such subsidy is properly attributable to houses already sold by the society, in respect of which the liability of the Minister at the date of the sale has been or will be discharged by virtue of Article 16 of these Regulations.

(3) The conditions upon which the Exchequer subsidy shall, after the 31st day of March, 1927, be 40 per cent. instead of 30 per cent. of the annual charges are—

(i) that the society shall have paid all debts owing to the Crown in respect of materials supplied by the Department of Building Materials Supply; and

(ii) that in any case in which the Minister is satisfied that some person, firm, or body corporate carrying on business was instrumental in promoting the society for the purpose of providing houses for persons employed in such business, such person, firm, or body corporate shall, if the Minister so requires, guarantee by way of collateral security the repayment of any loan advanced by the Public Works Loan Commissioners and payment of interest thereon.

(4) The Exchequer subsidy shall be payable (and shall be deemed always to have been payable) half-yearly in arrear (or in such other manner as the Minister may think fit) during a period of 50 years commencing on the 1st day of April or the 1st day of October, as the case may be, immediately preceding such date as the Minister may have fixed or may fix, having regard to the dates on which the several items of capital expenditure on the scheme were from time to time incurred by the society, as the mean date of that expenditure.

(5) For the purposes of these Regulations the annual charges on the capital raised by the society shall be deemed to be the annual charges which would have been payable, by way of equal annual instalments of principal with interest combined, on the like amount of capital if it had been borrowed from the Commissioners on the terms granted for the time being to societies whether the capital has in fact been borrowed from the Commissioners or otherwise provided.

4.—(1) The Exchequer subsidy shall cease to be payable in respect of any scheme or part of a scheme not carried into effect before the expiry of a period of three years from the passing of the Act of 1919, or such later date as the Minister may allow, regard being had to the supplies of labour and material available from time to time and all other local or general circumstances affecting the carrying into effect of the scheme.

(2) For the purposes of these Regulations a scheme or part of a scheme shall be deemed to have been carried into effect when all the houses to be provided thereunder are let or available for letting.

5. The carrying out of the works shall be subject to the supervision of the Minister, exercised either through his own officers or through the local authority.

6. For the purposes of Article 3 (2) of these Regulations the sum to be included in the capital raised by the society under the scheme in respect of the professional charges paid or to be paid by the society, in connection with the building of the houses and the lay-out of the estate under the scheme, shall not exceed five per cent. of the gross capital expenditure approved by the Minister.

7. The rents to be charged for houses included in the scheme shall be subject to the approval of the Minister, and shall not be altered without the consent of the Minister.

8.—(1) The rules of the society and any amendment thereof shall be subject to the approval of the Minister.

(2) The rules of the society shall, unless the Minister otherwise allows, be so framed as to give effect to the following provisions:—

Appendix II.

(a) The objects of the society shall include the provision, improvement, and management of houses for the working classes.

(b) Every member of the society shall hold at least one share (of the value at the least of £1) in the society, and the board of management of the society shall not refuse to admit to membership of the society any person who has been for three months a tenant of the society.

(c) Tenants [or if the society so determine tenant members] may elect annually from among themselves a tenants' [or tenant members'] committee, and such committee shall have such rights, powers, and duties (in addition to those which are expressly conferred on or vested in them by the rules of the society), as the board of management of the society, with the concurrence of such committee, may determine. Each tenant [or tenant member] shall be entitled to one vote at the election of the members of the said committee.

(d) The management of the business of the society shall be vested in a board of management, of whose members (as from the date of the first annual general meeting of the society after the approval of the scheme) at least one-quarter shall be tenant members appointed by the tenants' [or tenant members'] committee.

(e) At all general meetings of the society each fully paid-up share against which there is no set-off in the books of the society shall carry one vote, and not less than five times that amount of loan stock held by a member shall carry one vote:

Provided that the possession of loan stock apart from membership shall not entitle its holder either to a vote or to attendance at meetings of the society:

Provided also that a limitation may be imposed on the number of votes which may be recorded at any meeting by any one member.

(f) Each tenant shall have undisturbed occupancy of his house and garden so long as—

(i) he fulfils the tenancy regulations made by the board of management; and

(ii) he pays any rent or debts due from him to the society; and

(iii) he and the occupants to his house avoid any conduct detrimental to good neighbourship:

Provided that the tenant shall not be given notice to quit by the board of management on the ground of conduct detrimental to good neighbourship except with the concurrence of the tenants' [or tenant members'] committee.

(g) Any profits remaining to the society after providing for—

(i) the annual charges, in respect of interest and repayment of principal, on the loans and loan stock raised by the society;

(ii) the taxes, rates, rents, insurance premiums, or other charges payable by the society in respect of any land or houses belonging to them;

(iii) the costs of administration and management and of repairs of property;

(iv) such allocations to a reserve fund as may be determined by the board of management;

(v) any other necessary expenses incurred by the board of management; and

(vi) a dividend not exceeding the rate authorised by the statutes in force, on the share capital of the society; shall be applied in such manner as may be determined by the board of management, for the benefit of the tenants generally.

9. If before the Exchequer subsidy has ceased to be payable the society has sold all the houses comprised in its scheme, and has commenced to take the necessary steps for dissolution under section 58 of the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, the Minister may pay to the liquidator on behalf of the society, by way of a final payment of Exchequer subsidy, such sum (not exceeding the capitalised value of the Exchequer subsidy payable to the society) as may be required to pay off any net liabilities of the society:

Provided that nothing contained in this article shall relieve the society from any obligation imposed on them by an undertaking given under Article 9 of the Public Utility (Financial Assistance) Regulations, 1919.

PART III.

Sale of Houses.

10. In this Part of these Regulations the expression "sale of a house" includes the grant of a lease at a yearly rent not exceeding five shillings, and in the case of land in which the society has a leasehold interest only the grant of an underlease at a yearly rent not exceeding by more than five per cent. such portion of the rent payable by the society as is properly attributable to the land comprised in the underlease; and the words "sell" and "purchase" have corresponding meanings.

11. Before selling any house the society shall obtain the consent of the Minister and shall be satisfied that the proposed purchaser is the occupier or, if the house is unoccupied, the intending occupier of the house.

12.—(1) The conveyance or other instrument transferring the house to the purchaser shall contain covenants on the part of the purchaser in the terms set out in the Second Schedule to these Regulations with such modifications as may be required in the case of a lease or underlease and such other modifications, if any, as the Minister may approve.

(2) The society shall not, without the consent of the Minister, and subject to such conditions, if any, as he may impose, grant any licence with regard to the user of any house which they may be empowered to grant by any of the covenants referred to in the last preceding article.

13. Before selling or contracting to sell any house, the society shall prepare and submit for the approval of the Minister a schedule apportioning among the several houses included in the scheme the total approved cost of the scheme, such apportionment being based on—

(a) the value of the interest of the society in the site of the house;

(b) the amount expended by the society in the erection of the house; and

(c) a fair proportion of the general expenditure of the society in connection with the scheme:

Provided that in calculating the expenditure under the foregoing heads no account shall be taken of any expenditure by the society towards which no Exchequer subsidy is being made, and any such expenditure shall be shown separately in the schedule.

14. No house shall be sold at a price less than that approved by the Minister.

15. So much of the purchase money as is equivalent to the minimum price at which the house may be sold shall, unless the Minister otherwise directs, be applied by the society as follows:—

(a) First, to the repayment of so much of any outstanding loan borrowed from the Commissioners in respect of the house as will reduce the yearly payment to the Commissioners on account of principal and interest on the loan to an amount not exceeding an Exchequer subsidy equivalent, during the period ending on the 31st day of March, 1927, to 50 per cent., and, thereafter, to 40 per cent. or to 30 per cent. of the annual charges (at whichever rate the subsidy payable to the society is for the time being calculated) on the capital raised by the society and approved by the Minister in respect of that house; and

(b) Secondly, to the repayment of loans borrowed for the purpose of the scheme otherwise than from the Commissioners, or to the repayment or extinction of any shares or loan stock issued for the purpose of the scheme.

Every sale made by a society under these Regulations shall be made in accordance with rules to be made by the society and approved by the Minister.

16.—(1) Where a house included in a scheme is sold by the society or by the Commissioners as mortgagees of the house, the Minister may pay to the Commissioners or, if the Commissioners are not mortgagees, to any other mortgagee of the house a sum equal to the capitalised value as at the date of the sale of the Exchequer subsidy apportioned in respect of that house or to so much thereof as is required to discharge the liability of the society to the Commissioners or other mortgagee in respect of principal money and interest payable under the mortgage.

(2) A payment made by the Minister to the Commissioners or other mortgagee under this article shall pro tanto discharge any liability of the Minister to the society in respect of Exchequer subsidy and of the society to the Commissioners or other mortgagee under the mortgage.

17. Save as provided in the last preceding article nothing in this Part of these Regulations shall extend to the sale of a house by the Commissioners in the exercise of a power of sale as mortgagees of the property, or to the sale of a house by the society to any local authority.

PART IV.

Accounts and Audit.

18.—(1) The society shall keep and make up annually separate accounts relating to the scheme.

(2) Such accounts shall, so long as they relate to capital expenditure incurred for the purpose of the scheme, be audited by a district auditor in like manner, and subject to the same provisions, as the accounts of an urban district council, and during that period the enactments relating to the audit by district auditors of the last-named accounts and to all matters incidental thereto and consequential thereon shall for this purpose apply to the accounts of the society.

(3) So far as may be necessary for the purpose of his duties under this article the district auditor shall have access to all the books, deeds, documents, and accounts of the society.

19. The society shall permit any district auditor or other officer of the Ministry of Health, authorised by the Minister, at all reasonable times during the period in respect of which the Exchequer subsidy is payable as aforesaid to have access to and inspect the books, deeds, documents, and accounts of the society.

20. A balance sheet and summary of the accounts relating to the scheme for each financial year shall, during the ensuing financial year, be open to inspection by any person at the office of the society on payment of a fee of one shilling and a copy of the balance sheet and summary shall be sent to the Minister at the conclusion of the financial year to which it relates, and also, if they so request, to the local authority.

NOTE.

The owner may appeal to the Minister of Health against any notice requiring him to execute works under section 3 of the Act, and against any demand for the recovery of expenses from him under that section or an order made by the local authority under that section with respect to those expenses, by giving notice of appeal to the Minister within twenty-one days after the notice is received or the demand or order is made (as the case may be) or such longer time as the Minister may allow, and no proceedings shall be taken in respect of any notice, demand, or order while the appeal is pending. No appeal against such a demand or order, however, lies if and so far as the appeal raises any question which might have been raised on an appeal against the notice itself.

The procedure on any such appeal is governed by rules made by the Minister of Health. Copies of such rules have been placed on sale (S. R. and O., 1925, No. 638) and may be purchased, either directly or through any bookseller, from His Majesty's Stationery Office at the following addresses: Adastral House, Kingsway, London, W.C.2; 28, Abingdon Street, London, S.W.1; York Street, Manchester; 1, St. Andrew's Crescent, Cardiff; or 120, George Street, Edinburgh.

The Act provides:—

(a) That the Minister of Health shall not dismiss any appeal without having first held a public local inquiry unless the appellant fails to prosecute his appeal with due diligence.

(b) That the Minister of Health may before considering any appeal, require the appellant to deposit such sum to cover the costs of the appeal, as may be fixed by the rules. The sum at present fixed is a sum not exceeding £10.

An appellant should state his interest in the house, and the grounds of his appeal, and should forward to the Minister the notice appealed against. He must also notify the local authority forthwith of any appeal to the Minister.

If the house is not capable without reconstruction of being rendered fit for human habitation, the owner may within twenty-one days after the receipt of this notice by written notice to the local authority declare his intention of closing the house for human habitation, and thereupon a closing order is deemed to have become operative in respect of such house. Any such declaration by the owner must be in the form prescribed by the Housing Act (Form of Orders and Notices) Order, 1925 (S. R. and O., 1925, No. 637), a copy of which may be obtained from His Majesty's Stationery Office at the above addresses. Any question arising under this provision, is, in case of difference between the owner and the local authority, to be determined by the Minister of Health.

Where a closing order has in consequence of such a notice been deemed to have become operative in respect of a house, the Minister of Health may, on the application of the local authority, make an order authorising the local authority to acquire the house compulsorily at site value.

If the notice of the local authority is not complied with, the local authority may—

(a) At the expiration of the time specified in that notice, if no appeal has been entered and no notice to close the house has been given by the owner; and

(b) Subject to any appeal which may have been made as aforesaid, at the expiration of twenty-one days from the determination by the Minister of Health if such notice has been given by the owner and the Minister of Health has determined that the house is capable without reconstruction of being made fit for human habitation; do the work required to be done.

Any expenses incurred by the local authority under the section may be recovered in a court of summary jurisdiction, together with interest (at such rate as the Minister of Health may, with the approval of the Treasury, from time to time by Order fix) from the date of service of a demand for the same till payment thereof from the owner, and such expenses and interest are to be a charge on the premises until recovered.

The local authority may by order declare any such expenses to be payable by monthly or annual instalments within a period not exceeding thirty years with interest (at such rate as the Minister of Health may, with the approval of the Treasury, from time to time by Order fix) from the date of the service of notice of demand until the whole amount is paid, and any such instalments and interest or any part thereof may be recovered in a summary manner from the owner or occupier, and if recovered from the occupier may be deducted by him from the rent of the premises.

NOTE.

By sub-section (4) of section 3 of the Act, it is provided that any instalments or interest or any part of any instalments or interest under an order of the local authority declaring their expenses to be payable by monthly or annual instalments may be recovered in a summary manner from the owner or occupier, and if recovered from the occupier may be deducted by him from the rent of the house.

The owner may appeal to the Minister of Health against any notice requiring him to execute works under section 3 of the Act, and against any demand for the recovery of expenses from him under that section or an order made by the local authority under that section with respect to those expenses, by giving notice of appeal to the Minister within twenty-one days after the notice is received or the demand or order is made (as the case may be) or such longer time as the Minister may allow, and no proceedings shall be taken in respect of any notice, demand, or order whilst the appeal is pending: Provided that no appeal against such a demand or order shall lie if and so far as the appeal raises any question which might have been raised on an appeal against the notice itself, and subject to such an appeal the notice, demand, or order shall be binding and conclusive as to any matters which could have been raised on such appeal.

NOTE.

The owner of the dwelling-house can appeal to the Minister of Health against the Closing Order within fourteen days after notice thereof is served on him by giving notice of appeal in the form annexed. On such an appeal the substantial question to be considered is whether the house in its present state is so dangerous or injurious to health as to be unfit for human habitation. If the owner does not appeal against the Closing Order, the Order becomes operative at the expiration of fourteen days after it was served, and it is then the duty of the Local Authority to serve notice on the occupier requiring him and his family to quit the house within a specified period not being less than fourteen days. It is open to the owner to take steps to render the house fit for habitation, and when he has done so, to apply to the Local Authority to determine the Closing Order. If the Local Authority refuse his application he may then, within fourteen days after such refusal, give notice of appeal against it to the Minister of Health.

The procedure on appeal is governed by rules made by the Minister of Health.

The Act provides—

THE HOUSING (LOANS BY COUNTY COUNCILS) ORDER, 1925, DATED 25TH JULY, 1925, MADE BY THE MINISTER OF HEALTH UNDER SECTION 94 OF THE HOUSING ACT, 1925.

The Minister of Health, in exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 94 of the Housing Act, 1925, and of all other powers enabling him, hereby makes the following Order:—

1. This Order may be cited as the Housing (Loans by County Councils) Order, 1925.

2.—(1) In this Order, unless the context otherwise requires—

"The Minister" means the Minister of Health;

"The Act" means the Housing Act, 1925;

"Housing Loan" means a loan raised by a county council for the purpose mentioned in section 94 of the Act, or, where a loan is raised partly for that purpose and partly for other purposes, such portion of the loan as is declared by the Minister to have been raised for the purpose of the said section 94.

(2) The Interpretation Act, 1889, shall apply to the interpretation of this Order as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

3. The Housing (Loans by County Councils) Order, 1920, is hereby revoked, but without prejudice to any right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired, accrued, or incurred under that Order.

4. Where the proceeds of a Housing Loan have been lent to local authorities, the county council shall discharge or provide for repayment of such part of the loan as represents the money lent to each local authority within a term ending not later than one year after the date at which that local authority is required to pay off the money lent to it.

5. Money lent to a local authority shall be repayable by it to the county council by equal half-yearly instalments of principal and interest combined within the period for which the local authority has power to borrow:

Provided that where the money lent to a local authority has been raised by the issue of stock, the local authority shall repay to the county council not less than six months before the expiration of the maximum period of the currency of the stock any outstanding balance of the amount borrowed from the county council.

6. All sums received by the county council from a local authority representing repayment of principal shall be applied in or towards discharge of the Housing Loan, or where the Housing Loan was raised by the issue of stock, in or towards redemption of such stock.

7. All sums which under the last preceding Article are required to be applied in or towards redemption of stock shall be transferred to the fund or account to which, under the provisions of the Acts or Regulations for the time being governing the issue and redemption of stock by the county council, sums required to be applied in redemption of stock are to be paid, and notwithstanding anything in those provisions the county council shall not be under any obligation to transfer to that fund or account in any year any greater sum than the aggregate of the sums received during that year and required by this Article to be so transferred.

8. The rate of interest at which money may be lent by the county council to a local authority shall be subject to the approval of the Minister and shall be calculated so as to cover the interest payable by the council in respect of such money together with all expenses incurred by the council in raising the same, and all expenses incurred or to be incurred by them in connection with the management or redemption of any stock or local bonds by means of which the money was raised, including any loss incurred by the council by reason of the rate of interest received in respect of any portion of the proceeds of the Housing Loan and not immediately required for loans to local authorities or in respect of any investments of moneys standing to the credit of any fund or account for the redemption of the Housing Loan falling short of the rate at which interest is payable by the council upon the Housing Loan:

Provided that where the Housing Loan was raised by the issue of stock, the rate of interest payable by the local authority may, with the consent of the Minister, be the same as that payable by the county council on such stock, but in that event the mortgage to be entered into by the local authority shall, in addition to securing the repayment of principal and interest as provided in Article 4 of this Order, include the provisions specified in the Schedule to this Order.

9. This Order shall not apply to the London County Council.

SCHEDULE.

The following provisions shall apply to every mortgage made between a county council and a local authority for securing repayment of a loan where the rate of interest charged is the same as that payable on the stock issued by the county council, and the mortgage shall include such covenants and conditions as may be necessary to give effect to such provisions.

(a) The local authority shall pay to the county council by means of an annuity of an amount to be specified in the mortgage payable half-yearly during a period to be similarly specified not exceeding the maximum period of currency of the stock, a sum equal to the amount, if any, by which the nominal amount of that part of the stock of which the proceeds were applied in making the loan to the local authority exceeded the net proceeds of such nominal amount of stock with interest on that sum at the rate payable under the mortgage in respect of the principal money secured thereby. In ascertaining net proceeds for the purpose of this paragraph a proportionate part of the expenses of the issue of the stock and of any unaccrued interest payable under the terms of issue at the date of the first payment of interest shall be deducted from the proceeds.

(b) The local authority shall pay annually to the county council on a date to be specfied in the mortgage a proportionate part of the expenses incurred by the council during the previous year in connection with the management of the stock, including any composition for stamp duties and any remuneration payable to the Registrar of the said stock and other establishment charges in connection therewith.

(c) At a date within one year from the commencement of the loan to be specified in the mortgage and thereafter at the end of each year from that date during the continuance of the loan and until the redemption of the stock, the amount, if any, by which the total interest paid by all the local authorities (i) in respect of loans made to them out of the proceeds of the Housing Loan, and (ii) under paragraph (a) of this Schedule, together with any interest received by the county council either upon any portion of the proceeds of the Housing Loan which has not for the time being been lent to any local authority, or upon moneys representing principal previously repaid by any such local authority and forming part of the council's redemption fund account relating to the Housing Loan, exceeds or falls short of the amount required to pay interest on the Housing Loan shall be ascertained, and in the case of any excess a proportionate part thereof shall be set off against any sum payable by the local authority under paragraphs (a), (b), or (d), of this Schedule, and in the case of any deficiency a proportionate part thereof shall be paid by the local authority to the county council.

(d) (i) If upon the realisation of any investments standing to the credit of the county council's redemption fund account relating to the Housing Loan the net proceeds of the sale of such investments represent a profit or loss to the council, a proportionate part of the amount of such profit or loss shall in the case of a profit be set off against the sums payable by the local authority to the county council, and in the case of a loss be paid by the local authority to the county council.

(ii) If the county council redeem or purchase and extinguish stock at less than its nominal value by the application of any part of the money carried to the said redemption fund account, the difference between the price at which the stock is so redeemed or purchased and its nominal value shall be treated for the purposes of this Article as a profit made on the realisation of an investment.

(iii) The necessary adjustments between the county council and the local authority for the purpose of this paragraph shall be made annually upon a date to be specified in the mortgage.

(e) Upon the redemption by the county council of any stock issued for the purposes of the Housing Loan the local authority shall repay to the council a proportionate part of any expenses incurred by the council in connection with such redemption.

(f) All powers and remedies of the county council for securing and recovering payment of the principal and interest payable under the mortgage shall be exercisable in respect of any payment to be made by the local authority to the council under the foregoing provisions of this Schedule.

(g) For the purposes of this Schedule a proportionate part of any expenses, profit, loss, or other amount shall mean as regards any local authority a part of such expenses, profit, loss, or other amount bearing the same proportion to the whole as the nominal amount of stock represented by the moneys lent to that local authority bears to the total nominal amount of the stock representing the amount lent to local authorities issued for the purpose of Housing.

(4) Where a local authority accepts a local bond issued by another local authority in payment or part payment of the purchase price of a house erected in pursuance of any scheme under the Act, the local authority by whom the bond was issued shall, if so requested by the other local authority, redeem the bond by paying the nominal amount thereof to that local authority.

(5) The first payment of interest on any local bond shall be adjusted in accordance with the date of issue of the bond and any sum paid by way of repayment or redemption shall include interest accrued to the date of repayment or redemption.

Registration and Certificates.

11. A local authority issuing local bonds shall appoint a registrar for the purposes of this part of these Regulations, and may direct him to act on their behalf for the purposes of all or any of the things which they are authorised to do under this part of these Regulations.

12.—(1) The local authority shall keep a register (hereinafter called the "Local Bonds Register") of all persons who are holders for the time being of local bonds.

13.—(1) The local authority shall issue to each holder of a local bond a certificate in respect thereof, duly numbered and dated, and specifying the denomination of the bond and the period for which it is issued.

(2) The certificate shall be primâ facie evidence of the title of the person therein named, his executors, administrators or assigns, to the bond therein specified, but the want of a certificate, if accounted for to the satisfaction of the local authority, shall not prevent the holder of a bond from disposing of and transferring the bond.

(3) If a certificate is worn out or damaged, the local authority, on the production thereof, may cancel it and issue a new certificate in lieu thereof.

(4) If a certificate is lost or destroyed, the local authority on proof thereof to their satisfaction, and, if they so require, on receiving an indemnity against any claims in respect thereof, may give a new certificate in lieu of the certificate lost or destroyed.

(6) Until the deed of transfer and the certificate have been delivered to the local authority as aforesaid, the local authority shall not be affected by the transfer, and the transferee shall not be entitled to receive any payment of interest on the bond.

(7) The local authority before registering a transfer of a local bond may, if they think fit, require evidence by statutory declaration or otherwise of the title of any person claiming to make the transfer.

Closing of Local Bonds Register.

15. The local authority may close the Local Bonds Register for a period not exceeding thirty days immediately before the thirty-first day of March and the thirtieth day of September in any year respectively, and notwithstanding the receipt by the local authority during those periods of any deed of transfer, the half-yearly payment of interest next falling due may be made to the persons registered as holders of local bonds on the date of the closing of the register.

Transmission of Local Bonds.

16.—(1) Any person becoming entitled to a local bond by reason of the death or bankruptcy of a holder or by any lawful means other than a transfer may, by the production of such evidence of title as the local authority may require, either be registered as holder of the bond, or, instead of being himself registered, may make such transfer of the bond as the holder could have made, and the local authority shall issue a certificate accordingly.

(2) Until such evidence as aforesaid has been furnished to the local authority, the local authority shall not be affected by the transmission of the bond and no person claiming by virtue thereof shall be entitled to receive any payment of interest thereon.

(3) Where two or more persons are registered as holders of a local bond they shall be deemed to be joint holders with right of survivorship between them.

Interest on Local Bonds.

17.—(1) Unless the holder of a local bond otherwise requests, the local authority may pay the interest thereon by posting a warrant to the holder at his address as shown in the Local Bonds Register.

(2) The posting by the local authority of a letter containing an interest warrant addressed to a holder as aforesaid shall, as respects the liability of the local authority, be equivalent to the delivery of the warrant to the holder himself.

18. The local authority shall not be required to pay any executors or administrators any interest on local bonds held by their testator or intestate until the probate of the Will or the letters of administration has or have been left with the local authority for registration.

19. The local authority before paying any interest on any local bonds may, if they think fit, require evidence by statutory declaration or otherwise of the title of any person claiming a right to receive the interest.

20. Where more persons than one are registered as joint holders of a local bond, any one of them may give an effectual receipt for any interest thereon, unless notice to the contrary has been given to the local authority by any other of them.

General.

21. No notice of any trust shall be entered in the Local Bonds Register or in any other book kept by the local authority or be receivable by the local authority.

22.—(1) If at any time any interest due on any local bonds remains unpaid for two months after demand in writing, the persons entitled thereto may apply to the High Court for a receiver and the Court may, if it thinks fit, appoint a receiver on such terms as it thinks fit.

(2) The receiver shall have the like power of collecting, receiving, recovering and applying moneys, and of assessing, making, and recovering all rates for the purpose of obtaining the same, as the local authority or any officer thereof would or might have, and such other powers and duties as the Court thinks fit, and shall apply all moneys so collected and received, after paying all such costs as the Court may direct, for the purposes of these Regulations.

23. A person taking or holding local bonds shall not be concerned to inquire or to take notice whether the issue thereof was or was not in accordance with these Regulations,or whether or not the local authority or any meeting thereof was properly constituted or convened, or whether or not the proceedings at a meeting of the local authority were legal or regular, or to see to the application of any money raised by the issue of local bonds or be answerable for any loss or misapplication thereof.

24. If at any time any interest on any local bonds is unclaimed at the time for payment thereof, the amount shall, nevertheless, on demand at any subsequent time, be paid to the person showing his right thereto, but without interest in the meantime.

25. Where the local authority sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of any land or property charged as security for any local bonds, the land or property shall in the hands of the purchaser or lessee be absolutely free from any charge for that purpose, and he shall not be bound to inquire into the application of the money arising from such sale, lease, or disposal, or be in any way responsible for the misapplication or non-application thereof.

26. A local authority may pay such expenses in connection with the issue of local bonds (including commission) as the Minister may approve.

PART IV.—INSPECTION OF DISTRICT.

27.—(1) The local authority shall take into consideration the provisions of section 8 of the Act, and shall determine the procedure to be adopted under this Part of these Regulations, to give effect to the requirements of that section in regard to the inspection of their district from time to time.

(2) The local authority shall as part of their procedure make provision for a thorough inspection to be carried out from time to time according to the varying needs or circumstances of the dwelling-houses or localities in the district of the local authority.

The list or lists may, if thought fit, relate to the dwelling-houses within a defined area of the district without specifying each house separately therein.

28. The inspection under and for the purposes of section 8 of the Act shall be made by the medical officer of health, or by an officer designated by the local authority but acting under his direction and supervision, and the officer making inspection of any house shall examine the state of the house in relation to the following matters, namely :—

(1) The arrangements for preventing the contamination of the water supply.

(4) Requisitions for search and official certificates of search shall be in the form set out in the First Schedule hereto, or in such other form as the Minister may from time to time determine.

(5) A separate requisition for search shall be made in respect of each parcel of land in respect of which search is requested except where a certificate is required in respect of two or more contiguous parcels of land for the purpose of the same transaction.

(6) Any person desiring to make a personal search in the register shall, if so required by the local registrar, furnish his name and address and indicate by reference to a plan or otherwise the land in respect of which he proposes to search.

PAYMENTS TO OFFICERS AND WORKMEN OUT OF LOAN MONEYS.

In sanctioning loans to local authorities the Ministry of Health stipulate as follows :—

"No part of the salary or wages of the council's permanent staff (including employees) ordinarily charged to revenue account should be defrayed out of moneys borrowed under this sanction. There would, however, be no objection to the payment out of the loan of reasonable remuneration for additional work performed outside normal hours or, where it is necessary temporarily to employ substitutes to take the place of permanent staff during the time that the staff is engaged on the work for which the loan is sanctioned, a sum equal to the reasonable remuneration paid to the substitutes.

"With regard to payments (if any) due to yourself (the clerk) for legal work in connection with the object of the loan and not within the scope of your duties, the bills as taxed may properly be paid out of the loan."

Where the loan includes the purchase of land as well as the execution of works, the following sentence is added :—

"Charges within the scale prescribed in Part I. of the Schedule I. to the General Order under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881, need not be submitted for taxation"

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH. MEMORANDUM L.G.A. 1.

County Councils (outside London).

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1929.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS OF GUARDIANS.

PRELIMINARY ACTION TO BE TAKEN BY COUNTY COUNCILS.

1. The "appointed day" for the purposes of Part I. of the Act is the 1st April, 1930, and it will be incumbent upon the council at an early date to take the new provisions into their special consideration with a view to the elimination, so far as may be, of the difficulties incidental to a period of transition and the securing of a smooth and easy substitution of the new for the old administration. In particular, it will be a matter of the first importance that the changes shall not involve any poor person in hardship or in a delay in the consideration and, so far as may be necessary, the relief of his needs.

2. In this connection attention is to be drawn to the difference between poor law relief and such assistance as has hithero been given by the council under other enactments. Assistance of the latter kind may be largely a matter of selection and discretion, but once the fact of destitution is established the grant of the relief in the form thought appropriate by the relieving authority becomes a statutory duty of that authority.

3. It is not proposed in this memorandum to set out all the matters arising on the transfer effected by the Act. Direct reference to the relevant provisions of the Act which are comprised in sections 1 to 17, 19, 20, 53, 113, 114, 119, 121, 123, 124, 126, 127, 128, 131 and 132, and the Sixth, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth Schedules of the Act will be necessary. What is here mainly sought is to draw particular attention to matters which must be dealt with before the appointed day, and to indicate certain general administrative considerations to which the council will prudently have regard in deciding upon the action which they may be disposed to take.

4. Attention should be given to the provision in section 13 requiring the council when making provision for hospital accommodation in discharge of the functions transferred to them under Part I. of the Act to consult such committee or other body as they consider to represent both the governing bodies and the medical and surgical staffs of the voluntary hospitals providing services in or for the benefit of the county as to the accommodation to be provided and as to the purposes for which it is to be used.

I.—ADMINISTRATIVE SCHEME.

5. The council is to prepare and submit to the Minister (section 4), not later than the 27th September, 1929, an administrative scheme of the arrangements proposed to be made for discharging the functions transferred to the council.

6. Copies of the scheme are to be sent to the council of each county district wholly or partly in the county and a notice of the submission of the scheme, stating the place at which a copy may be inspected, is to be published in one or more newspapers circulating in the county (section 8 (1)). The scheme will not be effective until it has been approved by the Minister, who is empowered to modify it before giving his approval (section 8 (2)).

7. In the event of failure on the part of the council to submit a scheme to the Minister within the prescribed time, or such extended time as the Minister may allow (section 4 proviso), the Minister may himself make a scheme (section 8 (3)). It will, in this connection, be realised that great difficulty would be involved if in any large number of cases an extension of the prescribed time for the submission of a scheme were sought.

8. It may well be that in the first instance the council will desire to make only a scheme to meet the immediate necessities of the transfer, with the intention of revising that scheme after a comparatively short time. When considering this point the council will no doubt have regard to the possible necessity of adaptation of a number of the transferred institutions to make them suitable for the several purposes for which they will be used under the new regime.

9. Any scheme made by the council may be amended by a scheme similarly made and approved, and any scheme made by the Minister may be altered by a scheme similarly made or by a scheme made in the prescribed manner by the council and duly approved by the Minister. (Section 131.)

10. Section 5 requires the council, in preparing an administrative scheme, to have regard to the desirability of securing that, as soon as circumstances permit, all assistance which can lawfully be provided otherwise than by way of poor relief shall be so provided. The Minister is sure that the council will wish to make the widest possible arrangements under this provision, and, indeed, it is a main object of the Act to secure that as soon as practicable the existing duplication of powers shall be brought to an end and that each form of assistance shall be in the hands of one and not more than one branch of the council's organisation. The section enables the council to include in a scheme a formal declaration on this subject which will have the effect of abrogating the council's powers of dealing under the Poor Law Act, 1927, with any functions specified in the declaration and leaving those functions to be performed exclusively under the appropriate special Act. The making of such a declaration places the council, in so far as destitute persons are concerned, under an obligation to exercise the powers which they have under the special Acts, and accordingly a formal declaration should not be made until adequate resources can be placed at the disposal of the committee administering the special Act. As a simple example, it will generally be practicable to declare that the domiciliary assistance of blind persons shall be administered under the Blind Persons Act, 1920, but the immediate extension of the declaration to cover the institutional relief of such blind persons as require it will generally present difficulties. This function could not be regarded as being discharged under the special Act if any blind person could be provided with institutional relief only by admission to a workhouse or other institution provided under the Poor Law Act, 1927.

11. The council will therefore take into consideration at an early stage the extent to which a declaration can be made and will, in particular, have regard to such typical services as—

(1) Maintenance and treatment of sick persons and pregnant women in hospitals.
(2) Maintenance of mental defectives in institutions.
(3) Maintenance of blind persons in institutions and in their homes.
(4) Maintenance and treatment of tuberculous persons in sanatoria and other institutions.
(5) Education of children.

Even where a declaration is not immediately practicable it will often be possible for a particular poor law institution to be appropriated under section 53 for the purposes of a special Act. Where, for example, hospital provision cannot be made for a whole county, it may be practicable to appropriate a particular poor law infirmary for use as a public hospital under the Local Government Act, 1888, and still to keep in operation the poor law powers of relieving the sick poor in so far as other accommodation for them is required.

12. Attention may also be drawn in this connection to the power given by the Act (section 6 (3)) of entrusting the administration of a poor law service to a committee such as the Public Health and Housing or the Education Committee of the Council, to be administered on behalf of and subject to the general direction and control of the Public Assistance Committee.

13. An administrative scheme is to include provisions on the following matters :—

(i) the constitution of a Public Assistance Committee (section 6 (1)) to which, subject to the provisions of section 5 (2) and (3), all matters relating to the exercise of the transferred functions other than those specified in section 2 (except the power of raising a rate and borrowing money) shall stand referred ;

(ii) the division (section 7 (1) (a)) of the county into areas consisting of one or more county districts ;

(iii) the constitution (section 7 (1) (a) and (b)) of a sub-committee of the Public Assistance Committee to be called the Guardians Committee for each such area. A guardians committee is to consist of not more than 36 nor less than 12 members. The members are to be—

(a) representatives nominated by district councils ;

(b) county councillors representing electoral divisions in the area ;

(c) additional members, not exceeding one-third of the total membership of the committee, some of whom are to be women ; county aldermen may be included ;

(iv) the discharge by the Guardians Committees or sub-committees of those committees, subject to restrictions or conditions which may be imposed by the county council, of certain duties specified in the Act (section 7 (1) (c)) ;

(v) effective consultation between the Public Assistance Committee and the Guardians Committees of any area upon business relating specially to that area, and in particular the enabling of every guardians committee to nominate their chairman, or other representative, to be present at any meeting of the Public Assistance Committee at which business specially relating to the area of the guardians committee is to be transacted (section 7 (4)) ;

(vi) the determination of the place at which each guardians committee is to sit (section 7 (5)).

Every local authority is required to allow a guardians committee or sub-committee thereof to use, free of charge, for the purposes of their meetings any premises belonging to the authority, at any time when they are not required for the use of the local authority.

14. The Minister may, on representations from the council of the existence of special circumstances in the whole or any part of the county, direct that the preceding requirements, except that numbered (i), shall not apply. (Section 7 (1) proviso.)

It may, for example, be thought that in some of the smallest counties the establishment of guardians committees with separate areas is unnecessary, and in cases of this kind the Minister is empowered to give a direction exempting the council from the necessity of constituting, under the administration of guardians committees, areas such as are above mentioned.

15. In addition, there are certain points on which provision may at the council's option be made, but can only be effectively made in an administrative scheme.

(i) Committees of the council.

(a) In lieu of establishing a new committee to be the Public Assistance Committe, the provision in the scheme may be either that an existing committee of the council shall act as the Public Assistance Committee, or that the members for the time being of an existing committee with or without additional members shall so act. (Section 6 (1) (a).)

(b) Subject to the provisions of section 5 (2) (3) all matters relating to the exercise of the transferred functions except the power of raising a rate or borrowing money are to stand referred to the Public Assistance Committee, whose report upon them the council will consider (except in an urgent matter) before deciding upon action (section 6 (2)). It is, however, open to the council by their administrative scheme to give independent powers of action to the Public Assistance Committee by delegating (section 6 (3)) to the committee with or without restrictions or conditions any of the transferred functions (except the power of raising a rate or borrowing money).

(c) The scheme may provide that particular functions which have been delegated to the Public Assistance Committee shall be discharged on behalf of and subject to the general control of the committee by another committee of the council. (Section 6 (3).) This power is directed to meeting a case in which the special Acts under which a particular committee is working do not extend to a service performed under the Poor Law Acts, which it is, nevertheless, desired to co-ordinate with the special service.

As regards the care of children, for example, while the council will no doubt generally make at once a declaration that their education shall be provided under the Education Acts and not under their poor law powers, it may or may not also be thought desirable that the education committee should undertake, under the provision mentioned in the preceding paragraph, the maintenance and care of boarded-out children and of children maintained in institutions.

(ii) Additional members.

Section 6 (1) (b) empowers the council to secure on their Public Assistance Committee or other committee or body acting as such the assistance of specially qualified persons who are not members of the council. Where additional members are so appointed, women are to be included among them. The whole number of appointed members is not to be more than one-third of the committee or body. (Provisions as to the appointment of additional members of other committees and sub-committees of the council are contained in section 14 (3) and 14 (5), but these appointments can be made without any reference thereto in an administrative scheme.)

(iii) Alternative powers of giving assistance (section 5).

Reference has already been made in paragraph 10 to the Minister's desire that services for the supply of which other powers exist shall cease to be poor law services, and to the conditions under which and the methods by which this result may be attained. It is only necessary here to point out that any declarations under the section must define precisely the extent to which the poor law powers are to be abrogated in favour of those of the parallel Act, and that pending the practicability of an actual declaration as regards any particular service the council have large powers of rearranging the transferred business so as to secure an approximation to the result which they, as well as the Minister, will wish to secure.

(iv) Arrangements with other local authorities in the county.

As a rule, a county council is not the local authority throughout the administrative county for the purposes of Part III. of the Education Act, 1921, or of the Maternity and Child Welfare Act of 1918, and in such case the education committee of the council or the maternity and child welfare committee, as the case may be, will not be able to accept responsibility for the transferred duty in the whole of the county. If, therefore, the council propose to allocate any of the transferred functions to their education committee or their maternity and child welfare committee, it will be necessary for the council, before making a declaration relating to these statutes under section 5 of the Act, either (1) to ascertain that all the local authorities within the county who function under one or both of the Acts of 1921 and 1918 are able and willing to undertake within their areas the duties which, in the rest of the county, will be allocated to the committees referred to and will therefore not remain with the Public Assistance Committee ; or (2) to make other provision for meeting this point. In some cases under the Maternity and Child Welfare Act a solution may be found by the council undertaking throughout the county particular services not already undertaken by the other local authorities, e.g., the provision of maternity institutions, while the other local authorities undertake within their areas the other services under the Act akin to the services they now administer.

16. The circumstances of the counties, the administrative methods of the councils and the institutional and other facilities which will be available vary so greatly that the Minister anticipates that there will be some diversity in the form of the administrative schemes submitted for his approval. He has, however, caused to be prepared for the assistance of the council in approaching this matter a form (L.G.A.2) for a complete scheme of administration such as may be suitable where ample facilities are available for the break up of the poor law, indicating by means of an appendix to the scheme a number of branches of the services in respect of which duplicate powers at present exist, and some of which may probably be made the subject of declaration in the council's first scheme. Others must no doubt in many cases be left to be dealt with, as opportunity occurs, in amending schemes.

It will be seen that the form of scheme contemplates that, subject to safeguards which are suggested, and which can be expanded or adapted to meet the local administrative methods, there shall be a measure of delegation of the council's powers to the Public Assistance Committee. It appears to the Minister that the business of public assistance must clearly involve on occasion the prompt taking of decisions which must be followed by immediate action. In these circumstances the omission of a provision of this kind may well lead to legal difficulties, since, apart from such a provision, the committee would have no legal authority to act in anticipation of the confirmation of its recommendations by the council.

II.—CO-ORDINATION OF ASSISTANCE.

17. In considering the adaptation of its machinery to the new state of things, the council will no doubt have in mind the necessity of co-ordinating public assistance and will consider how far it is essential or desirable to provide a central register or index from which each of its committees can ascertain how far the circumstances of persons with whom they are dealing are known to other branches of the council's administration.

18. The council will also consider the possible advantages of an arrangement under which all material assistance given in the home is administered by or through the instrumentality of the Public Assistance Committee and its staff, full regard being, of course, paid to the desires of any other committee which from its own angle is satisfied that any particular assistance ought to be so given.

19. It will become the duty of the council as from the appointed day to recover the expenses incurred by them in the maintenance of persons in institutions (except where admission to the institution was for the purpose of treatment for infectious disease, and the question of recovery will remain a matter of discretion), in addition to the duty transferred to them of recovering the cost of assistance granted under the poor law. The council will no doubt desire to secure the greatest possible measure of co-ordination of the arrangements made by them for recovery of this kind whatever the statutory authority under which they are acting, in regard not only to the steps to be taken to ascertain the means and circumstances of the persons from whom recovery is due but also as to the basis to be adopted in assessing the amount to be recovered.

III.—TRANSFERRED INSTITUTIONS.

20. Another matter which must be dealt with before the appointed day is the disposal of poor law institutions at present belonging to a union, only part of which is within the county.

21. The institutions of any union which is wholly within the county are to be automatically transferred to the county (section (113) 1), but those belonging to any union crossing the county boundary are (section 113 (2) (a)) to be the subject of an agreement between the councils of the counties and county boroughs concerned. The agreement may provide for joint ownership of institutional property, for its division between two or more councils, or for its transfer to one council, and the agreement, whatever its main purpose, may provide for the joint user of an institution or attach conditions to its transfer or user. The agreement may, in regard to the user of an institution, be modified from time to time as circumstances may require. Unless an agreement is reached by the 1st February, 1930, the matter will be determinable by Order of the Minister. It is to be observed that the settlement of an administrative scheme may well turn upon the effect of the agreement to be made, and that the council may be in a difficult position if an agreement is not reached in the near future.

22. It is clear that there will be many instances in which administrative considerations make it necessary, at any rate in the first instance, that arrangements shall be made to secure the joint user of an institution, but it may well be that these arrangements will more generally be made by vesting the ownership of an institution in one council, subject to an agreement to receive, by the reservation of a specified number of beds or otherwise, suitable cases chargeable to other councils. Here again it may be convenient that in the first instance the arrangements made should apply only for a limited period.

23. Where a transferred institution can be spared from the poor law use for which it was provided it may be appropriated for other purposes, e.g., those of a hospital under the Local Government Act, 1888 (as extended), or a home for mental defectives under the Mental Deficiency Acts. The approval of the Minister will be required to any such appropriation (see section 53), and such other consents as are ordinarily necessary for the provision of an institution, e.g., in the case last cited, that of the Board of Control.

IV.—JOINT COMMITTEES AND VAGRANCY.

24. Apart from joint arrangements which may be necessitated by the adoption of the county and county borough boundaries for poor law purposes, the council is empowered (section 3 (1)) to apply for an order of the Minister combining the area of the council with other areas for any purpose connected with the exercise of the transferred functions. The Minister may make an order for this purpose, and may act in this manner without any application being made to him if the course appears to him one which would tend to diminish expense or otherwise would be of public or local advantage, but is required to hold a local inquiry before making an order unless all the councils whose areas are to be combined give their consent (section 3 (2)). Such a combination may be set up before the appointed day and commence its active life on that day. (Section 3 (5).)

25. It appears probable that there may be many services at present entrusted to the poor law authorities for which combinations covering wide areas may form the best administrative authorities. In certain instances, as, for example, the care of mental defectives, combinations of boards of guardians for areas extending beyond one county or county borough are already in existence, and the maintenance of a joint authority may in these cases prove more satisfactory than the above-mentioned alternative of single ownership and joint user of an institution.

26. A special case for combined action will arise as regards the relief of vagrancy. It has long been recognised (see, e.g., the Report of the Departmental Committee on Vagrancy of 1905, Cd. 2852) that this is a service which requires for its efficient administration a specialised authority with an extended geographical sphere of operation. Efficiency is impossible, or at best is rarely attained, so long as this service is a mere branch of a larger service, and so long as the administrators consider only the circumstances of one casual ward. To meet this difficulty many combinations of boards of guardians either of a semi-formal kind, or deriving their authority and position from an order of the Minister, have already been established. The organisation of the whole country on these lines requires further consideration, but the Minister considers it of the first importance that the combinations of areas for this purpose which have been secured should continue, and that further combinations should be formed with all reasonable rapidity. He proposes accordingly to invite the views of the local authorities concerned in regard to the maintenance of the existing combinations and the formation of others. He hopes at any rate to be in a position to make the necessary orders continuing, with or without alterations, such of the existing combinations as extend beyond the boundaries of one county, in time for their operation on the appointed day.

V.—FINANCE.

27. The council will probably desire to lay down with some precision the lines upon which the financial arrangements necessary for the performance of their new duties are to be made, and will no doubt request their finance committee to submit at an early date proposals to this end. It will obviously be essential that these arrangements shall be in working order on the appointed day.

VI.—TRANSFERRED OFFICERS.

28. Provision in regard to the transfer to the county and county borough councils of the existing poor law staffs is contained in section 119 of the Act. Where a union is wholly comprised within a county the whole staff will be transferred to the council, and in other cases officers employed in an institution or district will follow the institution or district, and other officers will be transferred as the councils operating in the union area may agree not later than two months before the appointed day or as the Minister may determine.

29. Poor law officers are at present generally subject to the provisions of the Poor Law Officers' Superannuation Act, 1896, and they will, where the council has no scheme of superannuation or where they elect not to enter the council's existing scheme upon terms that would safeguard their present position, remain subject to that Act until provision is made by Parliament for a general superannuation arrangement covering the staffs of all counties and county boroughs (section 124).

30. The Act preserves (section 121) the existing tenure and conditions of office of the transferred officers, and authorises the council to redistribute their duties. It further contains (section 123 and Schedule 8) provisions for the compensation of transferred officers who lose or in certain circumstances (section 123 (3) (a)) relinquish office in consequence of the Act.

VII.—GENERAL INSPECTORS.

31. For the purposes of the administration of the Poor Law Act, 1927, and of other functions the Minister is represented locally by officers known as general inspectors. These officers have by virtue of their duties an intimate knowledge of the purposes served by and the capabilities of the poor law institutions within their districts, besides being closely acquainted with the poor law personnel and the Poor Law Acts and Regulations and the administration thereof. A list of the names and addresses of the inspectors together with a list of counties, and of the inspector's districts in which they are comprised, is appended for the assistance of the councils who will naturally desire to consult these officers in the preparation of administrative schemes and in the allocation of the institutions transferred to them. It is intended that the general inspectors shall, after the appointed day, continue to act substantially in their present capacity of intermediaries between the local authorities and the Ministry.

This Memorandum and the model scheme of which a copy accompanies it will be placed on sale and copies may be obtained at the addresses below.

(i) the consideration and examination of applications for relief ;

(ii) the determination of the nature and amount of the relief (if any) to be given to such applicants ;

(iii) the determination of the amount (if any) to be paid by any recipient of relief, or the persons liable for his maintenance, towards reimbursing the council the amount expended by them on his relief ;

Appendix II.

Consultation between Public Assistance Committee and Guardians Committees.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH. MEMORANDUM L.G.A. 5.

County and County Borough Councils.

1. LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1929.
2. MATERNITY AND CHILD WELFARE.
3. VOLUNTARY ASSOCIATIONS.

1. Section 101 of the Local Government Act, 1929, requires the council of every county and of every county borough, six months at least before the beginning of each fixed grant period, to prepare and submit to the Minister for his approval a scheme for securing the payment by the council of annual contributions towards the expenses of voluntary associations, if any, providing maternity and child welfare services in or for the benefit of the county or county borough. Sub-section (2) provides that the associations to be included in these schemes are (a) those whose services are approved by the Minister immediately before the appointed day; and (b) those whose services are not so approved but are utilised by the council.

2. Copies of model schemes which the Minister has caused to be prepared for use by county councils and county borough councils, respectively, are enclosed with this Memorandum. The Minister will be prepared to approve schemes on the lines of these models, and he suggests that the councils should generally adopt this form of scheme.

3. A list is being sent (in duplicate) to each council containing the names of the voluntary associations in the area of the council whose services were approved by the Minister up to the 31st March, 1929, and also the amount of the grant paid by the Minister to each association in respect of the standard year. The list contains a column for the amounts, if any, of the contributions paid by the council to these associations in respect of that year, and this column should be completed and one copy of the list returned to the Minister as soon as possible.

4. It will be observed that the first schemes prepared under section 101 must be submitted to the Minister by the 30th September next, and it is desirable that the council should take steps to prepare their scheme at the earliest possible date. The Minister will be glad on request to furnish the council with any information in his possession as to the activities or finances of particular associations, but before preparing their scheme the council should communicate with representatives of each of the voluntary associations included in the list with a view to obtaining particulars of the services now being rendered, and proposed to be rendered during each of the three years comprised in the first fixed grant period, together with information as to the present and probable future cost.

5. Regard should of course be had to this information in considering the amounts of the annual contributions to be specified in the scheme, and the Minister is of opinion that, save in exceptional circumstances, the amount specified for each association should be not less than the total of the sums received by the association in respect of the standard year from the Minister and the council, respectively. As the council are aware, the grant paid in respect of the standard year to each

Appendix II. association included in the list will form part of the "loss on account of grants" of the county or county borough for the purposes of the Act.

6. In certain cases councils, with the approval of the Minister, utilise the services of voluntary associations which are not in receipt of grants from the Minister, and make payments to the associations for the actual services rendered. These associations are not included in the lists furnished to the councils, and it will be for each council to consider whether such associations should be included in the scheme.

7. In some areas it may happen that additional associations, or further services provided by some of the associations already approved, will be approved by the Minister before the appointed day. The Minister will furnish to the appropriate council particulars of any additions to the list which are approved before a scheme is submitted, but in other cases provision will have to be made for these additional associations or services by modification of the scheme under section 101 (3).

8. In the case of county councils, attention is drawn to the provisions of section 101 (4). In the lists sent to the councils of those counties in which there are voluntary associations providing services in or for the benefit of a district whose council have established a maternity and child welfare committee, the Minister has indicated those associations whose services appear to him to be such that contributions should be paid thereto by the district council. This is, however, a matter for the determination of the county council in the first instance, and it will be observed that, if any such determination is made, a copy of the scheme must be sent to the district councils concerned when the scheme is submitted to the Minister.

MATERNITY AND CHILD WELFARE.

County Councils.

SCHEME MADE BY THE County Council under section 101 of the Local Government Act, 1929, for securing the payment by the council of annual contributions towards the expenses of voluntary associations providing maternity and child welfare services in or for the benefit of the county.

1. (i) Subject to the conditions prescribed in paragraph 2 of this scheme the council of the administrative county of (hereinafter referred to as "the council") will, in each of the three financial years 1930–31, 1931–32 and 1932–33, pay by way of annual contribution to each of the voluntary associations named in column (1) of the First Schedule to this scheme the sum specified in column (2) of that schedule and placed opposite to the name of the association.

(ii) Such annual contribution shall either be paid in a single sum before the 30th September in each year or may, by arrangement with the voluntary association concerned, be paid in equal half-yearly instalments.

2. It will be a condition of the payment of a contribution to any voluntary association under this scheme—

(i) that the council are satisfied as to the efficiency of the maternity and child welfare services provided by the association, and that such services are being used by a reasonable number of those persons for whom the services are provided;

(ii) that no reduction or alteration of such services is made without the consent of the council;

(iii) that such services, and any premises in which those services are carried on, are open to inspection at all reasonable times by any officer of the council duly authorised by the council, and by any officer of the Ministry of Health appointed for that purpose by the Minister;

(iv) that the association sends to the council in each year a copy of the annual report of the association on the maternity and child welfare work of the previous year, together with a statement of the accounts of the association for that year relating to such work and a copy of the auditor's certificate thereon, and furnishes the council from time to time with such other information relating to the maternity and child welfare services provided by the association and the expenditure thereon as the council may reasonably require;

Provided that the council shall not terminate or make any reduction in the annual contribution payable to an association on the ground that any of the foregoing conditions are not fulfilled, except with the consent of the Minister of Health.

3. Any dispute or difference between the council and an association in connection with any matter arising out of this scheme shall be referred to the Minister of Health whose decision shall be final and binding upon the council and the association.

4. The council hereby determine that the maternity and child welfare services provided by the voluntary associations named in column (1) of the Second Schedule to this scheme are such that contributions thereto should be paid by the councils of the districts named in column (2) of that schedule, being councils who have established maternity and child welfare committees under the Maternity and Child Welfare Act, 1918.

5. This scheme shall come into operation on the 1st day of April, 1930, and continue in force until the 31st day of March, 1933, subject to any alteration which may be made by the council with the approval of the Minister of Health under section 131 (2) of the Local Government Act, 1929, or by the Minister under section 101 (5) of that Act.

Memorandum L.G.A. 9.

County Councils.
Town Councils.
Urban District Councils.
Rural District Councils.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT.

ROADS.

(PARTS III. AND VII.)

I.—CHANGES IN HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION.

The effect of the first portion of Part III. of the Act, which deals with highways, may be broadly stated to be that, as from the appointed day (1st April, 1930), all roads in rural districts and all classified roads in urban districts will become a county responsibility. The term "road" means a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large and includes bridges so repairable.

Roads which were main roads before the appointed day, and all roads which under the Act become a county responsibility, will be known as "county roads," and the county councils will be the highway authorities as regards these roads. All county roads (other than roads "claimed" by an urban authority) will vest in the county council. The position in county boroughs and metropolitan boroughs will remain unchanged.

This general statement is subject to the modifications explained below under the headings "Rights of Urban Authorities to claim County Roads" and "Delegation."

Throughout this memorandum "urban district" includes non-county borough and "urban district council" includes the council of a non-county borough.

II.—POWERS OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES IN RELATION TO ROADS.

1. County Councils.

(1) The Act provides (section 29 (1) and (2)) that all enactments relating to main roads shall apply to county roads, and that county councils shall, in relation to county roads (other than roads which are claimed by an urban authority), have the like functions as with respect to main roads.

The county council will become responsible for the maintenance, repair, improvement, etc., of all bridges in the county repairable by the inhabitants at large which carry county roads. These will include some "borough" bridges (see section 29 (4)) which are now maintained by the corporation even though the road is a main road (section 119, Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, and section 35 (1), Local Government Act, 1888). The right to claim to maintain county roads will, however, extend to such "borough" bridges.

In some instances town and district councils may be liable under section 308 of the Public Health Act, 1875, to compensate public utility undertakers who sustain damage by an alteration made to a road. Liability to pay compensation under the section can arise only when the alteration is made in the exercise of powers under the Act of 1875 and not in the exercise of powers under some other Act, for instance, the Highway Acts. Section 39 of the Act provides that, in the case of any road which by virtue of the Act becomes vested in a county council, the council shall be subject to the same liability as that to which the town or district council were subject before the road became vested in the county council, where a public utility undertaker sustains damage by reason of the exercise of a function by the county council which, prior to the transfer of the road, could have been exercised by the town or district council only under the Act of 1875.

(2) In rural districts, county councils will have (in addition to their general powers in relation to county roads) such powers under the Highway Acts, 1835 to 1885, as could be exercised by rural district councils who were successors of highway boards (section 30 (1)). These functions relate both to highways repairable by the inhabitants at large and to highways not so repairable (e.g. the enforcement of a liability ratione tenuræ); and whereas the powers of rural district councils now differ, those that succeeded highway boards having larger powers than those that succeeded highway surveyors, all county councils will under the Act have the larger powers.

Appendix II.

(3) County councils will also have in all rural districts functions under the enactments set out in Parts I. and II. of the First Schedule to the Act. In order to assist local authorities readily to see the effect of the First Schedule, a graphic statement has been appended to this memorandum showing how functions are distributed by the schedule.

These functions include those under the Private Streets Works Act, 1892. Where the powers of the Act of 1892 are not delegated to the rural district council and are exercised by the county council themselves, the county surveyor when preparing his specification of private street works is required to consult the rural district council, if and so far as the works include sewers. The rural district council will continue to be the authority responsible for sewerage and sewage disposal, whether the highway functions are delegated to them or not, and it is therefore important that they should be consulted as to any proposed new sewers or alteration of existing sewers.

Another of the powers transferred to county councils in rural areas is the power to require (under section 31 of the Public Health Act, 1925) streets of greater width than the width for which the byelaws provide. The power can be exercised when a plan of a new street is submitted for approval. The plan will continue to be submitted, under the byelaws, to the rural district council. If the county council were not informed of the plan they would have no opportunity of exercising their powers. The Act provides, therefore, that the district council must notify the county council within seven days; and the county council can then state their requirements within the limits of the Act of 1925.

Despatch is essential in this matter, because section 158 of the Public Health Act, 1875, requires a local authority to approve or disapprove a plan submitted to them under their byelaws within one month. It is provided, therefore, that the county council may authorise the county surveyor to exercise on their behalf their powers under section 31 of the Act of 1925 (First Schedule, Part I.).

As the rural district council must in any event communicate their own decision to the person who deposited the plan within a month, they should inform him whether any requirement (and, if so, what requirement) has been notified to them by the county council or county surveyor.

(4) In urban districts, county councils will have the functions of an urban district council or a local authority under the enactments mentioned in Parts III., IV. and V. of the First Schedule as amended by any subsequent enactment (section 31 (5)). These functions will in urban districts relate only to county roads and, further, will not extend to " claimed " roads.

(5) County councils will be empowered to delegate highway functions in urban and rural districts to the district councils (see note on " Delegation " below).

2. Rural District Councils.

(1) Rural district councils will cease to be highway authorities and all the roads in their areas will become county roads as from the appointed day (1st April, 1930). They will retain their functions under the Local Government Act, 1894, as respects rights of way and encroachment on roadside wastes (section 30 (1)), and in these matters will, to a large extent, have concurrent powers with the county councils.

(2) Rural district councils will cease to exercise any functions relating to private street works under section 150 of the Public Health Act, 1875, with which they have been invested. They will also cease to exercise functions under the enactments (including the Private Street Works Act, 1892) mentioned in Part I. of the First Schedule unless the highway functions of the county council are delegated to them. Rural district councils who can now exercise functions under any of the enactments mentioned in Part II. of that schedule will be entitled to do so only with the consent of the county council (section 30 (3)).

(3) Rural district councils who are empowered to make byelaws under section 157 of the Public Health Act, 1875, with respect to the level, width, and construction of new streets will retain this power; but before making such byelaws the district council are required to consult with the county council. The county council may call upon the rural district council to exercise the power of making such byelaws, and, if thereafter the district council fail to do so within six months, the county council may themselves exercise the power (section 30 (4)).

(4) Rural district councils may apply to county councils for the delegation to them of the county council's functions in relation to roads in their district (see under heading " Delegation ").

3. Urban District Councils.

(1) As from the appointed day all classified roads in urban districts will become county roads.

(2) If a road in an urban district is classified after the appointed day it will become a county road.

(3) Urban district councils will retain their present responsibilities for unclassified roads (other than existing main roads) in their areas. They may, however, if they so desire, enter into agreements with the county council for the maintenance, repair and improvement of these roads by the latter in consideration of such payments as may be agreed between the two councils (sections 31 (1) and 34).

(4) Urban district councils the population of whose district, as estimated for the year 1928, exceeds 20,000 persons may claim to maintain county roads in their areas (see under heading " Rights of Urban Authorities to claim County Roads ").

(5) Urban district councils will also exercise certain functions with respect to the county roads in their areas. In respect to such roads (other than claimed roads) the Act (section 31 (5)) provides that the urban authority :—

(a) shall cease to exercise functions under the enactments mentioned in Part III. of the First Schedule;

(b) shall exercise functions under Part IV. of the First Schedule concurrently with the county council; and

(c) may exercise functions under the enactments mentioned in Part V. of the schedule only with the consent of the county council.

(6) Urban authorities may apply to the county council for the delegation to them of the county council's functions in relation to county roads in their area (see note on " Delegation " below).

(7) Urban authorities are empowered to appeal to the Minister of Transport if a county council refuse an application for an order declaring a road to be a county road.

Application for such an order may be made on the grounds (in addition to the grounds set out in section 15 of the Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878) that the road is situate in a part of an urban district which is rural in character (section 37).

III.—RIGHTS OF URBAN AUTHORITIES TO CLAIM COUNTY ROADS.

(1) Any urban authority the population of whose area, as estimated for the year 1928, exceeded 20,000 persons may claim to exercise the functions of maintenance and repair of any county road within their district, subject to exceptions which are mentioned in the proviso to section 32 (3) of the Act. Such " claimed " roads will vest in the urban district council, and for the purpose of the maintenance, repair and improvement and other dealing with any such road, the district council will have the same functions as if they were the highway authority with respect to that road and the road were an ordinary road vested in them (section 32 (1)).

(2) Any urban authority which has claimed to exercise the functions mentioned may at any time relinquish those functions to the county council with the consent of the latter. An appeal may be made to the Minister of Transport if the county council refuse their consent (section 32 (4)).

(3) The provisions of the existing law with regard to the making of annual payments by county councils towards the maintenance and repair and any reasonable improvement connected with maintenance and repair of a claimed county road are continued; but the Act provides for the making of payments by quarterly instalments (section 33 (1)).

(4) The Act further provides for the payment by a county council of contributions towards the expenses of any improvement of a claimed county road, not being expenses in connection with the maintenance and repair of the road. But the county council may refuse to contribute towards an expense on the ground, for instance, that the improvement is in the nature of a town improvement; and, in the event of disagreement, the decision rests with the Minister of Transport (section 33 (1) (b)). The term "improvement" includes the fixing of a building line or improvement line (section 134; see under "Road").

(5) Provisions with regard to the submission to county councils by urban authorities of estimates and supplementary estimates are contained in section 33 (2) and (3). Any difference arising under these provisions is determinable by the Minister of Transport (section 33 (4)).

IV.—DELEGATION.

(1) The Act provides (section 35 (1)) that the council of any county district may apply to the county council for the delegation to them of the county council's functions with regard to the maintenance, repair and improvement of—

(a) the whole of the unclassified roads (exclusive of county bridges) within the district;

(b) all or any of the classified roads (exclusive of county bridges) within the district;

(c) all or any of the county bridges within the district.

It may be explained that a bridge is not a "county bridge" simply because it carries a county road. A "county bridge" is a bridge for which the county council are responsible apart from their responsibility for county roads, for instance, a bridge for which the county council became responsible as successors to quarter sessions under the Local Government Act, 1888 (section 134; see under "County Bridge").

(2) As regards classified roads and county bridges, the county council have complete discretion as to whether they will or will not grant delegation (section 35 (3)).

(3) As regards unclassified roads, the county council are required to grant the application for delegation unless they are satisfied that, having regard to the best means of promoting economy and efficiency in highway administration throughout the county and to the particular circumstances of the district in respect of which the application is made, the application ought not to be granted (section 35 (2)).

If the county council refuse delegation in regard to unclassified roads, the district authority has a right of appeal to the Minister of Transport (section 35 (5)).

(4) Delegated functions may be relinquished by a district council by giving notice to the county council (section 35 (6) and (8)).

(5) The county council may determine the delegation of functions to any particular district authority, subject in the case of delegation in respect of unclassified roads to a right of appeal by the district authority to the Minister of Transport (section 35 (7) and (8)).

(6) The procedure with regard to the application for delegation is set out in sub-sections (1), (4), (5) and (8) of section 35.

(7) In discharging delegated functions the district council will act as agents of the county council. The conditions affecting such delegation are set out in section 36 (1) of the Act.

(8) Where functions are delegated to a county district council as regards any roads, the council will also as a matter of course discharge—

(a) in the case of rural districts, all the functions under the enactments set out in Part I. of the First Schedule relating to the delegated roads and to highways not repairable by the inhabitants at large (such as private streets); and

(b) in the case of urban districts, all the functions relating to the delegated roads set out in Part III. of the First Schedule.

The council will discharge the scheduled functions as agents of the county council, and subject to such conditions as the county council think fit with respect to any action to be taken by the district council.

District councils exercising such functions are empowered to make a contribution towards the cost of private street works or for any other purpose in connection with such functions where, in the opinion of the county council, expenditure would not be properly chargeable as general county expenses (section 36 (2)).

V.—TRANSFER OF LIABILITIES.

(1) This subject is dealt with in Part VII. of the Act (sections 117 and 118). County councils will take over from district councils the property and liabilities set out in paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (d) of section 117 (1) so far as they relate to roads which immediately before the appointed day were, or, as from that day become, vested in the county council.

(2) It is to be noted that if, in the case of an existing main road, any loan charges are outstanding in respect of a loan raised by a district council before the road was mained, the county council will assume responsibility for them. Similarly they will take over the assets mentioned in paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of section 117 (1) in respect to such roads.

(3) The Act provides that, if the county council and the district council so agree, the county council may pay the sums required from time to time to meet loan charges instead of assuming responsibility for the loan.

(4) Any sums due to be paid before 1st April, 1930, by a district council into a sinking fund required to be established for the purpose of a loan transferred to the county council are to be a debt due from the district council to the county council (section 117 (2)).

(5) In the case of roads which are claimed prior to the appointed day the county council are to repay to the urban district council such sums as are required to meet any loan charges falling due on or after the appointed day in respect of loans raised before that day for the road or its improvement (section 117 (3)).

(6) Where on an alteration of boundaries or other change a district council has received a payment (under the Local Government (Adjustments) Act, 1913, or otherwise) from another authority in respect of increased burden for highway expenditure which will not now fall on the district, an equitable adjustment of these payments has to be made in accordance with provisions set out in section 117 (4).

(7) Any disputes arising as to the transfer of property or liabilities under the section are to be determined by the Minister of Health (section 117 (6)).

(8) The above provisions do not apply to the transfer of quarries, plant, materials and depots, and special provisions relating to these matters are contained in section 118.

The county council, if the rural district council so desire, are required to take over any quarry, plant or materials belonging to, or any depot used by, the rural district council in their capacity as highway authority, and to pay therefor such sum as may be agreed, or, failing agreement, settled by arbitration.

Similarly, if an urban authority, not being a "claiming" authority, so desire, the county council are required to take over, on terms to be agreed or settled by an arbitrator, any quarry belonging to the urban authority in their capacity as highway authority, together with any fixed plant.

Where highway functions are relinquished by a county district council or the delegation of these functions is terminated by the county council, similar provisions apply as from the date of the relinquishment or termination.

VI.—ACTION WHICH MAY OR MUST BE TAKEN BY LOCAL AUTHORITIES ON OR BEFORE APRIL 1ST, 1930.

Particular attention is directed to the dates by which action has to be taken under the Act. In order to assist the smooth operation of the provisions of the Act it is most desirable that local authorities should take action which the Act requires or permits at as early a date as possible, and should not wait until the approach of the latest day on which such action may be taken.

1. County Councils.

(1) By section 35 (4) of the Act, county councils are required before October 1st, 1929—

(a) to send to the Minister of Transport a statement specifying the applications made to them under the section for the delegation of functions with respect to highways and the councils' decisions thereon, and in any case in which an application for the delegation of functions in respect of unclassified roads has been refused, the grounds on which the refusal was based ;

(b) to send to each district council which has applied for delegation a copy of so much of the statement as affects that council.

(2) On the 1st April, 1930, the county council are required—

(a) if so desired by a rural district council, to take over on terms to be agreed or settled any quarry, plant, or materials belonging to the rural district council as highway authority or any depots used by the district council exclusively in that capacity ;

(b) if so desired by an urban district council (other than an urban district council who have claimed county roads), to take over any quarry belonging to the urban district council in their capacity as highway authority, together with any fixed plant therein (section 118).

2. Rural District Councils.

(1) Rural district councils who desire the delegation to them of functions with respect to highways must make application to the county council for the purpose within three months after the commencement of the Act, that is, by the 28th June, 1929 (section 35 (1)).

(2) If an application for delegation in respect to unclassified roads is refused by the county council, the rural district council may appeal to the Minister before the 1st November, 1929.

(3) Rural district councils may require county councils on the 1st April, 1930, to take over their highway plant, etc. (see paragraph 1 (2) above).

3. Urban District Councils.

(1) As regards urban district councils who desire the delegation to them of functions with respect to highways, the same provisions apply as in the case of rural district councils (see paragraph 2 (1) and (2) above).

(2) Urban district councils who desire to claim county roads and have the necessary qualifications under section 32 must exercise their right of claiming before 1st April, 1930.

Where, however, an urban district council having these qualifications have already claimed any county road (under section 11 (2) of the Local Government Act, 1888), the council will be deemed to have claimed that road under the Act without making a fresh claim.

Any urban district council now entitled to claim county roads under section 32 who desire to relinquish a claim which was made under section 11 (2) of the Local Government Act, 1888, must do so before 1st April, 1930 (section 32 (5) (a)).

Appendix II.

(3) Where a road becomes a county road after the appointed day, or where an urban district attains a population exceeding 20,000 persons after the appointed day by an extension of boundaries or otherwise, a claim to maintain must be made within the limits of time set out in section 32 (2).

(4) Urban district councils who do not desire to claim to maintain county roads may require county councils on the 1st April, 1930, to take over quarries belonging to them in their capacity as highway authority and the fixed plant therein (see paragraph 1 (2) above).

TABLE SHEWING THE DISTRIBUTION OF FUNCTIONS BETWEEN COUNTY COUNCILS AND COUNTY DISTRICT COUNCILS AS DETERMINED BY THE FIRST SCHEDULE OF THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1929.

Notes.

1. The distribution of functions is shown by the thick black lines in the several columns. Thus, taking as an instance the first entry in the table, which relates to section 146 of the Public Health Act, 1875, the lines show that the function indicated in the first column is to be exercised in rural districts only by the county councils and in urban districts as regards county roads similarly by county councils alone. Taking another instance, the entry as regards section 21 of the Act of 1925 (which relates to works for preventing water from flowing on the footpath) shows that the functions are to be exercised in rural districts by the county council only but for county roads in urban districts concurrently by the county council and the urban district council.

The distribution of functions is subject to the power to delegate, which has already been explained in the text. The table shows the distribution when there is not delegation.

In urban districts the functions relating to unclassified roads, other than main roads, will continue to be discharged by the district councils.

2. The first column gives a general indication of the function; the appropriate section should be consulted for the provisions of the law.

3. In the second column, giving the legal references,

1875	means the	Public Health Act, 1875.

1925	,,	Public Health Act, 1925.

The relative section is stated in brackets after the year.

4. When powers can now be exercised by an urban district council or a rural district council only after an order has been issued by the Minister of Health or his consent obtained, such an order or consent will still be necessary before the district council can exercise the powers, with this exception that, when the power is conferred on the county council by the Act and the power is then delegated by the county council to the district council, an order or consent will not be required.

Memorandum L.G.A. 10.

Rating Authorities.
Assessment Committees.
County Valuation Committees.
(outside London).

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1929.

RATING AND VALUATION.

The provisions relating to rating and valuation, which chiefly concern rating authorities and assessment committees, are contained for the most part in Part V. of the Act, where provision is made for the derating of agricultural land and agricultural buildings (other than dwelling-houses) and the partial derating of industrial and freight-transport hereditaments. That Part also contains provisions amending the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928, as regards the classification of industrial premises in which no person is employed, within the meaning of the Factory and Workshop Acts; provisions amending section 11 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, as to the rating of owners; provisions as to deductions from inclusive rents of industrial hereditaments in respect of rate relief; provisions as to the valuation of agricultural dwelling-houses (consequential on the repeal of the Agricultural Rates Act, 1896), and other consequential provisions.

It is to be noted that the " appointed day " for the purposes of Part V. is the 1st October, 1929.

Reference is also made in this Memorandum to certain temporary provisions included in the Ninth Schedule, relating to the amendment of valuation lists, and to section 133, which deals with the effect of amendments of the valuation lists in force on 1st October, 1929, on the ascertainment of the " reduced rateable values " and the " unreduced rateable values," to be used in the calculation of the new Exchequer grants.

Attention is also drawn to section 112, which contains transitory provisions as to rates and precepts and compensation for loss of rates in respect of the six months, 1st October, 1929—31st March, 1930.

In this Memorandum the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, and the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928, are, for the sake of brevity, subsequently referred to as " the Act of 1925 " and " the Apportionment Act " respectively.

DERATING OF AGRICULTURAL HEREDITAMENTS.

In section 67 provision is made for the derating of agricultural land and agricultural buildings as defined by the Apportionment Act. The section provides that no person shall be liable to pay rates thereon in respect of any period beginning on or after the 1st October, 1929, or be deemed to be in occupation thereof for rating purposes. Agricultural land and buildings are to be excluded from any such rate.

As from the 1st October, 1929, the special lists now in course of preparation under the Apportionment Act will be incorporated in the valuation lists in force, and the entries relating to agricultural land and agricultural buildings which appear in the special lists will in effect be substituted for the entries at present appearing in the lists made under the Act of 1925 (Paragraph 8 of the First Schedule to the Apportionment Act). They will remain in the special lists during the period for which the valuation lists in force on the 1st October, 1929, continue to operate, but the rateable value of any such hereditament should be entered in the appropriate column of the special lists as " nil."

No entries relating to agricultural land or agricultural buildings are to be made in any new valuation list prepared after 1st October, 1929 (section 67 (2)).

PARTIAL DERATING OF INDUSTRIAL AND FREIGHT-TRANSPORT HEREDITAMENTS.

Section 68 provides for the partial derating of " industrial " and " freight-transport " hereditaments as defined in the Apportionment Act. The section will apply to all hereditaments required to be entered in Parts II. and III. of the special lists now being prepared under that Act and thereafter to all industrial and freight-transport hereditaments distinguished as such in future valuation lists. As from the 1st October, 1929, when the entries as to such hereditaments in the special lists will in effect be substituted for those appearing in the current valuation lists, rate relief will be accorded to industrial and freight-transport hereditaments by the reduction of the rateable value.

The Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act (Special List) Rules, 1928 (S. R. & O., 1928, No. 627, post, p. 3711), provided that no entries should be made in any of the columns of the special list in which rateable value is to be shown—i.e., in columns 9b, 10b and 11 of Part II., and in columns 10c, 11b, 12b and 13 of Part III. This provision was necessary because Parliament, at the time when the Rules were issued, had not decided what the rateable value was to be. The Minister has now made amending Rules superseding this provision, and it will accordingly be necessary to complete the lists by inserting in the appropriate columns the rateable value ascertained in accordance with section 68. A copy of the amending Rules (S. R. & O., 1929–244, post, p. 3727), accompanies this Memorandum.

ASCERTAINMENT OF RATEABLE VALUE OF INDUSTRIAL HEREDITAMENTS.

In the case of a hereditament occupied and used wholly for industrial purposes the rateable value to be entered in columns 9b and 11 of Part II. of the special list will be one-quarter of the net annual value as shown in column 9a.

In the case of a hereditament occupied and used partly for industrial purposes and partly for non-industrial purposes the rateable value to be entered in column 9b will be one-quarter of the net annual value shown in column 9a, the rateable value to be entered in column 10b will be the same as the net annual value shown in column 10a, and the total rateable value to be entered in column 11 will be the sum of the amounts shown in columns 9b and 10b.

The foregoing instructions will require modification in the case of any industrial hereditament of which the rateable value ascertained under the Act of 1925 was not identical with the net annual value. These will be hereditaments which

(a) being in an urban area, were entitled under the Act of 1925 to a deduction from net annual value for the purpose of determining rateable value by virtue of any scheme made under Part III. of the Second Schedule to that Act, or by virtue of any earlier local Act (i.e., any industrial hereditament assessed as land covered with water and therefore marked " W " in column 8 of Part II. of the special list) ; or

(b) were entitled to such a deduction under any scheme for the preservation of privileges of rating made under section 64 of the Act of 1925.

In either of these cases the appropriate deductions from net annual value provided for in the scheme or local Act should first be made. The rateable value will, under the provisions of section 68 (1) Proviso, be calculated in the manner above described from the net annual value as so reduced.

ASCERTAINMENT OF RATEABLE VALUE OF FREIGHT-TRANSPORT HEREDITAMENTS.

In the case of freight-transport hereditaments the rateable value to be entered in column 10c of Part III. of the special list will be one-quarter of the amount shown in column 10b, and the rateable value to be entered in column 11b will be one-quarter of the amount shown in column 11a. The rateable value in column 12b will be the same as the net annual value shown in column 12a. The totals of the rateable values in columns 10c, 11b and 12b will be entered in column 13.

INCIDENCE OF RATES IN 1929–30 ON INDUSTRIAL AND FREIGHT-TRANSPORT HEREDITAMENTS.

As already indicated, the special lists in which the reduced rateable values provided for in the Act are to be shown will come into force on the 1st October, 1929.

In the case of any rate made in respect of a period commencing on or after that date the ratepayer's liability will be determined by the new rateable values shown in those lists.

In cases where a yearly or other rate is made in respect of a period commencing before and continuing after 1st October, 1929, the occupier's liability, as shown by the original entries in the rate book, will require to be adjusted as follows :—

(a) In the case of a yearly rate—i.e., one made in respect of the whole of the period 1st April, 1929, to 31st March, 1930—the occupier's liability is to be calculated as if two rates had been made—one for the first half of the financial year (1st April to 30th September, 1929) and the other for the second half (1st October, 1929, to 31st March, 1930). The poundage of the rate is, in such a case, to be divided equally between these two notional rates.

(b) If the period of any rate runs into both half-years, but is less than a full year, the poundage will, for the purpose of determining the occupier's liability, be apportioned according to the number of days in each part of the period. (Section 68 (2).)

(The proviso to sub-section (2) of section 68 is applicable only in one or two special cases and will not concern rating authorities generally.)

The Act empowers any person who has paid a sum in excess of the amount properly chargeable under section 68 (2) to recover from the rating authority the amount overpaid (section 68 (3)).

AMENDMENT OF SECTION 3 OF THE APPORTIONMENT ACT.

Section 69 of the Act removes a doubt which has arisen as to the application of the definition of "industrial hereditament" in section 3 (2) of the Apportionment Act to premises in which no person is employed, within the meaning of the Factory and Workshop Acts.

The effect of the section is to secure that the mere fact that the owner or occupier of a hereditament is the only person working therein, or that no other person working therein is in his employment, shall not in itself preclude the hereditament from being deemed for purposes of the Apportionment Act to be used as a factory or workshop, and therefore, if the other conditions are satisfied, being treated as an "industrial hereditament."

AMENDMENT OF VALUATION LISTS.

The Act contains detailed provisions as to the method of making any amendment of a valuation list necessitated by reason of a hereditament having become or ceased to be an agricultural, industrial or freight-transport hereditament, and for this purpose it adapts, with certain modifications, the existing machinery. The relevant provisions, so far as they are of a permanent character, are contained in section 70, while certain temporary provisions are included in Part II. of the Ninth Schedule.

N.B.—For the sake of brevity, the fact that a hereditament has become or ceased to be an agricultural, industrial or freight-transport hereditament is referred to in this Memorandum as a change in the status of a hereditament, and that phrase is intended to cover not only cases where the circumstances determining the classification of a hereditament actually change after 1st October, 1929, but also cases where the classification adopted for the purposes of the special list is (or is alleged to be) incorrect on the circumstances existing immediately before 1st October, 1929.

(i) PERMANENT PROVISIONS.

The general effect of the permanent provisions is to make a change in the status of a hereditament a ground for making a proposal for amendment of the valuation list under section 37 of the Act of 1925.

In this connection attention may be drawn to the following points :—

(a) The permanent provisions operate only in cases where proceedings for the amendment of a list are initiated after 1st October, 1929, as from which date the entries in the special lists are to be read in substitution for the corresponding entries appearing in the main valuation list.

(b) Only owners or occupiers can move to amend a list on the ground that a hereditament ought to be, but is not, treated therein as an agricultural, industrial or freight-transport hereditament (section 70 (2)).

(c) If it is desired that a hereditament should be treated as an agricultural, industrial or freight-transport hereditament the proposal for amendment must contain such particulars as the Minister may prescribe (section 70 (2)). These particulars will be prescribed in due course.

(d) Amendments effected by the applied machinery above referred to will have effect as regards the ratepayer's liability as from the same date as any other amendment made by a proposal for amendment. The change in the status of a hereditament will be treated as "an event giving rise to an alteration of value" within the meaning of the proviso to section 37 (10) of the Act of 1925 (section 70 (3)).

Note.—The dates as from which amendments made as a result of proposals instituted during the twelve months, 1st October, 1929, to 1st October, 1930, will have effect for purposes of the calculation of the new Exchequer grants are governed by the provisions of section 133 and are dealt with below.

It is to be noted also that, in the case of future valuation lists, a claim by the owner or occupier will be a condition precedent to the treatment of any hereditament as an agricultural, industrial or freight-transport hereditament unless the hereditament was so treated in the last preceding list (section 70 (4)).

(ii) TEMPORARY PROVISIONS.

The temporary provisions contained in the Ninth Schedule (Part II.), other than the provisions as to the Revenue Officer, referred to below, affect, in the case of areas outside London, only the period prior to 1st October, 1929.

The general object of these provisions is to secure that the classifications and apportionments of value, on which both rate relief and calculation of grant will depend, shall be complete and correct at the earliest practicable date. To this end the schedule provides machinery for correcting the special lists prior to the date of their operation (1st October, 1929) and for amending the valuation lists with which they are, as from that date, incorporated, by proceedings commenced at any time up to 1st October, 1930, with such retrospective effect as is described below.

Correction of Special Lists.

In order that full use may be made of the period between the deposit (or approval) of draft special lists under the Apportionment Act and the 1st October, 1929, for the purpose of making any necessary additions and corrections, the Act authorises the lodging of objections at any time before the 1st October, 1929, whether the list has been approved or not.

The relevant provisions are contained in paragraph 1 of Part II. of the Ninth Schedule, and attention is drawn to the following points:—

(a) Where no claim has been made for the inclusion of a hereditament in a special list, an objection on the ground that it should be included can only be lodged by the owner or occupier.

(b) An objection to the value of a hereditament appearing in the special list can be lodged by the owner or occupier, the rating authority or (if he considers the value excessive) by the Revenue Officer, notwithstanding that the rating authority or Revenue Officer may have previously inserted or approved of that value.

(c) An objection under (a) must contain the same particulars as would have been required in the case of a claim under the Apportionment Act.

(d) If any such objection be not decided until after the 30th September, 1929, the decision is to be deemed to have been given on that date.

Sub-paragraph (4) of paragraph 1 of Part II. of the Ninth Schedule secures that the gross vlaue (if any) and net annual value of any hereditament as shown in the valuation list current during the half-year commencing the 1st April, 1929, shall be altered where necessary to agree with the corresponding value as shown in the special list as approved, and that any necessary alteration shall be made in the rateable values.

This provision will relieve both rating authorities and ratepayers of the need for dealing during this period with two separate lists and instituting separate "proposals" under section 37 of the Act of 1925 in order to bring values in the main valuation list into accord with the corresponding values as determined for the purposes of the special list.

For the purpose of rates current during the period 1st April—30th September, 1929, the alterations so made in the current valuation lists will have effect as from the 1st April, 1929, unless they are attributable to some event which happened after that date, in which case they would have effect only from the date of the event, as in the case of amendments made in pursuance of "proposals" under section 37 of the Act of 1925.

Provisions as to Revenue Officer.

In connection with all proceedings instituted prior to 1st October, 1930, for the amendment of the list which involve a question as to the status of a hereditament as at 1st October, 1929, and therefore have an effect on the calculation of grant, the Revenue Officer is given the same rights and powers as the ratepayer, except that (as in the case of proceedings under the Apportionment Act) he cannot contend that the gross or net annual value of a hereditament as a whole ought to be increased (Ninth Schedule, Part II., paragraph 4).

EFFECT OF AMENDMENTS OF VALUATION LISTS.

It may be convenient to summarise the effect of Amendments made by the procedure above described—

(i) as regards the liability of the ratepayer, and
(ii) as regards the calculation of the new Exchequer grants.

(i) Effect as Regards the Liability of the Ratepayer.

The ratepayer's liability will be determined primarily by the rateable value of his hereditament as appearing in the valuation lists on 1st October, 1929, on which date the reduced rateable value as entered in the special list will be substituted for the rateable value appearing in the valuation list current immediately prior to that date.

An amendment of the rateable value as at 1st October, 1929, which is made on the ground of change of status, in pursuance of a proposal for amendment initiated before 1st April, 1930, will have effect from 1st October, 1929, or from the date of the change, whichever is later. If the proposal is initiated after 1st April, 1930, the resulting amendment will, under section 37 of the Act of 1925, have effect only as from 1st April, 1930 (the date of the commencement of the rate) or the date of the change of status, whichever is later.

The date of operation of an amendment made on any other ground—at whatever date the proceedings are commenced—will be determined by the provisions of section 37 of the Act of 1925.

(ii) Effect as Regards Calculation of new Exchequer Grants.

Whether or not the ratepayer's liability during the six months ending 31st March, 1930, is affected by an amendment, section 133 effectively safeguards the interests of local authorities. The effect of that section is to secure that, for grant purposes, an amendment made, by the appropriate procedure, on the ground that a hereditament was or was not on the 1st October, 1929, an agricultural, industrial or freight-transport hereditament shall have effect as if it had been made immediately before that date, provided that the proceedings resulting in the amendment were initiated before 1st October, 1930. "Reduced rateable value" and "unreduced rateable value" are to be ascertained accordingly for all the purposes of the Act except section 112.

The reason for the specific exception in regard to section 112 will be apparent to local authorities. That section deals with the temporary grant in respect of loss of rates incurred in respect of the six months, 1st October, 1929, to 31st March, 1930. If an amendment of the list affects the ratepayer's liability in respect of that period of six months (or any part of it) and the amendment is a reduction of rateable value, the resultant loss of rates to the local authority will be made good out of the temporary grant. If it does not reduce the ratepayer's liability during that period, there will be no loss of rates to be made good out of the temporary grant.

PROVISION AS TO RATES, PRECEPTS AND GRANTS FOR THE TRANSITORY PERIOD OF SIX MONTHS 1ST OCTOBER, 1929—31ST MARCH, 1930.

As explained above, a temporary exchequer grant will be paid to rating authorities in accordance with the provisions of section 112 to make good the loss of rate income incurred by them in respect of that period by reason of the derating provisions of the Act.

In these circumstances there will, for that half-year, be no need for local authorities, in estimating or calculating for rating or precepting purposes the produce of a penny rate, or in determining the poundage of a rate, or in making any apportionment between two or more rating areas, to take account either of the effect of the derating provisions of the Act, or of the amount of the new temporary grant, and section 112 provides accordingly that they shall not be taken into account for those purposes.

MISCELLANEOUS RATING AND CONSEQUENTIAL PROVISIONS.

Part V. of the Act includes a number of provisions connected with rating and valuation or rendered necessary by derating and the consequential alterations of the valuation list.

(i) Rating of Owners of Small Hereditaments.

Amendment of Section 11 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925.

By section 11 (1) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, rating authorities were empowered, by resolution, to direct that, in the case of hereditaments falling within a class to be defined by them, the owners shall be rated instead of the occupiers. It was, however, provided that the class should not be so defined as to include any hereditament with a rateable value exceeding £13 (except where a higher value was in force for the purposes of section 3 of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869) or any hereditament the rent of which becomes payable or is collected at quarterly or longer intervals.

Section 71 gives rating authorities a wider discretion in the matter. They may now define the class to which the rating of owners is to apply either by reference solely to the limit of rateable value specified in section 11 (1) of the Act of 1925, or, if they so desire, by reference to that limit of value and also to the interval at which rent becomes payable and is collected.

(ii) Valuation of Farmhouses and Farm Cottages.

Section 72 preserves the basis of assessment, which, since 1896, when agricultural holdings ceased to be assessable as single units, has applied to the buildings forming part of such a holding (as distinct from the land) in pursuance of the provisions of section 5 (c) of the Agricultural Rates Act of that year. It will be observed that the section applies to farm houses and also to farm cottages (whether held on a tenancy or on a service occupation, strictly so-called) where residence depends on employment on the particular agricultural land in connection with which the cottage is occupied.

It does not apply to cottages not coming within that category, although they may be occupied by agricultural workers.

The date of operation of this section is the 1st April, 1930, as from which date the Agricultural Rates Act, 1896, will be repealed.

(iii) Industrial Hereditaments Let at Inclusive Rentals.

Section 73 is designed to secure to the tenants of industrial hereditaments which are let at inclusive rentals (the landlord paying the rates) the benefit of the rate relief conferred by the Act.

Under sub-section (2) of the section it will be the duty of the rating authority, on the application of the landlord or tenant, to certify the amount to be paid or allowed by the landlord in any case where—as happens, for instance, under what are known as " Room and Power Agreements "—part of any premises for the time being assessed as a single industrial hereditament is let (or sublet) by the person rated in respect of the whole.

The section operates only during the currency of existing tenancies.

(iv) Water Rates.

Adaptations are required in Acts and Orders regulating the charges for the supply of water in consequence of the provisions of the Act under which the rateable value of industrial and freight transport hereditaments will be reduced and particulars of agricultural land and buildings will be omitted from future valuation lists.

By section 77 of the Act, where the water rate is required to be levied on the rateable value of the premises as shown in the valuation list, the net annual value of the premises as so shown is to be substituted as the basis upon which the water rate is to be levied.

Where the water rate is required in an Act or Order to be levied on a value which will not in future appear in the valuation list, the value for the purposes of the water rate is to be determined, in case of dispute, by two justices of the peace.

(v) Drainage Rates.

As certain hereditaments liable to drainage rates (i.e., " rates assessed under any commission of sewers or in respect of any drainage, wall, embankment or other work for the benefit of the land ") will not appear in future valuation lists, and others will appear with a materially reduced rateable value, it is necessary to provide some other basis in cases where the authority levying such rate is now required to assess them on values as appearing in the valuation lists for the time being in force.

Section 78 is designed to secure that, in such cases, the basis shall be—for all properties liable to be assessed to such rate—the gross value for Income Tax, Schedule A. If the property is not assessed to Schedule A the value is to be determined, in the event of dispute, by a court of summary jurisdiction. Provision is made for any necessary apportionment of the Schedule A value.

(vi) Qualification of Jurors and Special Jurors.

For the same reasons it is provided that, as from the 1st October, 1929, net annual value for rating purposes will be substituted for rateable value for the purposes of determining the qualification of a juror or special juror; and if no net annual value is shown in the valuation list the qualification will be determined on the net annual value for purposes of Income Tax, Schedule A. Provision is made for any necessary apportionment of the net annual value by the Registration Officer, subject to revision, on appeal, by a court of summary jurisdiction (section 79).

(vii) Qualification of Voters.

Where the qualification of voters is defined in the Representation of the People Act, 1918, in relation to the yearly value of land, that value is to be taken to be the gross value for rating purposes ; or, if there is no gross value in the valuation list, the gross value for purposes of Income Tax ; or, in any other case, the amount which the Registration Officer estimates would have been the gross value for rating purposes under the law in force in 1918. (Section 80.)

(viii) Access to Schedule A Valuations.

The authorities and persons concerned with voters' lists, jurors' lists and the levying of drainage rates are empowered to obtain from the Surveyors of Taxes copies of the Schedule A values at the maximum rate of 5*s.* per hundred entries. (Section 81.)

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1929.

TOWN PLANNING.

(PART III., SECTIONS 40 TO 45.)

Summary of Town Planning Changes.

1. The sections of the Act dealing with town planning make four changes of importance in the law on the subject:—

(1) Machinery is provided (by means of joint committees) to enable county councils to become more closely associated with town planning authorities in the preparation of schemes (sections 40, 41 and 43);

(2) The Minister is authorised to require the constitution of joint committees for the preparation of schemes (section 41);

(3) County councils are enabled to become responsible authorities under schemes in matters within their jurisdiction (section 42);

(4) The period for the obligatory submission of schemes by borough and urban district councils with a population of more than 20,000 at the 1921 census is extended to the 1st January, 1934, or to such later date (before the 31st December, 1938) as the Minister may allow (section 44).

2. The first and third changes are made in recognition of the important share to which county councils are entitled in preparing and carrying out town planning schemes by reason of their enlarged interests in road administration; the second is made partly to provide a means, where necessary, of enforcing recognition of a county council's right to participate in the preparation of schemes, and partly on grounds of general expediency; the last will provide time to secure the joint action between local authorities (including county councils) in the preparation of schemes which is essential for the proper co-ordination of development over extended areas.

3. The town planning provisions come into force on the 1st April, 1930.

Preparation of Schemes ((1) and (2) in Paragraph 1).

4. Borough, including county borough, and district councils are already empowered to form joint committees for the preparation of schemes (section 2 of the Town Planning Act, 1925), and a large number of joint committees have already been established.

5. Most of these committees are advisory, their powers being limited to making recommendations for submission to their constituent authorities, who still retain their right of making their own statutory schemes. Some of the committees, however, are executive, being endowed by their constituent authorities with power to prepare concerted statutory schemes on their behalf (but they do not necessarily or normally administer the schemes, this being a matter to be determined in the schemes themselves).

6. The new Act enables county councils to join with other authorities (including other county councils) in the formation of joint committees, or to join existing committees (in most of which they have already taken an informal part) without invalidating the prior proceedings of any existing committee they join or requiring its formal reconstitution.

7. County councils and other authorities will no doubt promote their own local arrangements for this purpose in consultation with the local authorities concerned and without the intervention of the Minister; but, as county councils have no independent powers of promoting town planning schemes and might therefore be left without any means of securing their right to recognition in the event of local disagreement, the Minister is authorised himself to require the formation of a joint committee where local arrangements fail, a power which he may also exercise to prevent the frustration of a generally agreed scheme for a joint committee by any unreasonable refusal of co-operation on the part of a small minority.

8. County councils can already claim to be consulted by local authorities preparing schemes in county districts under the existing town planning regulations, and this form of co-operation may be found sufficient in many county districts for which schemes can be prepared under the Town Planning Act, especially where the preparation of schemes has already reached an advanced stage.

9. In other cases county councils may wish to be more closely identified with the preparation of schemes, and for this purpose they may join existing joint (executive) committees, where they have already been formed, or promote the constitution of new executive committees, on the basis of a convenient grouping of county districts—and in conjunction with county borough councils, where association with the latter is desirable in order to obtain a good planning unit, and the county borough council are prepared to participate.

10. The extent and form of co-operation must depend largely on local circumstances; but, where a county council wish to be closely identified with the work of preparing schemes and the town planning areas lend themselves to convenient grouping, it will no doubt be found more convenient to form or join committees for groups of neighbouring authorities than to form a separate committee with each individual authority. Neighbouring counties and their county districts can combine, where this provides a more convenient local grouping.

11. The distinction between advisory and executive committees, already referred to, should be clearly appreciated in this connection. It is not contemplated that the existing grouping of local authorities on either advisory or executive joint committees, where they exist, should be disturbed, though minor rearrangements may be found necessary and justifiable. The existence of an advisory committee does not, however, preclude the formation of executive committees from among the authorities represented on the advisory committees. Executive committees have in some instances already been formed on the basis of convenient grouping of the constituent authorities of the advisory committees, and executive committees can be promoted within the membership of other advisory committees.

12. County councils will no doubt wish to place their present informal connection with advisory committees on a suitable basis of formal membership, and may desire to promote the formation of additional advisory committees, where committees do not at present exist; but, where a county council wish to be identified with the actual preparation of schemes in their areas and not to rely on the machinery of consultation provided in the existing regulations, the constitution of executive, as distinct from advisory committees, will be essential (except when the local councils cede their powers to the county council as explained below). For practical convenience in the preparing of schemes the grouping for the purpose of executive committees may need to be over smaller areas than the whole of the region of an advisory committee, where this is large.

13. In case local authorities feel any hesitation in devolving their powers on joint executive committees, it may be pointed out that a council's representatives can be instructed to keep in close touch with the council during the work of preparing a scheme and to submit any plans and proposals for the council's consideration before their deposit under the town planning regulations.

14. Borough and district councils may, where they so wish, relinquish their powers of preparing schemes to the county council on agreed terms, and may do so without ceding their title to their proper share in the administration of a scheme, when made. Where councils are willing to do so, this may form a conveniently simple method of preparing a single scheme for combined districts.

15. The London County Council (unlike other county councils) already have full town planning powers, but the new Act enables them to join a combination of authorities in which other county councils are included.

Responsibility for the Administration of Schemes ((3) in Paragraph 1).

16. Under the Town Planning Act, 1925, responsibility for the administration of schemes (outside the county of London) could be entrusted only to the borough (including county borough) or district council preparing the scheme, or, where the scheme extended to more than one local government district, one or other of the councils of those districts or a joint body specially constituted by the scheme and representative of the councils.

17. The new Act enables county councils to take their due share in the administrative and financial responsibility for schemes—that is, just as a borough or district council can undertake responsibility for the carrying out of the provisions in a scheme as to buildings and open spaces, and as to new streets and improvements of existing streets (including building lines) for which they would normally be responsible under the general law, so a county council can undertake responsibility for roads and road improvements which come within their jurisdiction, including projected roads likely to be of county status.

18. County responsibility could be made effective in town planning schemes broadly in one of three ways:—

(a) The county council could be made expressly responsible in the scheme itself for the particular roads and road improvements in which they were interested. They would then be immediately responsible for the exercise of the powers of the scheme as regards those roads, and would be directly liable for compensation and entitled to betterment in respect of the roads.

The main advantage of this method is the simplicity and avoidance of dual control within the limits to which it is applied. This is, however, more apparent than real where new roads are concerned, as the construction of major and minor roads must always be correlated.

(b) The borough or district council could be left with primary and direct responsibility for the whole of the scheme, subject to the inclusion in the scheme of provisions to safeguard the interests of the county council in roads properly coming within their jurisdiction, and for the reimbursement by the county council to the borough or district council of expenditure properly chargeable to the county council.

The advantage of this course is that it leaves the whole of the direct administration of a scheme in the same hands, a great convenience to building owners, and the surest way of facilitating negotiation with owners and enabling any gain to an estate in one respect to be set off against any loss in another (e.g. concessions on minor streets or other advantages in estate development to be balanced against increased requirements on major streets).

(c) The borough or district council could be left with complete primary responsibility as in (b), but the provision for repayment by the county council and for safeguarding the county council's interest could be effected by an agreement between the county council and borough council or district council authorised by the scheme.

19. The extent and form of responsibility to be undertaken by a county council in a town planning scheme must of necessity vary with different schemes, and will also depend on such matters as the extent to which road administration is claimed or is delegated. For these reasons it is not practicable at present to recommend any uniform adaptation of the model town planning clauses for schemes in which county councils are concerned; but the Minister is preparing adaptations of the clauses to suit what seem likely to be the more common requirements, for consideration and trial.

Extension of Time for Preparation of Obligatory Schemes ((4) in Paragraph 1).

20. It is unnecessary to comment in detail on this provision, except to say that the extended date should not be treated as the earliest, instead of the latest, date for the submission of schemes, and that it is important that schemes for obligatory areas, and also for areas where town planning is not obligatory but where development is likely, should be prepared and submitted as soon as practicable.

21. The statutory extension of the period for the submission of schemes does not carry an automatic extension of the periods fixed under the regulations for schemes already commenced, but the Minister will be prepared, where good grounds are shown, to grant reasonable extensions of these periods, where private interests would not be prejudiced.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1929.

REVIEW OF DISTRICTS AND GENERAL LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

The present memorandum deals with matters of general local government contained in the Local Government Act, 1929, which it is desired to bring specially to the notice of local authorities.

I.—REARRANGEMENT OF COUNTY DISTRICTS.

First Review (Section 46).

1. These provisions are based on the recommendations in the second Report of the Royal Commission on Local Government, and require each county council to make a review of the districts in their county and to submit to the Minister proposals for their rearrangement where desirable. (In section 134 of the Act "district" is defined as meaning a county district—that is to say, a non-county borough or other urban district or a rural district). The review is to be made as soon as may be after the commencement of the Act (section 46 (1)), meaning as soon as may be after the passing of the Act. Thus, not only section 46 of the Act, but sections 48 and 49, which also deal with alterations of boundaries, are already in operation.

If in any case a survey has already been made within the three years preceding, the Minister may decide that a further review is unnecessary (sub-section (6)). Otherwise the county council must submit their proposals to him before the 1st April, 1932, though the Minister may extend that date. If they fail to do so, the Minister may himself make proposals (sub-section (5)).

The points to be borne in mind are :—

(1) Before making their proposals the county council must confer with the representatives of the councils of the several districts wholly or partly within the county and with the councils of county boroughs adjoining the county. Every endeavour should be made to reach agreement ;

(2) After the completion of the review as respects the whole or any part of the county, the county council must send the Minister a report of the review, together with proposals as to the changes (if any) which they consider desirable ;

(3) As soon as the proposals are made to the Minister, the county council are required by sub-section (3) to—

  (a) send copies of them to the councils of the several districts affected thereby ;

  (b) advertise them in one or more of the newspapers circulating in the districts affected by the proposals and include in the advertisements statements that a copy of the proposals is open to inspection at a specified place and that representations with respect to the proposals may be made to the Minister within six weeks after the publication of the notice ;

(4) The proposals may include an alteration or definition of the boundaries—

  (a) of urban and rural districts ;

  (b) of non-county boroughs ;

  (c) of county boroughs (but only in agreement with the county borough council) ;

  (d) of parishes ;

(5) New urban districts, rural districts or parishes may be formed or existing districts or parishes may be united, but the procedure does not allow of the constitution under it of a new borough or the abolition of an existing borough (see sub-section (2) and section 65).

2. The Minister may by order confirm the proposals or any of them, with or without modifications, or may reject them, and his decision is final ; but if the proposals are objected to by a local authority who are affected by them, and the objection is not withdrawn, the Minister must hold a local inquiry before deciding to issue an order or orders (sub-section (4)).

3. The county council may submit proposals dealing with a part only of the county ; but usually it will doubtless be found advisable to deal with the county as a whole. Where proposals are submitted for a part only of a county, care should be taken to make sure that this part is a satisfactory unit ; otherwise it may be found, when other parts of the county are considered, that the best arrangements have not been put forward.

4. The Minister is preparing a statement to assist county councils in making the reviews (a). This will specify the particulars with which the Minister will require to be furnished, when proposals are submitted, for the purpose of drafting the order or orders, and will contain suggestions as to the information which county councils will find it advantageous to obtain for the purpose of their reviews. It may, however, be stated generally that, subject to their complying with the statutory requirements as outlined above, county councils may use their discretion as to the method of and procedure for the conduct by them of the reviews.

5. Attention is drawn to the remarks of the Royal Commission on Local Government in their second Report that they " are of opinion that the need for a general review of areas of county districts and parishes has been established. The representatives of the local authorities have not dissented from the view that there are at present authorities who cannot efficiently discharge the functions entrusted to them and that a review of areas should be undertaken in order to see how far ineffective units can be eliminated by reorganisation " (paragraph 39, page 15). The Commission further state (paragraph 61, page 25) : " The primary object of the reorganisation of areas recommended by us, and indeed of all alterations of local government areas, being to improve their local administration, we are hopeful that the adoption of our proposals on this subject and of those in our First Report will result in the elimination to a large extent of those councils of county districts who by themselves are not strong enough financially to perform the essential sanitary services, and that most parts of the country will be within the jurisdiction of local authorities who are able to discharge their duties without further financial assistance." While the Commission recognised that probably "some councils of county districts will remain who either are or will become financially incapable of carrying out essential services, particularly the provision of a proper water supply and a system of sewerage and sewage disposal," yet, having regard to the existence of many such districts, it will be necessary that the review and proposals of the county council should be of a thorough nature.

Later Reviews (Section 47).

6. Similar reviews can be made subsequently when desirable or when required by the Minister ; but ten years at least must elapse between any two reviews. The procedure will be similar, subject to this important difference, that if the resulting proposals would alter borough boundaries and are objected to by the town council of the borough, that council may object to the order of the Minister by which effect is given to the proposal, and in that event the Minister's order will become a provisional order and will need confirmation by Parliament.

Divided or Detached Areas (Section 49 (1)).

7. County councils may put forward to the Minister agreed proposals for an order so altering a county boundary as to secure that the whole of a district or parish shall be within one county and that there shall no longer be detached parts of counties. The policy that the whole of each parish and of each rural district should be within the same county was enunciated in section 36 of the Local Government Act, 1894, but the section enabled the county council for special reasons to direct that a rural district should continue in more than one county, and several rural districts are so situate at the present day, or where the portion in each county was constituted a separate rural district, are "temporarily" administered by the council of an adjoining rural district under section 24 (5) of the Act of 1894. The Royal Commission on Local Government stated in their second Report that in their opinion "it is desirable that every parish and every district should be wholly within the area of one administrative county for all purposes" (page 17 (g)) ; and county councils should take concerted and agreed measures for dealing with the anomalies that remain.

Under section 49 of the new Act a district not wholly comprised within one county may be brought wholly within one county by an alteration of the county boundary. A similar result may be reached by means of a proposal under section 46 of the Act, as for the transfer of all the parishes of the district which are within the same county to a borough, urban district or rural district in that county, or to more than one of these units of local government. Under this procedure an alteration of the county boundary would not be necessary for the purpose of securing that the district should cease to be in more than one county.

Detached parts of counties, several of which exist, are likely to lead to difficulties in the administration of poor relief, and it is hoped that county councils will formulate representations under section 49 (1) of the Act which will lead to a general abolition of these anomalous areas.

Adjustments of Boundaries between a County and County Borough (Section 49 (2)).

8. A county council and a county borough council may also make a joint representation to the Minister for an order to alter the boundary between their areas. Any district council who may be affected by the alteration should, of course, be fully consulted. A detached part of a county borough could be abolished by an order under this sub-section.

Proposals for Alterations in Individual Cases (Section 48).

9. The present machinery contained in sections 54 and 57 of the Local Government Act, 1888, for the constitution of new urban or rural districts or for the alteration of the boundaries of individual boroughs, districts and parishes will continue in operation.

Important modifications, however, which came into operation on the passing of the Act, are made in section 57 of the Act of 1888 :—

(1) County councils will have power to make orders under the section of their own accord ; doubts have been felt as to whether they could take action in the absence of a proposal for the alteration ;

(2) It has been considered that neither the county council nor the Minister could travel beyond the scope of the original proposal submitted to the county council. Power is now given to make modifications, if desirable, after due notice and hearing of representations ;

(3) The Minister previously was obliged to confirm an unopposed order of the county council, even though he thought the alteration undesirable. Power is now given to the Minister to modify or reject an order whether it is opposed or not ;

(4) Complaints have been made that there was no appeal against a decision of a county council rejecting an application for an order. The section now provides for an appeal to the Minister in such cases.

The amendments above mentioned will extend to county borough councils in making orders under section 57 of the Act of 1888 (see sub-section (2)).

Scope of Orders of the Minister (Section 66).

Any order of the Minister under section 46 of the Act must obviously contain supplemental provisions for the purpose of carrying it into effect. This point is met by section 66 of the Act which applies section 59 of the Local Government Act, 1888, to all orders made under Part IV. of the recent Act, with the result that the Minister will be able to include in any order made by him all such provisions as are commonly included in an order of a county council under section 57 of the Act of 1888. Provision is also made for financial adjustments consequent upon the order, as section 62 of the Act of 1888 is also applied by section 66 of the new Act. An order under Part IV. of the Act cannot affect the limits of any parliamentary county or parliamentary borough (section 66 (2)). Orders under the Local Government Act, 1888, are subject to a similar restriction (see section 92, Local Government Act, 1888).

II.—REVIEW OF ELECTORAL DIVISIONS (SECTION 50).

County councils must make a review of the electoral divisions, in accordance with the procedure laid down in the section. This must be made as soon as possible after the first general review of county districts and before the 1st January, 1933, but the Secretary of State may in individual cases extend that date, or, where he considers such a review to be unnecessary, he may relieve the county council from the duty of making it. If the county council fail to put proposals before him, the Secretary of State may himself make proposals.

In making their proposals the county council should act on the principles laid down for the constitution of electoral divisions in section 51 of the Local Government Act, 1888.

III.—TRAVELLING EXPENSES OF MEMBERS OF COUNTY COUNCILS (SECTION 52).

This section enables a county council to provide as from the 1st April, 1930, for the travelling expenses necessarily incurred by members in attending meetings of the council or in carrying out any necessary inspection. So far as committees, sub-committees and joint committees are concerned, the application of the section is limited by sub-section (4) to such of these bodies as are appointed for the discharge of functions throughout the whole area for which the county council is charged with those functions.

The powers given by this section are new. It is provided by sub-section (2) that they are not to take the place of any powers of this nature already belonging to the council, for example, in relation to meetings of insurance committees under section 84 of the National Health Insurance Act, 1924, or of county agricultural committees under section 7 (5) of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries Act, 1919.

No expenditure incurred under this section is to rank for grant from the Exchequer, and any such expenditure must be excluded from claims for grant (sub-section (3)).

IV.—APPROPRIATION OF LAND BY COUNTY COUNCILS (SECTION 53 (2)).

County councils are empowered (with the Minister's approval, and subject to the like restrictions as are contained in section 95 of the Public Health Amendment Act, 1907) to appropriate land for any purpose for which they are authorised to acquire land, if the land is no longer required for the purpose for which it was acquired. County councils had formerly no general power enabling them to appropriate land in this manner, and it is expected that this power will be of much use in connection with the exercise of the functions transferred to county councils by this Act.

The restrictions of section 95 of the Act of 1907 are that nuisance must not be permitted and that uses for certain purposes (sinking a well, use for cemetery, sewage farm, infectious disease hospital, etc.) are not to be allowed except after local inquiry.

The section does not supersede any other enactment conferring powers of appropriation on county councils.

V.—SPECIAL EXPENSES AND CONTRIBUTIONS.

Contributions by Rural District Councils (Section 56 (1)).

1. Certain expenses incurred by a rural district council, including the expenses of constructing, maintaining and cleansing sewers in a contributory place and the provision of a supply of water to a contributory place and the maintenance of the necessary works, are declared to be special expenses chargeable upon the contributory place (section 229, Public Health Act, 1875). Further (under the same section and section 49 of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890), expenses of a rural district council for other purposes, such as scavenging, may be determined by order of the Minister to be special expenses, and are then similarly chargeable.

Rural district councils are empowered, as from the passing of the Act, for the first time to contribute from their general funds the whole or part of any expenses payable as special expenses, whether incurred before or after the passing of the Act.

Contributions by County Councils (Section 57 (1)).

2. This sub-section empowers the county council as from the passing of the Act to contribute towards the expenditure incurred, whether before or after the passing of the Act, by the council of a district wholly or partly within the county in connection with sewerage, sewage disposal and water supply. The county council may contribute such sums as appear to them to be reasonable, having regard to the resources of the district and the circumstances of the case.

The county council may, therefore, help a district or parish where a scheme is highly desirable but where the burden would be too heavy for local resources, or where, for instance, even though a scheme may not be urgently required for the district or parish itself, it is advantageous that it should be carried out because of the benefits to other areas, as in the protection of water supplies.

A number of cases will occur where it is not likely that a scheme can fairly be expected to be executed without some outside assistance; and the Minister hopes that rural district councils and county councils will not hesitate to use these new powers.

Apportionment of Expenses in Rural Areas (Section 56 (2) and (3)).

3. Section 229 of the Public Health Act, 1875, empowered a rural district council to apportion between two or more contributory places, as they might think just, their expenditure on constructing and maintaining any work of sewerage or water supply or other work executed under the Act for the common benefit of the contributory places and chargeable thereon as special expenses. An appeal could be made under the section to the Minister against the apportionment.

These provisions are repealed (see Part IV. of the Twelfth Schedule to the Act); and a rural district council may now apportion between two or more contributory places, in such proportions as they think just, any expenses which are chargeable as special expenses, whether incurred before or after the passing of the Act. The appeal to the Minister is abolished, and any determination or apportionment by a rural district council under section 56 of the new Act is final.

VI.—TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COUNTY COUNCIL.

Relinquishment of Functions (Section 57 (2)).

1. A district council may by agreement with the county council relinquish in favour of the county council any of their functions relating to public health. A copy of any such agreement must be sent to the Minister.

Default (Section 57 (3) and (4)).

2. On the default of a district council the Minister may, after holding a local inquiry, issue an order requiring the defaulting authority to carry out their duty within a specified time.

If the council fail to comply with the order, the Minister may make a further order transferring to the county council the function with respect to which default has been made. This order may make applicable any of the provisions of the new Act relating to the transfer, superannuation and compensation of officers, and any of the provisions of section 63 of the Local Government Act, 1894, for the purpose of enabling the expenses incurred by the county council in discharging the function to be met and for other purposes.

The sub-sections will apply where default arises in regard to any of the following matters, namely, the provision of a sewerage system or sewage disposal works or an adequate supply of water for the district of the council or any part thereof, or the discharge of any other function relating to public health which it is the duty of the council to discharge.

The existing provisions of the Public Health Act, 1875 (sections 299 to 302), relating to default powers are repealed as regards district councils. They are continued in force for county borough councils.

VII.—BORROWING AND EXPENDITURE.

The Act empowers county councils and county borough councils to borrow for the purposes of the Act (section 128 (3)). It also provides (section 128 (1)) that all expenses of a county council under the Act, unless otherwise provided in the Act or in a scheme for the provision of infectious diseases hospitals, shall be general and not special expenses, and that all expenses of a county borough council shall, subject to similar exceptions, be defrayed as general expenses in the execution of the Public Health Acts.

The Act also removes or expands certain limitations upon the borrowing and expenditure of local authorities, as follows:—

1. Extension of Loan Periods (Section 53 (1)).

The maximum limit of thirty years fixed by the Local Government Act, 1888, for repayment of loans raised by county councils, and by the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, for the repayment of loans raised by town councils, is extended to sixty years, the maximum period prescribed by the Public Health Act, 1875.

2. Abolition of Borrowing Limits (Section 74).

The statutory limits hitherto fixed on borrowing powers are abolished as from the 1st October, 1929. These have long ceased to be of their original value because of the many classes of expenditure which have been placed by the legislature outside the limits. The derating provisions of the Act will now further make rateable (or assessable) value no longer an appropriate limit.

The limits which have been abolished are:—

Urban and Rural Sanitary Authorities.—Two years' assessable value of the district (Public Health Act, 1875, section 234 (2)).

County Councils.—One-tenth of the rateable value of the county (Local Government Act, 1888, section 69 (2)).

Parish Councils.—One-half of the assessable value of the parish (Local Government Act, 1894, section 12).

Further, section 234 (3) of the Public Health Act, 1875, provides that a local inquiry shall be held where a proposed loan, added to the balances of previous loans, would exceed one year's assessable value. This provision has been in abeyance since the passing of the Local Authorities (Financial Provisions) Act, 1921, and is now repealed as from the 1st October, 1929.

Needless to say, it will not be the less incumbent on local authorities carefully to scrutinise their proposed capital expenditure and to satisfy themselves that it is prudent to incur it. Local authorities would do well as a regular procedure to have an annual capital budget (any expenditure outside the budget being considered only in proved exceptional circumstances). Furthermore, it is a wise policy, when each year's capital budget is considered, that there should at the same time be a survey of the capital expenditure for the next four years, so far as can be gauged.

3. Widening of Certain Expenditure Limits (Section 75).

There are a number of provisions in Acts of Parliament which restrict the expenditure which a local authority may incur for specified purposes to a certain rate in the £. The reduction of the produce of a penny rate in consequence of derating has reduced the amount of expenditure which can be incurred by local authorities under these Acts.

The section provides that, as from the 1st October, 1929, the existing limits shall be increased by 33⅓ per cent. This should give a sufficient limit for most local authorities; but if in any case it proves insufficient the authority may apply to the Minister for an order, which has to be laid before Parliament, increasing the permitted limit.

VIII.—PARISH PROPERTY.

(SECTION 115 AND SEVENTH SCHEDULE.)

Consequent upon the abolition of boards of guardians, the law relating to the holding and disposal of parish property (usually consisting of old parish workhouses and cottages, parochial offices and vestry rooms) has been recast, to take effect as from the 1st April, 1930.

Parish property may be vested in the borough or urban district council, parish council, or, in rural parishes without a parish council, in a statutory representative body; but a sale or letting of this property devolves in urban parishes ordinarily upon the board of guardians.

Parish property vested in any council or representative body already mentioned will continue so vested; but the Act transfers the powers exercised by the guardians as well as all the guardians' interests in parish property (including sale proceeds and any securities in which sale proceeds have been invested), to the council or representative body.

The principal matters to which attention need be drawn are:—

(1) The Minister's approval and, where the property belongs to a rural parish, the consent of the parish meeting will continue to be required to the sale, exchange, letting, etc., of parish property, except in the case of a letting for a term not exceeding one year;

(2) It will no longer be necessary for the consent of the owners and ratepayers to be obtained to a sale of the property belonging either to an urban parish or a rural parish;

(3) Parish councils have in the past been empowered to expend money out of the rates on works relating to parish property, and similar powers could be conferred on a town or urban district council by an order of the Minister under section 33 of the Local Government Act, 1894. Such an order will now no longer be necessary, these councils being given the necessary powers. Similar powers are also given to parish meetings ;

(4) The expenses of the council of a borough or urban district in relation to parish property may, at the discretion of the council, be charged to the general rate levied for the whole borough or district or be levied as an additional item of such rate on the parish or parishes to which the property belongs (sub-section (4)) ;

(5) Section 3 of the Union and Parish Property Act, 1835, gave the Minister control over the application of the rents and profits of a letting, as well as over the proceeds of a sale, of parish property. This section is repealed (Part VII. of the Twelfth Schedule to the Act). Under paragraph 4 of the Seventh Schedule the rents and profits of letting parish property are to be applied for the benefit of the parish. The consent of the Minister is, however, still required by paragraph 2 of the same Schedule to the application of the proceeds of a sale ;

(6) Subject to the provisions of the Sale of Exhausted Parish Lands Act, 1876, which give a right of pre-emption to an owner of adjoining land and deal with minerals, etc., under the land, the above provisions are applied to a sale of any property under the Act, generally quarries which were allotted to surveyors of highways for the purpose of the repair of public and private roads in the parish ;

(7) The before-mentioned provisions do not extend to recreation grounds, village greens or open spaces, nor do they affect the powers of parish councils as to the letting, sale or exchange of property under section 8 (2) of the Local Government Act, 1894, which relates to property acquired by the council out of rates or applicable in aid of rates or held by the council in trust for charitable purposes.

THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1929.

(PART VI. AND THE SECOND, THIRD, FOURTH AND FIFTH SCHEDULES).

Exchequer Grants and other Financial Matters.

I.—INTRODUCTORY.

1. A general description of the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1929, other than the financial provisions contained in Part VI. and the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth Schedules of the Act will be found in other Memoranda. The present Memorandum deals with these financial provisions, and in particular indicates in some detail the first steps to be taken by the Minister of Health and the local authorities respectively in order to bring them into operation.

The Agricultural Rates Act, 1929, which provides (i) that occupiers of agricultural land and agricultural buildings (other than dwelling houses) shall be wholly exempt from rates during the half-year from the 1st April, 1929, to the 30th September, 1929 ; and (ii) for a compensatory Exchequer Grant to rating authorities for that half-year only, is not dealt with in this Memorandum but in a separate circular which has already been sent to local authorities.

2. Throughout this Memorandum the word "Act" means, unless the context otherwise requires, the Local Government Act, 1929, and the provisions of Part V. of the Act relating to the complete or partial exemption from rates of the occupiers of certain hereditaments are referred to as "the derating provisions," while the Poor Law and Highway services which, under Parts I. and III. of the Act respectively, will be transferred mainly to the councils of counties and county boroughs are referred to, as in the Act itself, as "the transferred services."

The derating provisions of the Act will take effect on the 1st October, 1929, and the transferred services will be transferred on the 1st April, 1930. The period between these two dates is throughout this Memorandum called "the transitory period."

3. Part VI. of the Act contemplates that the present system of Exchequer Grants which was in operation in the year ending 31st March, 1929, shall continue to operate in respect of the whole of the year ending 31st March, 1930, and provides that as from that date certain of those grants shall be discontinued and a new system of Exchequer Grants brought into operation. In the last six months of the year ending 31st March, 1930, during which the derating provisions of the Act will be in operation, an additional (temporary) grant will be payable in respect of that period only. The object of this grant is to make good to rating authorities the loss of rate-income arising during the transitory period by reason of those provisions.

4. Stated very broadly, and from the point of view of local government only, the principal objects of the new system of grants which will operate as from 1st April, 1930, are (i) to provide a contribution from the State towards local government expenses ; and (ii) to secure that the amount of this contribution shall ultimately be distributed among the several counties and county boroughs in proportion to their respective needs as measured in the manner laid down in the Act. In order to avoid too violent a dislocation of existing local financial arrangements, the Act provides that certain modifications of this ultimate basis shall apply during the first seventeen years of the scheme, i.e., during the period between the 1st April, 1930, and the 31st March, 1947.

5. The following sections of this Memorandum deal successively with :—

(i) the transitory period ;
(ii) the discontinuance, as from the 31st March, 1930, of certain Exchequer Grants and the winding up of the Local Taxation Account and of the Exchequer Contribution Accounts ;
(iii) the new system of Exchequer Grants to be brought into operation on the 1st April, 1930 ;
(iv) some miscellaneous financial provisions ; and
(v) the steps necessary to bring the new scheme of grants into operation.

II.—TRANSITORY PERIOD.

(1ST OCTOBER, 1929, TO 31ST MARCH, 1930.)

6. As already stated, the derating provisions of the Act will come into operation on the 1st October, 1929, and there will be a temporary Exchequer Grant to make good to rating authorities the loss created by those provisions in the produce of the rates of the transitory period. In these circumstances sub-section (1) of section 112 provides, in effect, that rating authorities and precepting authorities in estimating the produce of a penny rate in respect of the transitory period, or in determining the amount in the pound of any rate or precept, or in making any apportionment between two or more rating areas for that period, shall ignore both the loss of rates arising from the derating provisions and the compensation for that loss of rates to be provided out of the temporary Exchequer Grant. The sub-section also provides that in ascertaining the amount due in respect of the transitory period under any precept to which section 9 (2) of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, applies, the amount produced by a rate of the poundage specified in the precept shall be taken to be the amount which would have been so produced if the derating provisions had not been in force.

7. It is proposed to pay in the course of the transitory period, to each rating authority, instalments on account of the temporary grant of such amounts and at such dates as will ensure that the authority shall be in as good a position to meet payments due under precept or otherwise as it would have been if the derating provisions had not been in operation. Thus, it is hoped that, with the active co-operation of the rating authorities, it may be practicable to pay the first instalment of the temporary grant early in November, 1929, the second instalment about the middle of December, 1929, the third instalment early in February, 1930, and the fourth instalment early in March, 1930. In a normal case, the total of these four instalments, to be paid within the transitory period, should be equivalent (as nearly as a calculation necessarily based on provisional figures will allow) to the loss of rate-income arising within that period in consequence of the derating provisions.

8. In order to carry out this programme it is essential that each rating authority shall furnish to the Minister, early in October, 1929, information as to the poundage of the rate for the transitory period, the estimated produce of the rate, and the relevant rateable values. This information will be required in order that the Minister may be in a position to make, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 112, a provisional estimate of the loss of rate-income arising in the rating area, in respect of the transitory period, from the derating provisions. A form in which to enter this information will be forwarded to the rating authority about the end of September, 1929, and should be completed and returned to the Minister immediately after the 1st October, 1929, i.e., as soon as figures become available showing, according to the valuation list in force on that date, the relevant rateable values.

9. A proviso to sub-section (2) of section 112 enacts that if the Minister is satisfied that the amount in the pound of the rates levied by any rating authority in respect of the transitory period has been abnormally increased by reason of charges not ordinarily falling to be borne by rates having been imposed thereon, the sum payable to the rating authority out of the temporary grant shall be such sum as may be estimated by the Minister as the sum which would have been payable if there had been no such abnormal increase.

10. Entries showing the loss of rates arising solely from the derating provisions of the Act in respect of industrial and freight-transport hereditaments should be made in a separate column of the rate book or rate account book in the case of a rate made for the transitory period only. In the case of a yearly rate, or a rate made for any other period partly within the transitory period and partly outside that period, the poundage of the rate will, for the purposes of the ascertainment of the amount of the temporary grant, be divided appropriately in the manner provided for in sub-section (2) of section 68; in such a case the separate column already mentioned should include, in addition to entries showing the loss of rates arising from the derating provisions of the Act in respect of industrial and freight-transport hereditaments, entries showing the loss arising from those provisions in respect of agricultural hereditaments.

11. The provisional estimate of the amount of the temporary grant will require revision after the end of the transitory period, when the amount of the grant finally payable in respect of the half-year will be ascertained. This amount will be equivalent to the losses incurred by rating authorities by reason of the derating provisions, and accordingly it is proposed to issue to rating authorities towards the end of March, 1930, forms in which the information required for the purposes of such revision will be specified.

The entries in these forms will be compared by the district auditor with the entries in the relevant rate book or rate account books and valuation lists, and, subject to any adjustments found to be required to give effect to the provisions mentioned in paragraph 9 above, any over-payments or under-payments which are found to have been made in connection with the provisional estimates will thereupon be rectified, if they have not been rectified at an earlier date. In many

Appendix II. cases it may be practicable upon receipt of the completed forms to proceed forthwith to make a final adjustment of the amount of the temporary grant. It will, however, be realised that the final adjustment of the temporary grant to a rating authority cannot properly be made until all outstanding objections and appeals affecting the liability, under the derating provisions, of the individual ratepayers of the rating area for the payment of rates during the transitory period have been determined.

III.—DISCONTINUANCE OF CERTAIN GRANTS AND THE WINDING-UP OF THE LOCAL TAXATION ACCOUNT AND OF THE EXCHEQUER CONTRIBUTION ACCOUNTS.

12. The Second Schedule to the Act specifies the exchequer grants which under sub-section (1) of section 85 cease to be payable in respect of any period after the 31st March, 1930. The grants to be discontinued are :—

- (i) All grants hitherto paid out of the Local Taxation Account, viz. :—
  - (a) The estate duty grant ;
  - (b) The equivalent of the proceeds of such of the local taxation licence duties as are not levied by the councils of counties and county boroughs (including the fixed sums payable in respect of the duties on carriage licences and liquor licences) ;
  - (c) The annual grant of £60,000 towards the cost of the collection of licence duties ;
  - (d) The fixed grant payable in respect of the proceeds of the Local Taxation (Customs and Excise) Duties ;
  - (e) The fixed grant payable under the Agricultural Rates Act, 1896 ; and
  - (f) The variable grant payable under the Agricultural Rates Act, 1923.
- (ii) The undermentioned grants hitherto made in respect of certain health services, viz. :—
  - (a) Grants for maternity and child welfare, other than the training of midwives and health visitors ;
  - (b) Grants for the treatment of tuberculosis ;
  - (c) Grants for the treatment of venereal diseases ;
  - (d) Grants for the welfare of the blind ; and
  - (e) Grants in respect of mental defectives.
- (iii) The undermentioned road grants hitherto made out of the Road Fund, viz. :—
  - (a) Classification grants in respect of Class I. or Class II. roads and bridges in London and county boroughs ; and
  - (b) Grants for the maintenance of unclassified roads in areas comprised in administrative counties.

The above-mentioned grants will be payable in respect of the year ending the 31st March, 1930.

13. The sums payable or transferable out of the Exchequer Contribution Accounts of the several counties and county boroughs in respect of the year ending 31st March, 1930, should be paid or transferred, as may be appropriate in the special circumstances. The Local Taxation Account and the Exchequer Contribution Accounts will thereupon be wound up in accordance with the provisions of section 85. Financial adjustments affecting the discontinued grants will cease to have effect, but in certain cases provided for in sub-section (5) of section 85 a new financial adjustment may be necessary.

14. Steps have been taken to expedite the determination of the amounts payable to the credit of the Exchequer Contribution Accounts of the councils of counties and county boroughs in respect of the standard year (i) by the Minister, out of the Local Taxation Account ; and (ii) by the Postmaster-General, in respect of the proceeds of the Local Taxation Licence Duties levied by the councils.

Information showing the extent, if any, to which the amounts paid to the credit of the Exchequer Contribution Accounts for the standard year are affected by financial adjustments will in due course be called for by the Minister from the councils of counties and county boroughs in order that he may be in a position to certify, for each county and county borough, the net amount of such of the discontinued grants for the standard year as are affected by those adjustments. It is essential that in the meantime any council concerned with an outstanding financial adjustment shall proceed without delay to dispose of all outstanding questions affecting the apportionment of the discontinued grants. The attention of the councils of counties and county boroughs is specially directed in connection with this matter to the provisions of sub-section (5) of section 85.

Local Taxation Licence Duties levied by the Councils of Counties and County Boroughs.

15. These duties will continue to be leviable by the councils of counties and county boroughs after the 31st March, 1930, and the proceeds thereof will, after that date, be applicable in the case of a county council to expenses chargeable on the general county fund, and in the case of a county borough to expenses chargeable on the general rate. Any financial adjustment affecting the allocation of such proceeds should be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (5) of section 85.

Certain payments hitherto charged on Exchequer Contribution Accounts to be charged on County and County Borough Funds.

16. Payments corresponding to those which the councils of counties and county boroughs have hitherto been liable to make out of their Exchequer Contribution Accounts towards the salaries of medical officers of health and sanitary inspectors and the remuneration of public vaccinators will be made, after the 31st March, 1930, by those councils out of their general funds in accordance with the provisions of the Third Schedule to the Act.

Payments hitherto made out of, or diverted from, the Local Taxation Account in respect of charges on the Cattle Pleuro-Pneumonia Account and in respect of rates on certain tithe rent charges.

17. In connection with the winding-up of the Local Taxation Account, the arrangements set out in paragraphs 1 and 2 of the Third Schedule will come into operation. One result will be that the amount of exchequer grants distributable to local authorities will no longer be affected by any variation in the amounts of the payments mentioned in the heading to this paragraph.

Sums hitherto paid out of the Local Taxation Account which were applicable specifically towards the costs of the pay and clothing of the police and police superannuation and the costs of higher education.

18. It is intended that, in respect of any period after the 31st March, 1930, these payments, so far as they relate to the police, shall be merged in grants to be paid by the Home Office, and, so far as they relate to higher education, shall be merged in grants to be paid by the Board of Education.

IV.—NEW EXCHEQUER GRANTS-IN-AID OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT EXPENSES.

19. The local authorities to whom the new grants will be paid as from the 1st April, 1930, are county councils, county borough councils, metropolitan borough councils and the common council of the city of London, and the councils of county districts, that is, non-county boroughs, urban districts not being boroughs, and rural districts. The new grants will be paid by the Minister directly to these authorities.

20. The general outline of the new scheme of grants is as follows:—Each year there is to be provided by Parliament, for distribution to local authorities in England and Wales, a sum of money called the General Exchequer Contribution.

The annual amount of the General Exchequer Contribution will not vary during a "fixed grant period." In accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 86 the annual amount of the General Exchequer Contribution for the first fixed grant period will be revised for the second fixed grant period as from the beginning of that period; the annual amount for the second fixed grant period will for the third fixed grant period be revised as from the beginning of the third grant period; and so on for each subsequent fixed grant period.

The first fixed grant period is the period of three years from the 1st April, 1930, to the 31st March, 1933; the second fixed grant period is the period of four years from the 1st April, 1933, to the 31st March, 1937; and each subsequent fixed grant period is the period of five years from the expiration of the previous period. At each revision the amount of the General Exchequer Contribution is to be determined by Parliament, subject, however, to the condition contained in sub-section (3) (c) of section 86, which provides for the maintenance of a certain minimum ratio between the General Exchequer Contribution and the total rate and grant-borne expenditure of the country.

The General Exchequer Contribution will first be apportioned, on a basis specified in the Act, among all the administrative counties and county boroughs, the amount so apportioned to any county being called the County Apportionment and the amount so apportioned to any county borough being called the County Borough Apportionment. In the case of a county borough, the County Borough Apportionment will be payable to the council of that county borough as its General Exchequer Grant. In the case of a county, the County Apportionment is to be divided between the councils of the county districts on the one hand and the county council on the other hand; and the balance of the County Apportionment which remains after the amount payable to the councils of the county districts has been set aside for that purpose, will be payable to the county council as its General Exchequer Grant. The total grant payable to the council of a county district is the General Exchequer Grant of that council.

In any case where the County or County Borough Apportionment does not reach a certain sum specified in the Act an Additional Exchequer Grant will be payable to the council of that county or county borough. Any such grants will be provided by Parliament out of moneys additional to the General Exchequer Contribution.

In accordance with section 105 the General Exchequer Grant and the Additional Exchequer Grant (if any) of a county council are to be applicable to general county purposes.

There is a further type of grant, called the Supplementary Exchequer Grant, which is not part of the main scheme, but is a temporary and diminishing grant intended to ease the transition from the existing system of local government to the new system. The authorities to whom supplementary grants will be payable are mentioned in later paragraphs. These grants are intended to ensure that no separately rated area shall, owing to the operation of the scheme, suffer any increase of rate poundage for the first five years of the scheme. After the first five years each Supplementary Exchequer Grant is to be reduced annually by one-fifteenth of its initial amount, so that after 19 years no Supplementary Exchequer Grant will be payable. These Supplementary Grants, like the Additional Exchequer Grants, will not be payable out of the General Exchequer Contribution, but out of additional sums to be provided by Parliament.

Estimated total amount of the New Exchequer Grants.

21. It is estimated upon the basis of figures for 1926–27 that in each year of the first fixed grant period the amount of the General Exchequer Contribution for England and Wales will be about £45,500,000, that the Additional Exchequer Grants will amount to about £650,000, and that the Supplementary Exchequer Grant will amount to about £1,680,000, making a total of about £47,830,000 annually.

In the following paragraphs, further particulars are given as to the new system of grants.

The General Exchequer Contribution.

22. Section 86 provides that the General Exchequer Contribution for England and Wales shall be the total of the following amounts:—

(i) An amount equal to the total "losses on account of rates" arising from the derating provisions. (This amount is at present estimated to be about £24,000,000 for England and Wales.)

(ii) An amount equal to the total "losses on account of grants" arising from the discontinuance of certain existing grants. (This amount is at present estimated to be about £16,500,000 for England and Wales.)

(iii) An additional amount which, for each of the three years 1930–31, 1931–32 and 1932–33, is fixed at £5,000,000 for England and Wales.

"Losses on account of Rates."

23. Part I. of the Fourth Schedule sets out the rules for determining the amounts of the losses on account of rates due to the derating provisions of the Act. [" Rates " has the same meaning as in sub-section (1) of section 68 of the Rating and Valuation Act, 1925, i.e., it comprises general rates, additional items of general rates, and special rates only.] The "loss on account of rates of a county" is for the purposes of the Act to be deemed to be the aggregate of the losses on account of rates of all the separate rating areas in the county. For the purpose of determining these losses the Minister is to estimate and certify as respects each rating area the expenditure in respect of the "standard year" (that is, the financial year 1928–29), which would have fallen to be borne by rates levied in that area on certain assumptions, set out in Rule I. of Part I. of the Fourth Schedule, the most important being that expenditure on the transferred services is to be treated as if it had been expenditure of county or county borough councils.

In the case of a joint authority and in a case where the area of an authority extends into more than one county or county borough, and it is, therefore, necessary to apportion the expenditure of the authority, the apportionment will be made in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 108 or sub-section (1) of section 109 as may be appropriate.

Under section 107 it is provided that for the purposes of estimating losses on account of rates, contributions in lieu of rates in respect of Crown property shall be treated as rates.

24. To enable the Minister to make these estimates of rate-borne expenditure every local authority is required, under the Local Government (Statements of Rate-borne Expenditure) Regulations, 1929, issued under section 108 (1) (c), to furnish to him a statement giving information in a prescribed form and by a prescribed date as to the income and expenditure of the authority in respect of the standard year. The Regulations define the expression "income and expenditure" and provide that the statements shall be compiled from the accounts as made up and balanced in accordance with the established practice of the authority. Statements of receipts and expenditure will be accepted in appropriate cases.

25. It will be seen from paragraph 22 of this Memorandum that the amount of the General Exchequer Contribution, on which is to be based the grant to each individual authority, cannot be finally determined until that part of it relating to total losses on account of rates in England and Wales has been ascertained. It is obvious that this cannot be done until every local authority has furnished the statement as to income and expenditure which is mentioned above. It is accordingly of paramount importance that these statements should be sent to the Ministry as soon as possible.

26. It is intended that most of the "prescribed forms" mentioned in paragraph 24 shall be issued to local authorities during April and May, 1929, and in view of what is stated above the latest dates for the submission of the statements to the Minister have been fixed by the Regulations as follows:—

(i) Boards of guardians and joint authorities representative only of those boards—31st May, 1929.

(ii) Rural district councils and joint authorities representative only of rural district councils—30th June, 1929.

(iii) Councils of municipal boroughs (not being county boroughs) all of whose accounts are subject to audit by district auditors, councils of urban districts (not being boroughs) and joint authorities upon which any of those councils are represented—30th June, 1929.

(iv) Councils of counties and municipal boroughs (excluding boroughs to which paragraph (iii) above relates), councils of metropolitan boroughs, the common council of the city of London, and any other local authorities—31st July, 1929.

"Losses on account of Grants."

27. The present Exchequer Grants which cease under sub-section (1) of section 85 to be payable in respect of any period after the 31st March, 1930, have been specified in paragraph 12. It has also been mentioned in paragraph 18 that although all these grants are to be discontinued, sums representing the portions of them at present applicable specifically in aid of the costs of the police and costs of higher education will in future be paid to local authorities by the appropriate Government departments.

The total of the "losses on account of grants" is the total amount of the discontinued grants payable in respect of the standard year, excluding, however, the sums which were applicable in aid of higher education and police services referred to above. These amounts will be estimated and certified from the records of the appropriate Government departments; and, except as regards financial adjustments of Local Taxation Account moneys (see paragraph 14), local authorities will not be required to furnish returns specifically for this purpose.

The rules for determining losses on account of grants are contained in Part II. of the Fourth Schedule.

The "loss on account of grants of a county" is the aggregate of those losses for the county council and for every borough council, district council and other spending authority (including boards of guardians and voluntary associations) within the county.

28. Provision is made in the rules—see paragraph 2 of Part II. of the Fourth Schedule—for calculating the loss on account of classified road grants as if those grants had been made in respect of the standard year at the higher rates (viz., 60 per cent. for Class I. roads and 50 per cent. for Class II. roads) at which they will be made in respect of the year 1929–30.

29. Sub-section (2) of section 109 deals with the apportionment of discontinued grants in cases where apportionment is necessary, e.g., where a board of guardians, rural district council or voluntary association has operated in more than one county.

County Apportionments and County Borough Apportionments.

30. Provision is made in section 88 whereby eventually, that is, from 1st April, 1947, the whole of the General Exchequer Contribution will be apportioned between counties and county boroughs on the basis of "weighted population." The formula for arriving at weighted population is set out in Part III. of the Fourth Schedule of the Act, and is explained in the Appendix to this Memorandum. During the first four fixed grant periods part only of the General Exchequer Contribution will be allocated on the basis of weighted population. For these four periods each County Apportionment and each County Borough Apportionment will be made up of (i) the "appropriate percentage" of the losses on account of rates and the losses on account of grants of the county or county borough for the standard year, and (ii) the share of the county or county borough, in proportion to weighted population, of the balance of the General Exchequer Contribution. The "appropriate percentage" means for the first two fixed grant periods 75 per cent., for the third fixed grant period 50 per cent., and for the fourth fixed grant period 25 per cent.

Grants to Councils of Counties other than London.

31. As already mentioned in paragraph 20, the General Exchequer Grant of the council of a county is such portion of the County Apportionment of that county as is not required to be set aside for making grants to the councils of the county districts within the county (section 89). The grants so payable to the councils of county districts are described in paragraphs 33 to 37 below.

32. As also stated in paragraph 20, an Additional Exchequer Grant is payable (section 90) to the council of a county in any case where the County Apportionment falls short of a certain amount. This amount is the "standard sum," which, in the first fixed grant period, is the sum of the losses on account of rates and the losses on account of grants of the county in the standard year. In any case where the County Apportionment for the first fixed grant period falls short of the "standard sum" increased by a sum equivalent to one shilling per head of the estimated population (unweighted) of the administrative county for the standard year, the amount of the Additional Exchequer Grant for that fixed grant period will be equal to the amount of the deficiency.

Grants to non-County Borough Councils and other Urban District Councils.

33. Any grant payable under the Act to the council of a non-county borough or other urban district will be called the General Exchequer Grant of that council, and will, in accordance with the provisions contained in sections 91, 93 and 94, be arrived at as follows :—

(a) Sums set aside from the County Apportionment :—

  (i) A capitation grant, calculated at a flat rate per head of (unweighted) population for every urban district in England and Wales (see paragraph 34) ; and

  (ii) A sum allocated to any council which administers maternity and child welfare services—such sum to be determined in accordance with a scheme to be made by the Minister (see paragraph 35).
